Milk Producers Move To Get Higher Price

Producers Pool Asks Contract to Guarantee Price

Conflict between members of the Red River Valley Milk Producers pool and dairy processing plants in Minnesota and North Dakota is expected to come to a head Tuesday—the date set by the recently-organized pool to divert milk from those processors which have not signed contracts. The pool claims to have nearly 1,000 producer members in the 34-county area of western Minnesota and eastern North Dakota.

Pool members are seeking a price of $5.30 per hundredweight for Grade A, class one milk. At present the price varies to a large extent throughout the area—in many cases changing from month to month according to supply and the existing market. Officers of the pool state the increase to $5.30 would be one dollar per hundredweight — a boost of more than 20 per cent.

Caught In Squeeze

Caught in the middle of producer demand for higher prices and a competitive market for processed dairy products is Land O'Lakes Creameries, Inc. Land O'Lakes has not signed a contract with the producers pool—nor can it do so under its Articles and By-laws because it would be obligating itself in advance to pay certain prices for milk from its member producers.

'Land O'Lakes Creameries, Inc., is a bonafide cooperative association whose principal business is the marketing of dairy and poultry products for its members." stated Wallace Jordet, manager of the Land O'Lake milk and ice cream department at Thief River Falls. "The principle upon which Land O'Lakes operates, in settlement prices to member creamery associations and direct shipper members for product which it markets, is a pool basis.

"By pool basis we mean that Land O'Lakes makes settlements for the products which it markets by returning to its members the gross selling price less cost of processing and distributing the various products — no more, no less. Any additional earnings which accrue from the marketing of these products are returned to its members on a patronage basis," Jordet said.

"The membership of the organization is made up of producers in a wide geographic area," Jordet added. "It must treat all of its members equitably in its return for products marketed. Transportation costs, location differentials, and in some cases package costs which can be accurately substantiated are usually the only variations from the uniform pool price announcements.

"Land O'Lakes must at all times represent the wishes of the majority of its membership even if at times the majority might not support a temporary marketing ad-

Mission Speaker Shows Film at Assembly of God

"The South Pacific offers you something better than a luxurious holiday. It offers an opportunity to win thousands of souls." This is a statement by Lawrence Larson who has spent the past 10 years as a missionary in the South Sea Islands. He will speak and show a film on his work Tuesday at 8:30 p.m. in the Assemblies of God tabernacle at 315 Duluth av. N. in Thief River Falls.

For the last four years Larson has been stationed in Suva, Fiji, where he served as Assemblies of God field superintendent, manager of schools, supervisor of the printing press and missionary pastor of a Suva church. During this time the Assemblies of God has grown rapidly. The number of organized churches increased from five to 26, adult membership doubled, and Sunday school enrollment grew from 777 to 4,167.

In preparation for missionary service, Larson attended North Central Bible college in Minneapolis and received his associate of arts degree from Maunaolu college, Paia, Maui, Hawaii. He pastored a church in Crookston until he left as a missionary to Hawaii in 1954. During his first term he built and pastored the church at Paia, Maui. He also served as spiritual advisor of the Maui Assemblies of God Children's home and director of the youth organization to Hawaii.

Special features in the forthcoming service will be a film, a tape and some curios which will help depict missionary work in Fiji. Rev. H. Ray Collver extends a cordial invitation to the public.

Kalinoski Sells Auto Service to "Speed" Ornquist

Dominic Kalinoski, owner and operator of Kal's Automotive service on highway 59 east, has announced the sale of his business to Elder "Speed" Ornquist of this city. The sale was effective Tuesday, August 3.

Kalinoski has operated the service station and repair service for 10 years and been Oliver farm farm equipment dealer for six years. Ornquist has been employed by Northern Motors (formerly Northern Chevrolet) in Thief River Falls for nine years.

Kalinoski said he has no immediate future plans.

Highway-Use Tax Returns Must Be Filed by Aug. 31

Annual highway-use tax returns for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1966, must be filed by owners and operators of highway motor vehicles on or before August 31, according to George O. Lethert, district director of Internal Revenue.

"This tax was not repealed by the excise tax reduction act of 1965", Lethert said. Accordingly, owners of certain trucks, truck-tractors and buses must file Form 2290 and pay the yearly tax for highway use. The tax year begins July 1 and ends the following June 30.

Taxpayers who file timely returns may elect to pay their tax in four equal installments, Lethert declared. The first installment must be paid when the return is filed. Other installment payment dates are December 31, March 31 and June 30.

First Tomatoes Brought to Times

Two specimens of the first crop of ripe tomatoes seen this year in Thief River Falls were brought to the Times office Wednesday morning by Ed Breznay. The tomatoes are large and of a good color, indicating a successful growing season.

Dr. and Mrs. A. E. Jacobson of this city are leaving Thursday morning for a vacation trip that will include Glacier Park, Banff, Lake Louise, and Seattle, Wash. They expect to be gone several weeks.

Speech, Hearing Handicapped To Receive Therapy

Sixty children with severe speech and hearing handicaps will receive intensive speech therapy from August 1-20 at Camp Nob Hill on Potato lake near Park Rapids, because new facilities are not yet completed at Camp Courage.

This special camp takes care of the therapeutic needs of the campers more than Camp Courage's other sessions. The three-week intensive program has proved very beneficial for the speech handicapped youngster in past camping sessions.

The progress many of the campers make with a concentrated program in a controlled situation is phenomenal. Often there is a complete change of attitude and an increase of confidence that greatly improves communication," commented W. B. Schoenbohm, executive director of the Minnesota Society for Crippled Children and Adults, which operates Camp Courage.

In charge of the speech and hearing camp is Richard Montgomery, assistant camping and recreation director of MISCA. David Haugen, a trained speech correctionist with an MA from the University of Minnesota, is directing the six therapists in their program.

2 Auto Mishaps Cause $400 in Property Damage

Two automobile accidents occurred near Thief River Falls last week totaling about $400 in property damage and both involving minor injuries, according to the Pennington county sheriff's office.

The first happened at about 5 p. m. Tuesday on a Smiley township road 10 miles southeast of Thief River Falls. A vehicle driven by Eugene Kauppila, [illegible] was traveling west on the road and edged over onto the shoulder on the right-hand side. Kauppila swerved to the left, causing the car to roll over into the ditch. He was treated for a minor cut at Northwestern hospital. His passenger, Dennis Sullivan, was not injured. Damage to the car was estimated at $300.

On Thursday at 9:30 p. m. a car driven by Gay Warnecke, city, was traveling south toward town on CAR 77 (old golf course road). At a point about one-half mile south of the city, he met another car, was blinded by its headlights, and pulled over to the right. His car plunged into the ditch and struck a crossing at the home of Elwood Ehrenstrom. About $100 damage was done to the car, and Warnecke was treated for facial injuries at Northwestern hospital and released.

Mysterious Light Appears Again Wednesday Night

Another report of the sighting of an unidentified flying object Thursday morning. Mrs. John Reed reported that she and her 12-year-old son Grant watched the movement of a bright yellow light in the sky above their home from about 11:30 p.m. to 12 midnight Wednesday night.

The light moved very slowly, Mrs. Reed said, and appeared to be descending. Eventually it disappeared behind some trees. Its low altitude ruled out the possibility of its being an artificial satellite, and personnel at the municipal airport could offer no explanation.

It was the second such sighting in Thief River Falls in two consecutive nights. Five Thief River Falls youths reported seeing the same sort of light Tuesday night, and again Wednesday night and similar observations have been reported from Minneapolis and cities in North Dakota and Iowa.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Kline of Montgomery, and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gebhardt and Ardis of Crookston were visitors Friday at the home of Mrs. Amelia Paulson.

Grygla To Stage Fall Festival Sat., August 21

Many events will be concentrated into one day of activity in Grygla on Saturday, August 21, when the village will hold its fall festival. Races and contests for youngsters will be held from 10:30 to 11:30 a.m. with cash prizes awarded.

Afternoon activities will begin with a race to catch a greased pig at the ball park at 12:30 p.m. A parade consisting of bands, floats and twirlers will march through the streets starting at 1:15 p.m. The Goodridge Bit and Bridle club will present a horse show at 2:15 p.m. and baseball will be played at the ball park at 3:15 p.m.

Evening activities will consist of a Grand Ol' Opry show at the Grygla school gym at 7 p.m. featuring home talent from Gatzke, and a dance at 9 p.m. in the village hall.

Gatzke Version Of Grand Ol' Opry

Gatzke's community production of the Grand Ol' Opry was presented at the Red Lake county fair in Red Lake Falls last Sunday evening and is scheduled for another performance August 21 at 8 p.m. for the Grygla fall festival.

The group had not performed since last spring when Lynn Bernstein, a member of the cast, was killed in an automobile accident. The program is comprised of country and western music and comedy by Gatzke's version of Lonzo and Oscar and Minnie Pearl.

Clarence Lian of Gatzke is the master of ceremonies with Mary Ann Lunsetter playing Kitty Wells, Mylan Ruud portrays Roy Rogers with Mylan Abrahamson as Leroy Van Dyke, Susan Larson as Patsy Cline, Bobby Ruud as Hank Snow Jr., and Orvis Mugaas as the star of the show, Marty Robbins.

Last spring the group played to a capacity crowd in the Goodridge school gymnasium. A large crowd was also in attendance Sunday evening at the show presented in Red Lake Falls.

Fire School Held Near Crookston

Over 100 firemen and 250 wives and children registered for the Northern Region firemen's school recently. The school was sponsored by the Crookston fire department and was held three miles north of that city.

Firemen from a number of towns participated, including members of the Air Force fire department. Demonstrated were ladder raising, portable tanks, rescue work, salvage, mask drills, hose lays, etc. Climax of the affair was a planned fire in a two-story house donated by the Northwest school of agriculture, in which all rooms were set ablaze and were extinguished by the visiting fire teams.

Traffic Mishap, Two Larcenies Noted by Police

One traffic mishap and two larcenies were reported today by the Thief River Falls police department. At 6:30 p.m. Wednesday a motorbike driven by Charles Thorstad, city, was traveling west on Eighth street and collided with a switch engine on the Soo Line tracks. Thorstad claimed that he was blinded by the sun and was unable to see the railroad vehicle. The motorbike was damaged to the extent of about $50. A passenger, Steven Oppegard, city, was treated for an abrasion on the right elbow.

On Saturday morning Alan Gehrls, city, reported that a tackle box containing fishing equipment, another containing tools, three fishing rods, a deer rifle and case were stolen from his car sometime during the previous night. Total value of the stolen property is between $170 and $200.

Also on Saturday, Floyd Ball, city, reported the loss of a double-barreled 12 gauge shotgun. Value of the weapon is unknown.

Goodridge Class Reunion Planned

Members of the Goodridge high school classes of 1944 and 1945 will hold a joint reunion at the American Legion club room in Goodridge at 6:30 p.m. Saturday. Howard Easthouse will emcee the program.

One-Car Mishap Injures Two on Sunday Morning

Two area people injured in a one-car crash early Sunday morning were without medical attention for about seven hours until the mishap was discovered, according to the Pennington county sheriff's department. Tall sweetclover obscured the car and its occupants from passing traffic.

Hospitalized at Northwestern hospital in Thief River Falls are Shirley Woods, 22, Oklee, and Leon Newton, 23, Goodridge. Miss Woods has a fractured right leg, cuts and bruises but is in generally good condition. Newton sustained a mild concussion, cuts and bruises and a possible fractured vertebra.

According to the sheriff's department, the Newton car was traveling east on SAR 3 six miles east of St. Hilaire (1 mile west of the junction with highway 59) when the accident happened. The car crossed over to the left side of the road, struck a field crossing, flew about 78 feet through the air and came to rest on its wheels facing south in the north ditch, virtually obscured by tall sweetclover.

The acident went unnoticed until about 8:15 a. m. when Dennis Morrison of St. Hilaire, delivering Sunday papers, was stopped by Newton who had crawled up to the road. Morrison went to a nearby farm to call an ambulance and notify authorities.

The sheriff's department estimated that the car, a 1965 Mustang, was a total loss. Seat belts were installed in the car but were not in use, it was reported. Miss Woods was thrown through the windshield and Newton struck the steering wheel with his face.

Hail Destroys Many Fields in Karlstad Area

Parts of a bountiful crop of grain in the Karlstad area suffered damage of up to 100 per cent when a number of fields were hard-hit by a hailstorm the night of July 29. Hail reported to be about the size of marbles began pelting down at about 10:30 p.m., and the area hit was about 20 miles long and several miles wide.

Reports of hail were given from the Jupiter area west of Lake Bronson and the area west of Karlstad and south to the Stephen area. Probably hardest hit in the Karlstad area were the Lloyd and Orval Johnson farms where the fields sustained total destruction of grain. Stems were completely broken and grain was pounded into the ground. Some damage was also done to potatoes.

Pennington NFO To Meet Thursday

Monthly meeting of the Pennington County chapter of the National Farmers organization will be held Thursday at 9 p. m. in the Highlanding hall. Progress of current NFO programs will be discussed and all interested persons are invited to attend.

GUTTED by fire of unknown origin the late afternoon of July 27 was this upstairs bedroom and four others in the Allan Tonder home south of Thief River Falls. The fire started sometime after Mrs. Tonder left home at 4 p.m. Her daughter Nancy returned later from swimming and saw the smoke and flames inside the house. She ran to a neighboring house and was seen by Mrs. Emil Koglin, who asked her what the trouble was. After learning of the fire, Mrs. Koglin phoned in the alarm at 4:55 p.m. Firemen were able to extinguish the blaze only with the help of Willy Jablinske, who transported 2,000 gallons of water to the scene in his milk truck. No official estimate of damage has been made, but the entire second story of the house was destroyed, and smoke and water damage was extensive The Tonders have received a good deal of aid from friends. Tom Fuller loaned them his trailer house, and blankets and linen were donated by the American Legion and Eagles clubs. Fire insurance was carried on the property.

Dean Is Appointed for Junior College Here

Charles E. White To Begin Duties Here Immediately

Minnesota Junior College board today announced the appointment of Charles E. White as dean of the new Thief River Falls state junior college. White will arrive in Thief River Falls tomorrow and will begin his new duties immediately.

White is a native of Stillwater, is 35 years of age and not married. He has BBA, BS and MA degrees from the University of Minnesota, and has completed all of the course requirements for the Ph. D. degree in higher education. He has taught at University high school in Minneapolis, at Casper college in Casper, Wy., and for the past four years has been admissions associate for admissions and records at the St. Paul campus of the University of Minnesota.

The Thief River Falls state junior college will open in the Lincoln senior high school building in Thief River Falls on September 20. To date 170 applications for enrollment have been received.

Much of the work in preparation for opening has been done through the central offices of the Minnesota Junior College board by Dr. Philip C. Helland, executive director, and Dr. Richard E. White, president of the Metropolitan Junior College district. A catalog has been prepared and is now being printed by the Thief River Falls Times. Copies will be out to students within a few days. Equipment and supplies have been ordered and some faculty members have been hired.

Dr. Helland stated today that the state board is particularly appreciative of the work that has been done by interested citizens in Thief River Falls in building enthusiasm for the new college, and for the cooperation that has been received from the scool officials in Thief River Falls. He expressed confidence that the new college would get off to an excellent start and would be a strong member of the state junior college family.

Organization Key To Rural Strength

"We seldom hear the comparison, but the civil rights movement may parallel the midwestern rural adjustment problem in a very human way," states George Donohue, Sociologist at the University of Minnesota.

A lesson driven home in the civil rights movement is this: When a group lacks a majority of numbers and has little control over resources, a well-disciplined organization is the one source of power left. Only by closing ranks and tightening up the organization can it deal effectively with the majority.

Whether or not they realize it, rural areas may be facing this final alternative, Donohue said. Days of rural bargaining from a majority position based on political representation are fading away.

The trends are clear. Minnesota, which even by 1950 had more than half its people in urban areas, now has more than half in seven counties. By 1975, about 75 per cent of the population will be in 10 counties. Farm numbers in Minnesota, as in nearby states, have dropped sharply from over 200,000 in 1935 to less than 146,000 in 1960.

Rural areas then must readjust to bargaining methods associated with minority groupings. This may smack of control of individual behavior. Indeed, Donohue says, it does restrict laissez faire individualism.

"However," he continues, "population shifts need not result in grinding rural segments underfoot.

"It appears that consideration of national policy in the future will be more concerned with impact from the general welfare of all individuals regardless of occupational affiliation than upon benefits to specific industrial or occupational groups."

Donohue sees a sophistication developing in governmental leadership in terms of knowledge of theory and practice which will "reduce the probabilities of gross inequities to any segment of the population resulting from provincial concerns of legislators."

Donohue does not foresee declining government action in economic, civic and other activity.

"As our society becomes more diversified, it becomes more interdependent. If independence grows in an social system, it becomes necessary to have an integrating organization to mediate the conflicts among special-interest group In a democratic society, this is a specific role of the institution of government."

Milk Producers Seek Contracts To Raise Prices

As of August 1, a new marketing plan has been put into effect by the newly-formed Red River Valley Milk Producers pool. Nearly 1,000 milk producers in a 34-county area of western Minnesota and eastern North Dakota have signed contracts with the milk producers pool. This is said to comprise about 80 per cent of the Grade A class one milk (used for bottling) supplied to processing plants in the area.

Plants rejecting contracts with the producers pool will have milk diverted to other plants in the area where agreements are in effect, according to Ed Richter and Guy Lewis, respective chairman and vice chairman of the group.

Pennington Board Requests Release From Sunnyrest

Pennington county board of commissioners approved a resolution requesting release from inclusion in the Sunnyrest sanatorium district at its regular meeting held last week, according to C. W. Rodekuhr, county auditor.

The board also adopted a resolution to sign an agreement with Marshall county for the operation of Oakland Park Nursing home. C. L. Charlson, Pennington county attorney, is drafting the agreement between the two counties.

Joseph Seidel, county highway engineer assigned to serve as engineer for county ditch 77, filed preliminary plans with the board. Hearing on the project was set for Thursday, August 19 at 8 p.m. in the county courthouse.

Appropriation of $2,000 for general operation of Carnegie Public library was made by the commissioners and $1,000 was appropriated for the building fund. The county has appropriated for building for a number of years, and this year's grant is expected to be the last since the new library is expected to be constructed this year.

Commissioners also gave approval to the application by Kife's cafe to the state of Minnesota for a "set-up" permit under the statutes that permit bottle clubs and other liquor consumption on the premises.

Board of equalization meeting was re-set from August 17 to 3 p.m. on August 16 because of the limitation of laws. Supplemental jury list was drawn and the work farm agreement with St. Louis county was renewed.

Application by Roy Shetler for set-off of real estate from District 562 at St. Hilaire to District 564 in Thief River Falls was received and hearing set for the next regular meeting of the commissioners on September 9 at 1:30 p.m.

Darlene Aubol Becomes Bride Of Dwight Anton

Baskets of pink and white garden flowers formed the setting for the marriage of Miss Darlene Aubol and Dwight Anton, both of rural Thief River Falls, on Saturday, July 3, in the Bethany Lutheran church near Thief River Falls. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Aubol and the groom is the son of Mrs. Nis Anton and the late Nis Anton.

The Rev. A. B. Heline officiated at the double ring ceremony with only the members of the immediate families in attendance. Preceding the ceremony an organ program of nuptial music was provided by Mrs. Arnold Hammer. She also sang "A Wedding Prayer" before the vows were spoken and "The Lord's Prayer" as the couple knelt at the altar.

A sleeveless floor-length gown of white lace over pink organza was worn by the bride as she was given marriage by her father. Styled with a scoop neckline, the gown featured a delicate pink bow at the waist. She carried a round French-designed bouquet of white mums and pink tea roses.

For her only attendant, the bride chose Miss Lynda Anton, a niece of the groom, as her maid of honor. She was attired in a street-length gown of white lace over pink and carried a French designed bouquet of pink carnations and tea roses.

On July 11 a reception was held at the Bethany Lutheran church with a large number of friends and relatives in attendance. Cutting and serving the four-tiered wedding cake were Mrs. Katherine Swanson of Thief River Falls and Mrs. Amanda Aubol of Crookston. Mrs. Robert Anton of this city poured. Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Dahl of Grand Forks, N.D., were in charge of the guest book and the gifts were arranged by Lynda Anton and Gary Iverson.

Mr. and Mrs. Anton are both graduates of Lincoln high school, the bride in 1965 and the groom in 1963.

Covenant Women Will Hear the Rev. Solberg

Covenant Women of Thief River Falls will hold their regular monthly meeting Thursday at 2:30 p.m. at the Mission Covenant church. The Rev. and Mrs. John Solberg will present the music and message. The Rev. Solberg is the pastor of the Faith Lutheran church in this city. Included in the program will be a devotional reading by Miss Nancy Hedlund.

Following the program, refreshments will be served with Mrs. Olga Melvie, Mrs. Iver Nelson and Mrs. Gust Larson as hostesses.

REACHING the age of 98 years hasn't dimmed the wit or removed the sparkle from the eyes of George Eastman, a resident of the Valley Home in this city. At the birthday celebration held Tuesday, Mr. Eastman invited the guests to return in two years for his 100th birthday. Seated by his side and residing with him at the home is his wife.

Jane Paulson To Wed Russell Palm In Sept.

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Jane L. Paulson of Thief River Falls and formerly of Greenbush to Russell W. Palm, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose Lundgren of Roseau.

Miss Paulson's parents are deceased. Her fiance is employed at the Anseby Garage in Thief River Falls.

The wedding date has been set for Sept. 25.

50th Anniversary Of George Vraas Noted At Reunion

A family reunion was held June 30-July 2 at the lake cottage of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Erickson on Big Lake, near Bemidji. Hosting the event were Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Erickson and the Dr. and Mrs. Lambert Erickson of Moscow, Idaho.

Guests attending were Mr. and Mrs. George Vraa of Ely and formerly of Thief River Falls; Mr. and Mrs. Selmer Erickson, Mr. and Mrs. John Erickson and Mr. and Mrs. Herb Vraa and family, all of Goodridge; Mrs. Magna Carlson, Thief River Falls; Mr. T. Markuson, St. Paul; Mr. and Mrs. Tim Bjella and Mrs. Agnes Markus, all of Bemidji and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Froelich and family of Babbitt.

The days spent boating, riding, fishing and visiting were highlighted by a 50th wedding anniversary celebration in honor of Mr. and Mrs. George Vraa. To mark the event the Vraa's only daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Ray (Leora) Froelich brought a large decorated anniversary cake.

Diane Conely Engaged To Wed R. Abrahamson

Mr. and Mrs. George Conely of Warren announce the engagement of their daughter, Diane June, to Richard Robert Abrahamson, son of Mrs. Elizabeth Abrahamson of Warren.

Miss Conely, a graduate of the Warren high school and the Thief River Falls area vocational - technical school, is presently employed at PKM Electric in Warren. Mr. Abrahamson recently completed three years in the U. S. Navy and is currently employed by Collins Construction company in Warren.

A summer wedding is being planned.

George Eastman Honored On His 98th Birthday

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Amren of St. Hilaire entertained on Sunday, Aug. 1, at a picnic dinner in honor of George Eastman, of Thief River Falls, who observed his 98th birthday the following Tuesday. A large decorated birthday cake and a bouquet of garden flowers adorned the serving table. The recipient of many gifts and cards from the assembled group, Mr. Eastman was also presented with a rose boutonniere.

Among the guests were the wife of the honored guest, Mrs. George Eastman, Mr. and Mrs. Kermit Eastman, Vicki and David of St. Cloud; Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Amren, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Bakke, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Travnicek, Patrick and Jennifer; Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Swan, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Christensen, Carl Amren and Mr. and Mrs. Leif Erickson Jr., Kent, Kurt and Kelly.

The following Tuesday afternoon, a birthday luncheon was served at the Valley Home where Mr. and Mrs. Eastman reside. A feature of the luncheon served to all the residents at the home and to the relatives and friends who called to extend congratulations, was a large decorated birthday cake topped with a large 98 emblem.

"I know of no pursuit in which more real and important service can be rendered to any country than by improving its agriculture."

by Virginia Gjernes

Just what are your requirements for "summer reading"? Something light and airy? Something dark and scarey? Something "required" by the fall term of school's beginning? Something deep and brain-gripping? Visit your public library and make your choice; check it out, take it home and enjoy it!

The young, both in years and at heart, might check this list of new volumes:

"Pamela Lee, Home Economist" by Marcia Ford; "Lady Doctor" by Adelaide Humphries; "Marjory Thurman Lab Technician" by Rachel Cosgrove; "Jacklyn Lane, Fashion Model" by Nell Marr Dean "Cover Girl" by Jeanne Judson; "Kerry Middleton, Career Girl" by Georgia Craig; "Lynn Daly, Newspaper Girl" by Teresa Holloway; "Karen Anderson, Illustrator" by Dorothy Dowdell; "Terry's Television Career" also by Holoway; "Abby Goes to Washington" by Frances Dean Hancock; "Dr. Talbot" by Peggy Gaddis; "Traveling Nurse" by Jane Corby; "Scout Counselor" by Marcia Ford; "Kathy Phillips, Scriptwriter" by Ford, also; "Lynne Dene, Writer" by Jeanne Bowman; "Emergency Nurse" another by Georgia Craig and "Embassy Girl" by Emily Thorne.

These might prove to be especially interesting to girls who are wondering just which line of endeavor they might like to follow when they have completed their education.

Those who like the "dark and scarey" volumes should chop out this list and check for future reading pleasure:

"Lockridge's "The Tangled Cord" "The Ransomed Madonna"; Marsh's "A Wreath for Rivera"; Powell's "Murder Pre-meditated"; Bloch's "Psycho"; McGroven's "The Berlin Couriers"; Gardner's "The Case of the Mythical Monkeys"; Van Urk's "Grounds for Murder"; O'Donnell's "Death Blanks the Screen"; Chambers' "Dames Can Be Deadly"; Wallace's "From This Death Forward"; or a collection of "The Best Detective Stories of the Year" edited by David C. Cooke.

The check-out desk at your library has a small stack of booklets which list "Let's Read Together" (these are books for family enjoyment); "Patterns in Reading", an annotated book list for young adults compiled by Jean Carolyn Roos; "English History Through Historical Novels" by Emily Bridgers, a University of North Carolina library extension publication; "A Guide to the World's Best Books", edited by the Committee on College Reading. Another is "Adult Books That Have Been Recommended for Young People", compiled from national recommendations and published by Harcourt, Brace & World, Inc.

If you care to choose something deep and brain-gripping...here's your check-list:

"Kepler's Dream" by John Lear and translated by Patricia Fruch Kirkwood; Norbert Wiener's "Cybernetics"; "Atomic Diplomacy: Hiroshima and Potsdam" by Gar Alperovitz; "The Phenomenon of Man" by Pierre Teilhard de Chardin and with an introduction by Sir Julian Huxley; Erskine Caldwell's "In Search of "Bisco" which is the story of Caldwell's search for his boyhood friend...a negro lad The author reveals the genesis of racial hatred in the South. Perhaps you might want "Whereas - A Judge's Premises" by Charles E. Wyzanski, Jr., a volume of essays in judgment, ethics and the law. If history interests you, "The Age of Louis XIV" by Will and Ariel Durant will be the volume you'll request. If you are interested in our neighbor to the north try Edmund Wilson's notes on Canadian culture in a volume entitled: "O Canada".

Whatever line your interest may follow most of the time, there is one general category in which all Thief River Falls citizens are interested ALL of the time; Their own city! Now available upon request "1985 Central Area Plan... based upon the overall Community Discussion Plan for the City of Thief River Falls Minnesota". The booklet may be checked out, taken home and studied by the entire family.

So, you see, whatever you want to read IS available at your library!

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

MRS. OLE T. OSE

If you're entertaining guests at dinner tomorrow night and want a salad that can be prepared ahead of time, try this delicious salad. Since it makes a larger than usual amount, it can also be served with those fancy salted crackers at circle meetings or luncheons. This taste-tempting salad will please your family as well as your friends.

CHERRY CHERRY SALAD

- 2 cups uncooked macaroni
- 1 can fruit cocktail
- 1 can pineapple tidbits
- ½ pound miniature marshmallows
- 1 cup heavy cream, whipped
- 1 cup maraschino cherries
- 1 tablespoon cornstarch
- 2 tablespoon sugar.

Cook macaroni, drain and cool. Drain all fruits saving the juices. Soak macaroni in cherry and pineapple juice until red in color; drain. Mix cornstarch and sugar with cocktail juice and cook over low heat until thickened; cool. Fold in whipped cream. Combine with fruit and marshmallows. Chill overnight.

Embroidering, crocheting, knitting and flower gardening are at the top of the hobby list for Mrs. Ole T. Ose, the wife of a retired farmer. The Ose's live 10 miles northeast of Thief River Falls with their son and daughter-in-law. Mr. Ose was a school board clerk for school District 55 for a number of years.

The Ose's have six children; Mrs. Carl (June) Berggren lives in Aurora and has one son, Donald, who is also married and has one daughter, Kristen Marie. Mrs. Erling (Marjorie) Tungseth lives in Rochester and has four children, Paul, Karen, Mirriam and Marlene. Her husband, a former resident of Thief River Falls, is the pastor of Bethel Lutheran church in Rochester.

Kenneth Ose, a son, is married to the former Lillian Yatebos and operates the home farm, while Glen Ose lives in Coon Rapids, is married to the former Patricia Anton and has three daughters, Glendice, Susan and Naomi. Eleanor Ose, a medical Technician, is at home at the present time while Roy, their youngest son is the organist and choir director at Faith Lutheran church in Hutchinson.

Mr. and Mrs. Ole T. Ose are members of Bethlehem Lutheran church, rural Thief River Falls.

Rev. Riveness of Karlstad Resigns Church Pastorate

Rev. J. A. Riveness of Karlstad announced to his congregation on Sunday, July 25, that he was tendering his resignation effective August 31. He has accepted a call to the Revival center in Park River, N.D.

The pastor said he would preach his final service at the Gospel tabernacle in Karlstad on August 29, but added that no plans have yet been made to change the "Words of Life" broadcast, a program heard over KTRF radio for many years.

With his resignation, Rev. Riveness will terminate a tenure of service which on October 22 of this year would have been a duration of 22 years. When he first came to Karlstad he answered a call to the Karlstad Pentecostal church. Later he took charge of a new church, the Karlstad Gospel tabernacle, and has served that congregation since that time.

DOGS ARE PRETTY OLD

Q. This may not be a proper medical question but it came up in our science class last Spring when we discussed using dogs in testing medicines. For how long have dogs been domesticated?

A. We are certainly not experts in historic facts of this sort (and will probably be called to task by those who are) but we are generally interested in the subject of domestication of animals by man. As far as we can determine, the earliest animals which we refer to as dogs appeared in Jericho in about 7000 B.C. Dogs also appeared at about the same time in northwestern Europe. Incidentally, sheep were domesticated around 9000 B.C., well before the earliest evidence of domestication of either the dog or the goat.

"OUTGROWING" ASTHMA

A. Asthma, perhaps, but not hay fever or other allergic diseases. University of Colorado doctors made a survey of more than 500 children who suffered from allergic diseases. Whereas more than 50 per cent of asthmatics became symptom-free by age 13, this seldom occurred in children with hay fever or other allergic disorders. The doctors caution that while many children "outgrow" asthma, early and proper treatment is a "must" to prevent permanent damage.

We maintain full supplies of all drugs, including the newest "miracles," to be able to serve your every prescription need with maximum promptness and care.

List 4-H Club Winners At Red Lake Co. Fair

Two sisters were chosen as 4-H dress revue queens at the Red Lake county fair held in Red Lake Falls Saturday July 31. Selected as queen of the junior and advanced division was 17-year-old Lynn Stenberg. Her sister, Virginia, 12, won the top honor in the beginners' division. The girls are daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Stenberg of Oklee and are members of the Lost River Ramblers 4-H club.

Sisters were also named as attendants. Betty Johnson 15, was named attendant to the junior and advanced queen, and Marlene Johnson, 13, was chosen attendant to the beginner queen. They are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Johnson of Oklee and are members of the Garnes Go Getters.

First attendant to the beginner queen was Sandra Weiss, 12, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Weiss of Red Lake Falls. Second attendant to the junior and advanced queen was Janet Purath, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Purath of Red Lake Falls.

Other blue ribbon winners in the beginners' division were Annette Goulet, Louisville; Mary Lykken and Selma Knott, Red River Rangers; Beth Bronken and Carolyn Melby, Lost River Ramblers; Linda Jaeger, Busy Bees; and Janice Hesse, Happy Go Lucky.

Lynn's winning ensemble consisted of a slim gold wool coat, brown straw hat, gloves, heels, and a sleeveless shift of gold, green and brown flowered print on a white background. She will represent Red Lake County at the Minnesota state fair in September.

Livestock Division

In the livestock exhibits, Karen Larson exhibited the top two 4-H dairy animals—a two-year-old and an advanced Guernsey. Others who rated high in state fair competition were David Fallon, Guernsey; Greg Beyers, Holstein yearling; Beverly Fallon, Guernsey, and Mike Benson, Brown Swiss yearling.

Gary Purath exhibited the top 4-H beef heifer and beef steer, both of which were Aberdeen Angus. Top sheep awards—wether lamb, ewe lamb and trio—went to Karen Larson with her Hampshire exhibits.

In the 4-H hog division Janice Seibel won top honors with her spring gilt and Larin Larson exhibited the best fat barrow. Mary Healy received a blue ribbon on her 4-H horse entry and placed high in open class competition. Bonnie and Marjorie Knott exhibited the top cockerels and pullets respectively in the poultry division.

Karin Larson again made a clean sweep of 4-H showmanship awards, receiving purple ribbons in hogs, sheep, dairy and beef.

CoOp Institute To Be Attended By Area Youths

New Aeronautical Chart Published For Minnesota

The state of Minnesota is distributing a new aeronautical chart, published to World Aeronautical chart specifications, and printed by the Department of Aeronautics in cooperation with the Department of Business Development. It is in full color, with pictures of the state's leading tourist attractions and some typical airport facilities.

Also included in the new chart is complete information on the state's system of navigational aids and airports, with a list of facilities available.

First mailing of the new chart will be to about 10,000 registered active airmen in Minnesota. Additional mailings, to aircraft owners in neighboring states and to any private pilots who may request it will be by the Department of Business Development vacation information center.

Aeronautics Commissioner Lawrence McCabe said in announcing publication of the new chart that "Minnesota has long needed such an aid to private pilots in the state and throughout the country. Other sates have provided similar charts as incentives to airmen and flying vacationers."

McCabe added that the Department of Aeronautics and the Deparmen of Business Development will work together in an effort to effect nation-wide distribution of the new chart.

State Banks Lead In Lending for Farmer Services

Minnesota banks were serving farmers with more credit and other financial services than any group of lenders at the beginning of this year, according to J. J. Womack, President, Union State Bank who represents the Minnesota Bankers association as Pennington district director. During 1964, the state's banks maintained their leadership in agricultural credit services.

Based on the 24th annual farm lending summary of the agriculture committe of the American Bankers association, Womack reported that at the beginning of the year Minnesota banks were helping farmers with $402 million in loans three per cent more than a year previous. This total included $319 million in production loans and $83 million in farm mortgages.

At the same time, $193 million in farm loans was held by life insurance companies; $179 million by the Federal Land banks; $91 million by Production Credit associations; and $26 million in nonreal estate loans plus $40 million in real estate loans by the Farmers Home administration. About 73 per cent of the production credit extended by lending institutions to Minnesota farmers came from banks.

Regulation Important In Milk Marketing

Minnesota dairymen have an important stake in government regulation of fluid milk marketing, according to extension economist M. K. Christiansen and J. W. Hammond, research associate in agricultural economics at the University of Minnesota.

Currently, about 90 per cent of the nation's milk meeting established sanitary eligibility standards for bottled milk is either priced under federal milk marketing orders or is under state milk control programs.

Over the years, 85 to 90 per cent of the milk produced in Minnesota has been marketed as manufactured dairy products. And for the foreseeable future, markets for these products will continue to be of prime importance to the state, the economists say.

In a recent issue of "Minnesota Farm Business Notes," an extension publication, Christiansen and Hammond explain that the early impetus for government participation in fluid milk marketing stemmed from the nature of the product and some aspects of market organization.

Fluid milk is bulky and perishable. It therefore tends to be produced close to consuming centers and must be moved into consumption fairly rapidly. And since buyers are comparatively large and few in number, they could set prices to local producers—before government regulations existed—on a take it or leave it basis.

This situation did not lend itself to market stability and led to unstable prices and incomes for dairymen. The result was government help to improve the dairyman's market position—in other words, federal milk marketing orders and state milk control laws.

A strong case can be made for continuing government regulation of fluid milk marketing, according to the economists. The inherent instability of fluid milk markets continues, caused by factors such as the need to move milk quickly price-disrupting effects of supplies in excess of bottling milk needs.

The economists point out, however, that some of the factors, which once required that milk supplied for each market be produced close by, are no longer so compelling. Improvements in milk quality, refrigeration and transportation allow fluid milk markets to be served by distant producers.

As a result, regulatory provisions that reserve a market for a particular group of producers tend to encourage the setting of prices higher than national supply conditions.

This situation leads to the build-up of excessive or uneconomic local supplies, which, in turn, results in increased production of manufactured dairy products for competition with dairy products from traditional manufacturing areas.

According to the economists, with the increased mobility of milk, milk produced a considerable distance away can act as a seasonal or even a regular source for many markets if regulatory provisions do not hinder or prevent these adjustments.

While this may not make distant fluid milk markets available to Minnesota producers generally, the economists feel that producers in the state could benefit to the extent that the continued reduction of regulatory barriers leads to the development of a coordinated national system of fluid milk markets.

Such a system of milk markets would accomplish two things (1) reduce the need for the build-up of milk supplies in areas where milk production tends to be at a competitive disadvantage with other farm enterprises, and (2) reduce the need for a buildup of separate reserve supplies around each fluid milk market.

Organization Key To Rural Power Economist Says

cepted in rural areas? Donohue sees a number of values contained within the rural community which are contrary to these changes. "The concept of freedom in individuality, which permeates the institutions of rural areas, is born of self-sufficiency rather than interdependence.

"This was consistent with subsistence farming in the rural community structure associated with it in the past. However, it is doubtful if it is consistent with a highly diversified interdependent economy where the behavior of any individual or group of individuals has considerable consequences for others."

Here, Donohue points to a fundamental difference between urban and traditional rural values. "In a modern urban society, the rights of a person rest on an abstract concept of his dignity as an individual in relationship to other individuals.

"The rural concept of freedom still relates man's freedom and independence to his concrete and tangible property rights.

"Individuality," says Donohue, "is also viewed in different ways. To the urbanite, individuality stems from the way his system provides for toleration of behavior which deviates from his own—within a wide band of acceptability.

With time, Donohue says, one might expect increasing emphasis on rights of divergent groups, as a result of recent national legislation and supreme court decisions reaching into the social-psychological structure of the rural community. Ultimately then, there would be little difference between the rural and urban sectors of society.

Milk Producers Seek Contracts To Raise Price

vantage to a small segment of its total membership . . . The directors represent a wide geographical area approximately 700 miles in width," he added.

Inconsistent Position

Producers who currently hold Land O'Lakes marketing agreements are placing themselves in an inconsistent position, the cooperative management also noted. Land O'Lakes marketing agreements require Land O'Lakes to purchase the entire production of the member and require the member to consign all of his milk to Land O'Lakes and receive his proportionate share of the pool. The contract requires a 180-day notice in writing before the producer is released from its provisions.

The producer pool spokesmen, Ed Richter and Guy Lewis, respective chairman and vice chairman, recently stated that the manager of one processing plant was using "scare tactics" in stating that milk prices would increase three cents per quart to the consumer if the increased producer price was granted.

The spokesmen noted that there are 46 quarts of milk in a hundred pounds and said that the present price to farmers is seven cents a quart. This mathematically figures out (46 quarts x 7 cents($3.22 per hundredweight. The one dollar per hundred weight increase to $5.30 quoted by the pool would be closer to a $2.28 increase if the stated figures are accurate. No explanation was offered for the variance in statistics.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Mosbeck, Judy, Gary and Lynn returned on Tuesday evening from a three day camping trip northeast of Ely. On their return home they were supper guests at the Clarence Peterson home in Silverton.

The Birthday club met on Tuesday evening at the Dick Kruse home to help Mrs. Kruse celebrate her birthday. Guests were Mmes. Amanda Hallstrom, Wm. Kruse, Mayme Gullingsrud, Maurice Steiger, Ronald Tollefson, Wilbur Hallstrom, Douglas Steiger, Carl Anderson, Edgar Naplin, Howard Hesse, and Bob Wallace of Imperial Beach, Calif. Mrs. Kruse was also presented a china piggy bank which had been previously filled as a welcome to the neighborhood and to the birthday club.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Radzak and family of Minneapolis were Monday evening supper and overnight guests at the Bob Sorvig home. The Radzaks had just returned from their vacation at Banff and Lake Louise in Canda. The Radzaks left for their home on Tuesday while Lee Radzak remained for a longer visit at the Sorvig home.

A lake can be many things. To the fisherman it's a place for hours of quiet relaxation. But to the boating enthusiast, a lake is a place for anything but quiet, undisturbing fun.

A forest, too, can be either a source of timber, a place for recreation or a wildlife habitat. And while an industrial representative may see a river as a prefect place for waste disposal, a municipal leader downstream may see it as his city's only source of water.

The point is, acording to Donald Duncan, assistant director of the University of Minnesota school of forestry, that numerous conflicts of interest can and do occur over the use of our natural resources.

Speaking at the Land Use Planning and Guidance seminar held recently on the University's St. Paul campus, Duncan pointed out that such conflicts tend to grow with populations and increased recreational demands.

"These conflicts of interest over the use of our natural resources natural resource use and preservation becomes a major consideration in future programs of land use planning."

"The only interest we have in our natural resources is in terms of what they have to offer people," Duncan added, "and more adequate planning of the use of preservation of these resources is badly needed if we are to provide for the needs of future generations."

Many of the problems that exist in land use planning are related to outdoor recreation which puts great demands on the use of land, water and other natural resources. And Duncan feels that these demands will be incresed by such things as increasing population, better travel, more leisure time and higher incomes.

For example, in Minnesota state parks there has been a seven per cent annual increase in park users and park visitors. In Itasca Park alone attendance almost doubled from 271,00 in 1940 to over 534,000 in 1955, to about 1½ million per year presently.

Discussing some of the "renewable" natural resources like soil, water, forests and game and fish, Duncan stressed the need for detailed soil survey information to be used as a basis for recreational development, highway construction, product development and so on.

"Accompanying this soil survey data," he said, "should be more interpretive research on specific land uses. Research should attempt to find answers to such questions as which soils produce the best pine trees, or what soil conditions affect the health of wildlife and in what way.

Water, another basic natural resource, is pretty much taken for granted in Minnesota, Duncan said, and the big problem here is quality.

"Pollution of Minnesota streams and lakes, whether from animal, human or industrial wastes, is of our own making," he said, "since we do not derive our water from other states or neighboring provinces."

As an example of how pollution control is being carried out in other places, he pointed to the Ruhr River basin in Germany where charges are made against municipal and industrial plants based on "pollution load." The problem with this system is one of determining the index of pollution of a river or stream with any degree of accuracy.

The natural resource of forests is a problem in land use planning of multiple uses such as wood products, secondary products, watershed protection, recreation and wildlife habitat. He said that the planning decision involves deciding what uses take priority or what combinations of uses best meet the needs of the people.

Game and fish, the other resource discussed by Duncan in terms of land use planning, is of broad general interest and always produces great concern among legislators since they must decide such things as fishing and hunting seasons, bounties and bag limits.

According to Duncan, the major problem associated with game and fish has direct relevance to land use planning due to decisions on habitat maintenance such as wetland acquisition and drainage, water pollution, forest management and provisions for food and cover on agricultural lands.

$100,000 for Advertising

The story below is taken from the July issue of the NADA magazine published by the National Automobile Dealers Association. It is the comments of Mr. Albert E. Schlesinger on advertising — we think they are worth mentioning. Mr. Schlesinger has been a car dealer since 1929.

Most automobile dealers probably think that $100,000 is a lot of money to spend on advertising each year. It is. But if you know what you're doing, the investment pays off, says Albert E. Schlesinger, Chairman of the Board, S & C Motors, Inc. (Ford), San Francisco, Calif.

Mr. Schlesinger points out the advantages newspaper advertising has over the other forms.

"One obvious advantage," he explains, "is that since you sell locally you want to reach a local audience. TV and radio often reach persons who are way out of your market area. Since almost everyone reads a local newspaper, the cost per person exposed to your ad is small—certainly smaller than in the case with TV and radio."

This San Francisco dealer also points out that people who are in the market for a car instinctively go to the classified portions of the newspaper to see what is available. "They can refer to a newspaper ad time and time again, and study it, whereas an ad in the broadcast media is not permanent but fleeting," he adds.

When it comes to the actual construction of ads that will go in the newspapers, the dealership's policy is simple. "Keep it short, honest, and to the point," Mr. Schlesinger says.

He lists the following as some of the major objectives of advertising

1. To let people know that you are in business.
2. To let people know what you are selling.
3. To keep your dealership's name before past customers and potential customers.
4. To announce service specials and new and used car sales.
5. To create a favorable dealership image in the minds of residents of your marketing area.

"Advertising that is not completely ethical and honest does nothing in the long run but destroy any confidence that customers may have felt toward the dealership," he says.

LEGAL NOTICE

August 9
NOTICE OF REFERENDUM

Pursuant to the provisions of Minnesota Statutes 30.30, subdivision 2, a portion of the Potato Improvement, Marketing and Advertising Act, and after due notice and hearing on July 13, 1965, and after due consideration thereof, the Minnesota Potato Development Commission submits to the potato growers of Area No. 1 organized under said act, consisting of Kittson, Marshall, Polk, Pennington, Red Lake, Norman, Mahnomen, Clay, Becker, Wilkin and Otter Tail Counties the following Commission Orders of Area No. 1 for consideration of suspension of such orders.

Order No. 1 relating to the collection of one cent per hundredweight fee on all potatoes produced and sold or shipped within said Area No. 1.

Order No. 2 restricting the sale and shipment of cull potatoes;

(This does not change the Minnesota state legal requirement for state-federal inspecting of all shipments out of the state of 3,000 pounds or more from October 1 through June 30.)

Order No. 6 as amended by Order No. 9, relating to the insignia known as "RED RIVER RED" and the use thereof.

A referendum will be held August 23, 24, 25, 26 and 27, 1965, with voting to be done by qualified potato growers on ballots provided to them. The ballots will be returned by mail to the Red River Valley Potato Growers Association's office in East Grand Forks, Minnesota, no later than August 27, 1965.

Each order will be voted on separately. If a majority of votes cast for any order favors suspension of the order, the Minnesota Potato Development Commission shall suspend the order or orders within 30 days after results of the referendum are determined.

A potato grower is defined in M. S. 30.31, subdivision 6, as any person who grows or shares in the ownership of potatoes grown for market on one or more acres.

Regulation Important In Milk Marketing

Minnesota dairymen have an important stake in government regulation of fluid milk marketing, according to extension economist M. K. Christiansen and J. W. Hammond, research associate in agricultural economics at the University of Minnesota.

Currently, about 90 per cent of the nation's milk meeting established sanitary elegibility standards for bottled milk is either priced under federal milk marketing orders or is under state milk control programs.

Over the years, 85 to 90 per cent of the milk produced in Minnesota has been marketed as manufactured dairy products. And for the foreseeable future, markets for these products will continue to be of prime importance to the state, the economists say.

In a recent issue of "Minnesota Farm Business Notes," an extension publication, Christiansen and Hammond explain that the early impetus for government participation in fluid milk marketing stemmed from the nature of the product and some aspects of market organization.

Fluid milk is bulky and perishable. It therefore tends to be produced close to consuming centers and must be moved into consumption fairly rapidly. And since buyers are comparatively large and few in number, they could set prices to local producers—before government regulations existed—on a take it or leave it basis.

This situation did not lend itself to market stability and led to unstable prices and incomes for dairymen. The result was government help to improve the dairyman's market position—in other words, federal milk marketing orders and state milk control laws.

A strong case can be made for continuing government regulation of fluid milk marketing, according to the economists. The inherent instability of fluid milk markets continues, caused by factors such as the need to move milk quickly price-disrupting effects of supplies in excess of bottling milk needs.

The economists point out, however, that some of the factors, which once required that milk supplied for each market be produced close by, are no longer so compelling. Improvements in milk quality, refrigeration and transportation allow fluid milk markets to be served by distant producers.

As a result, regulatory provisions that reserve a market for a particular group of producers tend to encourage the setting of prices higher than national supply conditions.

This situation leads to the buildup of excessive or uneconomic local supplies, which, in turn, results in increased production of manufactured dairy products for competition with dairy products from traditional manufacturing areas.

According to the economists, with the increased mobility of milk, milk produced a considerable distance away can act as a seasonal or even a regular source for many markets if regulatory provisions do not hinder or prevent these adjustments.

While this may not make distant fluid milk markets available to Minnesota producers generally, the economists feel that producers in the state could benefit to the extent that the continued reduction of regulatory barriers leads to the development of a coordinated national system of fluid milk markets.

Such a system of milk markets would accomplish two things (1) reduce the need for the build-up of milk supplies in areas where milk production tends to be at a competitive disadvantage with other farm enterprises, and (2) reduce the need for a buildup of separate reserve supplies around each fluid milk market.

Organization Key To Rural Power Economist Says

cepted in rural areas? Donohue sees a number of values contained within the rural community which are contrary to these changes. "The concept of freedom in individuality, which permeates the institutions of rural areas, is born of self-sufficiency rather than interdependence.

"This was consistent with subsistence farming in the rural community structure associated with it in the past. However, it is doubtful if it is consistent with a highly diversified interdependent economy where the behavior of any individual or group of individuals has considerable consequences for others."

Here, Donohue points to a fundamental difference between urban and traditional rural values. 'In a modern urban society, the rights of a person rest on an abstract concept of his dignity as an individual in relationship to other individuals.'

"The rural concept of freedom still related man's freedom and independence to his concrete and tangible property rights.

"Individuality," says Donohue, "is also viewed in different ways. To the urbanite, individuality stems from the way his system provides for toleration of behavior which deviates from his own—within a wide band of acceptability.

To the rural citizen, individuality is a product of direct personal contact and acquaintance with his fellow man.".

With time, Donohue says, one might expect increasing emphasis on rights of divergent groups, as a result of recent national legislation and supreme court decisions reaching into the social-psychological structure of the rural community. Ultimately then, there would be little difference between the rural and urban sectors of society.

vantage to a small segment of its total membership . . . The directors represent a wide geographical area approximately 700 miles in width," he added.

Inconsistent Position

Producers who currently hold Land O'Lakes marketing agreements are placing themselves in an inconsistent position, the cooperative management also noted. Land O'Lakes marketing agreements require Land O'Lakes to purchase the entire production of the member and require the member to consign all of his milk to Land O'Lakes and receive his proportionate share of the pool. The contract requires a 180-day notice in writing before the producer is released from its provisions.

The producer pool spokesmen, Ed Richter and Guy Lewis, respective chairman and vice chairman, recently stated that the manager of one processing plant was using "scare tactics" in stating that milk prices would increase three cents per quart to the consumer if the increased producer price was granted.

The spokesmen noted that there are 46 quarts of milk in a hundred pounds and said that the present price to farmers is seven cents a quart. This mathematically figures out (46 quarts x 7 cents($3.22 per hundredweight. The one dollar per hundred weight increase to $5.30 quoted by the pool would be closer to a $2.28 increase if the submitted figures are accurate. No explanation was offered for the variance in statistics.

A lake can be many things. To the fisherman it's a place for hours of quiet relaxation. But to the boating enthusiast, a lake is a place for anything but quiet, undisturbing fun.

A forest, too, can be either a source of timber, a place for recreation or a wildlife habitat. And while an industrial representative may see a river as a prefect place for waste disposal, a municipal leader downstream may see it as his city's only source of water.

The point is, according to Donald Duncan, assistant director of the University of Minnesota school of forestry, that numerous conflicts of interest can and do occur over the use of our natural resources.

Speaking at the Land Use Planning and Guidance seminar held recently on the University's St. Paul campus, Duncan pointed out that such conflicts tend to grow with populations and increased recreational demands.

"These conflicts of interest over the use of our natural resources natural resource use and preservation becomes a major consideration in future programs of land use planning."

"The only interest we have in our natural resources is in terms of what they have to offer people," Duncan added, "and more adequate planning of the use of preservation of these resources is badly needed if we are to provide for the needs of future generations."

Many of the problems that exist in land use planning are related to outdoor recreation which puts great demands on the use of land, water and other natural resources. And Duncan feels that these demands will be increased by such things as increasing population, better travel, more leisure time and higher incomes.

For example, in Minnesota state parks there has been a seven per cent annual increase in park users and park visitors. In Itasca Park alone attendance almost doubled from 271,00 in 1940 to over 534,000 in 1955, to about 1¼ million per year presently.

Discussing some of the "renewable" natural resources like soil, water, forests and game and fish, Duncan stressed the need for detailed soil survey information to be used as a basis for recreational development, highway construction, product development and so on.

"Accompanying this soil survey data," he said, "should be more interpretive research on specific land uses. Research should attempt to find answers to such questions as which soils produce the best pine trees, or what soil conditions affect the health of wildlife and in what way."

Water, another basic natural resource, is pretty much taken for granted in Minnesota, Duncan said, and the big problem here is quality.

"Pollution of Minnesota streams and lakes, whether from animal, human or industrial wastes, is of our own making," he said, "since we do not derive our water from other states or neighboring provinces."

As an example of how pollution control is being carried out in other places, he pointed to the Ruhr River basin in Germany where charges are made against municipal and industrial plants based on "pollution load." The problem with this system is one of determining the index of pollution of a river or stream with any degree of accuracy.

The natural resource of forests is a problem in land use planning of multiple uses such as wood products, secondary products, watershed protection, recreation and wildlife habitat. He said that the planning decision involves deciding what uses take priority or what combinations of uses best meet the needs of the people.

Game and fish, the other resource discussed by Duncan in terms of land use planning, is of broad general interest and always produces great concern among legislators since they must decide such things as fishing and hunting seasons, bounties and bag limits.

According to Duncan, the major problem associated with game and fish has direct relevance to land use planning due to dicisions on habitat maintenance such as wetland acquisition and drainage, water pollution, forest management and provisions for food and cover on agricultural lands.

He is survived by one sister, Mrs. Rachel Lande of Leeds, N.D., and by several nieces and nephews.

$100,000 for Advertising

The story below is taken from the July issue of the NADA magazine published by the National Automobile Dealers' Association. It is the comments of Mr. Albert E. Schlesinger on advertising — we think they are worth mentioning. Mr. Schlesinger has been a car dealer since 1929.

Most automobile dealers probably think that $100,000 is a lot of money to spend on advertising each year. It is. But if you know what you're doing, the investment pays off, says Albert E. Schlesinger, Chairman of the Board, S & C Motors, Inc. (Ford), San Francisco, Calif.

Mr. Schlesinger points out the advantages newspaper advertising has over the other forms.

"One obvious advantage," he explains, "is that since you sell locally you want to reach a local audience. TV and radio often reach persons who are way out of your market area. Since almost everyone reads a local newspaper, the cost per person exposed to your ad is small—certainly, smaller than in the case with TV and radio."

This San Francisco dealer also points out that people who are in the market for a car instinctively go to the classified portions of the newspaper to see what is available. "They can refer to a newspaper ad time and time again, and study it, whereas an ad in the broadcast media is not permanent but fleeting," he adds.

When it comes to the actual construction of ads that will go in the newspapers, the dealership's policy is simple. "Keep it short, honest, and to the point," Mr. Schlesinger says.

He lists the following as some of the major objectives of advertising:

1. To let people know that you are in business.
2. To let people know what you are selling.
3. To keep your dealership's name before past customers and potential customers.
4. To announce service specials and new and used car sales.
5. To create a favorable dealership image in the minds of residents of your marketing area.

"Advertising that is not completely ethical and honest does nothing in the long run but destroy any confidence that customers may have felt toward the dealership," he says.

NOTICE OF REFERENDUM

Pursuant to the provisions of Minnesota Statutes 30.35, subdivision 2, a portion of the Potato Improvement, Marketing and Advertising Act, and after due notice and hearing on July 12, 1965, and after due consideration thereof, the Minnesota Potato Development Commission submits to the potato growers of Area No. 1 organized under said act, consisting of Kittson, Marshall, Polk, Pennington, Red Lake, Norman, Mahnomen, Clay, Becker, Wilkin and Otter Tail Counties the following Commission Orders of Area No. 1 for consideration of suspension of such orders.

Order No. 1 relating to the collection of one cent per hundredweight fee on all potatoes produced and sold or shipped within said Area No. 1.

(This does not change the Minnesota state legal requirement for state-federal inspecting of all shipments out of the state of 3,000 pounds or more from October 1 through June 30.)

Order No. 6 as amended by Order No. 9, relating to the insignia known as "RED RIVER RED" and the use thereof.

A referendum will be held August 23, 24, 25, 26 and 27, 1965, with voting to be done by qualified potato growers on ballots provided to them. The ballots will be returned by mail to the Red River Valley Potato Growers Association's office in East Grand Forks, Minnesota, no later than August 27, 1965.

Each order will be voted on separately. If a majority of votes cast for any order favors suspension of the order, the Minnesota Potato Development Commission shall suspend the order or orders within 30 days after results of the referendum are determined.

A potato grower is defined in M. S. 30.34, subdivision 6, as any person who grows or shares in the ownership of potatoes grown for market on one or more acres.

Sportsmen's Club Sets Working Bee

Pennington County Sportsmen's club has scheduled a second work session at its new recreation area Tuesday at 7 p.m. Members are asked to bring tools for mowing, brushing, etc.

At the first working party last Thursday there was reportedly a large turnout of Boy Scouts, club members, and other volunteers and a good deal of progress was made in cleaning up the area.

Softball League Title at Stake Here This Week

The VFW softball team appears the team to beat as the final week of play begins tonight. Leading the league with a 6 and 3 record, the Vets must play the second place Hartz team Tuesday and need a win to maintain undisputed first place in the standings.

Last week Hartz whipped Hamm's 13-4 Monday night and the VFW topped Bea's 5-1 Wednesday. Other games this week include Schmidt's vs. Hamm's on Monday, Bridgeman's vs. Beas on Wednesday and Bridgeman's vs. Schmidt's on Thursday.

Jerry Erickson of Bridgeman's currently leads the batting race hits in 20 times at bat. The batting champion will be decided following this week's play among players who have 20 or more times at bat.

Others in the batting race include Bill Herzog, Hamm's, 8 for 19, .421; Wiley Bogie, Bea's, 8 for 22, .363; John Drury, Bridgeman's, 6 for 17, .353; Dennis Bake, Hartz, 8 for 23, .348; Jeff Vacura, Hartz, 10 for 29, .345; Buzz Olson, Hartz, 7 for 21, .333; Ike Ellingson, Schmitz, 6 for 19, .315; Marv Olson, Hartz, 5 for 16, .312; and Elroy Frolland, Bridgeman's, 6 for 20, .300.

Farm Lobbying Accomplished at Washington Fly-in

Robert Prickett of Middle River and Fred Sorenson and Lloyd Nelson of Thief River Falls were among 85 farmers, business and professional men from rural Minnesota who returned recently from a "Legislative Fly-In" to Washington, D. C.

This venture in lobbying for farm legislation was the second sponsored this summer by the Minnesota Farmers Union. The group included 35 farmers and county Farmers Union leaders plus 50 small-town businessmen, conservation leaders and state legislators.

Main activity of the group was calling at the offices of congressmen and senators to urge support of the 1965 farm bill recently reported by the House agriculture committee. Material left at the congressional offices pointed out that the well-being of main street and farmers of the rural community rises or falls together.

The facts were shown that in the past 10 years Minnesota has lost 31,000 family farms and 3,000 retail businesses, an indication that each time a community loses 10 or 12 farms it loses the purchasing power which would sustain one average small-town business. Another fact sheet reported the results of a survey of some 800 farms in Minnesota farm counties showing the backlog of purchases being delayed by farmers due to lack of purchasing power.

The trip included a group meeting with the two top officials of the House Agriculture committee, Chairman Harold D. Cooley and Vic Chairman W. R. Poage. Rep. Cooley told the group that all hopes for farm legislation this year are tied up in the fate of the omnibus bill reported by his committee. "If we don't have a farm bill, the whole rural economy will collapse," he declared.

Rep. Poage characterized the committee bill as "basically a good bill" and expressed hope that it would pass, but warned the margin might be small. Sen. Walter F. Mondale told the group that the feed grain program should be extended for four years and support levels should be increased. He noted that in 1961 there was a carryover of huge proportions, some 85 million tons, and that it has been reduced to 58 million tons and will soon be down to 50 million.

"But without the feed grains program, farm income would have been lower and the surplus carryover would have shot up perhaps to 120 million tons; there would have been total disaster for the livestock-feed grains economy," he said. Mondale also defended the feed grains program as the most effective program in terms of cost per acre.

Peewee Baseball Tourney Begins In City Tonight

Final stages of the Peewee baseball program in Thief River Falls will be reached this week when the eight-team league begins its championship playoffs. The Orioles and White Sox, coached respectively by John Looker and Mike Aune, are tied for first place with 6-1 records at the end of regular season play.

All games in the tournament will be played on the fairgrounds diamond with each game going seven innings. Games will start at 6 and 8 p.m. with the 8 p.m. games being played under the lights.

Tonight at 6 p.m. the White Sox will play the Dodgers and at 8 p.m. the Phillies will play the Giants. On Tuesday the Athletics will meet the Cardinals at 6 p.m. and the Orioles will clash with the Mets at 8 p.m.

On Wednesday the winners of the Monday night games will play at 6 p.m. and winners of the Tuesday night games will play at 8 p.m. Championship will be decided Friday in a contest between Wednesday night's winners.

Team	W	L	Coach
Orioles	6	1	John Looker
White Sox	6	1	Mike Aune
Athletics	4	3	David Erickson
Phillies	4	3	Wayne Liden
Cardinals	3	3	Tony Dorn
Giants	3	4	Jerry Erickson

TEAL
TEAL ARE SMALL IN COMPARISON TO MALLARDS AND WOOD DUCKS

HUNTERS IN THE CENTRAL AND MISSISSIPPI FLYWAYS WILL HAVE A SHORT OPEN SEASON ON TEAL IN SEPTEMBER.

CONSULT YOUR LOCAL STATE OR FEDERAL OFFICER FOR DETAILS.

NO OPEN SEASON IN ALABAMA, TENNESSEE, WISCONSIN AND MONTANA.

To better understand the population dynamics of these species, the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service has opened the Central and Mississippi flyway states to a special season on these birds. Hunters will be contacted for information about their success, and will be asked to send in wings of birds they have taken for analysis.

All hunters must obtain a special federal Teal hunting permit, in addition to any required state hunting license and federal duck stamp. These special permits will be issued free by your state conservation agency upon proper application.

Sportsmen are urged to be positive in their identification of the birds, for Teal, and Teal only, are legal during the special September season.

Poverty Is Relative State Economist Says

Poverty? In a society with 68 million automobiles, 4.5 million power mowers and 63 million television sets—and last year spent more than $2.5 billion on boats and their upkeep?

Yet, although a massive program against poverty may seem inconsistent, a University of Minnesota sociologist says it may be both a theoretical and practical recognition of the world in which we live.

George Donohue points out that our society produces goods and services at the rate of nearly $650 billion a year, and it may hit a trillion by 1975. But such productivity does not in itself do away with poverty.

Unemployment and-or underemployment of resources may well society expands, and may be a potential force for a downturn in the economy. Furthermore, Donohue states, the first step toward resolving a social problem is developing an awareness and a willingness to recognize the problem and its dimensions.

"Poverty is neither an absolute nor a material condition," Donohue says, "but it is a relative state coupled with the way individuals and groups interpret that condition. In these respects, prosperity is quite similar to poverty.

"Once we view prosperity and poverty as due to social psychological perspectives of relative material situation with respect to what has been, what is and what might be, tensions among groups are more easy to understand.

"Underlying this relative poverty and prosperity are the chart population changes. We have more than 193 million people, with a projected rise to 275 million between 1980 and 1990 and perhaps 750 million or more by the year 2050.

"Population growth, though, is confined. Nationally, it has been restricted largely to 212 metropolitan districts on less than a tenth of the land space. The truly explosive nature of this growth has been determined by the rising tide of rural-to-metropolitan migration."

Along with Wisconsin, Minnesota already has a high percentage of its population in urban areas and a low percentage left on farms.

Donohue says production methods now and in the future favor economic and population concentration. Rising capital inputs in agriculture are leaving segments of the rural population either unemployed or underemployed.

"Unemployment has always seemed to be more of an urban than a rural problem, largely because unemployment in rural areas has been masked by underemployment or by outmigration of people without jobs."

"Thus," Donohue continues, "the specter of unemployment has not historically been of great concern to the rural community."

"A feature about population growth may occur without any further expansion in land resources for agricultural production—and with still further reduction in human resources in this area.

"The shock wave of this particular projection," Donohue says, "is reverberating throughout the rural sectors of society."

Soil Pesticide Residues Studied

You spray a field with a chemical designed to kill weeds—and you may then wonder how much residue stays in the soil and for how long. It's a crucial problem facing American agriculture, and one under intensive research.

Why the problem? Uncontrolled build-up of chemical residue in soil might have certain public health dangers. Secondly, the residue in itself is sometimes what does the job for the farmer.

It hasn't always been that way. Until a few years ago, most herbicides, such as 2,4-D, were short-lived; residue was no problem. Then farmers began adopting tillage and cropping systems that called for a pre-emergence application—sprayed after planting but before the weeds come up.

Effectiveness of a pre-emergence spray depends partly on the chemical's persistence or, in other word the residue it leaves on the soil. Ideally, the residue would remain long enough to kill the emerging weeds, but disappear before the next crop year.

Studying soil residues of pesticides is a problem with many facets. You can't use the action of a given pesticide on one soil to predict persistence. There are thousands of soil types and hundreds of chemicals in commerical use in the U.S. Residue persistence may vary with either soil or chemical, or both.

Fortunately, enough research has been done to make some general statements possible.

Actually, among herbicides, only a few such as Atrazine and Simazine, persist into the next season. And rarely do resides from normal weed control persist beyond the second season.

However, far less is known about insecticide residues. These, particularly the chlorinated hydrocarbons, generally persist longer than do herbicides.

Pesticide persistence is referred to in terms of half life—"the time for half a given amount of pesticide to disappear".

Results on persistence vary. A 1961 study in the state of Washington indicated that 23 to 33 per cent of the DDT remained in he soil after 10 years. This is a half life of about 5.4 years. In studies at Mississippi and New Jersey, DDT had a half life of under a year.

Disappearance of chemical residues usually occurs according to what mathematicians therm a logarithmic function. In such a case, small quantities persist for an indefinite time.

In one study, trace amounts of Aldrin and Heptachlor (both insecticides) were detected as the parent compound or in a toxic broken-down form nine years after being applied. These are half lives of 3 and 2.5 years, respectively.

Such data is vital to understanding the way chemicals work in the soil, and in establishing regulations for their use.

Corn Silage and Harvest Time

Time of cutting is one of the major considerations in making good corn silage. Value of corn silage for livestock feed is well known, but the resulting feed can be good or disappointing, depending on how it is made.

Harvest when the grain is beginning to dent on top. Moisture level in the crop then will be best for preservation. Harvesting earlier would result in moisture levels too high.

No extra preservatives are necessary. Carbohydrate in the grain acts as a natural preservative, and research has never shown any advantage from adding preservatives to corn harvested at this state.

The forage should be chopped short. This aids in packing and in excluding air.

The silo should be filled as rapidly as possible, and good distribution in the silo is a must. Either use a mechanical distributor or let the material cone up for several loads and then level it.

Make sure the silo does not leak air, and seal over the top.

These steps will give silage of the best quality and will keep storage losses at an absolute minimum. Preservatives would mean an unnecessary expense, because everything needed for top quality silage is already in the material.

Grain Storage

Here's some advice on how to preserve the quality of your stored grain. First, clean the bin thoroughly, sweeping out and destroying old grain, dust, chaff and webbing. Then apply a residual bin spray to the walls, floor and braces. Spray solutions containing 2½ per cent methoxychlor or 1½ per cent malathion to the point of runoff. You could also apply a grain protectant.

To grain that is to be stored, apply protectants containing either pyrethrins or malathion. You can apply this just before the grain goes into the bin. Either liquid or dry formulations can be used, as surface sprays in the grain bin. This will protect the grain from surface infestations.

Loan Eligibility Not Restored in All Veteran Cases

A veteran's eligibility for a GI loan is not restored when he sells his GI-purchased home and obtains a VA release from liability to the government on the loan, the veterans administration warned today.

John R. Murphy, manager, VA center, St. Paul, said that release of the veteran from liability to the government does not affect the VA's guaranty on the loan. As long as the guaranty to the lender is outstanding, no restoration of GI loan rights can be granted the veteran.

He said that even if the loan is paid in full, thus relieving the VA of liability to the lender, a veteran's entitlement to another GI loan may be restored only when the property: (a) was taken by a governmental agency for public use; (b) was destroyed by natural hazard, or, (c) was disposed of for compelling reasons, such as health, employment transfer, change to a better job in another city or other reasons considered sufficient by the VA.

Murphy said that in such cases, veterans may apply to the VA office which processed their loan for restoration of entitlement.

IRS Answers Queries On Income Tax Status

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q—My son opened a bank account with the money he makes from his summer job. The bank wants his tax account number. What is that?

A—For your son it is his social security number. The bank is required by law to have the tax account number and to report interest payments on all accounts earning $10 or more to the revenue service.

Q—I bought an air conditioner recently. How do I go about getting a refund on the excise tax I paid on it?

A—To find out whether you will receive a refund, check with the dealer from whom you bought the air conditioner.

Q—I filed an amended return after I found I forgot to include some interest and dividend payments my wife received. I just got a bill for interest on the additional amount of tax I paid. On what basis am I liable for this interest?

A—The federal tax laws requires that interest at the rate of one-half percent a month be charged on taxes not paid when they are due, regardless of the reason for late payment.

Q—My return is being audited and I am supposed to bring in my records on the business entertaining and travel I did. What do I need to substantiate these items?

A—Generally speaking, you must be able to produce records to establish each of the following: 1) the amount of the expense; 2) the time and place; 3) the business purpose; and 4) the business relationship of those entertained.

A receipt or other documentary evidence is required for each travel or entertainment expenditure of $25 or more, with certain exceptions. The publication, "Travel, Entertainment and Gift Expenses," IRS Document No. 463, outlines the rules for deducting these expenses. This publication is available at Internal Revenue Service offices at no charge. It may be helpful to look over this publication before you have your audit interview. It will also be helpful in maintaining your expense account records currently.

Q—I have just turned 65. How does this change my tax status?

A—For one thing, you are entitled to an additional $600 exemption because of age. It will also mean that, if you itemize your deductions, your medical and drug expenses will be fully deductible and not subject to the three per cent and one per cent floors. These and other provisions will apply to your whole tax year. A complete description of these and other tax benefits for those 65 and over is given in the publication, "Tax Benefits for Older Americans," IRS Document No. 5569. This booklet may be obtained without charge at any Internal Revenue service office.

Walther League Convention Set

Annual Minnesota North District Walther League convention of the Missouri Synod churches will be held at the Bemidji State college campus August 20, 21 and 22. Theme of the convention will be "God's Kingdom First". Included in the program will be guest speakers, tours, Bible study and worship.

Leaguers and others who attend will have access to a lighted swimming pool and entertainment will be provided by a choral union and an hour-long play entitled, "Christ in the Concrete City". Persons who attend will be lodged in campus dormitories.

Larry D. Gausen Receives Degree

Larry D. Gausen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andy Gausen of Thief River Falls, graduated from the State College of Iowa, Cedar Falls, at summer commencement exercises on Friday, receiving a master of arts degree in mathematics. He was among 305 candidates to receive degrees, setting a new high for summer graduates at SCI.

Side Line Observations
BY BILL DAHLQUIST

Dan Cordez, reporting for the Wall Street Journal, predicts that Congress is about to open a 175-year-old dispute over whether to adopt the metric system of measurement. This time, he says, the perennial "no" decision may ultimately be reversed. But, he thinks if the metric system does come it will come gradually and changes of such standards of measurement as the inch, the quart and the pound are not in "any imminent danger."

Our present standards of measurement are based largely on an old English system that developed in a primitive world, and the metric system is based on a scientific mathematical approach. Until less than 10 years ago the British Canadian and American inch differed slightly from each other. Britain has announced its intention of adopting the metric system within a period of 10 years and Canada and the United States, the only two remaining nations of the modern world that do not follow the metric pattern, no doubt will be forced to follow the international pattern.

The cost of not conforming to the international pattern would be a costly loss of business in world markets, it is predicted. The cost of adoption of the metric system would also involve losses as repairs for old equipment would gradually become obsolete. But it seems to me that as the changes come gradually the cost of change would be absorbed gradually and would not create a serious problem.

Certainly the proposal merits serious consideration and our nation should not be the last great world power to adopt what obviously is the most simple solution to what has been a complicated problem. The metric system is by all odds the most simple system and we owe it to the youngsters who follow us to make this adjustment. As the change comes gradually it will be a painless operation and definitely in the best interests of that next generation.

After several centuries of idle talk it now appears that a Nordic union is in the making. According to the Christian Sience Monitor, Denmark, Norway, Sweden, Finland and Iceland may now get together as a European Free Trade Association as a means of protection from a recent British tariff surcharge.

A union of these five small countries would be created primarily in the interests of free trade but if the union proves to be beneficial in the field of commerce it may lead to union in other fields. It is an interesting prospect.

President Johnson has put a little pressure on the leaders of his army of bureaucrats to hold down "future spending increases on domestic programs," acording to a Wall Street Journal staff reporter.

This probably means that the war in Veitnam is going to have a little higher priority in the administration's struggle to create prosperity thruout the world as well as here at home. To whatever extent the money is being spent wastefully it probably isn't going to make much difference to the American taxpayers over a long period of time.

It is good to know, however, that the President now does recognize the fact that wars are costly and if he now admits that a costly war can be wasteful and could possibly force us to give up some more pleasant activities, perhaps he will soon admit that wasteful spending in any form and for any purpose could make it necessary for us to sacrifice some of the more pleasant things in life.

As the President starts to see the light he may turn out to be a fairly good leader. But before we boost his stock too much let's see how far he really will go in his demands for economy here at home.

Since the year 1951 Mexican labor has been admitted to the border states to meet the heavy demand for labor to harvest the fruit and vetetable crops. These imported Mexican laborers were referred to as "braceros" and they were paid the same wages as American workers. At the end of the harvest season they returned to their native land, presumably happy and with money in their pockets.

This year the Braceros were not admitted. Under pressure from American labor unions the administration decided that the fruits and vegetables should be harvested by American labor. But come harvest time American labor was not available, so much of the fruits and vegetable crops were unharvested and unmarketed. According to Raymond Moley, writing in Newsweek, the impact upon California agriculture has been most severe. He states that:

"Many millions have been lost because of unharvested, rotting produce. And the flow of money into the state from exports to the East and abroad has been drastically curtailed.

"All a result of this debacle, housewives elsewhere in the nation have been confronted with rising prices for the many products imported from California and other states in the Southwest. In New York one purchaser of a head of lettuce after hearing the price asked that it be "gift wrapped." This rise in prices will continue as the various crops ripen on into September and October. And after that, the prices of canned goods will rise during the winter.

"A lasting loss to California is the trend of large growers to lease lands in Mexico and develop them along with Mexicans under more tolerable conditions in a country which has no Secretary Wirtz to "help" with their problems. California can ill afford this strain on its economy at this time because in several communities I have visited there are signs of declining business."

Our Canadian neighbors recognize some responsibility in the Vietnam fiasco. As the Winnipeg Tribune points out, Canada has a background of experience that extends over a period of 11 years as a member of the International Central Commission that was set up to guide the development of Vietnam. Our good neighbors have no reason to aplogize for their failure, along with two nations of southeastern Asia, to maintain order. When our country muscled itself into the act and took over the management of that corner of the globe there wasn't much for the Canadians to do except to withdraw.

But in spite of the circumstances perhaps the Canadians can be helpful at this time in their common interest with all of us in trying to avert another World War, which is coming dangerously close to being an actual reality. As the Winnipeg Tribune expresses it:

"In this ominous playback of history Canada, at least should reconsider its passive role and, in view of its 11 years acquaintance with the internal problems of Viet Nam through its participation on the International Control Commission, attempt to bring into focus The mischievous effects that international intrigue have had on that unfortunate country.

"We sorely need a Viet Nam policy to offer as a constructive objective on an international plane far above the level of Peking and Washington. If the present Canadian government won't offer it, then it is the duty of the Opposition to formulate one, free from the hot line telephones which seem to dictate the frozen attitudes of the world today."

As I recall it the three members of the International Commission that was set up to adjust differences in the Vietnam area were India and Australia along with Canada. If our Canadian neighbors can now revive this Commission it would be a powerful influence in restoring harmony in southeastern Asia. Obviously we cannot do it alone and it is high time that those who speak for us in Washington start a new approach to the overall problem with some evidence of reasonable humility.

What we need more than anything else at this time is a few friends, and it is good to get a friendly pat on the back from our neighbors north of the border. Let's let them know that we do appreciate their friendship.

Consumer Expenditure Lower in Northwest

If families in Crookston are typical of small cities in Minnesota with populations of 2,500 to 50,000, they have been spending considerably less for current living expenses and saving more than the average urban family in the North Central region.

According to a study reported recently, Crookston families of two or more spent $4,788 for current living expenses in 1961 and one-person families spent $2,608—or an average of $4,181. By comparison, the average city family in the North Central area as a whole spent $5,269.

Crookston was selected as one of five small cities in the North Central Region in the sample for the survey for consumer expenditures in 1961. The study was conducted by the U.S. Department of Agriculture and the Bureau of Labor Statistics of the U.S. Department of Labor.

In addition to the amount they spent for living expenses, Crookston families gave gifts and contributions averaging $232, put $270 into various types of life insurance, social security and retirement funds and paid $500 in income and other personal taxes. They saved $498 compared with $326 for the average urban family. In the North Central States besides liquid assets, ownership of property (such as houses and durable goods) is considered savings.

Well over half of the current living expenses of Crookston families went for housing (30.4 per cent), food (22.3 per cent) and clothing (11 per cent). Single consumers spent more for both food away from home and for rented dwellings than families of two or more persons. Included in the category of housing were shelter, utilities, furnishings and other household operating expenses.

More than 13 per cent of the family spending went for purchase and operation of automobiles. At the end of 1961, three out of four families in Crookston owned cars.

Medical care accounted for 6.7 per cent of expenditures. Almost half of the total medical expense was for payment of premiums for hospitalization and other forms of health insurance, reported by five out of six families.

Among other categories of current living expenses and the shares they took were: personal care, 2.4 per cent; reading and education, 2.1 per cent; recreation, 4.2 per cent.

Warroad To Vote Again on Issue Of School Bonds

For the second time in less than a month, voters of the Warroad school district will vote on the question of acceptance of a bond issue in the amount of $580,000 as proposed by the school board for building and remodeling.

In a vote held July 13, 314 persons marked their ballots each way to make a tie and defeat for the proposed bond issue. After accepting results of that vote, the Warroad school board set a new date for another vote on August 9.

Included in the project would be razing of the old grade building, remodeling of the old high school building, building an addition which would include 13 new classrooms and other facilities and building a bus garage.

Observers feel that more voters will cast their ballots on Monday than did July 13.

List Business School Graduates

Commencement exercises at Aaker's business college, Grand Forks were held Tuesday evening with Dr. Erich Selke, professor emeritus of education and former director of teacher placements at the University of North Dakota, as the speaker.

R. C. Hadlich, president of the college, presided at the affair. Diplomas were awarded by Calmer Hovland, vice president.

'65 Highway Map In Great Demand Throughout State

The 1965 official highway map of Minnesota has been warmly received and is in great demand throughout the state and midwest area, reports the highway department's public information section. Distribution to date has reached the 500,000 mark and for the year will require the 600,000 plus maps printed.

Most of the maps have been issued to Minnesota residents; however, many out of state residents have requested and received them for use in traveling within Minnesota.

Individuals from as far south as Florida, as far north as Alaska and as far east as New England have made use of the map, and distant parties from such countries as England, South America and the state of Hawaii have also expressed interest in receiving them.

The map has been considered by many to be a valuable tourist promotion aid as it points out many places of interest and shows public campgrounds and scenic areas which otherwise might be overlooked by the tourists.

Our canoe country wilderness is featured on the reverse side of the map with numerous photo reproductions of the recreational facilities available to the vacationeer.

An ample supply of maps will again be available at the highway department's exhibit at the state fair, and they may also be obtained by writing to the Minnesota Highway Department, Public Information Section, St. Paul 55101.

Gary Haugen in Recruit Training

Seaman Recruit Gary R. Haugen, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray O. Haugen of Rt. 5, Thief River Falls, reported July 12 to the Recruit Training command, U.S. Naval Training center, San Diego, Calif. for nine weeks of basic training. During his early days of training he will receive a series of aptitude examinations to determine which of the Navy's 65 specialty fields he will enter on completion of recruit training.

Physical fitness training, drill, naval customs and courtesies, water survival, first aid, personal hygiene, seamanship and general naval orientation will highlight the first three weeks of his transition from civilian to military life.

Older Folks May Be Eligible for Social Security

Many residents in this area 72 and older may now be eligible for social security benefits for the first time reports Clifford Kittelson, social security district manager.

Previously, no one received benefits with fewer than six quarters. With the 1965 changes in the social security law, monthly benefits are payable with the following number of quarters: Men 76 or more and women 73 or more need three quarters; men 75 or more and women 72 or more need four quarters; and men 74 or more and women 71 or more need five quarters.

A widow 72 or older may also get benefits on a deceased husband's earnings if he had three, four or five quarters—the number depending upon his date of death or age and upon her age.

Any person 72 or older who would like to check his eligibility should contact his social security office, said Kittelson. A representative will be glad to help him apply. This application will also make him eligible for hospital insurance benefits starting in July 1966.

"It is good for one to appreciate that life is now. Whatever it offers, little or much, life is now—this day—this hour—and is probably the only experience of the kind one is to have. As the doctor said to the woman who complained that she did not like the night air: "Madam, during certain hours of the twenty-four, night air is the only air there is." —Charles Macomb Flandrau

Racin' Inflation

Another inflationary spiral is in the making with a House labor sub-committee approval of a bill to increase the minimum wage to $1.75 per hour by 1968 and to expand coverage to 6.1 million more workers, including 700,000 farm workers. Present minimum is $1.25 per hour.

This goes even beyond the administration's recommendations—which are usually extensive enough in themselves. President Johnson had requested that an additional 4.6 million workers be covered by the minimum wage law but made no recommendation for an increase in the present minimum wage. His proposal that double pay be required for overtime work on the theory that it would spread employment was rejected by the commitee.

In all its fuss and worry about the laborer and the unemployed, Congress and the administration may be ignoring the problems of the employer and the self-employed. These people are deserving of consideration also, and they are fighting a cost-price squeeze throughout the country.

If it is the prerogative of the federal government to dictate to an employer how much he must pay for hired labor, should not the employer have some protection as to the production this labor will produce in an hour? Government decree of what a person shall produce and how much he shall be paid for that production is, however, socialism pure and simple. At present, labor is being socialized and management is being victimized.

We can see the plight of farmers, operating under strict government controls on production and price, when they would be forced to pay $1.75 per hour for unskilled labor. The trend to operation of greater acreage to spread production costs certainly requires hired labor in many cases—at least during the busiest parts of the year.

The House labor subcommittee is making a move to further devaluate the U.S. dollar, adding to the inflationary spiral which, like a swirling tornado, will destroy anything in its path. But try to tell your problems to a vote-hungry bureaucrat.

Had Enough Freedom?

"Why did men, women and children eke out their meager existence for 6,000 years, toiling desperately from dawn to dark—barefoot, half-naked, unwashed, unshaved, uncombed, with lousy hair, mangy skins, and rotting teeth -

"Then suddenly—in one place on Earth there is an abundance of such things as rayon underwear, nylon hose, shower baths, safety razors, ice cream cones, lipstick, and permanent waves"

This is the question, posed and answered by the late Henry Grady Weaver in his history of freedom and how NOT to lose it, "The Mainspring of Human Progress." Published originally in 1947, rights to the book passed, on the author's death, to the Foundation for Economic Education which is republishing it now in a critical moment of our own history when this nation teeters between freedom and socialism. The now paperbacked edition, now in bookstores, sells at the lowest price ever (95 cents), and President Leonard E. Read of FEE is urging patriots to keep a supply on hand for friends, associates, employees who may be tranquilized by the something-for-nothing siren songs of the "Great Society." Rather, he thinks, we should listen to his late friend, Weaver, who goes on to say:

"It is incredible, if we pause to reflect! Swiftly, in less than a hundred years, Americans have conquered the darkness of night, the weather, pain and disease - even space and time!

"...What has been responsible for this unprecedented burst of progress, which has so quickly transformed a hostile wilderness into the most prosperous and advanced country the world has ever known?

"...There is just one answer. There can be no other. We in the United States of America have made more effective use of human energy than any other people on the face of the globe anywhere or at any time."

And a reading of "Mainspring" will impress the Americans, as nothing else we have seen, that the human energy on which to continue and press forward must be our own - not the energy of the dreamers of the White House staff, the appropriators in Congress, the administrative bureaucrats—all of whom create not a thing!

The Urge To Splurge

There seems to be no problem in Washington for departments to find the funds to carry out what they believe to be desirable for themselves. Take the situation of the department of labor as reported by Comptroller General Joseph Campbell of the General Accounting office.

The department's administrative offices were moved to a new building, and $49,000 was spent on new furnishings. When it was discovered in 1963 that 80 per cent of the workers at the Employment Security Division office in Washington had new desks, someone decided that the other 20 per cent should be spared hurt feelings. As a result, everyone got new furnishings.

What about new employees? It wouldn't create the right impression for new employees to come to work at used desks, so a storeroom full of new equipment was purchased "to provide a reserve stock for a number of unfilled positions".

There was no money in the budget earmarked for this expenditure. The department simply used money budgeted for other purposes when it decided to do so.

A Little Upsetting

Some of the things a person reads about federal programs cause him to wonder how much thought goes into them. Take for instance the following article from the Chicago Tribune:

THE GIRL'S JOB CORPS Training Center at St. Petersburg, Fla., one of the operations in the "war on poverty" has been functioning only about five months, but that is enough to convince the Pinellas county school board that the venture is nothing but a wasteful headache. The board voted Wednesday to drop its 2½ million dollar contract to run the training school as soon as it can shed the job.

Members of the board agreed with St. Petersburg residents that the federal finishing school for 300 girl dropouts whose costs for each student exceed tuition and board for a student at Radcliffe college, has been a conspicuous example of waste and has burdened the city with problems.

The trainees were recruited from slums and shanty towns thruout the nation. Just the other day Republican critics in the House stirred up a commotion by implying that some of the girls at the St. Petersburg center were "conducting some business frowned upon in the war on poverty." Rep. Albert Quie of Minnesota said he had been informed that two girls had been expelled for "engaging in the oldest profession."

The St. Petersburg school is housed in the Hunting hotel, once a luxury winter vacation spot, in a neighborhood of high class residences, hotels and apartments buildings.

The center is one of three intended to offer instruction to 875 girl dropouts in useful vocations. The Los Angeles experiment is conducted in a 18-story hotel with a swimming pool, snack bar, juke box and social programs. The Cleveland center is a sixstory university dormitory.

The estimated cost of keeping a girl in these surroundings and providing fringe benefits is $730 a month. Housing, food, clothing, travel, and one paid round trip home during the year to the recruit's family account for $560 a month. A $30 a month allowance is provided, and an additional "service" allowance of $50 a month is to be paid upon completion of the training term.

We have remarked that programs in luxury surroundings are more likely to encourage dropouts from public schools than to deter them, for why hit the textbook when it is possible to go to a resort hotel and get paid for it?

Nothing Is Free

Numbers of people, apparently, believe the government gets its money out of thin air or from some mysterious source that has little to do with themselves.

This, basically, was the thought of Congressman Lipscomb of California when he said: "It should come as no surprise to anyone that the money the federal government spends must ultimately come from the people, though all too often it seems that this fact is overlooked or ignored."

One reason for this is that except for income and property levies, most of the taxes we pay are hidden. Everything we buy, from an article so small as a loaf of bread to one so large as an automobile, carries a multitude of taxes levied at the raw material, manufacturing, processing, transporting, retailing and other levels. And those taxes, like all the other costs that enter in to the production of goods and services, must be paid by the consumer.

These are truisms that should be known to every schoolchild. But they tend to become lost in the face of the widespread belief that government "gives" us things. The truth is that government can "give" nothing. It can only take the money from the people, now or on some future date, to pay the costs—and, it tacks on handsome sums to cover the administrative and bureaucratic overhead.

Nothing material in this world is free—government least of all.

Appearing in newspapers of the Minnesota Editorial Association through the cooperation of the U.S. Soil Conservation Service and the University of Minnesota Institute of Agriculture

Veteran tillers of the soil can crumble a handful of that good earth and deliver a sound opinion on whether it has "good tilth." Some say it depends on organic matter. Others may say something about the amount of silt or clay present.

What is good soil structure? A U. S. Department of Agriculture soil biochemist at the University of Minnesota and his colleagues are trying to find out.

C. E. Clapp is using a variety of research approaches. One is use of the so-called "chemical hammer" technique, developed by W. W. Emerson, which breaks out some of the component parts of the soil for study. Another is to start with pure clay and other substances and literally build a soil, you might say, from the ground up.

The research has already turned up some clues, such as partial answers to why soils under grasses have better structure than soils under continuous cultivation.

One factor, Clapp has learned, may be that soils under grasslands contain special humic substances—components of decomposed organic matter, which bind soil crumbs together in stable form.

Cultivated soils, on the other hand, seem to be held together mainly by inorganic positively-charged particles such as calcium, magnesium, iron and aluminum.

Different binding agents may do the work for different soils. Research must go a long way to understand all, or even a major share of them to the point where we can deal with these substances in field tillage.

Soil structure, Clapp points out, usually refers to arrangement of soil particles. The conservation question is, what happens when you rearrange these particles, as in tillage? What happens in winter freeze-up, and in spring thaw?

There are various theories of soil structure. The chemists' view emphasizes finding substances (polysaccharides)—long - chain polymers that are synthesized micro-organisms.

Polymers are giant molecules made up of hundreds or thousands of atoms linked together. Simple sugars, linked together, form polysaccharides such as starch and cellulose. A soil crumb then is sand, clay and the polymer that binds it all together.

A soil physicist, however, might look at soil structure formation in terms of physical forces. Water is removed, shrinkage occurs, and tight forces or binds may be set up through what are known as Von der Waal's forces which hold atoms and molecules together.

Whatever the important binding forces, most soil scientists try to distinguish between two phases—formation of a soil crumb and stabilization of it. The first is largely due to physical forces, such as thawing, freezing or other mechanical processes.

Stabilization results in part from dehydration, shrinking, swelling and cracking. Water concentrates near the root surface, and micro-organisms are attracted to the root surface where water is. These then produce the binding substances that hold the soil together.

The "chemical hammer" technique is a treatment for removing humic substances from soils for identification. One is ordinary table salt (sodium chloride) for dissolving organic complexes. Another is sodium periodate, a chemical that acts like a pair of scissors in cutting up polysaccharides.

This technique led to identification of the substances that may be a key to the structure of various grassland soils.

There are some physical "hammer" techniques, too. Some bonds among soil particles, Clapp says, can be broken with ultrasonic sound waves. He is using this system to study clay particles.

The hammer system is for studying a soil as found in the field. But Clapp is also trying the other approach—starting with purified materials and synthesizing the soil to see how binding agents are created and work.

He has some purified clay from a mine in Wyoming, the same kind of clay found in most Minnesota soils. It has been freeze-dried, and characterized by X-ray diffraction and infrared spectroscopy.

Then, Clapp puts his synthetic soil together. With clay, he can put in, say, five per cent organic material with a known, pure form, to study how the organic material attaches to the clay. What are the bonds, and how tight are they?

If researchers are successful in finding out how soil crumbs are held together, they will have valuing tilth, tillage, erosion control and general soil management.

Many a community has done what seemed like a magnificent job of land use planning—and failed because it forgot the people. But today, communities are becoming aware of the fact that streets and highways, buildings, water and sewer systems and other physical improvements can't be treated apart from the human environment.

These points were brouht out by C. David Locks, director of the Metropolitan Planning commission in Minneapolis and St. Paul, in a land use planning seminar for agricultural extension agents at the University of Minnesota.

Comprehensive land use planning, says Locks, must take into account the functional interaction between the physical and human environment. Physical planning is not a strait jacket for the community, but is an expression of policies which people want to pursue.

A physical environment, he says, occurs only within a social and economic environment — and it's amazing how often we slide over the fact in planning.

For about 50 years, he continues, cities were planned as cities, only later to be seen as part of a larger piece.

A comprehensive plan used to be thought of as an engineering document — providing for parks, public facilities, services and the physical beauty of an area. But today, he says, planners are shifting to thinking about the community in terms of functional things which are changing rapidly, and we can't say today definitely what the environment should be in years to come.

Rather than focus on the physical environment, he states, planners need to express some of the broad relationships of physical things to policies growing out to a study of the overall social and economic environment. Generally, this ranges from short-term to long-term responses. Planning, thus, is a continuous process, says Locks.

People in a community must base it on a series of questions: What resources do we have? How did we get them? What changes are likely in the future? What do we want to do about it? How do we want to go about it.

In answering such questions, he says, people of a community must consider its values, goals, policies for aproaching the consumation of goals and various forms of implementation.

Any physical environment, he concludes, is simply a mirror of the society which creates it. You can tell a good deal about the society by looking at buildings, roads, and other physical things. And the way to approach changes in the physical environment is through looking at the social and economic environment first.

Yard'n'Garden
University of Minnesota Agricultural Extension Service

A fall garden can be planted in the area where early spring-planted vegetables have been removed. Some of the cool-season vegetables that can be put in now are radishes, lettuce, spinach, turnips, kohlrabi and Chinese cabbage. If weather conditions are favorable, even peas may be planted now for a fall crop.

Prepare the soil just as you would early in the spring. Apply a complete fertilizer to the area at the rate of two pounds per 100 square feet of space.

If possible, plant after a rain to assure better germination of seeds. Generally a light mulch of grass clippings or straw over the rows will help keep the soil moist and prevent baking.

Spray or dust the rows for control of both soil insects and chewing insects. Flea beetles are often troublesome to late plantings as the seedlings emerge.

Many of the new varieties are more tolerant of heat than older ones. Red Boy radish is especially good for sumer planting. Summer Bibb and Buttercrunch lettuce are good varieites for warm weather as well as cool conditions in spring and fall.

Pruning Raspberries

In many backyard gardens we often observe the typical raspberry "patch" where the plants have been allowed to grow into a dense tangle of old and new canes. Not only are the berries difficult to pick from such patches, but they are generally small, crumbly and of poor quality. For best quality raspberries, the planting must be pruned properly.

When harvest is completed in August, it's time to prune raspberries. First, remove the old canes that have borne fruit. The next step is to thin out some of the new canes that have come up since spring. Usually there are many more than necessary for good fruit production. The number to be left depends on the training system you wish to follow.

If you use the hedgerow system, thin out the canes so you have 3 or 4 per foot of row. If you grow the plants in hills, thin out the canes, leaving only 6 to 9 strong, unbranched, tall canes.

Cutting back the canes to the desirable height can be delayed until next spring when growth starts. Usually the height can be as high as the type of support. In hedgerows where a support is used, the canes are usually cut to a height of 3½ feet.

In everbearing varieties like Durham and September, a fall crop of fruit could develop on the new canes. Cut out the old fruiting canes now but delay thinning down the new canes until early next spring.

Gardens to Visit

The vacation season can be a special pleasure if you visit a horticultural garden this summer. There's much to be learned concerning both the culture and identification of plant materials. If you plan to do landscaping in the fall or next spring, this summer is a good time to become acquainted with new plants.

The Minnesota Landscape Arboretum on highway 5 near Excelsior affords a good opportunity to see trees and shrubs growing under landscape conditions. At the arboretum you will be able to stroll among labeled plantings of hundreds of varieties of plant materials. A tour guide is available at the arboretum to assist you. It's possible to drive through the arboretum by car.

The Lake Harriet Rose gardens are of special interest to the rose fancier. These are located in south Minneapolis near Lake Harriet. Here you will find roses of all types and kinds including the hybrid tea, floribundas, grandifloras, ramblers and climbers, as well as many shrub roses.

The Como Park conservatory in Como Park, St. Paul is of special interest to the gardener interested in conservatory plants, landscape plantings and tropical plants. A trip to the conservatory can be a highlight of a visit to the Twin City area.

Another popular rose garden is at the Capitol approach in St. Paul. Here you will find all of your favorite roses labeled for easy identification. Summer is a good time to visit these fine rose gardens.

How's Your Health?

(Prepared in the public interest by the Minnesota Medical Ass'n)

One in every eight persons will become a hospital patient this year, observes the Minnesota State Medical association. If you should suddenly find yourself among this number, you should be aware that there are a number of factors which a doctor may consider before making the final decision to send a patient to the hospital.

The patient may be sent to the hospital for the obvious reason of having surgery performed. Terminal illness may be another reason. When a doctor orders a patient hospital it is in his or her best interest. Sometimes the doctor may send the patient to the hospital as a preventive measure. For instance, a heart attack may be suspected. By having the patient under close observation the doctor can rule out or confirm his diagnosis. By admitting the patient to the hospital under such circumstances the doctor can also prevent the patient from harming himself, by restricting activity which could further aggravate the condition.

Usually, the doctor will be frank in his discussion with his patient regarding the reasons for recommending a hospital stay. Most doctors will also prefer to discuss with the patient the risk involved in performing a medical or surgical procedure. Sometimes it is also necessary for the doctor to impress upon a reluctant patient the danger of postponing recommended treatment.

The cost of a hospital stay should be discussed in advance with the doctor whenever possible. The patient should be free to ask the doctor what his fees will be for the prescribed medical or surgical procedure. Normally the doctor will not only tell the patient what his customary fees will be but he will also be able to inform the patient about hospital charges. A frank discussion of medical and hospital insurance coverage will often clarify to the patient the extent of coverage and the amount he will be expected to pay additionally.

Children who have ben well prepared and well oriented in what to expect from a stay in the hospital have a shorter recovery period than those who come into a hospital filled with fear. Children at a very early age comprehend and want to know what is going on. Parents can do these children a very great favor by explaining in advance what is about to occur. Frequently the doctor can be helpful to the parents in making such explanations.

When all parties concered have all the facts about a hospital stay clearly explained there should be little reason for unnecessary worry, concludes the association.

Homemakers, set aside your feather dusters, your dust mops, unplug your vacuum cleaners and listen to the tale of woe about another hazard of your profession—house dust allergy.

An allergy, explains the Minnesota State Medical association, is a person's abnormal reaction to certain substances to which he has become sensitized or unusually susceptible. Household dust is one of the common offenders frequently overlooked. To the homemaker, dust is just dirt. To the allergist it represents an allergen peculiar unto itself.

While house dust is a mixture of particles including lint from draperies and curtains, stuffing from pillows and mattresses and bedding, nap from carpets and rugs, fuzz from clothing, street dirt, coal soot and ashes—it does contain a definite allergen. The chief source of allergenic house dust is furniture and bedding. While no one knows the exact nature of this dust allergen, it is thought and it represents a deterioration product of feathers, cotton, and kapok, due to aging. While mold alone is not responsible, it is usually considered a factor.

The most effective way to prevent the suffering and the discomforts of house dust sensitivity is to discover the responsible allergens and avoid contact with them. Since it has been estimated that on the average a person spends about one third of his life in bed, the obvious step to take is to contain or remove the dust catchers from the bedroom area. Walls must be cleaned, rugs and drapes removed and closets emptied of common dust collectors. Pillows and mattresses must be encased with air tight covers. Sometimes it may even be advisable to reupholster dusty overstuffed furniture.

Although these suggestions will not cure the condition they will often provide considerable relief. Because it is impossible for a person to remain indoors under ideal conditions, it may sometimes be advisable for the person who is allergic to houshold dust to raise his toleration by immunizing injections with dust extract. This is similar to pollen injections given to hay fever sufferers.

In recent years the development of synthetic fibers and fabrics, and the designing of modern heating and air conditioning systems have contributed immeasurably to the relief of those who suffer from household dust allergens.

The allergy sufferer can ordinarily benefit by following his doctor's orders regarding the form of treatment. In addition, he should always be alert to those substances to which he is sensitive and make every effort to avoid them, concludes the association.

Most parents have great expectations of their children, observes the Minnesota State Medical Association. However, all too often parents expect achievements of their children "right now". The parents who expects a little leaguer to become a big leaguer overnight may be charting a dangerous course for the child. The child who with his innocent chatter, discloses family secrets may embarrass his parents because he does not conform to the adult pattern of social graces. It takes time for the child to attain academic and social perfection.

Nor is it always wise for the parent to plan a particular course of study or training for a child without first determining that the child has a desire or the aptitude to warrant it. Some parents constantly push their children. The result—the children will procrastinate or daydream.

Breaking of family ties is one of the important steps in growing up for the adolescent. While this step is essential to the adolescent in his preparation for adulthood, not all parents understand this nor are they prepared to cope with the situation when it arises. Parents will often worry if the adolescent displays a certain amount of independence. Ordinarily there is nothing wrong with the adolescent who rebels when his parents constantly make decisions for him. This is only his natural desire to develop and emerge as an individual personality. Only when these decisions infringe upon the rights of others should there be any real effort to curb them. Parents must also be prepared for the time when the adolescent enters the stage of transferring loving ties from family members to members of the opposite sex. This takes time and often severely taxes the parents' patients, but this is a "must" in preparation for the day when they must let the children go. The transition will usually be relatively smooth if parents of teenagers will let them take over gradually. Children can be expected to ask questions about their behavior. They want to know "the limits". Parents should provide the opportunity for them to ask the questions and then be prepared to tell then where the limits are.

Parents can usually trust their teenagers to carry on exactly as they have been taught. The parents who limit their children when their activities infringe on the rights of other people will find that they expect and want these limits. The teenager needn't always agree with the parents' point of view, but he should always respect it.

How can a teenager become a person? By working at it, concludes the Minnesota State Medical Association.

QUESTIONS Answered for VETERANS

Q—Do just the facts that I have sold my home and the GI loan is paid in full make me eligible for a new GI loan?

A—No. In such cases, entitlement to another GI loan is restored only when the property:

(a) Was taken by a governmental agency for public use.

(b) Was destroyed by a natural hazard

(c) Was disposed of for compelling reasons, such as health, employment transfer, change to a better job in another city, or other reasons considered sufficient by the VA.

Q—I am a World War II veteran with a Certificate of Eligibility for a GI loan issued several years ago. Is it still good?

A—Since eligibility of some World War II veterans has already expired, based on their length of service, you should submit your certificate to the VA for review to determine your own individual date of expiration.

Q—I read recently that a veteran having a 10 per-cent dental condition could not qualify for the new insurance. Is this correct?

A—No. If the dental or oral condition is compensable, it would be accepted, to qualify you for the new GI insurance, if you are otherwise eligible.

Q—If a veteran is eligible for the new GI insurance, does he have to take the full $10,000 coverage?

A—No. A veteran may take as little as $1,000 worth of coverage and on up, usually in $500 steps, until the maximum of $10,000 is reached. An eligible veteran with no GI insurance at all may take as much as $10,000; others merely enough to bring their total GI insurance holding to $10,000.

Q—I was treated in a VA hospital for a period of 21 days for Am I eligible for temporary total rating for the period of hospital treatment?

A—No. The regulations providing for this type total rating require continuous treatment in excess of 21 days. Thus, treatment must be continuous for a period of 22 days or more.

Q—When the VA is deducting from severance pay at the rate of 100 per cent disability per month is the money that is authorized for two dependents also being deducted from the severance pay?

A—Yes, if the disability rated by the VA is the same disability for which you were paid severance pay.

Three Milk Producers Issued Court Order

Three Pennington county producers of Grade A milk were served with a temporary restraining order Monday night as a result of their violation of marketing agreements with Land O'Lakes Creameries, Inc. The restraining order was issued by Judge Harley J. Swenson in Polk county district court in Crookston and served by the Pennington county sheriff's department.

Named as defendants were Darrow Lundeen and Merle Lundeen of rt. 2, Trail, and Olaf and Orlin Stolaas, a partnership, rt. 1, Oklee. A hearing will be held later this month to determine the validity of the marketing agreement these producers have with Land O'Lakes.

The producers had violated their marketing agreements by diverting Grade A milk shipments to another plant, according to information received from the Land O'Lakes office in Minneapolis. Diversion was a result of participation in the Red River Valley Milk Producers pool, a recently-organized group which is seeking to increase the price of milk for producers through guaranteed price contracts with processors.

Prior to obtaining the restraining order—which requires the producers to fulfill the terms of their marketing agreements with the marketing cooperative — Land O'Lakes gave written warning notices to the producers that they were in breach of their marketing agreements. The agreements consign all the Grade A milk produced on the farms on the three producers mentioned to Land O'Lakes Creameries, Inc.

According to Wallace Jordet, manager of the milk and ice cream department of Land O'Lakes in Thief River Falls, the three producers upon whom restraining orders were served were the only three to violate their agreements. Milk was picked up from their farms on schedule Tuesday, the date set by the RRV Milk Producers pool for diversion of all Grade A milk from its members to processors which have signed contracts with the pool. No other Grade A producers in this Land O'Lakes area attempted diversion.

TRF School Board To Meet Monday

August meeting of the Thief River Falls board of education will be held Monday at Lincoln high school. Among items for discussion on the agenda will be the Thief River Falls junior college for which a dean was just recently appointed and the job description for an administrative assistant in the local public school system.

Social Security Man Here Tuesday

Chuck Fahlberg of the Grand Forks district office of the Social Security administration will be in Thief River Falls at the city auditorium on Tuesday from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Dean Syverson

Syverson Named Field Manager

Dean Syverson, who taught vocational agriculture at Karlstad for five years and the past three years at Fosston, has been appointed field service manager for Land O'Lakes Creameries, Inc., agricultural service division. He succeeds George Hildre who is stationed with the Agency for International Development in the Philippines.

Syverson is currently living at Ulen until a house which he is building just south of the city is completed about September 1. He began work for the cooperative on July 1, serving the area east to Bemidji, south to Hendrum, west to the North Dakota border and north to the Canadian boundary.

Syverson is married and he and his wife Bonnie have two sons, Dwight 8 and Dean Jr. 5.

Newfolden Class Stages Reunion

Newfolden high school's graduating class of 1940 observed its 25th anniversary with a reunion in the Newfolden school Saturday evening, July 24. Twenty of the 29 members of the class were present for the first reunion of the group. A coffee party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Haugen preceded the banquet.

At 7 p. m. the group gathered at the Newfolden school cafeteria where the guests were registered by Irene Julin and Mrs. Robert Prickett. Lunch was served by Mrs. Ralph Stratmoen and Mrs. Thorvald Lee. Mrs. Howard Holum acted as hostess for the occasion.

At 7:30 p. m. the reunion banquet was served by a circle of the Bethlehem Lutheran church. The class colors being aqua and gold, the banquet tables were decorated with bouquets of garden flowers, aqua candles and gold nut cups and place cards.

Dr. Raymond Anderson of River Falls, Wis., acted as master of ceremonies. Invocation was delivered by Rev. Kenneth Jacobson of Plainview, Neb. Mrs. Lester Elseth of Newfolden delivered the welcoming address. Committee in charge of arrangements — Senora Elseth, Avis Holum, Irene Julin, Violet Lee and Maxine Prickett— were presented with corsages by class members as tokens of appreciation.

A trio consisting of Doris Mae Gloude, Thelma Anderson and Eunice Sahlberg sang "The Halls of Ivy". Brief talks were given by E. W. Solyst of Kirkhoven, Miss Estelle Brenden of Roseau and Mary Tandberg of Newfolden, all former Newfolden teachers. John Halvorson, Newfolden school superintendent, spoke briefly on improvements which have taken

Junior College Dean Arrives To Direct Program

Charles E. White, dean of the junior college to open in Thief River Falls in September, arrived in this city last evening together with Dr. Phillip Helland, executive secretary of the state junior college board. They are spending the day viewing facilities, planning classroom arrangements and considering equipment needed for operation of the college.

Most applicants for enrollment have been notified of their acceptance, Dean White said, and the remainder will be notified in the immediate future. Contact will then be made to assure firm applications so that an adequate staff of instructors can be obtained prior to the beginning of classes Septmeber 20.

About half of the faculty has been hired, he said, and the remaining contracts are in the process of negotiation. It is expected that a minimum of six full-time instructors and four part-time instructors will be required to handle the first-year enrollemet which is currently listed at 170 students.

Dean White noted that he will now be located here on a permanent basis and that prospective students, parents or other persons with questions on the junior college may contact him at the school after preliminary arrangements are made this week. The college will offer basically a liberal arts transfer program of English, social science, political science mathematics, physics, chemistry, physical education, art and related subjects.

Elect Members of ASC Committee In Marshall Co.

Farmers recently elected to serve on the Marshall county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation county committee and their terms of service Marcel Dahl, Eagle Point township, chairman, three years; Francis Haack, Valley township, vice chairman, two years; Arthur Vanslckle, McCrea township, regular member, one year; Hans Anderson, Nelson Park township, first alternate; and Ivan Lindstrom, Wright township, second alternate. The election was held at a county convention by delegates elected at recent ASC throughout the county.

Chairman Dahl stated that the ASC community committee elections are in charge of local administration of such national farm programs as the agricultural conservation program, feed grain program, voluntary wheat program, acreage allotments and marketing quotas, the national wool program, sugar program, commodity price-support loans and storage facility loans.

The ASC county office at Warren is headquarters for the county committee, and serves as the farmer's local contact for business connected with participation in the programs administered by the committees. These programs encourage conservation and increase farm returns by means of price supports and market supply management as well as by payments.

Occupational Therapy Students Study Here

PASTOR of St. John Lutheran church in Thief River Falls from 1907 to 1919, Rev. Fred J. Seltz of Pequot Lakes and St. Paul will be a special guest at the 70th anniversary festival of the congregation on Sunday, August 22. Rev. Seltz married the former Mathilda Jonas of Thief River Falls, and the former church-parsonage burned while they were residing in it. Under Rev. Seltz' pastorate the former St. John church was erected on St. Paul av. S. Further information on the 70th anniversary of the congregation will be carried in later editions of the Times.

Four-Week Course Part of Training In Duluth Class

Two students in a six-month course to train occupational therapy assistants arrived in Thief River Falls this week to begin four weeks of practical training in the rehabilitation union of Northwestern hospital. Sister Maribeth, OSB, Duluth, and Miss Beverly LaBranche, Minneapolis, are both enrolled in the Occupational Therapy Assistant Training school at Duluth.

The four - week affiliation at Northwestern hospital is directed by Arthur Heinze, occupational therapist at the hospital. It is designed to provide the students with practical experience in use of OT aids and handling patients, as well as program planning and conducting of activities.

Sister Maribeth and Miss LaBranche are the first two students to take the training a Northwestern hospital. Upon the completion of their stay here, two additional students from the same class will arrive to begin a similar four-week program. The class will be certified as OT assistants following completion of the course and passing a final test about two months from now.

The class is operated under the Duluth board of education through the federal Manpower Development Training act. Three previous classes have been graduated and the demand for such graduates exceeds the supply. Miss Mary Quick, who has been employed as an OT assistant at Northwestern hospital since October of 1964 was a graduate of the second class under the program.

In addition to Thief River Falls, other affiliation programs for class members are offered at Hibbing General hospital, St. Mary's, St. Luke's and St. Anne's hospitals in Duluth. Students also spent one week working with handicapped children at a camp operated by the Duluth Rehabilitation center.

Among the activities provided the students to gain experience here will be their assistance in starting an activities program at Oakland Park nursing home. Mrs. Lewie Owen conducts the program at Oakland Park each Tuesday and Friday with Heinze meeting regularly with personnel at the home on a consultation basis.

An outline of supervised work which the students should receive while here has been provided by the Duluth board of education. This calls for ". . . practical experience in and understanding of the role of the occupational therapy assistant in nursing home and general hospital.

Middle River '55 Class Is Reunited

Middle River high school class of 1955 held its 10th anniversary reunion and dinner July 31, in the high school. The building was decorated with the school colors, pink and white and silver, and a bulletin [illegible] of autographs and clippings was displayed for the guests.

Seventeen of the 23 class members were present, all with their spouses except the one unmarried member, Lois Petersen of Middle River. Joe Biskup of Warroad was master of ceremonies. Invocation and benediction were given by Rev. Duane Nelson. Mrs. Earl Anderson read two humorous poems, one composed by Supt. Robert Prickett at the time of the class graduation and the other a sequel by Mrs. Floyd Peterson describing the class members 10 years later.

Each class member introduced his mate and briefed the group on his experiences since graduation. Mrs. Floyd Peterson read letters from absent class members. Recognition was given to Ronald Woyock of Milwaukee, Wis., and Janice Halvorson Murray of Fox Warren, Manitoba, for having traveled the greatest distance, and to Janice Aune Jesme and Betty Avron Zolondek who have the largest families.

Supt. Prickett reminisced about the year of the class graduation and conducted a tour of the school building. A social visit followed. Present besides the 17 class members and the superintendent were Mr. and Mrs. David Meade, Red Wing; Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Ludtke, Morgan; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Johnson and Rev. and Mrs. Duane Nelson.

Class members and mates present were Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Morrissey (Anna Rose Owikla) and Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Haugen, Coon Rapids; Mr. and Mrs. Willard Lundquist (Joanne Olson), Grand Forks, N.D.; Mr. and Mrs. Larry Peterson (Joyce Homberg), Fosston; Mr. and Mrs. Allan Murray (Janice Halvorson, Fox Warren, Manitoba; Mr. and Mrs. Don Kesley (Carol Engevik), St. Paul; Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Belto, Wadena; Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Woyock, Milwaukee, Wis.; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Zolondek (Betty Avron), Minto, N.D.; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Biskup, Warroad; and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Petersen, Lois Petersen, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Ness, Mr. and Mrs. Luvern Sortor, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Anderson (Janice Cater), Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Jesme (Janice Aune) and Wallace Anderson, all of Middle River.

Eagles Picnic Slated Sunday

Thief River Falls Eagles will hold their annual family picnic Sunday at the Connie Haugen picnic grounds near Long's bridge at Thief River Falls. Free soft drinks and ice cream will be provided by the lodge. The picnic was postponed from July 18 and all Eagles with paid-up membership are encouraged to attend the event with their families.

PICNIC PLANNED

Annual Hot Springs - Minnesota picnic will be held Sunday, August 15, at Tindolph park in Thief River Falls, according to V. C. Noper.

Must Cash Fair Premium Checks By September 1

Premium checks issued at the Pennington county fair must be cahsed by September 1, according to a reminder issued today by Jon Metusalem, secretary of the Pennington County Fair Association, Inc. All checks issued this year are marked "Void after September 1, 1965".

"We feel that this time limit affords exhibitors ample time to cash their premium checks", Metusalem said, speaking for the association board. "We must make acomplete accounting of funds to the state auditor by October 1 and the return of premium checks will facilitate the completion of this report."

Metusalem added that there is a considerable amount of paper work to be done after the fair each year, and documentation of information is required by the state. He also asked any persons having bills against the association to forward them to him so that the 1965 books can be balanced.

In behalf of the directors of the association and superintendents of the various departments, the secretary issued collective thanks to the many people who assisted in many ways toward the successfuly operation of the 1965 fair.

Twyla Bjornaraa Weds Alan Fore At Oklee

Miss Twyla Elizabeth Gayle Bjornarraa, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thorwald Bjornaraa of Grand Forks, N. D., became the bride of Arlan D. Fore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Fore of Oklee in a candlelight ceremony held recently in the Clearwater Lutheran church near Oklee.

The Rev. Herbert Larson officiated at the double ring ceremony and Mrs. Dale Carlson, Trail, provided the nuptial music. Mrs. Carlson also accompanied the aunt of the bride, Mrs. Dreng Bjornaraa of Minneapolis as she sang, "O Promise Me" and "The Lord's Prayer". Selma Bjornaraa, cousin of the birde, served as acolyte.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a floor length gown of embossed peau de sole, designed and fashioned by her mother. The gown featured a pleated bell-shaped skirt, fitted bodice and long sleeves that tapered to a point over the wrist. Adding back interest was a watteau train secured at the neckline. A crown of sequins and pearls held the veil of silk illusion and she carried a white lace covered Bible topped with red sweetheart roses, accented with lilies of the valley and streamers.

Arlene Gunderson attended the bride as her maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Judy Fore, sister of the groom and Sharon Solheim. They wore sheath dresses of ice blue crystallite with tunic styled veiled headpieces. Each carried white gladioli and green foliage.

Nieces of the bride, Jacqueline, Kim and Lynda Jayne Bjornaraa, served as flower girl and ring-bearer respectively. They wore dresses of the same material as the bride's gown, complemented with ice blue cumberbunds, sashes and matching veiled headpieces.

Attending the groom was his cousin, Bruce Brovold. Groomsmen were Bud Bjornaraa of Chetek, Wis., brother of the bride, and Bruce Moen. Ushers were James Votava, and Gary Fossum, cousins of the bride and groom, respectively. The men of the wedding party wore white dinner jackets, black trousers and blue tipped carnation boutonnieres.

The mother of the bride wore a light blue lace suit with white accessories and a corsage of red baby roses. Mrs. Fore wore a blue dress with white accessories and her corsage was of pink baby roses. Honored guests and presented with corsages of red and pink baby roses were Ingeborg Bjornarra and Mrs. Elsie Lillo, grandmothers of the bride and groom respectively.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church basement. Hostesses were Mrs. Alfred Bergh and Mrs. Torkel Gunderson. Centering the bridal table was a three-tiered wedding cake, baked and decorated by Mrs. John Nelson. The blue and white decorated cake, topped with white bells and a miniature bride and groom, was cut and served by Mrs. Selma Johnson, aunt of the bride and Mrs. Nordal Solheim. Mrs. Fossum, aunt of the groom, and Mrs. Albert Davids, Minneapolis, poured. Mrs. James Votava, cousin of the bride, registered the guests while Dianne Gunderson, Oklee, and Cherlyn Anderson, Grand Forks, N. D., served at the punch bowl.

Also served was lefse, baked by Mrs. Ingeborg Bjornarra, 86-year old grandmother of the bride. Mrs. Brenda Brovold of Duluth, cousins of the groom and Mary Cook, East Grand Forks, arranged the gifts. Waitresses were Lynnette Solheim, Fargo, N. D., Judy Rindal, Minneapolis, Sheryl Gunderson, Oklee and Thora Bjornarra, a cousin of the bride.

Guests attending were from Grand Forks and Langdon, N. D.; Eureka, Calif.; Chetek, Wis.; Minneapolis, Roseau, Karlstad, Moorhead, Thief River Falls, Mankato, Duluth, Anoka, Erskine and Clearbrook.

For the wedding trip along the North Shore and to Wisconsin, the bride chose a white ottoman-knit suit with navy accessories.

The newly-weds are both graduates of the Oklee high school. The bride is also a graduate of the Bernel hairstyling college at Grand Forks. Mr. and Mrs. Fore will make their home near Oklee where the groom is engaged in farming.

Sheldon Knutsons To Be Feted At Goodridge

Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon Knutson of Goodridge, who were married recently, will be guests of honor at a wedding reception to be held Sunday at 8 p. m. in the Telemarken Lutheran church near Goodridge.

Mrs. Knutson is the former Eloda Grover of Warroad and a former elementary teacher in the Thief River Falls public school system.

No cards have been sent and everyone is welcome to attend.

Mandt And Schneider Marriage Vows Spoken

Oak Park Lutheran church north east of Oklee was the scene of the recent marriage of Miss Carol Mandt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Mandt of Oklee and Dean Schneider, son of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Redman of Windsor, Wis.

The Rev. Herbert Larson performed the double ring ceremony and organist, Mrs. Norman Madsen, wife of the Rev. Norman Madsen, played a program of nuptial music as the guests were escorted to their seats. She also accompanied Carol Fell as she sang "Song of Ruth", "The Wedding Prayer" and "The Lord's Prayer". Acolytes were Lance Mandt, nephew of the bride and Kelly Lundeen, cousin of the bride.

Lighted candelabra and clusters of palms with orange ribbon surrounded the altar while palm leaves with orange ribbons marked the pews. Approximately 275 guests were in attendance.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of crepe chiffon styled with an empire beaded bodice with rounded neckline and the slim skirt was fashioned with the back skirt extending into a chapel length train. A pearl beaded, headpiece secured the silk illusion veil and she carried an arrangement of birds of paradise with greenery.

Attending the bride as matron of honor was her sister-in-law, Mrs. Lyle Mandt of Oklee. Bridesmaids were Erma Hammer, Lynda Knutson and Louise Dahl, all of Minneapolis. They wore identical gowns of crepe styled with green empire bodices and slim beige skirts. Their headpieces were veiled green pillbox hats and they carried floral arrangements of birds of paradise with greens.

Dressed similiar to the other attendants was the flower girl, Mari Lynn Mandt, niece of the bride. Kenneth Cleberg, nephew of the groom, served as ring-bearer.

Dale Schneider, Windsor, Wis., attended his brother as best man. Groomsmen were Garry Starlie, Buzz Tewes and Lyle Mandt, brother of the bride. Seating the guests were uncle of the groom, Harvey Cleberg of Madison, Wis., and cousin of the bride, Darrow Lundeen of Trail. The men of the wedding party wore black tuxedos and white carnation boutonnieres.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Mandt wore a beige crepe suit with matching accessories. The mother of the groom wore a lilac shirtwaist dress of dacron polyester with lace appliques surrounding the skirt. Both mothers wore corsages of yellow gladioli. Attending the wedding as honor guests were the grandmother of the bride, Mrs. Olga Lundeen and the grandfather of the groom, Mr. Henry Cleberg. Mrs. Richard Rustan served the bride as her personal attendant and Mrs. Darrow Lundeen assisted with the corsages.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was given in the church parlors by the parents of the bride with Mrs. Malcolm Stucy and Mrs. Emil Lundeen as hostesses. The six-tiered, round wedding cake, decorated with yellow rose buds, was baked and decorated by Mrs. John Nelson of Trail. Cutting and serving the cake were Mrs. Harvey Cleberg and Mrs. Maynard Mandt while Mrs. Glen Tasa and Mrs. Edwin Hammer poured. Anne Fournier and Myrna Paquin served the punch and Mrs. Robert Solheim registered the guests. Waitresses were Karen Chervestad, Carla Dorr, Mary Matthees and Kathy Borgschatz and those assisting in the kitchen were Mrs. Juel Chervestad; Mrs. Ole Hofstad, Mrs. Clarence Howard, Mrs. Orlando Chervestad, Mrs. Evelyn Prigge and Mrs. Ben Olson.

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding were from Madison and Eau Claire, Wis.; Bremerton, Wash.; Cedar Mills, Iowa; Grand Forks, N. D.; Bemidji, Minneapolis, Montevideo, Mankato, Detroit Lakes, Caledonia and surrounding towns.

The bride is a graduate of the Oklee high school and Bethany Luther college and was employed by Knox Reeves Advertising in Minneapolis. The groom, a graduate of the DeForest high school, is also a graduate of the Bethany Luther College.

Discussion Group On "Great Books" Will Start Soon

Great Books discussion group in Thief River Falls will meet September 9 at 7:30 p.m. in room 500 of Franklin junior high school. Meeting will be held from September through May on the second and fourth Thursday of each month from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m.

The group will study and discuss writings of the following authors: Confucius, Plato, Aristophanes, Aristotle, Euclid, Marcus Aurelius, Sextus Empiricus, St. Thomas Aquinas, Montaigne, Shakespeare, Locke, Hume, Milton, Nietzsche and William James. The selections vary in length from 46 pages to 314 pages.

Although this set of books is the fourth year program compiled by The Great Books foundation of the University of Chicago, all interested persons may participate whether or not they have been exposed to the first three years of the program. College courses in philosophy and literature may be helpful but are not necessary for satisfying participation in the group. An interest in reading as a hobby is most helpful and necessary.

These five recommendations for reading a Great Book provide ample material for a stimulating discussion:

1. Ideas in the book you find interesting or important.
2. Words or passages that you don't understand.
3. Passages that have multiple meanings and implications.
4. Passages that you believe will generate difference of opinion.
5. Passages whose truthfulness or appliation you would like the participants to consider in the light of their own experience.

All persons interested in reading literature that requires discussion for more complete understanding should contact the area vocational office (681-4588) to enroll and secure a set of books prior to September 9. The entire cost for the program is the cost of the books $10.50.

1-Car Accident, Vandalism Noted

A one-car accident and a case of vandalism were reported today by the Thief River Falls police department. IT TAKES a lot of souvenirs to completely cover a western straw hat, but such was the amount of loot collected by Sherry Adamson and Cathy Simon at the potlatch ceremony held at the 1965 Girl Scout Senior roundup in Idaho several weeks ago. The potlatch was an exchange of gifts designed to simulate the ancient custom of the Indians of the Pacific northwest. Each of the delegates contributed a souvenir representing her home area. For this occasion, the girls in Sherry's patrol made small Indian dolls and those in Cathy's patrol made paper dolls dressed in Scandinavian costumes. The two Thief River Falls delegates left by bus July 14 for Fargo, where they joined a special train bound for Bayview, Idaho, to attend the roundup.

Rites Held Today For RLF Resident, Alcime Juneau Sr.

Alcime Juneau Sr., 85, a lifelong resident of Terrebonne and Red Lake Falls, died Sunday evening in St. John's Hospital, Red Lake Falls. He had been in failing health for some time.

Requiem High Mass was offered for Alcime Juneau Sr., at 9 a.m. today (Wednesday) at the St. Joseph's Catholic church, Red Lake Falls. The Rev. Wm. Keefe was the celebrant and burial was made in the St. Anthony's Catholic cemetery at Terrebonne. The Peterson Funeral home was in charge of arrangements.

Alcime Juneau Sr., was born Jan. 5, 1880 at Terrebonne, rural Red Lake Falls, to the late Edward Juneau and Madeline Sauve Juneau. He married Georgianna Lafaivre on April 13, 1902 at Terrebonne. The Juneaus farmed in Gagnon township until 1909 when they moved to Terrebonne where they farmed until they retired in 1953. Since that time he has made his home in the village of Red Lake Falls.

Survivors include four sons, Alcime Juneau Jr., Plummer; John, Brooks; Edward, Duluth and Joseph of Terrebonne; three daughters, Dorothy of Red Lake Falls, Rose, Crookston, and Mrs. George (Clara) Tessier of Downey, Calif., 16 grandchildren, 12 great-grandchildren and one sister, Sister Bertha, OSB, of Duluth.

Services Held At Trinity Today For Mrs. Alan Purdy

Funeral services for Mrs. Alan C. (Donna) Purdy, 49, a Thief River Falls resident who died Sunday at her home at 333 North Maple, were held today (Wednesday) at 2 p.m. in Trinity Lutheran church. The Rev. Reuben A. Wangberg officiated and interment was in the Greenwood cemetery. Arrangements were made by Sinding's Funeral chapel.

Mrs. Purdy, the former Donna Bakke, was born Jan. 6, 1916 at Twin Valley to Ben Bakke and Hilda Bakke. As a young child, she moved with her parents to Detroit Lakes where she received her elementary and high school education. To further her musical education she attended the McPhail school of Music, Minneapolis and the Dakota Conservatory of Music at Fargo, N.D. She also attended the University of North Dakota at Grand Forks, N.D.

She came to Thief River Falls in 1935. Following her marriage to Alan C. Purdy on July 3, 1936 at Sisseton, S.D., Mr. and Mrs. Purdy lived in Breckenridge for one year before coming to Thief River Falls in 1937 to make their home. Mr. Purdy owns and operates Purdy's Shoe store in Thief River Falls and the Rand Shoe company in Grand Forks, N.D.

Mrs. Purdy was a member of Trinity Lutheran church, its Ladies Aid and Circle and a longtime member and accompanist of the Trinity choir.

Survivors include her husband, Alan; one son, Robert, one daughter, Donna Jean, a grandson and her mother, Mrs. Hilda Bakke, all of Thief River Falls.

She was preceded in death by her father.

Newfolden Class Of 1940 Stages Class Reunion

Prizes were awarded by Kenneth Elseth and James Gusa to the following class members: Carmen Stratmoen and Doris Dahl, greatest distance (Pacific Grove, Calif. and Auburn, Wash. respectively); Senora Elseth, Doris Mae Gloude and Eunice Sahlberg, each a set of twins; Kenneth Elseth and James Gusa, largest waistlines; Lowell Gustafson, most bald; Eunice Sahlberg, youngest child; and Raymond Anderson, doctor of philosophy degree.

E. W. Solyst, Newfolden high school principal in 1940, called the roll and Miss Estelle Brenden presented the brochures, which had been prepared by the committee, to the class members. A moment of silence was observed for the deceased class member, Mrs. Meredith Sweeting (Adelyn Pederson), who died Dec. 20, 1964. Closing remarks were made by Clara Jacobson. It was decided to hold another reunion in 10 years.

Former teachers attending the reunion were Supt. and Mrs. E. W. Solyst, Kirkhoven; Miss Estell Brenden, Roseau; and Mr. and Mrs. Peter Tandberg (Mary Keogh), Newfolden. Also attending were the former custodian and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Nelson, Newfolden; and the present Newfolden superintendent, Mr. and Mrs. John Halvorson.

Class members and mates who attended were Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Gloude (Doris Mae Anderson), Warren; Mr. and Mrs. Warren Becken (Eleanore Anderson), Montevideo; Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Anderson (Thelma Anderson), Stephen; Dr. and Mrs. Raymond Anderson, River Falls, Wis.; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sahlberg (Eunice Elseth), Stephen; Kenneth Elseth, Hatton, N. D.; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Holum (Avis Engelsrud), Thief River Falls; Rev. and Mrs. Kenneth Jacobson (Clara Gudim), Plainview, Neb.; and Mr. and Mrs. Rueben Nelson (Eleanore Gudim), Belmond, Ia.;

Also Mr. and Mrs. James Gusa, Princeton; Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Gustafson, Warren; Supt. and Mrs. Robert Prickett (Maxine Hjelle), Middle River; Mr. and Mrs. Thorvald Lee (Violet Holmoas), Newfolden; Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Doppler (Vivian Johnson), Minneapolis; Miss Irene Julin, Newfolden; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Stratmoen (Carmen Lokken), Pacific Grove, Calif.; Lavern A. Peterson, Viking; Mr. and Mrs. Norman Dahl (Doris Rokke), Auburn, Wash.; Mr. and Mrs. James Butt (Minerva Sherni), St. Cloud; and Mr. and Mrs. Lester Elseth (Senora Tunheim), Newfolden.

Members of the class who were unable to attend were, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Anderson, Hamden, Conn.; Peter Bauer, Detroit Lakes; Mr. and Mrs. George Ontchell (Marceline Halvorson), Bassier City, La.; Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Hams (Lucille Horlen), International Falls; Mr. and Mrs. Francis Johnson, Newfolden; Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Burnett (Lyla Kolden), Federal Way, Wash.; Mr. and Mrs. Norman Kelly (Doris Sorenson), Scappoose, Ore.; and Mr. and Mrs. Barton Olson (Elaine Wallin), Los Angeles, Calif.

NEW BUSINESS in Thief River Falls is the E&B Car Wash located on Highway 59 south. In the above photos, results of the self-service coin-operated car wash are graphically illustrated with a tanker truck from Wedul Truck Lines. Washed only once since it was purchased some time ago, the truck had accumulated a considerable coating of dirt and grime. Maynard Wedul, shown operating the high-pressure washing nozzle, said the truck was thoroughly washed and rinsed in about an hour at the car wash. A hand-washing job would take about five hours, he said. The top photo of the truck shows it entering the washing area and the bottom photo indicates its cleanliness upon leaving. The new car wash has two bays for cars and one for trucks.

Court Order Is Issued Against Milk Producers

On Friday the RRV Milk Producers pool board of directors met in an all-day session in Fargo. Part of the meeting was spent in discussions with processors who have signed agreements with the producers pool. Discussions with the processors included general procedures and mechanics of pool operations and handling of the cut-off, according to a release from the pool office in Moorhead.

The board of directors of the pool issued instructions to all its members to immediately get their milk production into a signed, cooperating plant. They stated that the pool will "fully protect all members who divert their milk production from a non-cooperating processor to a cooperating plant, including aid against any injunctions served against said members by a non-cooperating processor." The pool directors said the help would be both financial and legal for those affected members.

Land O'Lakes Creameries, which has not signed an agreement with the pool and is considered a non-cooperator by the pool, stated last week that its bylaws will not permit the marketing cooperative to guarantee a price in advance to producers. Land O'Lakes markets milk on a pool basis, returning to its members the sale price less costs of processing and distribution.

Trainees Study OT Procedures At NW Hospital

Nursing home experience should include maintenance activity programs, recreational and educational programs and special programs for regressed patients. Hospital experience is to include general programs for general medicine and continued care of patients and a program for physically disabled and rehabilitation patients.

Included in the affiliation program here is a full schedule of lectures and work experience. The students toured Oakland Park Nursing home Tuesday and today received a lecture on the process of aging by Mrs. Frances Stromberg. Lectures and craft techniques will fill Thursday's program with party menus directed by Mrs. Knutson, dietician at the hospital, being discussed Friday.

Les Vigness, hospital engineer, will speak to the students next Monday with Frank Harger, physical therapist, explaining physical therapy on Tuesday. Further programming includes a talk by Miss Lydia Dahlen, director of nurses; lecture on fractures by Harger; observation at Oakland Park; demonstration of artificial limbs; observation and assistance at Oakland Park; party for rehabilitation patients with volunteer assistants; group activity at Oakland Park; direction of Oakland Park activities; patio picnic with rehabilitation patients and Candystripers; observation at Oakland Park; and party at Oakland Park with final evaluation.

It is expected that the affiliation program here will be on a continuing basis in cooperation with the Duluth board of education. Class size in Duluth is limited to 18 students.

Public Notices

Card of Thanks

We would like to express our gratitude and appreciation to the people of Thief River Falls and surrounding communities who were so good to us while we were in Thief River. The many cards and gifts were received and we hope to write personally soon.

Also a big "thank you" to the Thief River Seventh Day Adventist church for the lovely farewell party they gave us. A special thanks to Evelyn Glass, Pat Wangsnes, Ruth Johnson, June Borgen and Mrs. Fixture for their contributions.

It was with a heavy and sad heart we left Thief River Falls. It will always be home to us. But God leads and knows our paths better than we do. Please feel free to write to us at our new home. The address is: 3842 W. Myrtle Ave. Phoenix, Arizona. Dr. and Mrs. S. E. Poolman and family. 1t64c

Card of Thanks

Our unending gratitude goes to the 40 et 8, American Legion, for their very generous nursing scholarship which brought the dream of a nursing career to completion. Without this gift, the dream might have been impossible, or at least extremely difficult, to realize. May God reward their dedicated efforts in this marvelous and necessary program, and extend also to those who were instrumental in choosing the recipient of their scholarship. We can never thank you enough. Diane (Allison) Shafer and her mother, Mrs. Flora Allison. 1t64p

Card of Thanks

We wish to thank all who came to the farewell party given for us. Special thanks to the members of Circle 1 who sponsored it, to the ones who partook in the program, and for the gifts given us. Thank you!

Mr. and Mrs. S. Thuraldson. 1t64c

Card of Thanks

My sincere thanks to Drs. Merell and Clapp, to St. Francis hospital, Crookston for their gracious services, to Father O. Toole, to my friends who sent flowers and cards and for the kindnesses shown me after returning home. Mrs. Alvin Moeller. 1t64c

Card of Thanks

I wish to thank Dr. Berg and the nurses at Northwestern hospital for their wonderful care; also those who sent cards, gifts, flowers, letters and visited me while I was in the hospital. Mrs. Myrle Mullen. 1t64c

Would like riders to Grand Forks Air Base with hours from 8 to 4:30. Call 681-1410. 2t63c

Schedule Thursday, August 12
Times vs. Torgerson Oil Co.
Union State Bank vs. Coast-to-Coast
Wilson Bros. vs. Mostue's Floral
Pharmacy vs. Argyle State Bank

Competition for the Thief River Falls trap league title took a somewhat unexpected turn Thursday Times team moved into first place in the league standings. The Times defeated Argle State bank 122 to 118 and backed into first place when Union State bank turned giant killer and shaded the league-leading Wilson Bros. 120 to 118. The Times had trailed the league-leaders through the first 12 weeks of the season.

With only two league matches remaining, Thursday and August 19, both of the contending teams will be forced to extend themselves if they hope to win the title. Wilson Bros. meets Mostue's Floral on Thursday and Argyle State bank August 19 while the Times clashes with Torgerson Oil on Thursday and Union State Bank on August 19.

In administering the second defeat which Wilson Bros. has received this season, Union State bank had two shooters with 25's—Fred Sorenson with 21-7 and John Moum with 22-5. Other scorers were Orvis Olen, 18-0; Arnie Johnson, 18-5; and Roy Landman, 20-3.

Orville Feragen's 22-5 was the top score for Wilson Bros. while Stan Wilson had 24-0; Si Schantzen, 22-0; Al Tonder, 21-1; and Roy Peterson, 22-0.

The Times had three 25's in gaining a four-bird victory over Argyle State bank. Jim Wills had a 24-2; Lewie Helfner a 24-7 and George Mostue a 23-5 while Leif Erickson had a 20-4 and Clarence Mattson a 21-2 to complete the scoring.

Ike Hoglin with 20-6 and Dan Rawertz with 19-8 had 25's for Argyle State bank while Don Kamrowski shot 19-5, Ted LaCoursiere 15-8 and Reuben Carlson, 21-0.

The all-women team, Mostue's Floral, moved into fourth place in the league standings by defeating Coast-to-Coast 120 to 118. Scoring for Mostue's were Myrt Wilson, 19-4; Carol Stenseth, 13-9; Inez Mostue, 11-10; Yvonne Hedlund, 13-8; and Pat Ball, 11-10. Coast-to-Coast scorers were Howard Hagen, 23-3; Erling Torgerson, 21-0; and Roy Jorgenson, 18-3.

Getting 25's from Tony Dorn (24-1), Red Thyren (23-3) and Floyd Ball (25 straight), the Pharmacy upset Torgerson Oil company 123 to 117. Other scorers for the Pharmacy were Stub Pahlen with 22-2 and Russ Embury with 23-1.

Sandy Wilson's 25 straight led the youthful Torgerson Oil team while Pat Fischer had 23-3, Roger Deschene posted 20-4, Steve Johnson scored 21-2 and Mark Mattson shot a 17-3.

Tryout Camp for Minnesota Twins Set Next Week

Fifth annual Minnesota Twins tryout camp will be held at Metropolitan stadium August 17 and 18, it has been announced by Twins farm director Sherry Robertson.

The camp will be open to all boys who are eligible to be signed, have been graduated from high school and have not yet reached their 23rd birthday. Sessions will begin at 9 a. m. and all candidates are to report to the press gate at the stadium by that time each day. Each boy should bring all his own equipment with him, with the exception of bats and balls.

The camp will be under the supervision of Robertson, executive vice president Joe Haynes and assistant farm director George Brophy. Scout Angelo Giuliani will be present, assisted by Bill Kane, Johnny Mauer, Omy Hahn and Mike Briscese.

On Saturday, both teams will play two games in Thief River Falls, at 2 and 6 p.m. at the fairgrounds diamond. These games will end the 1965 season. The local team currently has a record of 13 wins and two losses. The players, left to right in the front row, are Nick Drees, Gary LaValley, Mark Haugen, Brian Nelson, John Womack, John Looker and Dana Stromberg; Back row: Roger Solheim, coach; Lowell "Muckett" Collins, Eagles youth activities chairman; Terry Olson, Wayne Liden, Tom Tunberg, Tom Duke, Gary Almquist, Elwood Ehrnstrom, Aerie president; and Tony Johnson. Not pictured are Billy Olson, Rocky Wilson, Gerald Droppo, Gus Holmes and Steve Lehr. The team won the Western Border league championship earlier in the season.

City Tournament At Golf Club To Start August 29

City tournament for Thief River Falls golfers will be held August 22-29 at Thief River Golf club, according to James Wilson, tournament chairman. In addition to regular tournament play, there will be a junior tournament for all golfers up to 18 years of age.

The tournament will be conducted on a match play basis in all flights, Wilson said. League golfers who do not wish to compete in the championship flight need not qualify to enter the tournament, but will be placed according to handicap.

Qualifying rounds for the championship flight are being played this week. Other golfers who are club members but not league members must complete a qualifying round in order to enter the tournament. Matches will be played during the week of August 22 with championship matches in each flight to be played on Sunday, August 29.

James Langevin Completes Army Repair Course

Pvt. James M. Langevin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy A. Langevin of Thief River Falls, completed a 19 week single engine single rotor helicopter repair course at the Army Transportation school, Ft. Eustis, Va., August 6.

During the course Langevin was instructed in the repair of rotary wing aircraft of the reconnaissance type by inspecting, adjusting, removing and replacing helicopter assemblies and sub-assemblies.

Langevin entered the Army in December of 1964 and completed basic training at Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo. The 19-year-old soldier was graduated from Lincoln high school in 1964.

Harold Johnson, Warren, To Head Tri-Valley Group

Harold M. Johnson of Warren was recently appointed as director of the Tri-Valley Opportunity council. The council represents the counties of West Marshall, West Polk and Norman, and has been established to develop community action programs under the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Johnson has resigned his position as instructor of vocational agriculture and biology at Warren high school where he has taught for the past 16 years. He came to Warren in 1949 to instruct for the first seven years under the Veterans on the Farm training program.

He was a DFL-endorsed candidate for state representative in the last legislative election. He will assume the office of director on September 1 in the office of the council which has been established in Crookston.

The executive board of the council is comprised of 30 members, 10 from each of the three counties involved. Al Maresh of Argyle is vice chairman of the board.

August Advances Without Rainfall

With the month of August one-third over, no measurable rain has yet fallen. Neither has excessive heat been a problem, and the weather has been ideal for harvesting and vacationing alike.

More of the same is forecast for today and tomorrow. Fair to partly cloudy skies are predicted through tomorrow, with warmer temperatures today but turning cooler tonight in north portions of the state. Little temperature change is expected tomorrow. Highs today will range from 82 to 94; lows tonight from 55 to 65.

The following high and low temperatures were recorded during the past week by North Central Airlines at the municipal airport: 85 and 54 on Wednesday; 84 and 58 on Thursday; 77, 62 and a trace of rain on Friday; 78 and 57 on Saturday; 82 and 50 on Sunday; 82 and 56 on Monday; 83 and 47 on Tuesday; and a low this morning of 65.

Raymond A. Jones On Navy Carrier

Fireman Apprentice Raymond A. Jones, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Jones of Goodridge, is serving aboard the attack aircraft carrier USS Oriskany which recently departed Japan after a two-week visit.

Oriskany, is presently operating in the South China Sea as a unit of the U.S. Seventh Fleet, supplying air support for American and South Vietnamese operations in both North and South Viet Nam.

The two-week inport period in Japan was used for needed repairs on the ship and rest and relaxation for the crew after prior operations in the South China Sea.

Now Is Good Time To Seed Lawns, Rejuvenate Turf

Mid-August to mid-September is the best time in Minnesota to seed the lawn, rejuvenate an old lawn by reseeding bare spots or apply fertilizer for a thick, lush turf, according to Donald B. White, associate professor of horticulture science at the University of Minnesota.

Choice of seed should vary according to the amount of shade or sun on the lawn. For best results in sunny locations the university horticulturist recommends a mixture of 60 to 80 per cent Kentucky bluegrass and 20 to 40 per cent creeping red fescue. For shady areas use 60 to 80 per cent creeping red fescue and 20 to 40 per cent Kentucky bluegrass. For new lawns, sow at the rate of three to four pounds per 1,000 square feet.

If seeding by hand, mix the seed well and divide it into four equal lots. Sow each lot in a different direction. For sowing mechanically, divide the seed into two lots and sow in two directions perpendicular to each other. Rake the seed in lightly, leaving about 10 per cent of the seed showing. It is best to choose a calm day to plant the grass seed. The next step is to roll the seedbed lightly to firm the seed into the soil. If a water-tank roller is used, have it only a third full.

For the newly seeded area, water it two or three times a day for 15 to 20 minutes at a time. Never allow the seedbed to dry out once it has been watered. After the lawn is established, water at one-to two-week intervals, but apply at least one inch of water each time.

Fertilizer may be applied at the time of seeding or re-seeding. Use no more than two pounds of actual nitrogen per 1,000 square feet of lawn. Check the label on the bag of fertilizer to find out the percentage of nitrogen. Also be sure to follow directions on the bag to avoid damaging the lawn, White cautions. Some commercial fertilizers should be watered in to avoid burning the turf.

To be sure of even distribution of the fertilizer, divide the amount to be used in half and spread each half on the lawn in a different direction.

More information on lawn care is available in Extension Folder 105, The Home Lawn, available from county extension offices or from Bulletin Room, Institute of Agriculture, University of Minnesota, St. Paul, Minn. 55101.

Pee Wee Tourney Semi-Final Round Slated Tonight

Results of the first round of the Thief River Falls Pee Wee baseball playoffs found the favored Orioles and White Sox still in contention. Both teams were hard-pressed, however, in the battle to reach the semi-final bracket.

The White Sox topped the last-place Dodgers 11 to 8 on Monday night, while the Orioles stopped the Mets 6 to 2. Mike Hamilton led the way for the Sox, hitting two home runs and making two fine plays at shortstop. The Orioles, behind the pitching of Lee Sorenson and the hitting of Brent Olson, displayed the poise and hustle that has made them a fine ball club all season.

Other results found the Athletics downing the Cardinals 9 to 8 after trailing by three runs in the last inning. The Cardinals, behind the strong pitching of Kenny Lindquist seemed to be assured of a victory, but a two-run homer by Scott Kays with two men out gave the Athletics the win.

The Phillies defeated the Giants 15-2 in the only lopsided game thus far in the tournament on Monday night. Mark Liden on the mound and Tom Wurst behind the plate paced the Philly attack.

Action continues tonight, with the White Sox meeting the Phillies at 6 p.m. and the Orioles pairing off with the Athletics at 8 p.m. Both games are on the fairgrounds diamond. The championship game, originally scheduled for 6 p.m. Friday, has been moved back to 8 p.m. that night. This permits the women's softball league to decide its champion at 6 p.m. on the fairgrounds softball diamond.

In the women's four-team league, two teams are tied for first place. The Stealers, coached by Cindy Steen, and the TRF sports, under the steady hand of Mrs. Tony Dorn, each have 10 victories and one loss, having beaten each other once. The game promises to be a worthy climax to the season, with the heavy hitting of the Sports' Lynn Dorn and Marie Brezney pitted against the blanket defense of the Stealers.

The other two teams, the Mudhens of the hospital and the Newcomers, will play the'r regular league game on Thursday night after the Bridgeman-VFW markup game.

1965 Hunting and Trapping Seasons, Limits Announced

Details of the 1965 hunting and trapping seasons were released today by the Minnesota conservation department. Minnesota will have a 23-day pheasant season this year but the limit will be only two roosters daily and four in possession. Last year's 38-day season with a limit of three daily and six in possession resulted in hunters taking about 758,000 roosters.

Game and Fish Director Ted Shields said that the pheasant population is down substantially from last year due to heavy winter mortality last March and poor nesting conditions this spring. Generally, poor hunting may be expected in most areas this fall.

The bag limit has been reduced to help distribute the kill among as many hunters as possible. The shorter season is in recognition of the fact that hunting is apt to be extremely poor after three weeks of huning. Shields said that he number of roosers shot in the fall has little or no effect on the number of birds available for the next year's hunting seasons. He explained, "In Minnesota we have one rooster for every two or three hens during the nesting season. This is an ample supply of roosters to insure maximum reproduction."

Shields urged hunters to line up a place to hunt before the pheasant season opens. Competition for hunting areas is especially heavy on the opening weekend.

The ruffed grouse season this year will be amost exactly the same as last year. The season will run for 23 days statewide beginning October 9 with limits of three birds daily and six in possession.

Shields said the ruffed grouse breeding population has improved considerably over last year although it is still relatively low. Hunting should be better than last year but still not up to normal. He said the first good snow roosting conditions for grouse since the winter of 1956-57, eight years ago. Grouse need sufficient snow depth for under-the-snow roosting and protection from severe cold and natural enemies.

The October 9 opening should provide good hunting conditions since most leaves will have fallen and visibility should be good. A second season of 15 days beginning November 16 will be held in southeastern Minnesota in the year.

The sharptailed grouse season has been reduced to nine days and the bag limit cut to two birds daily and four in possession. Poor nesting conditions have caused reductions in this species. Only that portion of the state north of Highway 2 and east of Highway 75 will be open for sharptail hunting this year.

A 46-day trapping season on mink and muskrats will oven November 6. Trapping in muskrat houses will be allowed again this year. Raccoon and badger, which were put on the unprotected list by the 1965 Legislature, may be taken throughout the year.

The firearms deer season will open November 13 and run for nine days in the northern zone. No changes were made by the 1965 legislature in the law which allows a maximum season of nine days during the period November 1 to 21. The November 13 opening maintains the well-established policy of setting the season as late as legally possible and still provide two full weekends of hunting, Shields said. Last year the season opened November 7.

Last year Minnesota hunters set an all time record by bagging over 122,000 deer. Shields said that the state's deer herd is still large and in good condition and hunters can expect another good season this year.

Observations on adult deer, fawns and the number of deer killed by cars since spring indicate good reproduction and no need for special restrictive regulations. The deer hunting zones will be similar to last year's. Details will be available in a few weeks when a map of the zones will be furnished to the press, Shields said.

As previously announced, the special teal season will open at noon on September 11 and close at sunset on September 13. Other waterfowl seasons will not be set until late in August following receipt of federal regulations establishing the basic framework of the season length and bag limits, said Shields.

VA Loan Program In State Is Now 21 Years of Age

The GI home loan program in Minnesota came of age this summer—21 years—and is still active although its termination dates have been set, according to John R. Murphy, manager, Veterans Administration center, St. Paul. More than 122,000 home loans, totalling $1.1 billion, have been guaranteed or insured in Minnesota by the VA since 1944 when the program began.

More than 6,000 business loans and almost 3,500 farm loans have been made, with more than 8,600 direct loans going to veterans living in areas where private capital was not readily available. These direct loans totalled $78.7 million. The grand total of loans to Minnesota veterans added up to more than 140,500, with a face value of over $1¼ billion.

Murphy said that more than 65,000 of these GI loans have been repaid in full, with 98 per cent of veterans who obtained GI loans making up-to-date current or final payments. He said the VA has had to pay only 1.5 per cent of defaulted loans.

More recently a stepped up campaign to dispose of hard-to-sell repossessed homes with VA loans has resulted in the sale of more than 350 properties in the state in the last fiscal year. Murphy said that the great volume of the GI home loan program in Minnesota has resulted in a property management operation of considerable magnitude. The VA over the years has acquired more than 1,400 properties in Minnesota and more than 1,200 of these have now been sold, he said.

Murphy reminded veterans that the GI loan program is still active. Some World War II veterans will be eligible for home loans until July, 1967, and some Korean Conflict veterans will qualify for GI home loans under VA until January, 1975.

He said that currently about 5,000 GI home loans are made annually in the state, compared to 180,000 nation-wide. During the program's peak in the mid-50s up to 14,000 were made in a year.

Murphy said that in Minnesota there are still almost 71,000 GI loans outstanding, with a face value of more than $784 million.

Many Are Eligible For Insurance Under GI Program

Veterans in Minnesota are reminded that practically all service-connected disabilities may qualify them to purchase GI insurance which will remain on sale nine months more.

"As an example," Murphy said, "a veteran may have had malaria for which he drew compensation after World War II. If he remained free of malaria for a set period of time, compensation payments were discontinued, but the condition remained service-connected.

In this example, the veteran would be eligible to apply for National Service Life Insurance (NSLI) and, if he is otherwise in good health, could qualify for an attractive policy premium rate," Murphy said.

Another important requirement is that veterans have a record of military service between Oct. 7, 1940, and Jan. 1, 1957. Murphy said that the VA automatically mailed applications to veterans who receive monthly compensation payments.

"There are many thousands more who are eligible because they have already established service-connected conditions, even though they receive no compensation payments," he added. "Those are the veterans we are trying to reach."

He urged veterans who think they are elegible to purchase GI insurance under the newly-reopened program to visit, write or telephone the Contact Division of the VA Center at Fort Snelling for full information.

Seasons Are Set

There will be considerable cussin' and discussin' when hunters in the state read information on the 1965 hunting seasons. (A listing of seasons and bag limits is included in today's issue of the Times).

Of particular concern will be the abbreviated seasons and bag limits on sharptailed grouse and pheasants. Limits on both have been reduced to two daily and four in possession. Pheasant season has been reduced to 23 days—four weekends—and sharptail season will be only nine days. Season on sharptails opens October 9 and on pheasants opens October 23.

During the legislative session, there was considerable concern among sportsmen that would be no grouse season at all this year. Conservation department officials, working to convince legislators that a season should be permitted, wasted no words in emphasizing that hunting pressure has little effect on the breeding population of birds the following year.

Judging by the season as set this year, the department is attempting to prove its point by having a season but pacifying the legislators in making it short enough to severely restrict hunting pressure. It seems almost a case of saying, "We know we're right, but if it makes you feel better . . . "

Pheasant populations are apparently low due to heavy winter mortality and poor nesting conditions this spring. A release from the department notes that the smaller bag limit is to help distribute the kill among as many hunters as possible and the shorter season is in recognition of the fact " . . . that hunting is apt to be extremely poor after three weeks of hunting."

The reduced bag limit is not too difficult to take, for few hunters will try to justify their hunting expense on a meat-on-the-table basis. We have found, contrary to the stated belief of the conservation department, that pheasant hunting improves after the third week of the season. Frozen ground permits the hunter to work the heavy cover of sloughs and river bottoms where the birds seek refuge after the first several weeks of hunting. Here they are concentrated for the hunters willing to work for them.

The department also states in its release that " . . . the number of roosters shot in the fall has little or no effect on the number of birds available for the next year's hunting seasons. In Minnesota we have one rooster for every two or three hens during the nesting season. This is an ample supply of roosters to assure maximum reporduction."

We view this as another inconsistency. If the number of roosters taken by hunters makes little difference, and if the department believes that hunting will be poor after the third week, why not humor us disillusioned idiots who like to hunt in the snow and cold of a longer season. It is our belief that the conservation department is playing politics with the legislature instead of acting on its own true judgment.

Oh, well; at least we get a three-day teal season as a bonus.

Costly Security

Washington Report, a publication of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, points out that a 10 per cent combined social security tax rate, half paid by the employee and half by the employer, long has been regarded as a ceiling. This belief is based on the assumption " . . . that a higher tax would generate resistance on the part of the workers paying it, with eventual jeopardy to the whole social security system."

Under present law, the rate is scheduled to reach a minimum of 9.25 per cent in 1968—just under that 10 per cent ceiling. However, things will turn out very differently if a pending bill becomes law. Under it, the combined tax rate would rise to 11 per cent by 1973 and to 11.50 per cent by 1987. On top of that, maximum earnings subject to this tax, now fixed at $4800 a year, would be increased to the $6600 level in 1966.

How much resistance this will create on the part of workers is a matter of conjecture. But there can be no question that the much-publicized, much-applauded income and excise tax cuts will be made meaning less to millions of people. The increase in the social security tax made necessary by increased benefits will cancel them out or more.

Moreover, there is no guarantee that even the heavy increases in the pending bill would be all. It is common experience that forecasts of future spending are almost invariably too low, and that more and more revenue must be obtained.

Federal Aid, Really?

Those who at least figuratively drool over the amount of money given to the state by the federal government seem to believe that Minnesotans are really receiving a gift. It isn't quite that simple.

Official statistics now show it costs the taxpayers of Minnesota about $30 million in bookkeeping charges getting back some $200 million of the $1,850 million they pay the federal government in taxes. Net income to the state from the federal government is therefore less than 10 per cent of the total paid in federal taxes.

This may be likened to little Joynny asking Mom for $10 to buy Dad a birthday present, and then spending $9 for himself and $1 for Dad's gift. Dad would appreciate Johnny's thoughtfulness if he didn't know about the initial source of funds.

Of Milk and Markets

It is unfortunate to witness the discord which has developed between the milk producers of the area and the processors which purchase their produce. This controversy is not entirely unexpected, however, for the farmer has been shoved into a corner and must fight his way out if he hopes to continue as an independent businessman.

We are of a divided opinion in this matter, for we believe that both the producer and the processor have monumental problems. For the producer it is one of obtaining enough money for the milk he sells to feed and house his cattle and realize a return for his labor. For the processor it is one of finding enough people to purchase the processed milk in its various forms. Both are concerned with efficient operation and obtaining a sufficient amount of money from sales to remain solvent.

Principally concerned in the present issue, as we understand it, are those producers who market Grade A milk which is used in bottling. At least this is the type of milk which the Red River Valley Milk Producers pool uses in quoting a price of $5.30 per hundredweight as an asking price for milk marketed. It should be assumed, however, that not all members of the pool are Grade A producers but are interested in obtaining a higher price for their product.

It certainly does seem inequitable that farmers should receive only about one-third of the market price. Those who sell to cooperatives, however, are receiving the market price less costs of processing and distribution. If the cooperatives are operating efficiently, and we believe that those bottling Grade A milk are especially efficient, the farmer is getting the share which a cooperative organization allows. The only way in which a cooperative could realize a greater return for the producer would be to increase its sale price.

Most farmers would agree that raising the sale price is the method to take. Were this to happen, however, nothing currently existing would prevent other processors from transporting milk into this area for sale at a cheaper price. If a homemaker is offered an equal product and a higher and lower price level, which is she likely to buy? There is no question. The higher price would destroy the market and thereby defeat the purpose of the price increase.

Much as farmers object to further federal intervention, the establishment of a federal marketing order would be the only method of raising prices on an effective basis. Famers turned down such a proposed order in the area several years ago. It would mean controlled production—with quotas—but it would be possible for farmers to realize a better price for milk marketing under the quota system.

And we must add, at the risk of being spat upon, that there are dairymen who have realized a good profit from their herds with the existing prices. They have done so by checking production, keeping records, culling non-productive animals, getting best utilization of feed and keeping up to date on changes in their industry. We know of no dairymen in this area who rely on dairy alone for a living, but the most successful farmers raising dairy cattle give first consideration to their dairy operation.

If a price increase to the consumer is necessary (and possible) to provide the farmer with a fair price for his product, the consumer should not object to the raise. If a household can not pay a fair price for such a basic food as milk, our system of living needs a drastic change.

Interesting Opinions . . .

'Income in the business world is distributed on the basis of how hard and how well you work or build or plan. But when a politician passes out money the basis may be for any reason at all, including partisan advantage. No matter what the reason, however, the giving of money is a poor substitute for the earning of money. Money earned in a productive job is true business expansion. Money given away is nothing but a drain on available resources."

"Aggression begets aggression. Retreat begets retreat. We either stand, as we discovered in Europe, and hold the line at appropriate places or we don't. And if we don't and aggression succeeds, they knock on door after door and find that they open. Ultimately they come to the ultimate door where resistance becomes imperative. Then you have a holocaust. You have a major war. This is what we are trying desperately to avoid in South Viet Nam."

Borrowed Nonsense . . .

A pominent midget had died, and sorrowing friends were calling at the house. One visitor in the afternoon came downstairs after seeing the body, and was asked by the widow if he had shut the door to the room where the body lay. The visitor said no, he didn't believe he had.

"Then I better go up and shut it," said the widow. "The cat's had him downstairs three times already today."

Delinquent Taxes Of $4½ Million Collected by IRS

More than 26,000 delinquent federal tax returns were secured in 1964 by Internal Revenue enforcement personnel, George O. Lethert, district director of Internal Revenue, has announced. Total tax collected on these returns amounted to almost $4½ million.

In most cases, Lethert stated, the failure to file timely returns was due to taxpayer misunderstanding of the due dates for the returns. In some instances, representatives discovered taxpayers merely overlooked filing the required returns. There were a few cases of willful failure to file, Lethert declared, which subjected the individual taxpayers to penalities prescribed by law.

The number of highway deaths in 1964 soared to 48,000. In addition, 3,840,000 persons were injured.

Funeral Services For Joe Jensen Held Tuesday

This week we were saddened by the death of Joe Jensen who passed away at the Karlstad hospital on Friday morning. His health has been falling for some time but we all admired his patience and pleasant friendliness to all. Joe was 60 years of age being born January 27, 1905 in Grand Forks to Mr. and Mrs. Knute Jensen. The family moved to a farm east of Strandquist in 1931. He was an army veteran of World War II and a member of the American Legion. The only survivors are two brothers, Arne and Harold of Strandquist and a sister Eva, to whom we extend our sincere sympathy. The funeral to be held Tuesday afternoon August 10 at 2:00 p. m.

Mrs. Theone Brown, Mrs. Storholm and Mrs. Emil Larson all of Thief River Falls visited Mrs. Leo Kimbrough Sunday afternoon.

Hegstrom Family Reunion

Eighty relatives and friends were in attendance at Griffith Park, Buffalo on Sunday August 1 for a reunion of the Hegstrom family and to honor Grandma Hegstrom in her 84th year. Her family were all present coming from California, Washington, Illinois and Maryland, as well as Minneapolis, St. Paul, Waconia, Buffalo, Warren, and Strandquist. Those attending from Strandquist were Mr. and Mrs. Vance Lefrooth and family, Morris Lindstrom and family, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Lefrooth and Elaine, Mr. and Mrs. Dean Holmstrom and boys and Shirley Anderson. Several of the local group attended the Twins games on Friday and Saturday and needless to say saw a couple of thrillers. Between Minneapolis and Buffalo much of the tornado damage can still be seen but much is being rebuilt. It was of interest to the local people to see Shirley and Eldred Swansons new home almost complete.

Erick Renstrom received a card from his grandson, David Gustafson, who is now in California traveling with the Waldorf College Men's quartet of Forest City, Ia. Mr. Gustafson's home town is Granite Falls, Minn. The group began their itinary in Minnesota on May 31st and have covered many states, namely, Wisconsin, Kansas, Oklahoma, Nebraska, Iowa, Texas, Illinois, Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Montana and North Dakota. They will appear in the Bethesda Lutheran church at Strandquist Thursday evening August 26th at 8:00 p. m.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hansen arrived home Thursday evening from an enjoyable visit with an aunt and other relatives in Idaho and a trip into Canada. They had a terrifying experience in the Rockies when a slightly intoxicated drunk came weaving up the road. Being Bill was on the outer side of the highway he stopped to let him pass but he crashed into him just the same, bending his bumper, fender and breaking the lamp. The other driver took the last swig out of his bottle and threw it down the mountain side. He was driving his wife's car. The Hansons were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hansen of Viking but they are all safely home.

Gordon Berggren of Circle Pines and Betty Berggren of Thief River Falls spent the weekend at their parental home, Mr. and Mrs. Algot Skoglund of Holt were callers at the Gotfred Berggren home a week ago Sunday.

Mistaken Identity

Jerry Carlson and David Kasprowicz also had an unusual experience Friday night in coming home from the cities. Driving along they noticed a patrol car trailing them and wondered what possibly could be wrong. Ivan Kimbrough and Gordon Berggren who had passed them also wondered why they didn't drive faster as they sure didn't exceed any speed limit. Getting nearer to Thief River Falls Jerry's car was stopped by police and patrol men holding guns on them making them get out of their car to search it as they weren't even allowed to put their hands in their pockets for their drivers license. The car was identical to the car used by the men they were searching for so they apologized for their error and let the boys go on their way.

Mrs. Jonas Stromlund spent the week visiting at the Howard Rood home in Holt.

Mr. and Mrs. Gotfred Berggren and Betty, Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Berggren and family helped John Aune celebrate his 75th birthday at his home in Newfolden Sunday.

Sending baseball news tomorrow. No more time. Bah! Trucks.

(so they can't block your gas line!)
What does the American FINAL/FILTER really do? Automotive engineers know—they asked for it and American Oil Research developed it to stand between you and trouble. You see, all gasolines pick up tiny impurities in transit and in storage. These impurities, should they get in your gasoline tank, could clog up the fuel line filter and stop you cold. The American FINAL/FILTER filters out contaminants right at the pump nozzle. If you use your car on the job (and even if you don't) you stay out of trouble when you "fill 'er up filtered" with American, Regular or American, Super-Premium.

Langen Questions Extended Labor Coverage in U.S.

"At a time when rural America is fighting for its life," remarks Congressman Odin Langen, "it doesn't make sense to impose more burdens on the farmers and businessmen on whom it depends."

"The nation's farmer and small businessmen in rural communities have become a poular target for government short-changing," charged Langen. "This only adds to the many injustices that I have been referring to as "Bureaucracy's War on Rural America."

Langen was commenting on recent subcommittee approval of a bill to amend the Fair Labor Standards Act which would have the effect of increasing the minimum wage for presently - covered workers and adding 6.1 million to those now covered, including 700,000 farm workers.

"This would have the effect of imposing more financial strain on the farmers and businessmen," Langen continued, "and forcing them into a situation over which they have no control."

Congressman Langen pointed out that, while most other businesses can meet rising costs by increasing their prices, farmers are subject to the whims of government officials in determination of the prices they receive for their goods.

"They have no way of making up for having to pay increased wages," he said. "In the case of small businesses, they will have to raise their prices because many of them will be forced to pay higher wages to their employees."

As the proposed bill extends coverage to store that gross $250,000 a year where it used to be set at $1 million, many smaller stores in rural communities will be affected.

"The farmer will be hit from two sides," Langen remarked. "He will have to pay his workers a higher wage and, at the same time will have to pay higher prices to the business places from which he buys his merchandise."

Social Security Do's and Don't's Listed by Mgr.

If people 65 and over will observe some 'do's' and 'dont's' in contacting their social security office, they will help both themselves and the office, says Clifford Kittleson, district manager.

These 65-year-olds do need to contact a social security representative during the next few weeks:

1. People who work under social security who have never applied for benefits should apply even though they are still working in order to establish eligibility under the health insurance program.

2. People 72 or older who have social security numbers but who are not getting benefits because they hadn't worked long enough under the former law to qualify should come in. Benefits are now payable with as few as three quarters of coverage.

These 65-year-olds do not need to contact a social security representative now:

1. Social security and railroad retirement beneficiaries are already automatically under the hospital insurance program that goes into effect on July 1, 1966. They will get information in the mail later about signing up for the voluntary medical insurance program.

2. People who have never had numbers need not come in now. They should wait at least until September 1.

3. People getting old-age assistance or medical aid from welfare board need not come in. They will be contacted later.

Those who have no social security numbers or who get welfare payments should be on the lookout for later news reports about how to qualify under both the hospital and voluntary medical insurance programs.

"During these next few months social security offices will be over-crowded," said Kittelson. "We shall be able to give better service if people will come in as suggested agove."

Horticulture Day At NW School Is Set September 4

On Saturday, September 4, the annual horticulture day will be held at the Northwest school and experiment station, Crookston. Garden club members and other persons interested in horticulture are invited to attend.

The meeting and tour will begin at 10 a. m. (Daylight Saving Time) in the auditorium of the Animal Products building. B. C. Beresford, horticulturist at the Northwest experiment station, will be in charge of the program and tour. Several staff members from the department of horticultural science at the University of Minnesota will be present for the meeting and also will assist with the tour of garden plots. Visitors will tour the chrysanthemum and flower trials, the vegetable variety plots, the tree and shrub test, the lawn grass plots, the ground cover trails, potato demonstration plot, the small fruits and the experiment station's greenhouse.

Exhibits of newer varieties of fruits, vegetables and flowers will be on display. Of special interest will be the display of chrysanthemums and annual garden flowers and also the strawberry chlorosis project.

The day's program will close, shortly after 12 noon, following a tour of the plots. As the school's dining hall is closed, meals will not be available on the campus for visitors. All persons interested in gardening are invited to attend.

Red Lake Indian Fair Aug. 27-29

Red Lake Band of Chippewa Indians will stage its annual fair on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, August 27, 28 and 29, according to Dan Needham, treasurer of the tribal council. The fair will be held at Red Lake.

Friday will be entry day with entries being accepted beginning at 8 a.m. at the elementary school building. A band concert will be held from 7 to 8:30 p.m. at the fairgrounds and a pow-wow will be held at 8:30 p.m. A carnival midway will also be in operation.

Judging will begin at 9 a.m. Saturday with a softball tournament. Games for children, foot races and a softball tournament will also be held, the midway will be in operation and a pow-wow will be held at 8 p.m. Speaker for the day will be Rep. L. J. Lee of Bagley.

Sunday events will include a pow-wow dancing contest, all-reservation softball tournament, a five-mile race, coronation of the 1965 Red Lake Indian princess and a talk by Rep. Leonard Dickinson of Bemidji. The public is invited to view the exhibits, races, games and coronation program.

Beet Legislation Introduced in U.S. Congress

In a statement before the House of Representatives, Congressman Odin Langen referred to U. S. sugar beet growers as "a wonderful asset to this nation" as he joined in introducing long-awaited sugar beet legislation.

"These growers provided us with sugar during time of war when it was a strategic product," said Langen, "and they responded just a year ago when the Department of Agriculture suggested increased production because of the price situation.

"It now becomes the responsibility of the Department of Agriculture and of this Congress to at least do as well by them," he remarked.

In introducing the resolution, Langen called upon the House for the earliest possible consideration of the bill in view of their contribution and the need that exists as to the sugar beet growers of the country.

He pointed out the folly of delaying action on this bill during this session. "We must act in time to give assurance to these growers that, come another year, they are not going to be faced with a further reduction as they were this spring," said Langen.

He said the Department of Agriculture has shirked its responsibility in regard to the sugar producers of the nation. In the past, he pointed out, sugar beet legislation has always been left until the closing days of the session. "We are then in a position in which we are told 'Now you take this or nothing'. I hope that this year things will be different."

Jehovah Witness Convention Set In Bloomington

Attending a district convention of Jehovah's Witnesses to be held August 12-15 at Metropolitan stadium in Bloomington will be a number of members from the Thief River Falls congregation, according to R. H. Wetenkamp, local presiding minister.

One of the first conventions held by Jehovah's Witnesses was attended by 360 persons in Chicago, Ill., in 1893. Assembly attendance grew to 250,000 from 123 countries in 1958 in New York and 580,000 from 161 countries in 1963.

Highlight of the Minneapolis convention this year will be a public lecture entitled "World Government on the Shoulder of the Prince of Peace", delivered by Nathan H. Knoor, president of the Watchtower Bible and Tract society of New York.

Northwest School Term Will Open On October 4th

Monday, October 4, is the date set for the opening of the fall term at the Northwest School of Agriculture, Crookston. Registration will begin at 8 a. m. on that date.

Students who wish to transfer to the Northwest school for the senior high school grades of 10, 11 and 12 should write to the Northwest school for information. Through action taken by the board of regents of the University of Minnesota on March 19, the freshmen class at the Northwest school will be discontinued commencing with the fall term this coming school year.

The Northwest school offers courses in technical agriculture including field crops, animal husbandry, soils and farm management. The farm shop courses include gas and arc welding, farm mechanics, tractors, carpentry, electricity and aeronautics.

Students who desire to go on to college will find that the regular academic courses offered in high school are available at the Northwest School. In the field of science and mathematics, the following courses are offered: General science, biology, chemistry, physics, algebra, higher algebra, plane geometry and trigonometry. Courses in business training are offered also. In addition to the regular academic courses, the girls have the opportunity to take a number of home economics courses.

Dormitory rooms at the Northwest school are still available. For information and reservation of room in the dormitory, write to the Principal, Northwest School of Agriculture, Crookston, Minnesota.

AT THE CHURCHES

Evangelical Free Church
246 Kendall Ave. North
Wesley E. Johnson, Pastor

"A friendly church with a faithful message."

What is a warm welcome? Is it a hand-shake or smile? Yes, it can be these, but in a church it is also the mutual fellowship of worship. It is being apart of the worship service and not a spectator. If you do not have a regular church, we extend to you a warm welcome to worship with us.

Wednesday, August 11: 8:00 p.m. Family night. Bible study and prayer groups for the whole family. Communion service will be held for the adult class.

Saturday, August 14: 8:30 p.m. Special church board meeting.

Sunday, August 15: 9:45 a. m. Sunday school. A bible study class for you and your children. 11:00 a. m. Morning worship service. Rev. R. Dean Smith from Trinity College in Chicago will be the speaker. There will be an all church fellowship at the home of Norris Trontvet in the afternoon and evening. There will not be an evening service at the church.

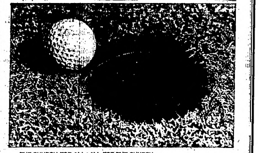
What a disappointment! You had a tremendous drive, the perfect chip shot, and a brilliant putt; then your ball stopped a hairsbreadth from the edge of the cup. The birdie you thought was yours didn't materialize.

Of course, it's only a game; it doesn't really matter. But blighted hopes are not always so trivial. What if something really big passes you by? Suppose you don't get that promotion, your son's scholarship is given to someone else, an important client changes his mind, or the stock market wipes out your investment? Where do you turn? Where do you find strength to meet life's disillusionments?

Spiritual values are constant. Fortunes may shift and change but your Church stands firm. The truths and inspiration you find there give meaning, purpose, and stability to your life.



THE CHURCH FOR ALL • ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

NW Hospital Receives 3-Year Accreditation

Northwestern hospital in Thief River Falls was awarded a full three-year accreditation Friday by the Joint Comission on Accreditation of Hospitals, according to word received by Norman Peterson, hospital administrator. The accreditation followed inspection on July 20 by Dr. J. Alston Clapp Jr., inspector for the joint commission.

Accreditation by the commission assures the community that its hospital voluntarily meets high standards of patient care, is progress-minded and constantly striving to improve its services and always has the welfare of the community at heart.

According to the commission, the certificate of accreditation is "your protection against hit-or-miss standards in your hospital. It is evidence that medical and hospital people are on guard for you assuring you that the hospital is well-run, well-organized, well-equipped and well-staffed."

The commission adds, "A hospital actually is people—the physicians, the nurses and the other personnel on the staff who serve you—and the governing board and the administrator who oversee hospital affairs. Many of these people you may never see, but nevertheless they are working behind the scenes to provide the best possible care. For the hospital is primarily a place in which people care for the sick."

The joint commission is comprised of the American College of Physicians, the American College of Surgeons, the American Hospital association and the American Medical association. The hospital accreditation program has been designed to provide a measuring stick for success of its various activities, providing carefully-designed standards for every area of activity in an average hospital.

What is unique about the commission's accreditation program is that it is entirely voluntary. There is no law or regulation that says a hospital must seek accreditation. It is a decision made voluntarily by the individual hospital, but because hospitals are conscientiously working to improve the quality of their services, more and more are seeking to earn accreditation.

A building well constructed with adequate space and facilities for every patient. An accredited hospital is safe, with maximum precautions taken against fire and explosion and with provision of emergency lighting in case of power failure. Patients are also protected against exposure to diseases of other patients.

To diagnose and effectively treat patients' illnesses the hospital has up-to-date equipment including x-ray and laboratory facilities to enable physicians and the hospital staff to perform the many kinds of tests and procedures common today.

To meet each patients individual diet needs the hospital has a dietary department, under strict supervision, in which foods are prepared under the most sanitary conditions. There is a well-stocked pharmacy directed by a registered pharmacist with facilities for storing, safeguarding, preparing and dispensing medicines for patients.

4-H Garden Show Slated August 26

Pennington county 4-H'ers will compete for five trips to the state fair in crop and garden projects, according to Paul Stelmaschuk, county agent. 4-H'ers in these projects will have a chance to view the fair and take part in an educational program.

4-H'ers will earn the trips by winning at a crops and gardens achievement day set for Thursday, August 26. Entries will be made in the courthouse meeting room from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. and judging will take place at 3 p.m. There are three trips in the garden project and two in grain. There are no trips in potato or corn projects this year.

Only 4-H'ers having blue ribbon records and who have passed their 11th birthday by Jan. 1, 1965, can take part in the state fair. This doesn't mean younger members can't take part in the achievement day, Stelmaschuk stated. It does mean that if they win, runner-up 4-H'ers will be selected with their exhibits for state fair participation.

Exhibits are to include four quarts of grain produced in 1965, except flax which is from 1964. Six different kinds of vegetables constitute a garden exhibit. The number of vegetables, the preparation of exhibits and other information on crops and gardens has been sent to 4-H'ers from the extension office.

All exhibits must be in place in the courthouse meeting room by 3 p.m., August 26. Winning exhibits will leave for the state fair early Friday.

All 4-H'ers who take part in the educational program will leave by bus from the courthouse on Sunday, August 29, 8:30 a.m. This includes 22 4-H members from Pennington and 17 from Roseau.

Pennington judging teams will leave for the state fair Wednesday, September 1, and the livestock exhibitors on Friday, September 3. The 4-H livestock will leave from the fairgrounds at 9 p.m. Thursday, September 2.

ELECTED chairman of the board and president of Northern State bank in Thief River Falls Thursday was G. A. Beito Jr. Action was taken at the regular meeting of the board of directors. He succeeds the late George A. Beito in both positions.

Heat Wave Hits Area Last Week;

Thief River Falls, along with the upper midwest in general, baked for four days last week in the first heat wave of the summer. On Wednesday, the temperature surpassed 90 degrees for the first time this year, and continued to do so each day until late Saturday, when a cooling trend brought welcome relief.

The mercury reached its peak on Friday, when a high of 97 was recorded at the airport. Temperatures rose to over 100 in the Dakotas, but high humidity in this area made the heat of the 90's extremely uncomfortable. A high of 94 was recorded Saturday, but the temperature dropped 47 degrees during the night to a low Sunday morning of 47. High recorded Sunday was only 83.

Moderately warm temperatures will continue through tomorrow, with partly cloudy skies and widely scattered showers and thunderstorms. The weather will be slightly warmer today and tonight, with little temperature change expected tomorrow. Highs today will be in the 80's; lows tonight from 55 to 65.

The following temperatures have been recorded during the past several days at the Thief River Falls municipal airport: 91 and 65 Wednesday, 90 and 62 on Thursday, 97 and 67 on Friday, 94 and 62 on Saturday, 83 and 47 on Sunday; and a low this morning of 54. No measurable precipitation has yet occurred this month.

Follett Promoted To Sales Manager

Fred Lindsay, vice president and general manager of the Detroiter mobile home plant in Red Lake Falls, was appointed to head the Detroiter factor in Daggett, Calif., last week. He was succeeded by C. C. Woodard of Crookston, who previously was sales manager of the firm.

New Sales manager of the Red Lake Falls plant is Charles Follett of Thief River Falls. He will be assisted by Richard Ellsworth of Burlington, Colo., who will make his home with his family in Red Lake Falls.

Pixie Planters To Stage Flower Show Saturday

Members of the Pixie Planters junior garden club in Thief River Falls will conduct a flower show Saturday at the Union State bank with "The Pixie Show" as the theme for the event. Only members of the club are eligible to enter, according to Mrs. Inga Geving, adult advisor to the group. Ribbons will be awarded.

According to Mrs. Geving, this will be the first junior flower show ever held in Thief River Falls. Entries will be open from 9 to 11 a.m. with judging from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. and the show open to Pixie Planters club, ranging in age from eight to 12 years. Competition on Saturday will be in gladiolas and flower arrangements The club was organized in March of this year and members are reportedly enthusiastic about their two flower plots on highway 59 west and near the Falls-Starekow clinic.

The ASC community committee chairmen, vice chairmen and regular members, become delegates to the county convention where the ASC county committee was elected. The county convention was held in the meeting room of the Pennington county courthouse August 9.

Larson Renamed Red Lake County ASCS Chairman

Robert Larson of Louisville township was reelected chairman of the Red Lake county ASC comittee at the county convention held in Red Lake Falls August 9. Walter Asselin of Lambert township was elected vice chairman and Chester T. Beyer of Wylie a regular member. First alternate named was Ralph Berg of Lambert and second alternate Leo J. Derosier of Gervais.

Larson was elected to the committee for a three-year term, Asselin for a two-year term and Beyer for a one-year term. Beginning in 1966, one member will be elected annually for a three-year term as only one term will expire. Terms of office this year will begin September 1.

Good Crop Expected as Harvest Begins in Area

Much Grain Cut; Combining To Be Normal This Week

Indications of a good harvest following several bad crop years are given by early grain receipts at area elevators, according to a random check made by the Times Saturday. All elevators in the area reported receipts of rye, barley, oats and wheat but generally agreed that the main harvest would not be general until at least the middle of this week.

Quality of grain received has been generally good in test weight and low in moisture content due to the dry conditions of the past two weeks. Yields have been somewhat reduced by low spots in fields where grain drowned out or which were too wet to seed this spring. With spring weather causing delays in seeding, it is expected by elevator managers that the harvest this fall will be an extended affair.

While farmers with grain cut would like to harvest it without rain, there is a general feeling that additional moisture in a limited amount would be of benefit to late crops. Extreme heat late last week hurt crops which were beginning to ripen but hastened the drying of grain already in the swath.

Contact with the Soo Line railroad indicated that the Soo Line expects to be able to take care of all its requirements by providing cars to elevators. The Soo has obtained a number of cars from the Canadian Pacific to help meet the demand. Most elevators surveyed noted that they did not have storage for a great deal of grain, but anticipated that farm storage should be available for much of the crop due to small harvests the past several years and a declining late market.

To the south of Thief River Falls, St. Hilaire Cooperative Elevator association reported receipts of rye, wheat, barley and oats with generally good quality. Rye has weighed from 53 to 56 pounds per bushel with yields up to 34 bushels per acre, although averaging considerably less than that figure. Early wheat has weighed 60 pounds per bushel, barley has weighed 44 to 47 pounds and been 60 per cent plump and oats has weighed 35 to 37 pounds.

At Newfolden Cooperative Elevator association the heavy run is expected the latter part of this week. Early oats has weighed 38

Gessner Sells Bee Business to Michigan Firm

George Gessner, who has operated Gessner's B-Z-Bee Apiaries at Thief River Falls since 1935, has sold his business here and is leaving today for Mission, Tex. He plans to specialize in raising queen bees in the Rio Grande valley.

Walker and Sons of Milford, Mich., have purchased the local Gessner operation which includes a large number of hives, 30 x 60 and 40 x 28 buildings located at 11th street and Atlantic avenue in Thief River Falls, and all processing equipment. Dale Cochran of Norport, Neb., has arrived in this city to direct operations.

In addition to queen rearing in Texas, Gessner said that he will supervise the increase of bees sent from Thief River Falls to Texas during the winter months. He told the Times that he expects to return here for a few months each year and that he has appreciated his association with friends neighbors and business associates.

Gessner also noted that he has sold his bee operation in North Dakota but has retained South Dakota bee interests.

TO GIVE FOOTBALL PHYSICALS TODAY

Sophomore, junior and senior boys at Lincoln high school this year who plan on playing football will be given physical examinations at 7 p.m. today. They may report to either clinic at that time, according to Bill Herzog, head football coach at the school.

Brooks To Stage Fall Festival

Fall festival at Brooks is scheduled Saturday, September 11, with a full slate of activities planned which will include a community auction, a baseball game and an evening street dance. Various games and contests for children and adults will be held throughout the day.

Mrs. Catherine Jensen and Wendy were callers at the Roman Radniecki home in Oklee on Sunday afternoon.

Junior College Secretary Talks To Lions Club

Thief River Falls Lions club met at the Elks clubroom Wednesday for their regular noon luncheon. Following the introduction of guests President Phil Kays turned the meeting over to program chairman Francis Hammerlinck.

Hammerlinck has as his guests Dr. Phillip Helland, executive secretary of the state Junior College board, and the new dean of the Thief River Falls junior college, Charles White. Dr. Helland spoke to the club about the up-coming junior college facility, explained what has taken place in regard to securing physical supplies for the new college and what needs to be done.

Dr. Helland went on to say that the college here in Thief River Falls has to a certain extent been copied from similar facilities at Fergus Falls and Wilmar. He mentioned the faculty and other staff members that will be required to run the plant, as well as commenting on the present location of the college in the local high school. situation for a college is to have separate plants, but since this is impossible at the present time they will operate from the high school location, using the high school facilities whenever they are available.

At the present time enrollment applications have ben reported at 180, but Helland mentioned that a 20 to 25 per cent drop in this preliminary application figure is not uncommon. This is because a student can enroll at several school. He said he expected somewhere in the neighborhood of 130 first year students.

Dr. Helland said that the state Junior college board will be asking the '67 session of the legislature

Pennington ASC Officers Elected At Convention

Farmers recently elected to serve as the Pennington County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) county committee and their terms of service are Winton Knutson, Numedal township, chairman, eight years; Oscar J. Honske, Wyandott township, vice chairman, 13 years; and Clifford Vad, Highlanding township, regular member, eight years.

Election was held at a county convention by delegates elected at recent ASC community committee elections throughout the county.

Chairman Knutson points out that the ASC county and community farmer-committees are in charge of local administration of such national farm programs as the Agricultural Conservation program, feed grain program, voluntary wheat program, acreage allotments and marketing quotas, national wool program, sugar program, commodity price-support loans and storage facility loans.

The ASC county office at Thief River Falls is headquarters for the county committee and serves as the farmers' local contact for business connected with participation in the programs administered by the committees. These programs encourage conservation and increase farm returns by means of price supports and market supply-management as well as by payments.

Vernon Arvesons, Oklee, Feted On 25th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Arveson of Oklee were honor guests at the Nazareth Lutheran church dining hall at Trail Sunday, July 25, when open house was held to celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary. Hosting the event were their son, Loren, at home, and their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford (Shirley) Swanson of Thief River Falls.

With them for the occasion were their attendants of their wedding 25 years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Hanson of Thief River Falls. The two couples were presented with corsages and boutonnieres as were Mr. and Mrs. Ed Arveson of Trail, parents of Mr. Arveson, and Mrs. Julia Hanson of Thief River Falls, mother of Mrs. Arveson.

The Rev. Herbert Larson of Oklee was in charge of the devotions preceding the reception. Highlighting the serving table at the reception was a three-tiered anniversary cake baked and decorated by Mrs. John Nelson of Trail. The cake, topped with silver bells and trimmed with pink roses and silver leaves, was cut and served by sisters-in-law of Mrs. Arveson, Mrs. Herman Hanson of Thief River Falls and Mrs. Gunder Hanson of Perham. Mrs. Arthur Brown and Mrs. Goodwin Hanson, both of Thief River Falls and sister and sister-in-law, respectively, of Mrs. Arveson, poured. A sister-in-law of Mr. Arveson, Mrs. Clifford Arveson of Trail registered the guests.

Reception Given In Iowa For W. Langstraats

Wedding reception was held recently in the Municipal Auditorium at Orange City, Ia., in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Langstraat of Minneapolis who were married July 3rd in Thief River Falls. Mrs. Langstraat is the former Katherine Hruby, daughter of Mr. and Mr Lewis B. Hruby of this city and Mr. Langstraat is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Langstraat of Boyden, Ia.

A short program was given with Ben Koerselman of Hull, Ia., in charge. Included in the program was the playing of the recording made at the wedding and the screen showing of the wedding pictures by an uncle of the groom, Pet Langstraat of Orange City, Ia.

A two-course luncheon followed with a cousin of the groom, Mrs. Ed Horskamp of Sioux Center, Ia., as dining room hostess. Catered by Mrs. Bernard Mouw of Sheldon, Ia., the luncheon was served by four cousins of the groom, Linda Boone of Sheldon, Ia., Beth Langstraat of Sibley, Ia., and Sandi Mouw and Karen Langstraat, both of Orange City, Ia. Mrs. Eugene Vande Brake, Maurice, Ia., and Mrs. John Langstraat, Sibley, Ia., poured and Miss Jolene Vande Brake, cousin of the groom, registered the guests. Punch was served by a sister and brother of the groom, Ruth and Dennis Langstraat while another brother, Roger, received the gifts. Mrs. Ron Zylstra, of Orange City, a cousin of the groom, arranged and displayed the gifts.

The bride's chosen colors of pink and white were carried out in corsages, bouquets and decorations.

Norman Strands Feted Recently In Massachusetts

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Strand, Debrah and Timothy returned recently from a two-week vacation trip to Cap Cod, New Bedford, Hyannis Port and Plymouth Rock, Mass. Since this was the first trip back to the East in a number of years, the Strands were feted at several parties by relatives and friends. At a party given by the sisters of Mrs. Strand, approximately 250 guests were in attendance. Gifts were presented to the honored family following the serving of a buffet luncheon. Guests attending the party were from Boston, Fall River, East Plymouth and Dartmouth, Mass., and New York, N.Y.

While visiting at Cap Cod, Mass., Miss Debrah Strand was guest of honor at a surprise party with approximately 60 guests in attendance. Following a buffet luncheon, the honored guest opened her many lovely gifts. Included among the gifts was a typewriter.

Music at the parties was furnished by The Darr'ils, nephews of Mrs. Strand. This group of boys appeared a couple of years ago in Thief River Falls.

The Rev. and Mrs. Russell Kensinger and daughter, Linda Dee, missionaries to Guatemala, Central America visited recently with the Rev. Kensinger's aunt, Mrs. Ella Kennedy at her home at 401 Arnold Avenue North. The Rev. Kensinger is the brother of David Kensinger, missionary to Costa Rica.

Mrs. G. Hamre Marked Birthday On Fri., Aug. 13

For Mrs. Gladys Hamre of this city, Friday the 13th didn't prove to be a day of ill-omen. That day, she not only celebrated her birthday but also the arrival of her 13th grandchild born a few hours earlier. The grandchild is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Moe of Goodridge.

To help her celebrate her birthday, throughout the afternoon and evening, friends and relatives assembled at her home at 605 Red Lake Boulevard. They were Raymond Moe and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Aandal, Gary, Judy, Doni and Denny, all of Goodridge, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bendickson, Karen and Tommy, Mrs. Henry Storhaug, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Hamre Perry and Peggy; Carrie Larson, Karen Svendsgaard, Jerry Hamre, Mr. and Mrs. Leighton Hamre, Lorrie and Kevin; Jody and Kevin Ranum and Robin Harris. Supper guest was Mrs. Gunwald Storhaug of this city.

She also received a telephone call extending best birthday wishes from her son, Sp-4 LaVerne Hamre, who is stationed with the United States Army in Texas.

Women's Golf Tourney To Be Held Aug. 23-24

Activities at Ladies Day at the local golf course on Tuesday included a one o'clock luncheon with Lu Ekeren and her daughter, Connie Ekeren, Ebba Sagmoen and JoAnne Wedul as hostesses. Both golf and bridge were in play with honors in bridge being awarded to Sylvia Olson and Viola O'Hara.

At the golf event on Tuesday, August 3, that of predicting the score before play, five ladies tied. They were Hazel Iverson, Mae Jahr, Marvel Van Rooy, Sylvia Edmiston and Sunny Wold. Marvel Van Rooy won on a draw. A low net of 31 with a gross of 40, gave Sylvia Olson the prize for golf. Following team play, the Sylvia Olson team is in first place, the Lu Ekeren team in second and members of the Mae Jahr team are in third place.

The Women's city tourney will be held at the local golf course on August 23-24. According to Jean Helle, ladies planning to participate should sign up at the club house bulletin board as soon as possible.

Other tourneys scheduled for the near future include one at Warren on Wednesday, August 18, with tee-off time at 9 a.m. with bridge play to commence at 1:30 p.m., and at Red Lake Falls on August 24, coffee will be served at 8:15 a.m., tee-off time will be 9 a.m., and bridge will be in play at 10 a.m.

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

MRS. BERT K. JOHNSON

Today's recipe for Sponge Cake is one that I'm sure quite a few homemakers have been looking for in this corner. This cake recipe has brought Mrs. Johnson quite a lot of success and many compliments as it has won grand champion prize at the county fair for the past two years and has also, won grand champion prize at the feed and seed show. Follow the directions carefully and I'm sure you'll have a sucess that will delight your family.

SPONGE CAKE

1 cup sugar
1 cup and 2 tablespoons flour with 1 teaspoon baking powder
¼ cup hot water
1 teaspoon vanilla
pinch of salt

Place all egg whites in one bowl and all the yolks in a separate bowl. Measure sugar and flour adding salt and baking powder to flour. Beat egg whites until soft peaks are formed adding half of the sugar gradually. (Do not beat egg whites until stiff!) Beat yolks until thick and lemon in color. Add remainder of sugar to yolks; add vanilla and hot water gradually, then add flour a little at a time using mixer to beat. Fold in egg whites. Bake in an angel food tin at 300 degrees for 45 minutes.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert K. Johnson own a 480 acre farm 16 miles southeast of Thief River Falls. In the summertime Mrs. Johnson is kept busy with her vegetable and flower gardens and of course when the vegetables are ready there's plenty of canning and freezing to keep her busy. In the winter time, when the baking, patching and sewing are done, she enjoys making woolen quilts.

In addition to his farming duties, Mr. Johnson has been a member of the Farmers Union Oil Company board for the past 25 years.

The Johnson's have four children. Daniel, the eldest, stays home and helps with the farming while Robert is a security guard at the Missile Base at Grand Forks, N.D. Gary, who is married to the former Sharon Haugen, lives on his grandfather's farm, not too far from his parents. They have two children, Bradley, three and Robyn Kaye, two. Richard, the youngest is employed in Minneapolis and plans to attend vocational school there in September.

The Johnson family belongs to Bethany Lutheran church, rural Thief River Falls, where Mrs. Johnson teaches Sunday school and is a member of the Ladies Aid.

Fire Destroys Alvarado Grain Elevator Tues.

Fire destroyed the Farmers Elevator company's main storage house at Alvarado Tuesday night in a spectacular blaze which drew huge crowds of spectators and stopped traffic on Highway 1 for a time because of south wind-blown embers. Damage was estimated at about $70,000.

The structure could not be saved although fire departments from Alvarado, Warren, Oslo and the Grand Forks Air Force Base kept the fire from spreading to adjoining buildings. The firm's manager, H. J. Perkins, and others managed to get all records of the company out of the office before the fire spread there.

Along with the elevator, office, scales and other equipment, the loss included 6,000 to 7,000 bushels of barley, 1,600 bushels of oats and 1,200 bushels of flax. The main house, with a capacity of 30,000 bushels, was nearly empty in anticipation of harvest.

The alarm was turned in shortly before 11 p.m. Tuesday by Gary Jenkins and Lubern Nordling of Oslo who were driving nearby and noticed flames at the top of the 80-foot elevator. All fire departments in the area were alerted and responded.

Fire Chief Lloyd Nordling said the new steel sheeting put on the elevator last year helped contain the fire. Cause of the blaze has not been determined, but Manager Perkins speculated that it could have been a short in the wiring system.

Highway Worker Killed Wednesday South of Argyle

A Minnesota highway department worker was killed and two men were burned, one critically, when a truck crashed into a parked highway department truck on Highway 75 five miles south of Argyle Wednesday.

Killed was Matt Kopponen, 49, of Menagha, who was struck by a semi-trailer used for hauling boats. Burned were Orville Stanley, 43, of Brainerd and William McCamy, 19, of Crookston. Speed was reported in critical condition at a Grand Forks hospital. McCamy was said to be in fair condition.

The highway patrol reported that the accident happened at about 3:40 p.m. when the truck driven by Speed struck Kopponen, who was pushing a sand cart. The truck then struck a two-wheel cart loaded with hot tar which was hitched to the rear of a maintenance truck parked at the side of the road. The collision smashed the tar cart and sprayed the hot tar over McCamy.

The crash also broke open the gasoline tank on one of the vehicles. The fuel caught fire and spread over a wide area. A fire truck from Argyle was called to the scene to extinguish the blaze.

Canadian Fined; Runs into Police Car at Baudette

An accident in Baudette on August 8 resulting in $152 in damage to the Baudette police car also resulted in four charges made against a Canadian youth. Gordon Wayne Larson of Pinewood, Ont., was hospitalized overnight for observation following the head-on crash, then jailed.

In county court he was fined $100 for driving under the influence of liquor, $100 for failure to obey a police officer, $50 for possession of beer by a minor and $30 for leaving the scene of an acident.

The acident happened near the school baseball diamond on the road to the bridge. The Larson car had been in the ditch twice before hitting the police car, with Erle Guenin at its wheel, and Guein was nearly off his own side of the road when hit.

The two $100 fines were paid, but Judge Krouss suspended the other two fines on condition that damage to the police car be paid along with any other bills in connection with the accident.

Area Students To Get MSC Degrees

About 200 Moorhead State college students are candidates for degrees at summer commencement exercises scheduled Friday at 8 p.m. (CST) in Alex Nemzek fieldhouse. This will bring the number of graduates for the year to 510, the largest in the history of college, since 310 students received degrees at spring commencement ceremonies June 4.

Degrees will be conferred by Dr. John J. Neumaiere, president of Moorhead State college. A reception for graduates, parents, faculty members and friends will be in the fieldhouse following the graduation program.

SWATHING one of the first fields of early oats to be cut in this area Thursday was Bruce Howick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Howick of Thief River Falls. The field is located about two miles west of the city. While a number of farmers have done their initial swathing and a few have combined small acreage, the harvest will really get into full swing here this week.

PUPPET SHOW sponsored by the Thief River Falls park and recreation department was held Thursday afternoon at the Northrup school and at the East Side ball park. Hand puppets and props were made and presentation was done by children of the Centennial craft class which holds sessions in the new Centennial park across the river from Tindolph park. The show was entitled "Beauty and the Beast" and was well attended by local youngsters.

PUBLIC OPINION

To the Editor:

The United States is a nation of sports-minded people. We enjoy individual competition through golf, swimming and track; we also have people who compete in rifle tournaments, pistol as well as trap tournaments and skeet shooting. The firearm competitors who belong to gun clubs have joined clubs through the necessity of keeping this pasttime as inexpensive as possible. Like any other club, they pay dues, donate personal time and effort to enjoy this sport and the company of their members. They may lose this privilege through proposed legislation before Congress.

Senator Dodd, a crusader from the East, is proposing Bill 1592, which is a firearm legislation bill under the guise that this bill would eliminate juvenile delinquency and stifle crime. There are many who disagree with Senator Dodd as to which segment of the population would be controlled if this is passed.

The small businessmen, such as hardware stores, small country stores and sporting goods stores, would most definitely feel the effects of this bill since they would be required by law to purchase a high-priced license for the privilege of selling ammunition and firearms to their customers. They would also have to make application through the Treasury Department to buy this license. Most small businesses would be unable to pay the high license fee for the small margin of profit they would make selling ammunition and firearms.

The rural American would also feel the effects since he would not be able to buy ammunition or firearms in his area. It would be necessary to drive to large cities where a dealer could afford the high-priced license fee. Add to this the prospect that a dealer might not even be issued a license because "by reason of his business experience, financial standing, or trade connection, not likely to maintain operation in compliance with this act, or...". Does the small businessman stand a chance under such a regulation? How much would a license depend on political favor?

Also hard hit would be the hundreds of gun clubs throughout our country who would be required to pay $500 or more for a license to operate their gun clubs. This is quite an infringement on our individual rights to satisfy the demands of our already overdemanding government. The American people are faced with an ever-increasing danger of enroachment of our personal liberties by the federal government in our everyday lives.

We have crusaders in Washington who feel they have the only solution to our problems. I believe the American people know what they want. I believe that our representatives in Congress should be told what we want so that they can be more effective in passing good legislation for better government. Protect the small man—write today!!

City Will Host Home Economics District Meeting

Eight district conferences will be held throughout Minnesota during August for high school home economics teachers. The northern district conference will be held at Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls on Wednesday.

The district events, initiated two years ago, will replace the statewide meeting held in other years, acording to Lyla M. Mallough, state supervisor of home economics education. This year's district meetings will be concerned primarily with evaluating teaching practices in relation to the new curriculum materials in food and nutrition and family relationships.

Park Board Sets Horseshoe Event Sunday Afternoon

Thief River Falls park and recreation board will sponsor a horseshoe tournament Sunday, August 22, at Centennial park east on the Eighth street bridge, according to James Foley, Park and recreation director. It will be a doubles tourney for two-man teams.

Persons interested in entering the event should register in teams during the week by calling the park and recreation office, 681-2519. The tournament will begin at 2 p.m. and at least eight teams will be needed, Foley said.

Advance registration is being requested so that a schedule can be arranged. Small trophies will be awarded to the tournament winners.

Mrs. Minnesota Named August 12

Mrs. Rex (Connie) Wordelman of Fulda was crowned the new Mrs. Minnesota, following two days of competition by the 10 state finalists in Minneapolis August 11 and 12.

Mrs. Wordelman is the mother of three daughters, ages 13, 12 and 6. Her husband is owner and operator of a furniture store and mortuary in Fulda.

On August 22 Mrs. Wordelman will begin competition in the Mrs. America Contest, which is being held in San Diego, Calif.

During the two days of Mrs. Minnesota contest competition, Mrs. Wordelman accumulated enough points in the various events to win the state title. The events included cooking, baking, hair styling, menu planning and shopping, and sewing, arts and crafts.

Oklee, Gonvick, Brooks Business Places Robbed

Business places in Oklee, Brooks and Gonvick were burglarized Tuesday night or early Wednesday morning. The thieves escaped with an undetermined amount of cash and caused extensive damage.

In Oklee they entered the Farmers Elevator and took about $67 in cash and caused some damage to the safe. Entered in Brooks were the Farmers Union Oil company building and the Brooks Elevator. At the Farmers Union building they failed to get into the concrete walk-in vault but took a radio and a 50 foot extension cord. About $50 in cash was taken from the elevator and a number of file drawers were damaged.

At Gonvick they entered the elevator and the Allen service station where losses have not been determined.

The Library Corner

by Virginia Gjernes

The site is cleared! The inevitable question on the lips of every library patron is "When does construction begin?" They are all referring to the new Thief River Falls Public Library. Each and everyone of them are tremendously interested in the progress of the building...and their city. Each and everyone one of them is keenly aware of "progress" and what it means to Thief River Falls citizens. All are as eagerly awaiting 'moving day' as the City Council and Library Board of Trustees and staff. After patrons have heard the answer, "September or October" to their question, they browse a bit, possibly ask the librarian for recommendation of a book or two, or pull a list of "like to read" from their pocket and ask if any are available.

So, until the mass migration across the street from Ye Old Carnegie takes place business-as-usual is the order of the day. Stop in any time from noon 'til 7 p.m. and check out one of these new volumes...or two or three or four or more!

John Creasey's new "Double for the Toff" is concerned with not one but two baffling cases! A mystery story that keeps you on the edge of your easy chair!

"The Bluebird Is at Home" by Brooke Astor is a witty story about love and marriage among the young and the rich of the 1930's. (The author is the widow of Vincent Astor, and this is her second book.)

Geoffrey Household's tale of suspense "Olura" is about a rich and idealistic heiress and a dead photographer and a young Oxford don who nearly becomes dead, too, because of trying to help the beautiful heiress! This is an intriguing book, one sure to please the mystery fan!

Those who enjoy biographical works will reach for "Stormy Petrel: The Life and Work of Maxim Gorky" by Dan Levin. Those who wish to understand Russia... the cultural and political history, particularly, will find this absorbing.

William Trevor's novel "The Boarding House" will appeal to those who enjoy maturity in their fiction. There is humor and sadness contained in it...and is originality at its best!

"I Went to the Woods" by Ronald Austing is an account of the author's adventures among the birds of North America. Recognized as one of the world's great bird photographers, he tells of his fascinating experiences with owls, hawks, eagles, hummingbirds and falcons. There are 57 photographs combined with the text.

"The Tree of Dreams" is a volume containing four novellas, on the varying facets of love, written by Mika Waltari. Mr. Waltari is a native of Finland and divides his time between Helsinki and a country house.

Those who claim Queen Victoria as one of their heroines will rush to check out "Albert, Prince Consort" by Hector Bolitho. The author, long a student of Prince Albert, paints a true and colorful portrait of one of the most extraordinary men in the history of the British royal family.

Oscar Levant and his "The Memoirs of an Amnesiac" will undoubtedly be popular because it is entertaining, illuminating and offers the reader an extraordinary experience. There's never been a book quite like this one...but then there's never been an author quite like Levant!

There are more new books on the shelves of your public library. Come in, spend a few moments or spend simply hours and hours... the library is yours to use, to enjoy, everyday, anyday (except Sunday and Saturday during the summer months.)

See you soon and if you haven't yet registered and received a card, come in and get one. Any person, age 6 or over, is eligible!

for funds to provide a separate junior college plant at a site to be determined at a later date. Control and operation of the college on the local level was discussed and explained to the club members.

Dr. Helland concluded his talk by thanking the community for its effort in establishing a junior college in northwestern Minnesota and said he felt certain that the college will be a most useful addition to the educational needs of the citizens of northwestern Minnesota.

He warned the club that it is a state institution and would be run as such, serving all communities in this area and not just Thief River Falls. He also mentioned that the state board preferred that students commute rather than seek housing here in Thief River Falls. The demand for living space has been tremendous and it seems that students would like to live here in the community rather than to drive.

Onken To Attend Banking School In Wisconsin

Kenneth L. Onken, vice president and cashier at Union State bank left Sunday for two week's attendance at the Graduate School of Banking at the University of Wisconsin, Madison, August 15-28. This will be his first year at the school, which requires two weeks' resident attendance each year for three years to earn the certificate of graduation. Between resident sessions, students are required to do extension work involving problems in all phases of banking.

The school is sponsored by the Central States conference, composed of bankers' association in 16 midwestern states. Attendance this year will approximate 1,300 bankers from about 40 states, the District of Columbia and Central America, with titles ranging from junior officers and department managers to presidents, vice presidents and board chairmen.

CAMPERS from grades 1 through 7 and numbering 49 attended the Loyal Temperance Legion day camp sponsored Wednesday at Valhall by the Thief River Falls W.C.T.U. and the Alice May Stuart W.C.T.U. of Hazel. The one-day camp, stressing problems of alcohol and smoking through lessons and crafts, has been held annually for eight years. Adult leaders for the program are Mrs. Viola Koglin, Mrs. Lewis Rood, Mrs. Earle Ripley, Mrs. Tessie Notteland, Mrs. Valborg Hanson, Mrs. Nina Larson and Mrs. Hildur Lian.

BROWNIES play a large part in the Day Camp Girl Scouting program at Camp M.O.E. Although the brownie camping units are not involved in advanced camping skills such as cooking, lashing and woodcraft, they participate in a number of handicraft projects. The "Green Elves", supervised by Elaine Mortenson, are shown making dolls out of tall grass which grows near the camping area. This project was to be completed in time for the open house held Thursday evening. Brownie campsites are supervised by Senior Girl Scouts.

NAME TAGS were made by Thief River Falls Brownies on Thursday at Camp M.O.E. in preparation for open house held that night. In making the tags, the young Day Campers sawed the end off a round stick and attached macaroni letters spelling the name. The "Bumblebees," pictured above, are constructing tags under the direction of Senior Girl Scout Sherry Adamson, who recently gained a lot of camping know-how at the Girl Scout Senior Roundup in Idaho.

Hospital Given Accreditation Here Last Week

Basic textbooks and current medical periodicals, providing readily accessible information to physicians and hospital personnel, are made available through the hospital's medical library.

In addition to the medical staff, accredited hospital must have a well-trained nursing staff and adequate hospital personnel to care for patients and to staff diagnostic and therapeutic facilities the hospital maintains. These include technicians, therapists and other allied medical personnel as well as service people. The governing board and hospital administrator are also considered in accreditation, along with good medical records, consultation and the doctor's own review of medical cases.

"Here's what it can mean to you," the joint committee says of accreditation. "It can mean that your recovery is speeded up, your hospital stay shortened, and your pocketbook spared because physicians who practice in your hospital practice good medicine and because concerted, well-organized efforts by everyone connected with the hospital are directed to helping you get well. Accreditation can mean a great deal to the hospital, because physicians, nurses and allied medical personnel seek the best environment in which to follow their professions, and more high caliber people are attracted to an accredited hospital.

"Above all, the seal of accreditation is a symbol of confidence—to you and all others who live in our community—confidence in your hospital and the people who are concerned with it. When your hospital proudly displays that certificate of accrediation you have a kind of insurance—backed up by the medical and hospital professions—that your welfare and every patient's welfare is entrusted to competent, dedicated hands."

Commenting on the accreditation, Administrator Peterson noted that all employees of the hospital are to be comended on the accreditation, since all phases of the hospital are evaluated in the survey.

Three Larcenies Two Accidents Noted by Police

Three larcenies including one auto theft, and two auto accidents were reported today by the Thief River Falls police department. The auto theft occurred at about 12:30 a.m. Friday when a car owned by Ellsworth Gillespie of Thief River Falls, parked on Main avenue between Third and Fourth streets, was taken while Gillespie was eating lunch. The vehicle was recovered at 2:10 a.m. near the fairgrounds. The theft is under investigation.

Mrs. Glenn Anderson of Thief River Falls reported on Thursday that sometime during the previous night two sleeping bags valued at $20 each had been taken from a tent pitched in her yard.

The two auto mishaps occurred on Thursday. At 3:20 p.m. a car driven by Virgil Patnode, Red Lake Falls, was stopped facing west at the corner of Eighth street and Main avenue and was struck by one driven by Nels Klopp, city, who had been traveling north on Main and made a right turn onto Eighth. Damage was estimated at $45 to the Patnode car and $35 to the Klopp vehicle. Klopp was charged with making an improper right turn.

At 12:15 p.m. a car driven by Jon Atzen, Benton Lake, was proceeding south on Main avenue and collided with a vehicle driven by Martin Gulbranson, city, who had been going north on Main and was making a left turn onto Fifth street. Damage was estimated at $30 to the Atzen car and $125 to the Gulbranson vehicle. Gulbranson was charged with making an improper left turn.

2-Car Accident Results in Minor Injury Saturday

A two-car accident resulting in minor injury to one of the drivers was investigated Saturday by the Pennington county sheriff's department. Damage to the two cars involved was estimated at a total of $375.

According the the sheriff's department, a car driven north on highway 59 by James Terrian, city, crossed over the center-line and side-swiped a southbound car driven by Pamela Torkelson, rt. 3, Thief River Falls. The accident happened about two miles south of Thief River Falls at 3:15 a.m. Saturday.

Miss Torkelson fell out of the car after it had been hit and was treated and released from Northwestern hospital. Neither Terrian nor his passenger, Marlys Madunich of Thief River Falls were injured. Damage to the Torkelson car, which went into the west ditch, was estimated at $250 and the Terrian vehicle was said to be damaged to the extent of $125.

Rites Held Sat., At Oklee For Willie Distad, 77

Willie Distad, 77, a longtime resident of the Oklee community, died early Wednesday morning at Hillcrest Nursing home in Red Lake Falls where he had been a resident the past two weeks.

Funeral services for Willie Distad were held Saturday at 10:30 in the Zion Lutheran church, Oklee, with the Rev. B. L. Duckstad officiating. Burial was made in the church cemetery with the Petterson Funeral home in Oklee in charge.

Willie Distad was born Feb. 9, 1888 at Toronto, Duell county, South Dakota and came to the Oklee community in 1908. A veteran of World War I, he was a member of the Oklee American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars of Trail.

Mr. Distad married Tina Aakre at Red Lake Falls in Feb. 1926. Following their marriage, the Distads farmed near Oklee.

Survivors include two daughters, Mrs. T. L. (Ruby) Anderson of Vallejo, Calif., and Mrs. William (Norma) Champagne of Oklee; one son, James of South Milwaukee, Wis.; 14 grandchildren and one sister, Mrs. W. F. Halverson of Los Angeles, Calif.

He was preceded in death by his wife in 1949 and one daughter, Edna.

Services Held At Arkansas For Mrs. Leonard Ness, 37

Mrs. Leonard (Veda Foust) Ness, 37, a resident of Route 6, Box 33, Tucson, Ariz., and the wife of a former Holt resident, died Friday night at the St. Vincent hospital in Little Rock, Ark. Mr. and Mrs. Ness were enroute to their home in Arizona following a visit at Holt with Mr. and Mrs. Olaf Ness, the parents of Mr. Ness and with other relatives and friends. They were visiting at the home of her parents when she became ill.

Funeral services for Mrs. Leonard Ness were held today, Monday, at Drasco, Ark.

She is survived by her husband, Leonard Ness; a son, Kenneth, age one; her parents and two brothers.

Emil Weidmier, Father Of T. A. Stark, Dies Sun.

Emil Weidmier, Harvey, N.D., a Soo-Line Railway employee and the father of Thornton Stark of this city, died unexpectedly Sunday afternoon.

Frank Stroble, 72, Dies In Mont.; Buried At Warren

Funeral services for Frank James Stroble, 72, a former resident of Warren and the brother of Mrs. Emma Wolhaupt and Albert Stroble of Thief River Falls were held Wednesday morning at Sts. Peter and Paul Catholic church at Warren with the Rev. Eugene Connelly officiating. Graveside military rites were conducted by the Warren American Legion Post 27 and burial was made in the church cemetery. Mr. Stroble died unexpectedly Thursday morning, August 5, at a Glasgow, Mont., hospital where he was being treated for a case of mild pneumonia. Death was attributed to a blood clot.

Frank Stroble was born Feb. 26, 1893, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Stroble at Vesslieville, N.D. He moved with his parents as a child to the Radium and Warren community where he attended country school. He served in the Infantry overseas in World War I and upon returning from service, he attended North Star College in Warren.

He was married to Hazel Cook on Dec. 28, 1926 at Warren. The couple farmed near Radium where Mr. Stroble also served as a Warren mail carrier. In 1937 they moved to Grygla where they farmed until 1945 when they left for Cody, Wyo. where Mr. Stroble worked in oil fields. Following the death of his wife in December 1945, he returned to Warren. In 1947 he went into motel partnership in Glasgow, Mont., where he also served as high school custodian. Since his retirement in 1958, he had made his home with his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Etchart at Glasgow.

He was a member of St. Raphael's Catholic church at Glasgow and a member of the American Legion.

Survivors include two daughters, Mrs. Mark (Delores) Etchart of Glasgow and Sister Claudine F.C.S.P. (Dorothy) of Great Falls, Mont., one son, James Renton Wash.; two sisters, Mrs. Emma Wolhaupt of Thief River Falls and Mrs. Marie Barnes of Spokane, Washington; two brothers, John Stroble of Bemidji and Albert of Thief River Falls and eight grandchildren.

Peter Larson, 87, Father Of Local Man, Dies In Gary

Funeral services for Peter Larson, 87, of Gary and the father of Curtis Larson of Thief River Falls, were held Saturday at 2 p.m. in the Grace Lutheran church at Ada. The Rev. E. G. Larson officiated and burial was in the Winchester cemetery at Borup. Mr. Larson died Tuesday at his home at Gary.

Peter Larson was born April 17, 1878 in Norway and immigrated to the Borup area with his parents when he was only two and a half years old.

In March 1938 he was united in marriage to Hattie Rjteheye.

Survivors include his wife, 11 sons, Lloyd of Ada; Glen of Oregon; Phillip of Fargo, N.D.; Roy of White Bear Lake, Harry of Bagley; Virgil of Ebro, Curtis of Thief River Falls; Darwin of Bagley; Kenneth of Fort Richardson, Anchorage, Alaska; Martin of Fort Riley, Kans.; George of Gary; and two daughters, Mrs. Ray (Grace) Peterson of Pontiac, Mich.; and Mrs. Charles (Stella) Faulkender of Rochester, Mich.

Also three brothers, Ole and John Larson of Ada and Charles Larson of Fosston, 50 grandchildren, 89 great-grandchildren and 2 great-great-grandchildren.

He was preceded in death by his first wife, Gustava, in 1918, two brothers and two sisters.

Albert Suronen, 38, Interred At Fort Snelling

Albert E. Suronen, 38, of 1519 Linden Avenue, Minneapolis and formerly of this area, died Friday in Minneapolis.

Funeral services for Albert Suronen were held Tuesday at 1 p.m. in the Davies Mortuary in Minneapolis. Interment was at the Fort Snelling National cemetery.

Albert Suronen was born April 11, 1927 at Lakota, N.D., to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Suronen. He attended school at Plummer and Oklee and was a veteran of the United States Army.

Survivors include his mother, Mrs. Ida Suronen, St. Hilaire; five sisters, Mrs. Darrel (Verna) Sevre, St. Hilaire; Mrs. Howard (Trudy) Kersten and Mrs. William (Alyce) Sundholm, both of Minneapolis, Mrs. Ted (Esther) Ecomon, Fargo, N.D., and Mrs. Roger (Shirley) Hanson of Fairbanks, Alaska and seven brothers, John, Melvin and George, all of Minneapolis; Ernest of Hopkins, Harvey of St. Paul, Walter of Hamel and James of Thief River Falls.

He was preceded in death by his father in 1954 and a brother, Elmer, in 1961.

Mrs. Sarah Louze Dies Sun. Evening; Rites Wednesday

Mrs. Sarah Louze, 92, a resident of Thief River Falls for many years, died Sunday evening at Northwestern hospital.

Funeral services for Mrs. Sarah Louze will be held Wednesday at 10 a.m. at St. Bernard's Catholic church. The Rev. Keough Patnode will be the celebrant and burial will be in the church cemetery.

Recitation of the rosary will be held Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Green Funeral chapel, where the body is reposing.

A complete obituary will be in the Wednesday issue of the Times.

PRIZES for the park and recreation department's "Balloon to the Moon" contest were awarded Friday morning in the city auditorium. Phil Hess, owner of the Jewel Box presented the first prize, a watch, to Terry Dunham, who accepted the prize for first place winner Greg Bowman. Second prize was a radio donated by the local Woolworth store, presented to Scott Blankenfield by Don McConnachie, Woolworth assistant manager. Mrs. Melville Simon presented the third prize, a certificate for 50 free malts, to Mark Wangberg on behalf of the Dairy Queen. The balloons were released June 25 from the fairgrounds ball park. The strong southerly wind carried the first prize-winning balloon to Greenbush and the other two to New Solum township.

Trap League Will End on Thursday

Final matches in the Thief River Falls trap league will be fired on Thursday with the league title on the line. Contending teams—the defending champion Times and challenging Wilson Bros.—both won their matches last week but will be matched against strong competition Thursday. Union State Bank and Argyle State bank, tied for third in the league standings, will shoot against the Times and Wilson Bros. respectively.

Thursday will also be the night of the city championship tournament. The tournament will be a 50-bird event with entrants first shooting their 25-bird league round and then an additional 25 birds for a 50-bird tournament score. Because of the tournament, shooting will be restricted to Thursday night only this week. No league rounds may be fired on Wednesday but the traps will be open for practice shooting.

Maintaining its one-point hold on first place in the league, the Times defeated Torgerson Oil company 120 to 114. Clarence Mattson with 24-1 and George Mostue with 23-4 paced the Times while other scorers were Leif Erickson, 20-4; Jim Wills, 23-1; and Lewie Helfner, 16-6.

For Torgerson Oil, Pat Fischer scored a 25 straight, Sandy Wilson a 24-0, Mark Mattson a 23-3, Steve Johnson a 21-2 and John Feragen a 0-8.

Wilson Bros. maintained its position to challenge for the league title by shading Mostue's Floral 122 to 119. Si Schantzen and Al Fowler fired 25 straight for Wilson Bros., while Wally Vagle had 18-8, Merv Skadsen 24-0 and Stan Wilson 22-1.

Mostue's Floral had three 25's in Carol Stenseth's 16-10, Yvonne Hedlund's 18-8 and Joanie Wilson's 17-10. Other scorers were Myrt Wilson with 19-4 and Julie Mattson with 11-10.

Argyle State Bank had little trouble with the Pharmacy team, winning by a score of 123 to 101. Posting 25's for Argyle State bank were Ted LaCoursiere with 18-8, Frenchy Cloutier with 22-4 and Don Kamrowski with 22-3. Reuben Carlson with 23-1 and Ike Hoglin with 18-6 had 24's.

Tony Dorn's 21-0 was top score for the Pharmacy while Floyd Ball had a 22-0, Stub Pahlen a 19-3 and Red Thyren a 17-1.

Union State Bank also turned in a fine score in defeating Coast-to-Coast 123 to 112. Posting 25's for the bankers were Fred Sorensen, 20-5; Bob Flynn, 23-6; John Moum, 21-4; and Orvis Olen, 21-5. Arnie Johnson's 18-5 completed the scoring. Howard Hagen with 24-1, Lowell Johnson with 17-8 and Rick Contos with 20-8 had 25's for Coast-to-Coast while Erling Torgerson had a 22-0.

Softball League Playoffs Begin

Playoffs in the Thief River Falls softball league begin tonight with two games scheduled. Hamm's will meet Schmidt's at the Fairgrounds diamond and Bea's will play Hartz at the east side diamond. All playoff games will start at 7 p.m.

In Wednesday action the first winner of the game between Bea's and Hartz while at the east side diamond second place Bridgeman's will play the winner of the game between Hamm's and Schmidt's at the fairgrounds. Winners of Wednesday night games will clash Thursday at 7 p.m. on the fairgrounds diamond for the city championship.

Bridgeman's moved into second place in the league with two victories last week, beating Bea's 4-2 and Schmidt's 5-3, and closing the regular season with a 6-4 record. The VFW shaded Hartz 8-7 to gain first place with a 7-3 record. In the only other game last week, Schmidt's whipped Bea's 5-1.

Team	Won	Lost
V.F.W.	7	3
Bridgeman's	6	4
Schmidt's	5	5
Hartz	5	5
Bea's	4	6
Hamm's	3	7

With the close of the regular season, the league's top 10 hitters have been decided. Twenty or more at bats were required for consideration in the final tally which had the following results:

Banding Crews Tag 3,554 Ducks

Duck banding crews of the Minnesota Conservation department succeeded in banding 2,200 teal through the end of July, it was reported today. Duck banding efforts of the department's game and fish research section this summer were concentrated largely on teal in order to evaluate effects of the upcoming special early teal season.

High water and heavy vegetation on marshes made tough going for banding crews and provided plenty of escape cover for the flightless young birds. Through the end of July a total of 3,554 ducks of all species were banded.

Duck banding is one of the harder field jobs in wildlife research. Crews are obliged to get into the marsh and wade through the muck in order to drive ducks into net-like traps where they can be captured and banded.

Because of the heat and the quicksand-like consistency of the marsh bottoms, the use of waders is impractical. Banding has long been used to determine movements of birds and to estimate the number of ducks taken by hunters and the survival rates of waterfowl from one year to the next.

Hunters who shoot banded ducks should notify the U.S. Fish and Wildlife service in Washington, D. C. as instructed on the leg band.

Teal Permits To Be Mailed Today

Permits for the special teal hunting season to be held in Minnesota September 11-13 will be mailed today from the conservation department to nearly 55,000 applicants.

State Game and Fish Director Ted Shields said today that only those persons who applied prior to deadline will receive permits. The permit is in the form of a postal card. Each teal hunter must have the permit in addition to a small game hunting license, or firearms safety certificate. Hunters 16 years of age and older also must have a federal duck stamp.

A certain number of teal hunters will receive wing envelopes and a questionnaire about one week prior to the hunting season. Wings taken from teal are to be mailed by the hunters in these special prepaid envelopes to the U.S. Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife to help establish the age and sex composition of the kill.

The questionnaire, which also will be sent to the U.S. Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife, will be used to determine the number of birds taken. There will be special instructions on the questionnaire.

The cooperation of the hunters will be needed to determine the kinds and numbers of teal taken and the success of the experimental teal season.

KTRF Rallies for First Place in Jr. Golf League

After slipping into second place a week ago, KTRF rallied last week to regain the lead and take first place in the final standings of the Thief River Falls junior golf league. The team had a season point total of 1,504 to 1,512 for the runner-up Union State Bank team.

Outlook Rated Bright For U.S. Beef Industry

Consumers are putting more beef in their shopping carts every year, and the U.S. beef industry as a result has a bright long-run outlook, according to Paul Hasbargen, extension economist at the University of Minnesota.

Americans' demands for beef have been stepping up at about two pounds per capita annually. With annual population growth, this adds up to a total demand of four to five per cent annual increase.

Furthermore, the rapid increase in beef demands for the past 20 years shows little sign of leveling off, Hasbargen says. An average annual increase of at least three per cent can be expected during the next decade.

Beef supplies, then, must expand to keep up with demands. Slaughter of steers and heifers will need to increase by 800,000 to 1,000,000 head annually. This translates into a five per cent increase in cattle feeding each year.

For beef cows, there will need to be a minimum average increase over the next decade of 1,000,000 head per year. This rate is needed to allow for the normal calving rate of about 85 per cent and for the continuing decline in dairy cow numbers. This projected expansion rate in cow numbers is about equal to the rate which has held since 1957.

While cow numbers may decline slightly in a given year, as in 1965, Hasbargen says no prolonged cut-back is expected unless the expansion rate greatly exceeds the million-a-year figure for a number of years.

The western range country has not kept pace with the large demand increase for beef and is unable to do so. Western states had 27 per cent of the U.S. beef cows in 1951 and have only 21 per cent today.

In contrast, the north central states increased their proportion of the total beef cow herd from 19 per cent in 1951 to 23 per cent today. Minnesota beef cow numbers climbed from 183,000 in 1951 to 513,000 in 1965. Meanwhile, dairy cow numbers stayed at 1.4 million.

Beef animals now acount for 27 per cent of Minnesota's total cow herd, compared with 11 per cent in 1951.

How about the price outlook? Hasbargen says that, assuming little weight variation for the long run, fed cattle prices will increase when annual marketings of steers and heifers increase by less than 800,000 head. On the other hand, prices will decline in years when steer and heifer slaughter shows an increase of more than a million head.

For most of 1963 and 1964, the annual rate of increase of steer and heifer slaughter was twice the increase needed and the result was depressed prices. During 1965 and 1966, the annual rate of increase will be under the average needed, so price levels will move up again.

Current beef prices should hold throughout the summer, according to Hasbargen. Moreover, there may be further improvement if average weights remain below the year ago levels. However, as both pork and beef marketings increase, prices will trend downward this fall before recovering and moving to even higher levels in 1966.

State Drownings Two Fewer Than Last Year's Mark

There have been 83 drownings in Minnesota this year as of August 10, compared with 85 for the same period one year ago, the conservation department's information bureau reported this week.

Carl. Moen, director of information, nted that 31 of the drowning victims were 10 years of age or younger and that 55 were under 20 years old.

"This is the reverse of the trend observed several years ago," said Moen. "At that time the greatest percentage of drowning victims was over 21 years old."

The statistics also show that 85 per cent of this year's drowning victims are male. "Either there are more males participating in water-oriented recreation or the male is taking more risks," Moen said.

Boating accounted for 35 per cent of all drowning fatalities, swimming 34 per cent and child play 27 per cent. Miscellaneous types of accidents made up the remaining four per cent.

Under the classification of "child play", Moen included such accidents as falling off docks or from banks of lakes and streams into the water, falling off bridges and similar ocurences.

He said the increase in the percentage of drownings in the younger age groups probably reflects the increase in the number of young persons operating power boats, water skiing and participating in other water sports.

Warroad Rejects School Bonds in 504 to 429 Vote

Warroad school district voters, in the largest election turnout in Warroad history, rejected a $580,000 bond issue for new school facilities Monday in the second election try in two months. A previous election ended in a 314 to 314 tie, forcing the call for a second vote August 9.

With a total of 838 votes cast, 504 voted against the bond issue and 429 voted in favor of it. The remaining five ballots were spoiled.

The issue was to have provided for remodeling of the high school, removing the old elementary building and constructing a new one with the four new rooms already built being used for high school classrooms. There was to be a new kitchen, multi-purpose room and facilities for speech therapy, teacher work room, sick room and other miscellaneous services.

Side Line Observations

BY BILL DAHLQUIST

The 20th anniversary of the destruction of Hiroshima was not celebated here or abroad. The atomic bomb that destroyed this Japanese city, instantly killing 80,000 men, women and children, was not remembered as a noteworthy achievement. The following comments by the Winnipeg Tribune express the views of the world in general. I quote:

"It serves no good to argue whether or not this deed should have been done or whether President Truman did or did not have the saving of life in mind when he gave the go-ahead for the start of atomic bombing. What it did beyond any argument was to change the whole world power balance and introduce into international affairs and the conduct of national policy a capability never before possessed by anyone.

"No one yet knows whether that moment ushered in a new day for all mankind or whether it was the explosive herald of the beginning of a new dark age of barbarism.

"Men of good will everywhere, regardless of race, color or creed, are struggling with this problem. The direction man will take is still unclear but one thing was sure, after Hiroshima nothing would ever be the same again."

An Associated Press report from House Civil Service Committee has approved a proposed 4.5 per cent pay raise for federal eployees this year with a bigger increase to follow next year. Next year is another campaign year and this no doubt is the beginning of the usual campaign year raise in salaries across the board.

The comittee also adopted a provision that would provide a substantial increase in the $30,000 congressional salaries starting Jan. 1, 1966. The amount would match the percentage increase for the top salaried workers under the bill.

No member of Congress who supports this proposed legislation deserves the support of the folks back home come election time. Such a federal pay increase would trigger another round of pay increases at all levels thruout the country, adding further to the inflationary spiral that already threatens the solvency of our government and the survival of our national economy.

The Salvation Army is now 100 years old and its hundredth anniversary was celebrated royally in England recently, Queen Elizabeth being in attendance and the archbishop of Canterbury making the principal address. Discussing the organization's birthday the Chicago Tribune came up with the following observations:

"The Salvation Army is now active in 71 countries and territories, and operates 20,000 religious and social welfare centers.

"A long way—and thruout, the Salvation Army has been faithful to the original inspiration of its founder, William Booth, who in open air of London's slums proclaimed the good news to people unlikely to be found in churches. 'Thruout a century,' to quote Queen Elizabeth at the opening of the centennial observance, "the Army has never departed from its simple aim to preach the gospel of salvation and has brought spiritual comfort and physical relief."

"Need is enough to be eligible for the Salvation Army's help. It practices no exclusions based on religion or race or length of residence. The deserving poor and the underserving poor alike find a welcome. Old people, children, alcoholics, ex-convicts, and the many poverty-stricken people who are none of these can always turn to the Salvation Army with confidence that their humanity will be recognized and their needs ministered to."

"Rome's liberties were not auctioned off in a day, but were bought slowly, gradually, furtively, little by little; first, with a little corn and oil for the exceedingly poor and wretched, later with corn and oil for voters who were not quite so poor, later still with corn and oil for pretty much every man that had a vote to sell—exactly our own history over again."
—Mark Twain

Newsweek made some interesting observations in a recent issue on what it referred to as "The War No One Wants—Or Can End." It stated:

"It is a strange, almost passionless war that the U.S. fights in Vietnam. There have been no songs written about it, and the chances that any will be seem remote. There are no hot tides of national anger running. There are no scabrous epithets for the enemy, even on the battlefield. The American GI's whose mission is to kill him, call the enemy simply, "Ole Charley"—an elusive, slippery fellow out there somewhere, beyond the next paddy field, or lurking in the next clump of bush—and they get about their soldier's task with a kind of laconic doggedness that seems also to reflect the attitude of their countrymen at home toward a war that no one really wants—but that no one, so far, knows how to end."

Walter Lippmann, writing for the Los Angeles Times Syndicate, is disturbed about the meaningless war in Asia in which we have become involved and wonders just what is our real mission there. He says:

"REVOLUTIONARY wars are indeed dangerous to order, and it is baffling to know how to deal with them. But we may be sure that the phenomenon of revolutionary wars, which is latent in all of the underdeveloped regions of the world, cannot be dealt with by American military intervention whenever disorder threatens to overwhelm the constituted authority.

"On the contrary, it is more likely that in making Viet Nam the test of our ability to protect Asia, we shall in fact provide revolutionary China with just the enemy it needs in order to focus popular hatred against us—a white, rich, capitalistic great power.

"We are allowing ourselves to be cast in the role of the enemy of the miserable and unhappy masses of the emerging nations."

J. B. McGeachy, Canadian commentator, who contributes regularly to the Financial Post of Canada and comes close to expressing the Canadian point of view, states "How to save the American face is posed as LBJ calls for help.

"He doesn't ask for victory, out of reach anyway, but he won't accept defeat. This is a not unreasonable position, especially for the strongest power on earth. The U.S. face, we must acknowledte, is an asset for all of us. Saving it is good business."

According to McGeachy the so-called government of South Vietnam represents nobody but itself and LBJ. He says that what few of us grasp is that the Vietnamese of both north and south are fighting a war of national liberation. According to McGeachy,

"They are fighting to unify their country and end foreign interference in their affairs. A ceasefire and free elections could bring peace to all Vietnam."

This seems to be the situation in which we have become involved and, day by day, it becomes increasingly clear that we have become involved in a hopeless mess from which we should disentangle ourselves as quickly as possible.

PREMARITAL EXAMINATIONS

Q. Do all states require premarital physical examinations?

A. No. The present status of marriage laws in the U.S. can be summarized as follows. No legal requirements in Maryland, Missouri, Nevada, South Carolina, and Washington; blood tests for syphilis required in the other 45 states; blood tests and physical examinations required in 37 states (all except Indiana, Iowa, Mississippi, Nebraska, New Jersey, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Vermont, and the five states listed above). In 21 states there is no waiting period for marriage license.

STRONG MINDS

Q. Is the old saying, "Strong in mind, weak in body," true or false?

A. False. The highly intelligent are generally taller, heavier, and physically and mentally healthier than those of average intelligence. The mentally gifted tend to be independent, confident, and mature. Although they are inclined to be "risk-takers" in the world of ideas, the gifted generally have more even dispositions than the average person.

"Patience serves as a protection against wrongs as clothes do against cold. For if you put on more clothes as the cold increases it will have no power to hurt you. So in like manner you must grow in patience when you meet with wrongs, and they will then be powerless to vex your mind."
—Leonardo da Vinci

Lopsided Logic

Uncle Sam is apparently anxious to take care of everyone. The senate is now considering a bill to create a cabinet-level department of housing and urban affairs—something like a citified department of agriculture. It would incorporate such existing agencies as the Community Facilities administration, the Federal Housing administration, and the Urban Renewal administration.

Explaining his favor of such a department, Sen. Walter Mondale has noted that, "Our cities suffer from old-age and decay, while our suburbs suffer from sprawling growth and boisterous expansion." He also notes, "And with the trend of population from rural to urban—from 66 per cent rural in 1900 to less than 38 per cent today— the problems of our urban and suburban areas have doubled and tripled."

The senator comments on the need of cities for clean water, efficient sewage disposal, schools, roads and streets, snow removal and police and fire protection. He notes that local and state tax rates are about 140 per cent higher than just 15 years ago.

"The magnitude and complexity of these problems is so great that a fragmented and piece-meal approach will no longer be sufficient if the federal government is to be an equal partner with states, cities and private groups in meeting these needs," he said.

He does not mention the staggering increase in federal taxes, federal spending and the national debt in those same 15 years when state and local taxes have climbed. Nor does he explain why the federal government should be "an equal partner" with states, cities and private groups. His logic is lopsided and teetering toward full federal control for support.

Whether this nation's people live in urban, suburban or rural areas, it is they themselves which provide all of the funds the federal government has to offer. The federal government is not a money machine —it must get from the people all that it returns to them, plus a considerable amount more to cover complicated administrative procedures and salaries.

The communities which are in such dire straits emphasized by the junior senator would be money ahead if the federal government would keep its collective nose out of their business. Uncle Sam has enough legitimate worries with national defense and our nation's rapidly fading image abroad without muscling into the affairs of states and local communities.

To the contrary, the federal government is doing more to create urban and suburban chaos than it is doing to solve it. Its programs are forcing people from the rural areas into the metropolitan centers in quest of a livelihood. It's highly-publicized give-away programs have accustomed city and state officials to seeking federal funds and delaying needed work in the hope that such funds will be made available. These delays because minor irritations to become major problems. Needed work is left undone.

No, senator, we don't need a cabinetlevel department of housing and urban affairs; we need a level-headed Congress which is aware of the national debt, waste in foreign spending and in its self-created departments and concerned about the freedom of states and communities to cure whatever ills they may have created. We don't need the federal government as an equal partner; we'd rather have it as a minority stocholder.

How Long?

How long will it be before a resident of Thief River Falls or the immediate vicinity is killed while operating one of the multitude of motor bikes, motorcycles and motor scooters which we see in traffic every day. It may not happen this summer, or next summer, but it will happen. Many of the riders have been fortunate to escape death thus far.

Thief River Falls police department can recall about half a dozen mishaps involving motor bikes of one type or another this summer when the riders were injured and the bikes damaged. They are aware that others have undoubtedly taken place but have not been reported.

Careless or inconsiderate operation of the motor bikes has become a common complaint of residents who call the police department. Complaints range from noise late at night to weaving in and out of traffic to riding or racing two or three abreast to excessive speed. Noise, although the most irritating, is the least serious of these complaints.

In Minnesota last year the personal injuries from motor bike accidents increased about 450 per cent over 1963. We also understand that insurance companies will not issue insurance protection for motor bike operators themselves, although liability insurance can be obtained. Injuries usually result from motor bike mishaps because riders are completely exposed and unprotected.

The greatest danger to the rider undoubtedly revolves around his relation to other vehicle traffic. The bikes are difficult to see, particularly at night, and they can maneuver into positions where an auto driver would not expect another vehicle to be. As a result, riders of these bikes are placing themselves in a precarious situation which invites a serious accident.

This situation, coupled with the exhuberance of youth and its inherent thoughtless moments, spells impending disaster. Somewhere, somehow, sometime, there will be a fatality in this area resulting from motor bike operation. The only question is how long will it be before it happens.

Not Satisfactory

According to a three-judge federal panel, North Dakota's attempt to reapportion the state through legislative action this session was not good enough. To make the satisfactory reapportionment of the state's legislative bodies, the three-judge panel did its own reapportioning.

Perhaps, as the judges said, the state's reapportionment plan did not comply with the edict of the U.S. Supreme Court that state legislatures should be apportioned strictly on a population basis. Or perhaps the federal government is trying to determine just how far it can go in operating state governments as well as the federal farce.

We hear so much about equality these days that individuality is becoming something of a cardinal sin. If a person is not average, he is either discriminating against someone or being discrimated against. And it seems that no one is entirely average.

Every person must have an equal vote on a per capita basis in election of state officials; black and white must have equal employment opportunities; men and women must be given equal consideration in employment; President Johnson advocates "taking from those that have and giving to those who have not"; if you earn less than $3,000 per year you are poverty stricken and must have your income bought up to an average level; everything is judged by medians, averages and equations.

So it is that the federal judges told the state of North Dakota that they didn't like the way the state was reapportioned. The reapportionemnt was not fair to all concerned, they said. The judges wanted to be fair—so they threw out the work of the legislature and imposed their own system. We're not quite sure about the equality in this instance, but it seems the federal body has things pretty well ging its way.

Careful Wording

In a news release concerning a rise of .5 per cent in the consumer price index during June, the U. S. Department of Labor displayed some careful wording regarding reasons for the increase. All but a small part of the increase, the department notes, was caused by higher prices for meats and several fruits and vegetables.

The fruit and vegetable shortage, the department carefully explains, was due to the fact that "production was curtailed by weather". This would indicate that natural causes over which man has no control were responsible for the smaller than normal amount of fruits and vegetables reaching the market.

No mention was made, of course, that the department itself caused at least part of this shortage through its work to eliminate the "bracero" program in the western states. Migrant Mexican labor was eliminated this year because the department believed that unemployed workers in the United States should have the jobs required to harvest the crops.

The department could not supply the laborers, however and fruit and vegetable growers found themselves without workers. Then the department tried to press high school students into service, but they provided little help, most of them quitting after only a short time on the job.

With a lack of laborers to harvest the crops, growers were forced to watch their crops become overripe and rot. The result was a short supply of the fresh produce on the market, creating higher prices. This fact, of course, is conveniently overlooked in the department of labor's carefully worded report.

School Board eviews Job Description for Assistant

Thief River Falls board of education reviewed a job description for the new administrative assistant to be hired by this district and discussed a wage dispute with a union representative at the regular meeting of the board Monday evening at Lincoln high school. Several teacher contracts and resignations were also accepted.

John Burmeister, business representative for the unionized bus drivers and janitors in the local school system, met with the board in regard to a request for salary adjustment. He noted that janitors and mechanics had accepted the 10 cents per hour increase for 1965-66 but that bus drivers had rejected the board offer of a three cents per hour increase. A six cents per hour increase was requested and the board deferred action on the request.

Walfred Olson appeared before the board with a request to allow his children to attend elementary school here on a tuition basis. His children had attended school here, but the family recently moved just out of the district. He was advised that board policy does not permit elementary students to attend on a tuition basis and that his request would have to be denied.

Teacher contracts were approved for Miss Ruth Haycraft, first grade; Miss Mary Theis, junior high school English; and Orren S. Bendickson, high school biology. Miss Haycraft had taught previously in Grand Forks, Miss Theis is a 1965 graduate of the College of St. Benedict and Bendickson is a graduate of Bemidji State college and has taught one year at Clara City.

Resignations were accepted from Charles Samuelson, biology instructor who has joined the staff of the new junior college here, and Imogene Heitmann, a teacher who was contracted earlier this year but had not taught in the local school system.

The job description reviewed by the board in regard to the new administrative assistant included the following: In charge of all federal programs; in charge of requisitions and purchases for the entire elementary, secondary and vocational schools; assist in preparation of the budget; supervise budget control; in charge of all bookkeeping and accounting; in charge of non-teaching personnel;

Also in charge of food services including budgets, purchases, records and personnel; specifications for bids on supplies and equipment for the entire school system; maintain records and reports as needed and required; and assist the superintendent in any way as directed.

The job description was not formally approved by the board but was presented for discussion. It is expected that applicants for the position will be interviewed in the near future.

Fall Festival at Grygla Will Be Held on Saturday

Grygla area residents will note a variety of activities Saturday when the eastern Marshall county community stages its annual fall festival. Highlight of the event will be the presentation of the Gatzke community's Grand Ol' Opry at 7:30 p.m. in the Grygla school gymnasium.

Opening events of the festival will be races and contestes for youngsters to be held from 10:30 to 11:30 a.m. with cash prizes to be awarded. Afternoon activities will begin with a race to catch a greased pig at the ball park at 12:30 p.m.

A parade consisting of bands, floats and twirlers will begin at 1:15 p.m. and make its way through village streets. At 2:15 p.m. the Bit and Bridle saddle club of Goodridge will present a horse show and at 3:15 p.m. a baseball game will be played.

Clarence Lian of Gatzke will serve as master of ceremonies for the Grand Ol' Opry amateur show with Mary Ann Lunsetter playing Kitty Wells. Mylan Ruud will portray Roy Rogers with Mylan Abrahamson as Leroy Van Dyke. Susan Larson as Patsy Cline, Bobby Ruud as Hank Snow Jr., and Orvis Mugaas as Marty Robbins.

Concluding event of the festival will be a dance to be held at 9 p.m. in the village hall.

AFS Student Here To Attend Lincoln

STUDENT at Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls this year will be Napapon Sallasuta, 17, of Bangkok, Thailand. "Pum" will be a senior at the school under the American Field Service program and will be living at the Carl Lee residence in this city. She arrived in Thief River Falls last Thursday.

After completing 12 years of elementary and high school education and three months in college, Napapon Sallasuta will return to high school for another year. A native of Bangkok, Thialand, she will be a senior this year at Lincoln high school under the American Field service program. The program is supported locally by the Thief River Falls Rotary club.

Miss Sallasuta, who prefers the nickname of "Pum", arrived in this city last Thursday and will live at the Carl Lee residence during her stay in the United States. Her American "sister" will be the Lee's daughter Susan. Both girls are 17 years old.

While English is not by any means strange to "Pum"—she studied it in school for 12 years—she finds it difficult to understand because "people talk so fast". The trip to the United States is the first time she has been outside the borders of her own country, and she finds a number of things quite different.

One of the main differences, she says, is the food. In Thailand rice is eaten at each of the three meals during the day, meals include typically oriental foods such as bamboo shoots and bean sprouts and more seasoning is used to make foods "hotter" and more flavorful.

Miss Sallasuta is one of 160 students from Thailand who came to the United States for study under the program this year and one of four who were assigned by the American Field service to schools in Minnesota. Her subjects at Lincoln will be assigned to her as the school administration determines will be the most advantageous for her.

Starting school at age five—the normal age for beginning school in her coungry—"Pum" has completed 12 years of regular schooling and three months of college. She hopes to attend college for five years, becoming a doctor and working in a laboratory. Her school courses have included all science courses, mathematics, algebra, calculus and trigonometry, English, Thai (the national language of Thailand) and other subjects.

Her father is a retired Lieutenant Colonel in his country's army and her mother is a home economics teacher at a school in Bangkok. She has an older sister and two younger brothers, a cocker spaniel, poodle and Thai dog. The family has a brick home and a

NFO Grain Board In Marshall Co. Seeks Reports

Members of the National Farmers organization in Marshall county have been requested by Reuben L. Knutson, Stephen, chairman of the county NFO grain board, to return their 1965 individual grain reports to the county grain board as soon as possible.

"It appears there is some misunderstanding concerning these reports," Knutson said, "due mainly to the fact that on the reverse side there is a form covering the final 1965 grain report. This portion is to be filled in after harvest by the county grain board with information to be supplied by farmers when the harvest is complete."

Members receiving two copies of form 5-4-21 are asked to fill out the front side of both copies and return one to the grain board. When harvest is complete, the farmer member is to complete the reverse side of the copy which he has kept and send this to the grain board.

The after-harvest report should include the number of bushels of each crop; grade, percentage of plump kernels, protein content and other factors having a bearing on quality and value of each commodity; variety of each crop; and number of bushels for which farmers have storage space on their farms.

If and when any grain is sold from the farm, the grain board should be notified so that it can maintain a current inventory of grain available for sale.

Social Security Man Here Tuesday

Chuck Fahlbert of Grand Forks district office of the Social Security administration will be in Thief River Falls at the city auditorium on Tuesday from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

St. John Church 70th Anniversary Slated Sunday

Plans for the 70th anniversary celebration of St. John Lutheran church Sunday, are complete but modest, according to Tom Fuller, chairman of the parish's 70th anniversary committee.

The Sunday morning service will be one stressing praise and thanksgiving. Rev. Paul R. Biegner will preach the anniversary message on the theme "How Big Is Your Church?" Special music will mark the service with three trumpeters, the Sunday school choir and an adult festival choir contributing. The service will include the receiving and welcoming of new members into St. John church.

Following the festival service the congregation will join in a 70th anniversary dinner, to which all worshippers are invited. Rev. Fred J. Seitz, the oldest former pastor of the parish, will provide reminiscences from the pioneer days of the congregation.

Pastor of St. John church from 1907 to 1919, Rev. Seitz married a member of the church, the former Mathilda Jonas. Rev. and Mrs. Seitz, who will be the honored guests at the dinner, now live in St. Paul and Pequot Lakes in retirement. A short program of music is also slated for the anniversary dinner.

Enrollment Still Being Accepted For Jr. College

High school graduates interested in enrolling at the junior college which will open September 20 in Thief River Falls may still make application for enrollment, according to Charles White, dean of the college. There is room for more students and no cut-off date has been announced for enrollments.

Application forms may be received by graduates from their local high schools in this area or from the junior college office. Requests for application blanks may be made by writing the Thief River Falls Junior College, c-o Lincoln High School, Thief River Falls, or by calling the junior college office at 681-2181.

Every student who has applied for enrollment will receive a letter and catalog from the junior college office soon, Dean White said. The faculty is now complete with the exception of a full-time librarian. Any person who is qualified for librarian post may contact the junior college office for an interview.

Practical Nurse Class Graduation Scheduled Aug. 27

Sixteenth class of the practical nursing department of the Thief River Falls area vocational-technical school will graduate on Friday, August 27, in the Lincoln high school auditorium at 8 p.m. Rev. John Riveness of Karlstad will open the ceremonies with the invocation. The address will be given by Dr. Leo Herber of Thief River Falls.

Graduates will be presented to Rufus Olson, president of the board of education, by Mrs. Morris Roadfeldt, coordinator of the practical nursing program. Mrs. Gerald Wigness, clinical instructor, will award the school pin. Mrs. Robert Farm former coordinator of the practical nursing program, will light the graduates' candles.

Musical selections will be presented by Miss Lois Collver of Thief River Falls and a group of the graduating students. The program will close with the benediction by Rev. Riveness.

Immediately following graduation a reception will be served in the school cafeteria by the Girl Scouts.

Miss Rochelle Dahlen arrived Saturday to spend a week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stanton R. Dahlen. She has been teaching summer school at Anoka.

Pixie Flower Show Planned For Saturday

Junior Garden Club Show Will Be Held At Union State Bank

Final arrangements are being made for the "Pixie Flower Show" to be held Saturday at the Union State bank in Thief River Falls. The show will be open to the public from 1 to 7 p.m. and all residents of the community are invited to attend the event.

Participating in the show will be members of the Pixie Planters junior garden club which was organized this year with about 30 members. The show will consist of gladiola entries and flower arrangements with entries to be made from 9 to 11 a.m. and judging from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Coffee and bars will be served by club members during the afternoon when flowers will be on display for the public.

Mrs. E. Heleren and Mrs. H. H. Kelly will judge arrangements made by boys and girls for the show and Robert Kloubec will judge the gladiolas that club members have raised. Miss Janet Heleren will assist in entering the exhibits. Dell Christianson will direct preparation for displays at the bank.

Gordon Saul, manager of the forest service office at Grygla has donated pine tree plants which will be awarded to club members at a free drawing to be conducted at the show. He will also exhibit a Norway pine, the Minnesota state tree, and a white pine.

Arrangement titles for the show include the following: "Arrangement with Pixie", "What Thief River Falls Stands For", 'My Favorite Nursery Rhyme", 'Don't Be a Litter Bug", "No School Today" and "A Christmas Carol".

Donating ribbons for the show this year are Ekeren Drugs, Inc., Dr. J. O. Dise, Otto's Red Owl, Bridgeman Creameries and Klewel Products company. The traveling plaque for the gladiola show is donated by Northern State bank.

Officers of the Pixie Planters include Jackie Sinding, president; Mary Carlson, first vice president; Ralph Allen Foster, second vice president; Carol Brodin, secretary; and Tom Hall, treasurer. Leaders are Mrs. Inga Geving and Mrs. Marie Cernousek with Robert Kloubec as assistant.

"To take care of our trees, flowers and birds and to watch for opportunities to make and to keep my community clean and beautiful" is part of the creed of the club, Mrs. Geving said.

"This is a new attempt, and as the years go by I am sure these boys and girls will be interested in city beautification and share their time for shut-ins and other community service," Mrs. Geving added. "We hope a large number of people will attend Saturday's show from 1 to 7 p.m. Proceeds from lunch served by the members will be used to purchase ribbons for next year's show and to buy flowers for use in beautifying the city next year."

Information Given On School Opening

Superintendent M. R. Hankerson announced today that the school workshop for teachers will be held August 31 and September 1 and 2 for elementary and high school teachers. The vocational school teachers' meeting will be held August 30 and 31.

All classes in the public schools will start at 9 a.m. Central Standard Time on September 7. Classes will be in session all day on the opening day of school and hot lunch will be served. Hot lunch tickets will be available at the same price as in the past 20 cents per meal per pupil.

Changes affecting students for the coming year are not many, Supt. Hankerson said. There will be no 8 a.m. classes for high school students this year. All junior and senior high school students will have a half-hour noon lunch period. Activity fees for junior high school students will be $3 and the activity fees for the senior high school students will be $4. Fee payments are payable on September 7.

A special orientation meeting for students new to the Franklin junior high school will be held from 1:30 o 4 p.m. on Monday, August 30, in the Franklin school school gymnasium. This meeting will include all seventh graders and all other pupils who did not attend Franklin junior high school last year. On Wednesday evening, September 1, at 8 p.m. in the Franklin school, a brief question and answer period will be held for parents of junior high school students who may have questions regarding the coming year. Parents of seventh graders are especially invited.

There will be no transportation on Tuesday, September 7, for pupils from the Northrop building or from the Lincoln building to the Franklin school. Such student transportation will start on Wednesday, September 8.

Parents with individual questions are urged to contact the principals of the schools that their children attend.

Natural Gas Service Expected This Fall

CYCLISTS using old-fashioned leg power can cover a lot of territory, even by motorcycle-age standards. Gene and Brenda Olson, 12 and 11 respectively, son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Olson of Thief River Falls, pedaled about 65 miles Sunday in the course of a visit to their uncle's home east of River Valley near Trail. The adventurous youngsters left Thief River Falls at 11:30 a.m. Sunday and rode to the Gilman Anderson farm near Trail—a distance of slightly over 32 miles. They stayed at their uncle's farm for about two hours and then started back, arriving here at about 8:30 p.m. The roads they traveled were generally good, they reported, and they had only a slight breeze to pedal against. They carried no cargo except a sack lunch. In areas traveled by automobiles, they observed the bike safety rule of single-file riding.

Progress Report Given To Council By Gas Company

Hope has brightened in recent weeks for the availability of natural gas service in Thief River Falls this fall. At the regular August meeting of the city council Tuesday night, George Carter of the North Star Natural Gas company told the council that the company is ready to proceed with installation of gas lines as soon as materials are available, which is expected to be within three to six weeks.

City Clerk William E. Fahey reported that he had received a letter from Joseph Swidler, chairman of the Federal Power commission, stating that a request from Midwestern Gas Transmission company, through which North Star obtains its gas, for additional gas in its transmission line for service to Thief River Falls had been granted. In a previous letter, Swidler had stated that "after the commission renders its decision in this case, there will be no delay in processing of North Star's application."

It is not known how much of the city will be serviced by gas mains by this fall, but the company plans to initiate gas line installation in the downtown area. The entire project will cost the company approximately $1½ million.

Also present at the meeting was Elmer Bindford of the Chicago urban renewal office, who explained the methods and function of the program to the council. The program is designed to obliterate and rebuild blighted areas of cities.

In the case of a blighted area with mixed uses and unsound buildings, Bindford explained, federal tax money pays three-quarters of the cost of government purchase of the property and razing of the defective buildings. The property is then resold to private individuals or businesses, Bindford went on to say, that the federal government pays the full cost of relocation of individuals and businesses whose property has been purchased through the program.

Police Capt. Alan Noreen requested that the council amend the ordinance regarding compulsory retirement of city employees to provide that no employee may be involuntarily retired until February of 1967. The request was made to correspond to the situation of two local police officers whose 20-year tenure will end at that time. The council granted the request.

Capt. Noreen also requested permission from the council to send Patrolman Ray Bren to a school patrol supervisor school at a cost of $35. This request was also granted.

After some discussion of the hazards present at the Eighth street and First street railroad crossings, the council passed a resolution requesting the state railroad and warehouse commission to determine whether or not automatic signals should be installed by the Soo Line at the crossings.

The council approved a progression raise of $10 per month for Ernest Berry of the sanitation department as recommended by Harry Hendrickson, his supervisor.

Hearing Set for Milk Agreements

Hearing on contracts of three Pennington county milk producers issued restraining orders by the Ninth District court will be held Tuesday at Crookston. The Grade A milk producers were compelled by the court order issued at Crookston to continue milk delivery to Land O'Lakes Creameries, Inc., in compliance with marketing agreements existing between them and the cooperative.

Wallace Jorlet, manager of the Land O'Lakes milk and ice cream department in Thief River Falls, stated that all Grade A milk is being received normally and that operations have not been affected by proposed diversion by the Red River Valley Milk Producers pool. Tuesday's hearing is on the validity of marketing agreements existing between Land O'Lakes and three producers.

Some people have become confused and some misunderstanding has developed because of the many misleading statements which have recently been made regarding the marketing contracts which Land O'Lakes Creameries, Inc., has with its Grade A producer members, according to officers of the cooperative.

Land O'Lakes has, since its beginning in 1921, had marketing agreements with its member associations. Also, since the beginning of the fluid milk division, marketing contracts have been made between the member Grade A producer and Land O'Lakes Creameries, Inc. These contracts are not unique with Land O'Lakes as many other successful marketing cooperatives have marketing contracts with their members.

Benefits of marketing contracts between the Grade A producer and Land O'Lakes are twofold, cooperative officers said. First, the contract assures the member producer that he will have a market for his Grade A milk during the life of the contract. This protects the producer. Producers who in the past have marketed with organizations not contracting to receive their milk have many times suddenly received a notice that their milk was no longer needed. Thus the producer, who is an owner of Land O'Lakes, is assured of a continuing market through his contract with the association.

Second, these contracts assure

Young Man Drowns Tuesday Evening Near Power Plant

Thief River Falls recorded another tragic death Tuesday evening with the drowning of a St. Louis Park young man in the swirling water below the municipal power plant dam. He was Curtis E. Poppenhagen, 24, son of Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Leonard Poppenhagen of 6114 Excelsior Blvd., St. Louis Park.

According to the Pennington county sheriff's department, the young man apparently jumped into the river over a guard railing at the south end of the dam, only a few feet from shore. While no one actually saw him, the department stated, witnesses had noticed him at the railing and a moment later he was gone.

The drowning victim had been confined to the state mental hospital at Fergus Falls for four years and was on leave with his parents to make a trip to California. The family was returning from California to St. Louis Park and visiting here when the drowning occurred.

Poppenhagen had been reported as missing to the local police department at 8:45 p.m.—five minutes before the sheriff's department was notified of the drowning. Recovery of the body was made about 20 minutes later in dragging operations.

Funeral services for Curtis E. Poppenhagen are set for Saturday at 2 p.m. from the Evangelical Free church in Thief River Falls with Rev. Wesley Johnson officiating. Interment will be made in Greenwood cemetery here. The body will repose at the Sinding Funeral chapel on Friday and Saturday.

Solem and Sons Sell Angus Bulls

County and City Share in Liquor, Cigarette Taxes

Pennington county's share of state cigarette and liquor taxes for the first six months of 1965 was released last week by Ellsworth Jorgenson, county treasurer.

With cigarette tax apportionment at 88 cents per capita, $4,323.44 has been paid to the county revenue fund from January through June of this year. The sum of $2,996.93 was paid in liquor taxes during the same period, with liquor tax apportionment set at 61 cents per capita. Liquor taxes are distributed to the city, villages and townships in the county.

According the City Clerk William E. Fahey, the share of cigarette and liquor revenue apportioned to the city of Thief River Falls was $6,292.88 in cigarette taxes and $4,362.11 in liquor taxes.

Grover-Knutson Vows Exchanged At Warroad

Lighted candelabra and baskets of ferns formed the altar setting at the Zion Lutheran church of Warroad on Saturday, July 24, for the marriage of Miss Eloda Grover, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Grover of Warroad, and Sheldon Knutson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Knute Knutson of Goodridge. The Rev. George Johnson, pastor of the Covenant church of Hallock, performed the double ring ceremony, with 150 relatives and friends in attendance.

Jean Larson of Stephen, presided at the organ and played "Thanks Be To Thee" for the processional and accompanied Mrs. Richard Roberts of Warroad as she sang "O Perfect Love" before the Prayer" as the couple knelt at the altar.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a white gown of bridal satin, featuring a sculptured bodice with a slightly rounded neckline and a floor-length skirt styled with soft pleats at the waistline. Complementing the gown was a scalloped waist-length jacket with long tapered sleeves and high rounded neckline with a a bow trim back closing. The gown designed and fashioned by Mrs. Wallace Goulet of Minneapolis, also featured a detachable chapel length train secured in front with a bow. The chapel length veil of silk illusion fell from a crown of seed pearls and crystals, accented with a wreath of for-get-me-nots and she carried a cascade bouquet of pink roses surrounded by white feathered carnations and sprays of ivy.

Mrs. Harvey Lindstrom of Monticello attended her sister at matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Connie Grover, sister of the bride and Gale Knutson, Goodridge, sister of the groom. Their identical dresses, styled similiar to the bridal gown, featured blue floor-length gowns with white short sleeve jackets of eyelet lace and white gloves. They wore matching headpieces and carried colonial bouquets of pink roses with feathered white carnations.

Harold Waale of Moorhead, a friend of the groom, was best man. Groomsmen were the brothers of the bride, Bernard Grover of St. Paul and Kenneth Grover of Warroad. All wore black tuxedos and white boutonnieres.

Seating the guests were Richard Grover, brother of the bride and Harvey Lindstrom of Monticello, borther-in-law of the bride.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Grover chose a light blue two-piece lace dress with matching jacket. Mrs. Knutson wore an aqua lace dress with matching hat. Both mothers wore white accessories and corsages of pink and white carnations.

Following the ceremony, a reception was given in the church parlors by the parents, of the bride with Mrs. Harvey Willmer as hostesses. Centering the serving table was a four-tiered, all white, wedding cake, topped by a miniature bride and groom. On either side of the cake were white candles surrounded by pink rose buds. The cake was cut by Mrs. John Olds of Baudette, aunt of the bride and Mrs. Don Kraus of Moorhead while Mrs. Bernard Grover of St. Peter, sister-in-law of the bride, and Miss Arlene Regelstad of Moorhead poured. Mrs. Clarence Smith of Minneapolis, sister of the groom, distributed the groom's cake and Gary Grover, brother of the bride, registered the guests. The gifts were arranged by Mrs. Clare Nelson of Hallock, cousin of the bride and Miss Darlene Hegreness of Bemidji, cousin of the groom. Waitresses were Nancy Roster, Barbarba Foster and Judy Olson.

As traveling attire for the wedding trip along the North Shore Drive, the bride wore a blue silk two piece dress with mohair jacket, black patent accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

The bride, a graduate of Moorhead State college and a former teacher at the Knox elementary school in Thief River Falls, has taught school at Robbinsdale for the past 5 years and will be teaching in Goodridge this fall. The groom is employed in the office at the L. B. Hartz wholesale Inc., at Thief River Falls.

Mrs. Clara Lunke Honored On Her 89th Birthday

Mrs. Clara Lunke of rural Holt was honored on Sunday, August 8, when a large number of relatives and friends arrived to help her celebrate her 89th birthday. With her for the occasion were her seven children, Mrs. Harry (Josie) Engen, Mrs. Bertil (Carrie) Ness, Mrs. Clifford (Hazel) Jorland and Hilmer Ness, all of Thief River Falls, Oscar Ness of Plummer and Jens and Arthur Ness, both at home. They, together with their families, presented the honored guest with a corsage of roses and carnations and a large birthday cake. Among the many gifts and cards presented to Mrs. Lunke from the group, as well as from those unable to attend, was a guest book, a gift from her grandchildren, JoAnn Ness and Janice Engen.

Making the room festive for the occasion were many floral arrangements gifts from well-wishers, and a serving table highlighted by a three-tiered birthday cake trimmed in pink and topped with a silver 89th emblem. Covering the table was a cloth made in Japan, a gift from her grandson, Harlie Lunke.

The afternoon was spent socially. The birthday song and the table prayer were sung prior to the luncheon served. Mrs. Bertil Ness cut and served the birthday cake, Mrs. Hilmer Lunke poured, Mrs. Harry Engen assisted Richard Ness and Orvus Lunke in serving ice cream. Those assisting in the kitchen were Mrs. George Johnson, Mrs. Art Conklin and Mrs. Arthur Lunke.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Broten of Viking were honored on the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary at the Alma Lutheran church, rural Argyle, on Sunday, August 8. Present to share the event with them were their children, Mrs. Ragnar (Ruby) Stanghelle of Warren, Ervin and Nelder Broten of Viking and their attendants of 50 years ago, Mrs. Willie Windahl of Newfolden. As gifts from the Alma Ladies Aid, corsages of yellow roses were presented to Mrs. Broten and Mrs. Windahl and boutonnieres were given to Mr. Broten and Conrad Windahl.

For the afternoon event, vases of white gladioli provided the altar setting while baskets of mixed garden flowers graced the piano and organ. A granddaughter of the honored couple, Miss Anita Stranghelle, presided at the organ as Mr. and Mrs. Broten were escorted into the church by granddaughters Jayne and Susan Broten. Escorting the attendants and serving as ushers for the occasion were Arthur Haugen and Sanford Bagaas.

The Rev. Arnold Windahl, brother of Mrs. Broten, served as master of ceremonies at the program and also led in devotions. Robert and Lynnae Broten and Ricky Stranghelle grandchildren of the honored couple, sang the hymn "Children of the Heavenly Father". Other numbers on the program included a violin solo by the Rev. Arnold Windahl; an original reading, depicting 50 years of married life for the Brotens, was presented by Mrs. Oscar Peterson of Warren. Vocal numbers included; "The Lord's is My Shepherd" by William Windahl, brother of Mrs. Broten; "The Lord's Prayer" by a niece, Mrs. Dennis Peterson of Grand Forks, N.D.; a duet by the Rev. Arnold Windahl and William Windahl and a solo by Dale Peterson, lay pastor of Our Savior's Lutheran church in Warren. Mrs. Ralph Erickson gave a reading and the Rev. Loren Nielson, pastor of the congregation spoke and brought special greetings. Mr. and Mrs. Broten responded with words of appreciation for the many gifts and cards presented to them and for the honor bestowed upon them.

A reception in the church parlors followed the program with 175 guests in attendance. Mr. and Mrs. Nelder Broten presided at the guest book and Mary Stanghelle and David Broten, grandchildren of the couple, served the punch.

Seated at the head table, decorated with gold and green streamers and bouquets of mixed garden flowers, were the honored couple, their attendants and honor guests. The guests were served from table decorated with green and gold streamers, the arrangements of mixed garden flowers, flanked on either side of golden tapers set in crystal holders on gold colored doilies. The candles and doilies were gifts from Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Olson of Argyle. Centering the serving table was a three-tiered anniversary cake, decorated with yellow roses, green leaves and white wedding bells, rimmed with gold. The top tier of the anniversary cake later served as the centerpiece at the head table.

Cutting and serving the cake, were Mrs. Milo Windahl and Mrs. Russell Floberg while Mrs. Walfred Olson and Mrs. Elmer Hagen, nieces of the couple, presided at the golden coffee service. Lloyd George Melgaard of Warren offered the use of the gold coffee service for the reception. Members of the Alma Lutheran Ladies Aid were in charge of serving the reception.

Guests in attendance were from Williston and Grand Forks, N. D.; Ottawa, Ill.; Fergus Falls, Alvarado, Argyle, Viking, Newfolden, Gatzke, East Grand Forks, Warren and Thief River Falls.

Immediately following the open house at the church, a family reunion was held at the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Broten where a lawn supper was served to approximately 60 relatives. At that time, the honored couple was presented with a silver service from their children and the picture "Grace" from their grandchildren.

SLOW DOWN AND LIVE!

Carl Finstads Feted On Their 40th Anniversary

A large number of relatives and close friends were present to celebrate the 40th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Finstad of rural Thief River Falls, at a supper, Sunday evening, August 8, at Valhall. Hosts for the event were Mr. and Mrs. Kermit Finstad and Mr. and Mrs. Donald (Louise) Perkins of Lewistown, Mont., children of the honored couple. A corsage of red roses and white carnations was presented to Mrs. Finstad and a white carnation boutonniere was given to Mr. Finstad. Also present for the occasion were Marie Olen and Martin Finstad, attendants at the wedding 40 years ago.

The guests were served from a white linen covered table centered with a four-tiered anniversary cake decorated with red roses and white wedding bells. On either side of the cake were white candles in ruby red candleholders, a gift from the grandchildren of the honored couple. Bouquets of sweet peas decorated the other tables.

The cake, baked and decorated by Mrs. Oscar Houske was cut and served by granddaughters, Monica Perkins and Lynn Finstad. Marie Olen presided at the silver service and grandchildren Nancy Finstad and Bicki Perkins served the punch while Scott Perkins and Lori Finstad registered the guests.

Harold Palm, brother of Mrs. Finstad, led the table prayer and later in the evening showed slides of his missionary work in Africa. Following the viewing of the slides, Mr. and Mrs. Finstad expressed their appreciation to those who attended.

Guests attending from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Palm, Beatrice and Eugene, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Palm, Mrs. Bob Wilson, Curtice Palm and July Ranum, all of Minneapolis and Mrs. Lloyd Johnson of Moline, Ill.

Among the local guests attending were 94 year-old Mrs. O. B. Gunderson and the Rev. and Mrs. Reuben A. Wangberg.

Shelly Ann Molstad Baptized at Trinity

Shelly Ann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Molstad was baptized Sunday during the morning services at Trinity Lutheran church with the Rev. Reuben A. Wangberg officiating. Sponsors were Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth Jorgenson.

Following the services, dinner guests at the Molstad home were Mr. and Mrs. Jorgenson and their sons, Danny and Tom. Visitors later in the afternoon were Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Swanson, Cheryl, William and Carol of Radium. A social afternoon was spent with pictures being taken and lunch served.

CORRECTION

In the Gladys Hamre birthday story as published in Monday's Times, Mrs. Hamre's grandchild is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Moe of Goodridge and not Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Moe. The names of Mrs. George Gall and Tommy were also omitted from the list of guests helping Mrs. Hamre celebrate her birthday. The Times regrets this error.

11 Girls Seek State Dairy Princess Title

Eleven Minnesota dairy farm girls, going to St. Paul in quest of a crown, will be "buttered up" in their own lovely, life-sized images at the 1965 Minnesota state fair. Among the entries is Janice Swanson, Mentor, who was crowned at Northwest Dairy Day in Thief River Falls June 8.

They are finalists in the 12th annual Princess Kay of the Milky Way contest which will open in St. Paul August 25 and climax in coronation ceremonies on the fair's grandstand stage at 7:30 p.m., August 28. One of the girls, each winner of a regional dairy princess title during June Dairy Month, will receive the crown and title worn for the past year by Princess Kay XI, Karen Bracken of Verdi.

Instead of dismissing the 10 runners-up after the contest, all of the girls will stay to work as a special dairy public relations team through the entire fair.

On the first Sunday of the fair, starting with the newly-crowned Princess Kay, each of the girls will don snowsuit and mittens and pose for several hours in a refrigerator showcase where her likeness will be sculpted in a 68-pound block of butter. Don Schule, University of Minnesota graduate student, will execute the works in the "queen-sized" butter blocks which are being provided by the candidates' sponsoring dairy plant or hometown creamery.

Representing Region I is Janice Swanson, 18 Mentor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Swanson. She has brown hair, brown eyes, is 5' 4" tall and weighs 110 pounds. A 1964 graduate of Mentor high school, she has completed one year of home economics at Concordia college in Moorhead. Janice is a 4-H club member; enjoys sewing, skating and singing. Crowned Northwest Dairy Princess at Thief River Falls June 8, she represents Beltrami, Clearwater, Kittson, Lake of the Woods, Mahnomen, Norman, Polk, Pennington, Red Lake, Roseau and Marshall counties. Two state winners have come from this region in previous contests, Diane Schroeder of Rindal and Kathy Hjelle of Argyle.

A spokesman for the sponsoring American Dairy Association of Minnesota said the daily butter sculpture project will be "an undisguised effort to link butter and beauty in the minds of the consuming public." Minnesota leads the nation in butter production with more than 370 million pounds churned during the past year.

"We are confident the girls will do a top-notch public relations job for the products and people of the dairy industry throughout the fair," said Cliff Markuson, Minnesota ADA manager. "By working as Princess Kay's supporting team through the fair, they'll all gain invaluable experience they can put to good use representing the dairy industry of their home regions the remainder of the reigning year."

Only public appearances of the girls before the fair's opening night coronation ceremony will be August 27 at Metropolitan Stadium where the Minnesota Twins have designated their baseball game against Cleveland as "Dairy Princess Night at the Met." The girls will be introduced at home plate in a pre-game program.

Other contestants include the following: Region 2, Donna Johnson, 18, Pine City; Region 3, Mary Ann Titrud, 18, Clarissa; Region 4, Lynda Schumann, 18, Rice; Region 5, Judy Pothen, 18, Murdock; Region 6, Karoll Kreykes, 18, St. Peter; Region 7, Lee Ann Kohnen, 18, Loretto; Region 8, Peggy Snook, 18, Windom; Region 9, Diane Jacobson, 19, Gordonsville; Region 10, Carmen Larson, 17, LeRoy; and Region 11, Joyce De Cramer, 18, Marshall.

Heart Fund Here Gets Memorials

Heart Fund memorials in the name of the late John Marks and Mrs. Arthur M. Johnson of Thief River Falls were received recently by the Minnesota Heart association according to David Drotts, Pennington county memorial chairman.

The full amount of the gifts will be used for heart research and is likely to lead to further advances in the conquest of heart disease, our nation's deadliest killer. In Pennington county, Drotts said, there were 146 deaths last year, of which 82 were from heart disease.

FORTY-FIVE years of married life were observed by Mr. and Mrs. Renie Werner at an open house celebration held Sunday at their home at 324 State Avenue North. Hosting the event were their daughters and sons-in-law. Mr. and Mrs. Werner have lived in this area most of their lives and for the past 18 years, Mr. Werner has been with the local police force.

Renie Werners Honored On Their 45th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Renie Werner of this city were guests of honor at an open house held at their home Sunday in observance of their 45th weddin anniversary. For the event, Mrs. Werner was presented with a corsage of roses surrounded by white carnations and a carnation boutonniere was given to Mr. Werner. Hosting the event were their sons-in-law and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Harold (Opal) Gavere of Stillwater and Mr. and Mrs. Dennis (Ruby) Norland of Shakopee. Also present were Mrs. R. A. Holmgren and Mrs. Dennis Wegge, bridesmaid and flower girl respectively, at the wedding 45 years ago.

Unable to attend were the best man, Mr. R. A. Holgren who is a patient at the Veterans hospital at Fargo, N.D., and the other flower girl, Bernice Griffith.

Centering the serving table for the luncheon served throughout the afternoon was a four-tiered anniversary cake decorated in rose colored roses and topped with an arrangement of fresh roses. Mrs. Dennis Wegge cut the cake and Mrs. R. A. Holmgren poured. A granddaughter, Susan Gavere served the punch and attended the guest book.

Among the many local friends and relatives attending out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Ed Johnson of Bemidji, a brother-in-law and sister of Mr. Werner; Mr. and Mrs. Ed F. Nelson of Manvell, N.D., a brother and sister-in-law of Mrs. Werner; Bertha Ingebrigtson, Fertile, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gavere, Albert Lea; and Mrs. Mabel Sorum and Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Hagen of Grand Forks, N.D.

Unable to attend but calling to extend congratulations and best wishes were their son-in-law and granddaughter Dennis Norland and Debbie Norland, both of Shakopee.

With the Rev. Kriebt performing the ceremony, Miss Beatha Nelson and Renie Werner were married in the Holt Lutheran church on August 14, 1920. For 25 years following their marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Werner farmed the home farm in Excel township, Marshall county, where Mr. Werner was born. In 1945 they moved to Thief River Falls where Mr. Werner has been with the local police force for the past 18 years.

John Newlands Observe Their 54th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. John Newland marked their 54th wedding anniversary on Saturday, August 7, the day of Mrs. Newland's 85th birthday. The following day, the John Newland farm home south of Thief River Falls was the scene of a combined wedding anniversary and birthday celebration. With them for the event were their four sons and their families, Mr. and Mrs. James Newland and Gary of Grand Forks, N.D.; Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Newland of Thief River Falls, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Newland, Joyce, Roy and Norman of St. Paul and Mr. and Mrs. Stan Newland, John, Bob and Fred of Seaford, N.Y.

Grandsons and their families attending were Mr. and Mrs. John Newland Jr., Renee and Shawn of Thief River Falls and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Newland of Minneapolis.

Other relatives and friends attending were Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ingberg of Twin Valley, Joseph Ingberg of Hendrum, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Swenson of Holt, Henry Hanson of Plummer and Dianne Oden of Grand Forks, N.D.

Following a social afternoon, an out-door luncheon was served by the relatives.

For the past two weeks, Mrs. Hardy Israelson, Candice and Robin have been visiting at the homes of Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Israelson and with her mother, Mrs. Myrtle Peterson and with other relatives and friends. Hardy Israelson arrived last Wednesday to visit with his parents. They left by plane Tuesday morning to return to their home in Dallas, Texas.

A hearing has been set for August 31 at 7:30 p.m. concerning a non-conforming building permit application submitted by Brodin Sheet Metal for a $3,000 warehouse next to its present building. A hearing is necessary because the area involved is in a residental zone.

Two building permits, both amounting to $1,000, were approved, one to John L. Anderson of 122 Parkview for an addition to a dwelling and the other to Robert Reopelle of 624 S. Crocker for a domestic garage.

Alderman Art Christianson recommended that the city purchase a tract of land in the southeast part of the city near the water tank from Mrs. Hilda Peterson, to be developed as a city park. The council moved to purchase the land at a cost of $1,600.

In final business, a resolution was made to approve two bond issue estimates on street construction—$3,8786.80 to Kasson Sewer and Water company of Kasson and $47,943.05 to Blacktop Surfacing company of Detroit Lakes.

Hearing on Milk Producer Court Order Scheduled

Land O'Lakes Creameries, Inc., of a sufficient supply of Grade A milk at all times to fulfill its market commitments, thus making for more orderly and efficient marketing which provides a greater return to the producer.

Further, these contracts state that the producers shall receive the net proceeds from the marketing of their milk on a pool basis, subject to adjustments for fat content, quality, grade and the location of the farm. All net earnings of Land O'Lakes derived from the sale of the member's milk are accounted to the producer on a patronage basis in accordance with Land O'Lakes articles of incorporation and by-laws. Therefore the member receives the benefit of the entire net income received from marketing.

Contracts provide a cancellation clause which can be used by either party, with proper written notice to the other party to terminate the agreement.

These marketing agreements have all of the elements of any contractual arrangement between two parties. Each party has agreed to perform certain things during the life of the contract.

In summary, it is felt by the majority of the producers who own contracts are necessary to maintain an orderly marketing program and to give the best return to the producer.

Harvest Hastened By Dry Weather

Considerable cooling this week has resulted from the southward advance of a high-pressure area from Canada. The sudden cooling touched off a violent thunderstorm with golf ball-size hail in the Oklee area late Monday afternoon. Many gardens in Oklee were destroyed, and some damage was done to roofs of buildings. Extensive damage was also done to fields east and west of the town. The storm dropped slightly over an inch of rain in that area.

Farmers in the Thief River Falls area have gotten a start in combining and have done a considerable amount of swathing with a minimum of interference from the weather. No precipitation was reported from the municipal airport, although a brief shower occurred in the city Monday afternoon. Quality of the grain harvested thus far is very good, according to local elevators.

Variable cloudiness is expected to continue through tomorrow, with isolated light showers or thundershowers late tonight or tomorrow afternoon. Little temperature change is forecast. Highs today will range from 65 to 75; lows tonight from 48 to 55.

Temperatures since Monday reas follows: 86 and 84 on Monday, 78 and 55 on Tuesday and a low this morning of 45.

Bluegrass Crop In Roseau County Said To Be Record

The largest bluegrass crop in Roseau county history, an estimated million and a half pounds of seed, has been harvested under almost ideal conditions, it was reported last week. The high quality crop was taken in with only a few delays due to rain. A bumper crop, it is expected to bring farmers at least a half-million dollars.

This year's timothy crop, now being harvested, also appears to be a record crop in both quality and quantity. While some of the timothy has lodged, it is expected to be recovered since it is a very tough plant.

One of the by-products of the bluegrass harvest this season has been the widespread use of the straw as hay for cattle.

CATALOG shopping was done Monday by Marlys Mossestad, 1965 Miss Thief River Falls, who was the recipient of $25 in merchandise from the Montgomery Ward catalog store in Thief River Falls. Assisting Miss Thief River Falls is Craig Pladson, store employee.

Delegation Flies To Washington For Farm Lobby

A rural Minnesota "Fly-In" delegation of 85 men took off by chartered plane Monday morning for Washington, D.C., and arrived on the eve of the start of House debate on the 1965 omnibus farm bill. House action began Tuesday on H.R 9811, the comprehensive bill which would expand and improve the current feed grains and wheat programs and provide legislation on cotton, dairy and wool.

This is the third such lobbying flight which has been sponsored by the Minnesota Farmers Union this summer. Included in this Fly-In delegation are Rev. Duane C. Nelson and Editor Earl J. Anderson of Middle River, and Sam Genereux, Brooks, insurance agent. A special participant will be Cy Carpenter, formerly of Thief River Falls, legislative representative for the Minnesota Farmers union.

Also on the flight will be Edwin Christianson, Minnesota FU president; Governor Karl F. Rolvang; and a number of mayors, legislators, bankers, businessman, clergymen and farmers from throughout the state.

"The feed grains and wheat programs have not only done much to stabilize the situation and reduce surpluses, but this year alone will add $107 millions to the purchasing power of Minnesota farmers," Christianson explained.

"We are going to ask each Representative and Senator how he plans to vote, pointing out that, if he votes against the farm bill, there will be no feed grains and wheat payment programs in operation next year. This could well mean $107 million less income in Minnesota and comparable sums in other major agricultural states," he said.

Dist. Governor Talks to Rotary

Charles Whittey, Bismarck, N. D., governor of District 558 of Rotary International, paid his annual visit to the Thief River Falls Rotary club at the regular noon luncheon meeting on Monday. It was his seventh of 42 visits to clubs in the district which includes clubs in Minnesota, North Dakota and Canada.

Community service and international service were the two themes upon which Whittey based his address to the local club membership. He said the ideal of service is to develop the individual and to use his trade or profession as an avenue for service. Service must translat itself into action, he noted, to provide a moving force for good in the community.

"We must ask ourselves whom we are leading and toward what," the district governor said. He noted that Rotary International has 600,000 members in 129 countries and can be a vital force in the promotion of peace and brotherhood among nations.

Whittey also attended a club assembly with committee chairmen and directors of the club at the Rex cafe Monday morning prior to the club meeting.

All-Star Softball Games Scheduled

Two all-star games will close the season Saturday night for the men's and women's softball leagues in Thief River Falls. At 5:30 p.m. the women's league champion T.R.F. Sports will play an all-star team from the other three teams in the league. At 7 p. m. the men's league champion VFW will play an all-star team selected by league managers at a group meeting.

Other all-star selections include Dwight Tangquist, Hartz, pitcher; John Drury, Bridgeman's, pitcher; John Ellis, Schmidt's, pitcher; Bill Herzog, Hamm's; Elroy Frolland, Bridgeman's; David Erickson, Bridgeman's; Lloyd Noreen, Schmidt's; Mike Aune, Bridgeman's; Lowell Halverson, Hartz; Wayne Bjerken, Bea's; Ronnie Ueland, Schmidt's; David Ellingson, Bea's; and Jerry Erickson, Bridgeman's.

Bob Carlson of the runner-up Bridgeman's team will manage the all-stars and promises that all of his pitchers will see action in the game. He adds that the all-star team has a long history of victories in the annual event and speculates that Saturday night's duel will be no exception.

The T.R.F. Sports won the women's league championship by defeating the Steelers 28-11 in a seven inning contest last week.

Formal close of softball activity will be a banquet at which 200 people are expected to be in attendance Monday at 7 p.m. in th VFW club rooms. Trophies will be awarded to the men's league champion VFW team, the women's league champion T.R.F. Sports team, playoff champions and men's league batting champion Jerry Erickson who finished the league season with a .393 average.

Also included in the program will be a financial report by the treasurer and election of president and vice president for the 1966 year. All team managers are urged to turn in tickets and money from tickets sales to Bob Carlson no later than Friday morning. Tickets can be obtained by boosters, fans and players from any of the men's league's six managers.

Bagley country club will be the scene of a Shortstop golf tournament on Sunday with tee off time set at 9:30 a. m. The championship flight will be a 27-hole medal play; all other flights will be match play. Merchandise prizes will be awarded to winners.

Entries may be sent to Philip Stoltenberg, secretary, Bagley country club, or phone 694-8035 in Bagley. Entries will be accepted until tee off time.

Robert Fulton Stamp Will Be Issued Thursday

A five-cent stamp commemorating the 200th anniversary of the birth of Robert Fulton will be placed on sale Thursday at Clermont, N.Y., where the inventor resided. In 1807 Fulton's steamship "Clermont" made an historic voyage up the Hudson River from New York City to Albany to become the first commercially successful steamship.

Reproduced on the stamp is a bust of Fulton sculptured by Jean Antoine Houdon, and a drawing of the "Clermont" done in crude linework to simulate wood engraving. This horizontal stamp, designed by John Manss, will be printed in black and blue on white paper and will be issued in panels of 50, with an initial printing of 114 million.

Collectors desiring first day cancellations may send addressed envelopes, together with remittance to cover the cost of stamps to be affixed, to the Postmaster, Kingston, N.Y. 12401. All covers will be canceled "Clermont, N. Y." Since there is no post office at Clermont, a temporary branch office will be established for the one day.

The envelope to the postmaster should be endorsed "First Day Covers 5 cent Fulton Stamp", and must be postmarked no later than August 19.

Trap Tournament Thursday To Name City Champion

City championship tournament shooting in the Thief River Falls Trap league will be held Thursday, the final night of league shooting this season. There will be three classes in the men's division, based on season average, with a separate class for the women shooters in the league.

The tournament will be a 50-bird event. Entrants will shoot their regular league round of 25 birds and an additional 25 birds to complete the tournament score. Because of the tournament, no league shooting may be done tonight but the traps will be open for practice shooting.

According to club officials, supper will be served at the clubhouse during the tournament Thursday. Trophies will be awarded in all divisions.

Adding extra interest to the final night of league competition will be the duel between the Times and Wilson Bros. for the league championship. The Times currently leads the league by one point, but will meet tough competition from the Union State Bank team. Wilson Bros. must combine a win over Argyle State Bank and a Times loss to Union State Bank to gain the championship. The two bank teams are tied for third place, seven points out of first.

The defending champion Times has lost twice this season, both times to the low-handicap Wilson Bros. squad. Wilson Bros. has been defeated once each by Union State Bank and Torgerson Oil and was tied by Union State in an early season match; that night both teams shot a perfect 125.

Study Effect of Highway Traffic On Vehicle Use

Results of the first phase of a research project to study the effects of highway and traffic conditions on motor vehicles has been published by the Highway Research board.

Following more than 4,000 test runs with a new 8-cylinder sedan weighing 4,175 pounds and equipped with automatic transmission, researchers learned, among other things, that:

The most desirable speed for passenger car fuel economy on a level, straight high-type road is a steady 35 miles per hour. At this speed the fuel consumption rate is 20.7 miles per gallon. The same vehicle gets only 13.4 m.p.g. at a steady 80 m.p.h. and only 10.9 m.p.g. at a steady eight m.p.h.

If the same car is operated at 35 m.p.h. but must come to a momentary stop once in each mile, fuel consumption is increased to 17.5 .p.g.

Fuel consumption is changed slightly by 0.9 (20.7 to 19.8) m.p.g. when driven 35 m.p.h. on an oil-treated gravel surface rather than a paved road. But put the car grade instead of on the level and fuel consumption increases from 20.7 to 8.7 m.p.g.

A commuter who has to negotiate four cloverleaf turns (assuming 63' ramp radius) every day on his way to work and back, will wear out two tires a year solely from this cause unless he rotates his tires regularly.

The study is also measuring fuel consumption using vehicle weight, effects of winds, grades and curves.

Many Students May Get Social Security Checks

An estimated 450 students between 18 and 22 in the Grand Forks social security district are eligible for monthly benefits under a recent change in the law, reports Clifford Kittelson, district manager.

Under the 1965 amendments to the Social Security law, a full-time student may receive monthly payments to age 22 or until he ends his education, whichever is earlier.

Those eligible are sons or daughters of a deceased parent who was insured under social security. Also included are the children of disabled or retired workers who are now getting monthly social security benefits.

In most instances, the payments will go to the parent. He may ask for the payment to go to the son or daughter if he wishes.

A new application is necessary for students past 18 whose benefits stopped at age 18 and for those who did not receive benefits before age 18. Payments will be retroactive to January, 1965. Anyone wishing to apply should contact his social security office.

Veteran Numbers Expected to Drop Heavily in State

War veteran population in Minnesota could drop approximately 22 per cent by 1980, according to a long-range statistical projection released today.

John R. Murphy, manager of the Veterans Administration center in St. Paul, said his would mean 422,000 veterans could drop to approximately 330,000 in 15 years. The 1964 veteran population estimate is 403,000.

Murphy stressed that the estimate at the future veteran population in Minnesota is not a prediction. He described it as a "projection" based on three possible assumptions on the lvel of future interstate migration of the war veteran population.

As far as Minnesota is concerned, the percentage loss in the projection remains about the same in each of the three possibilities concerning future migration.

The same statistical study shows a loss of 20.5 per cent in total veteran population by 1980. If the projection is valid, this would mean that the 1960 estimate of 22.4 million veterans both in and outside the United States would drop to approximately 17.8 million. The total 1964 veteran population was estimated at 21.8 million.

Murphy said the office of the VA controller in Washington released the study because of its "usefulness in long-range planning, particularly on a geographic basis, for veterans program service-facilities."

He said that Florida and Arizona are the only states in the projections which would have more war veteran residents in 1980, based on the assumption that each state will have either the same or one-half of the age-related migration pattern it had in the 1955-1960 period.

The state-by-state statistical study includes three estimates of war veteran population based on these three series of independent interstate migration assumptions:

(1) No state will have a net gain or loss of war veterans due to migration. (Murphy said this is "highly unlikely," and that this series is intended only as a "comparative base" against which to measure the effect of the other two migration assumptions.)

(2) Each state will have the same age-related migration pattern as it had in the 1955-1960 period, and

(3) The age-related migration pattern in every state will be one-half that of the 1955-1960 period.

Also, each series is based on the same assumptions concerning the future mortality of war veterans and the composition of that population by period of service and age. The VA manager said the projections are limited to the current war veteran population, which includes men and women in civil life or in the armed forces who served on active military duty up to and during the Korean conflict.

White Sox Win in Pee-Wee Baseball

Thief River Falls Pee-Wee baseball season came to a thrilling climax on Friday night as the favored White Sox wedged out a seventh ining victory over the Athletics. Randy Carlson, who had pitched the Athletics by the Cardinals and the highly rated Orioles earlier in the week, locked up with Mike Hamilton in a hotly contested pitcher's duel.

Carlson held the usually heavy-hitting Sox scoreless until the fifth inning, striking out 13 along the *way, while Hamilton was also strik*ing out 13 and giving up but two hits.

The Athletics pushed across one run in the fourth inning on a passed ball and two more in the top of the fourth on an error. The Sox scored once in the fifth, but Carlson, was equal to the task again and again, striking out the side with runners in scoring position almost every inning.

In the action-packed seventh, Mike Hamilton started things off with a home run, his fourth hit of the night after three triples. Don Hunt gained life on an error and after reaching third on two stolen bases, scored the tying run on Brian Peterson' squeeze bunt. Peterson scored the winning run moments later on Carlson's wild pitch.

The White Sox will receive their trophies and other seven Pee-Wee teams will be honored at the picnic to be held at Cnetennial park Thursday night at 5 p.m.

Roseau River Project Aired by Engineers

Melvin Jordahl of the St. Paul office of the Corps of Army Engineers explained the Roseau River improvement project to approximately 30 persons at an informal meeting at the Roseau county court house Monday evening, August 9. Selvin Erickson, president of the Roseau River Drainage group, was master of ceremonies at the meeting attended by the Roseau county board and the Roseau watershed district board.

In introducing Jordahl, Erickson stated that the plan for improvement has cleared both the St. Paul and Chicago offices of the corps and is now in Washington where it is hoped appropriations will be included in the omnibus bill this year.

Jordahl, using maps prepared by his office, outlined the projected improvements to the Roseau River bed. Total distance of improvement is to be approximately 44 miles and will include three levees and considerable channel straightening and, in places, deepening and widening.

One levee is within about a mile of the Canadian border outlet and is to be around 11,000 feet in length. It will be on the south side of the river. A second levee, in the Duxby area, will be some eight miles in length. The thrid will be near the old Roseau Lake and will be almost a mile in length. The levees are to fill in areas where the river banks are low and will help prevent overflow onto adjoining croplands, Jordahl explained.

The entire project is designed to prevent all but the most severe floods which occur about once in 10 years, Jordahl said. The project will involve some work in Canada to prevent an addition to that area's flood problems and to meet its requirements for admitting water.

The Canadian area improvement will include some 18 miles of remedial work at a cost to the United States government of some $394,000. Total cost of the overall project is estimated at $2,950,000 with the local share being about $390,000. This cost will depend to a great extent on what bridge work is to be done.

Jordahl indicated that four new bridges are proposed and four others will require some alternation. A study of the bridges will be made after the appropriation has been made. If some of the bridges can be dispensed with, he said, it will cut the costs.

The improvement of the channel would include variable bottom widths, and a 20-foot berm with the levees limited to 10-foot tops and eight-foot height. Jordahl estimated that the right-of-way would cost an estimated $70,000. The area to which the project would be assessed would be the Roseau Watershed district.

Fresh Fruits and Vegetables Best August Bargains

Fresh fruits and vegetables are among the best buys in Minnesota markets this month, Mary Ryan, extension consumer marketing specialist at the University of Minnesota, reports that red, green and purple grapes are particularly abundant, as well as reasonably priced. An estimated 3.8 million tons will be harvested this year—nine per cent more than last year and 17 per cent above the average.

California plums and Florida limes are also in the abundant category. California plum production is eight per cent above last year's record crop. Nectarines will be available into September, though the peak of this year's large crop comes this month. Prices are lower than they were a year ago.

Locally grown vegetables reasonably priced include cucumbers, green peppers, corn-on-the-cob, green beans, tomatoes, radishes, green onions and red potatoes. Potato prices are coming down as the 1965 crop comes in.

A number of Twin Cities markets are featuring beef this week. Prices for chuck and rib roasts, hamburger and a few other beef cuts are down from the highs of recent weeks. Prices are from five to 10 cents per pound more than the low prices consumers paid for beef during the winter, however.

Look for specials this week on frozen lemonade, canned pineapple, corn, beans, peas and asparagus and coffee. Two-pound cans of coffee can be found in the 99 cents to $1.29 range.

Roche Attends Geriatric Meet

Chapters Two and Four of the Minnesota Association of Geriatric Homes is meeting today (Monday) at 10 a.m. (CDST) at the St. Francis home in Breckenridge. Theme of the meeting is "Practical Approach to Food Service in a Home".

Dietary and administrative staff members of proprietary and non-proprietary homes in the area have been invited to attend. Leaders are Sister Mary Laurice, OSF, president, and Sister Mary Raymond, OSF, educational chairman. The registration fee of $5 per person covers the noon meal and luncheon which will follow the meeting.

J. M. Roche, superintendent of Oakland Park Nursing home in Thief River Falls is in attendance at the session.

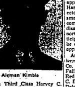
Harvey Kimble Completes Air Force Training



Airman Kimble

Airman Third Class Harvey C. Kimble, son of Mrs. Margaret M. Kimble of Thief River Falls, has completed U. S. Air Force basic military training at Lackland AFB, Tex.

Airman Kimble is being assigned to K. I. Sawyer AFB, Mich., for training and duty as a water and sanitation specialist. He is a member of the Strategic Air Command, America's long-range nuclear bomber and missile force. He is a 1963 graduate of Lincholn high school.

SBA Makes Loans To Area Firms In Month of July

Small Business Administration loans amounting to $3,338,157 were approved in July, according to Harry A. Sieben, SBA regional director. The loans were made to small business firms, development companies and flood and tornado disaster victims in Minnesota and northwestern Wisconsin. It is anticipated that 435 new jobs will be created as a result of the loan approvals during the month.

Among the firms to which loans were approved are the Eckstein Co. Gamble store of Red Lake Falls, $26,000; Medenleg, Inc. of Red Lake Falls, $14,000; Arthur C. Berg, McIntosh, $4,000; and the Delmore Clinic of Roseau, $40,00.

Tipping Custom Related Only to Service Performed

Tipping has become such an ingrained custom that the traveler—and, too often, the service personnel involved—is inclined to forget that tips are intended as a reward for good service, according to Arthur C. Tomlinson, executive secretary of the Minnesota AAA.

"It is still good practice," he declared, "To tip in relation to the service performed, and not because you feel you must."

Tomlinson pointed out, however, that there are generally accepted standard tips for standard services, and that the question often arises for the novice traveler about whom to tip, how much and when.

"Service personnel such as doormen, bellman, maids and bootblacks normally expect tips," he said. "The average today has gone up along with the cost of living, and usually 15 to 20 per cent is proper. The tip you leave, however, will depend on several factors—the quality of the service, the quality of the particular establishment and how much money you have available."

He said some guidelines for city hotel tipping include 25 cents to the bellhop for each bag; tips to the doorman in relation to any special service he performs; a tip to the maid who cleans your room if you are there more than one night, particularly in a resort—usually 50 cents to $3, depending on the length of your stay.

In a restaurant, it is normally only the waiter who serves you who gets a tip—averaging around per cent, with a higher percentage on smaller bills and a lower percentage on larger checks.

"But if the person who serves you is surly, rude or just plain inefficient, don't feel you have to tip just because it is "the thing to do," Tomlinson emphasized.

Price Not Only Consideration in Fresh Food Buys

If family meals have grown uninteresting, the color, texture and flavor of specific fruits and vegetables may be just what's needed to stimulate appetites, in the opinion of Grace Brill, extension nutritionist at the University of Minnesota.

"Important, too, in selecting fruit and vegetables, is to choose those that are good buys nutritionally. Since fruits and vegetables supply nearly all the vitamin C, and overhalf the vitamin A, we need, the major vitamin A and vitamin C providers are good buys regardless of price fluctuations," Miss Brill says. "Fruits and vegetables also provide essential minerals and they have the added advantage of being low in calories."

Miss Brill lists some of the fruits and vegetables in current supply that will provide an adult's vitamin A needs for one day: 3 medium fresh tomatoes; one-third cup cooked carrots; 1 cup cooked brocoli; two-fifths of a medium muskmelon; 3½ fresh peaches; ½ medium sweet potato.

Fruits and vegetables in these amounts will fulfill an adult's recommended daily requirement for vitamin C: two-thirds cup orange juice; 1 medium orange; 1½ cups raw cabbage; two-third cup cooked brocoli; 3½ medium potatoes; 2 medium fresh tomatoes; three-fifths medium muskmelon; ⅝ cup fresh strawberries.

"It has seemed to me sometimes as though I could see men hardening before my eyes, drawing in a feeler here, walling up a opening there. Naming things! Civil Rights or Civil War?

Outbreaks of violence in some of the metropolitan complexes of the nation in the past few days will leave a black mark on the pages of United States history. President Johnson's comment that "equal opportunity requires equal responsibility" will do little to erase the smudges. Whatever gains American Negroes have made in the past few years have received a severe set-back by the rioting and looting in Los Angeles.

It doesn't take an expert on civil rights and social behavior to know that the situation of the past few days goes much deeper than employment opportunity, equal education or voting rights. Negroes know that they can't find employment in a business looted of its contents and burned, nor can they shoot their way into a voting booth. Those Negroes concerned with social advancement of their race also realize that it is not accomplished by violence and increasing hatred but by showing they are capable of adjusting and making a useful contribution to society.

Los Angeles has long been a stronghold for subersive movements. Large communist meetings have been held there, noted communists have concentrated their activities in the Los Angeles area and the city and its known communists there are mentioned prominently in many FBI reports on subversive activities in the United States. There is no doubt that happenings of the past few days are under heavy communist influence and are Kremlin-inspired.

It is also a well-known fact that communists are heavily involved in the so-called civil rights movement, concerned only with creating internal strife in this nation. Sowing seeds of distrust and hatred, instigating violence, seeking political gain behind a smokescreen of moral controversy are all parts of the communist plan for eventual domination of the United States. Thanks to the indifference of the American people, the plan is working.

Our government is bending over backward to assure the communists they will have opportunity to work. Our laws permit them to assemble and plan our demise, to send propaganda throughout our nation, to sell their lies and half-truths to impressionable young minds at our colleges and universities, to travel at will in organizing their party membership and creating chaos. Our people are ignoring the communist threat, veiling it with complacency, leaving the task of stopping the malignancy to "somebody else".

The result of this complacency may be seen in the recent racial actions—more appropriately called civil war than civil rights. The riots and wreckage are a far cry from voter registration movements and legitimate complaints of inequality which the Negro has, and should be recognized as such.

No one can blame the Negro for attempting to better his lot in life; on the contrary, he should be commended for his attempts at self-improvement. On the other hand, however, no one can condone wanton murder, millions of dollars worth of damage and rebellious rioting, regardless of the professed cause or complaint. Perpetrators of the scheme, when apprehended, should be punished to the fullest extent of the law which applies to all races and creeds.

Trimming The Sails

Likely to trim the sales of political aspirants for public office is a recent decision handed down by the Hennepin County District court. Judge Luther Sletten's decision was that what looked like a reasonably good device for winning an election actually was misleading—therefore a violation of the state corrupt practices law.

Judge Sletten issued his decision on a contest growing out of an election for alderman in Minneapolis. A winning candidate had accused his incumbent opponent of having voted to increase property taxes by $200 per 40-foot lot. The winner has his accusation printed on a facsimile of the official Hennepin county annual tax statement bearing the printed signature of the county treasurer.

What the candidate said about the incumbent was true; he had voted to increase taxes by $200 per 40-foot lot. What the candidate did not say, however, was that this increase was to take place at $10 per year over a 20-year period. He made it appear that the increase would take effect this year—a move which was effectively calculated to induce taxpayers to make a change in public officials.

This situation forces us to think back to the 1962 election for governor when Gov. Elmer L. Andersen was defeated in a recount election by Karl Rolvaag. The hot election issue at that time was poor construction material in a very small portion of highway 35 under construction in northeastern Minnesota.

No mention was made in this case that the governor is not expected to inspect highway construction, that the road was not yet completed, or that competant state engineers must approve all completed jobs before payment is made. Inference was that the incumbent was somehow cheating the taxpayers for personal benefit. Calculated for release just before the election, th accusation was not proved false until after the votes were counted and the new governor inaugurated.

It would seem that the Hennepin County District court decision is subject to state supreme court review but the action should at least help curtail the misstatements and half-truths that sail around freely at election time. It is a decision that should help trim the sales of unethical politicians.

More on the Mail

American's railroad industry has added its objections to those already raised by the Interstate Commerce commission and the Post Office department to a bill in Congress dealing with transportation of U. S. mail by regulated motor carriers.

Railroad spokesmen told a House subcommittee on postal operations that the bill would permit truck transportation of mail without imposing on truckers the same obligations to provide "the complex and extensive service" required of the railroads. Furthermore, the bill not only would fail to meet public need, but could undermine the postal service as well as the national transportation policy, the rail spokesmen said.

Starr Thomas, general counsel for the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railway, testified that if Congress decides to enact legislation facilitating the diversion of mail trafficto regulated truckers, existing statutory requirements on the railroads to provide mail transportation service should be repealed. "Only then will the railroads be in a position to compete on a fair and equal basis for the desirable mail traffic," he said.

Railroads contend that the postmaster general already is provided with sufficient truck transportation authority under the existing "Star Route Law". Under this authority, the post office department's highway transportation outlay of $90.4 million in 1964 indicates an increase of 88 per cent over a 10-year period.

This area is certainly lamenting the use of trucks to replace rail service in the transportation of mail. Since mail service was removed from Soo Line trains 9 and 10, service has been appalling. We have received our mail later and been compiled to mail earlier (or wait a day longer). Even when there is compliance with the earlier mailing, there is no assurance that deliveries to addressed destinations will be made on schedule. Many times it seems there is no schedule, and complaints along the Soo Line to the north have been both numerous and justified. In spite of what the postal department promised, removal of mail from the trains has been a colossal step backward.

The Educated Man

—MARKS OF AN EDUCATED MAN—We hear much about the "drop-outs" from high schools and colleges, and certainly these young people handicap themselves by refusing to accept all possible educational opportunities offered. But is is not the diploma that makes the Educated Man or Woman. And any person who stops learning as soon as he leaves the Ivy Halls, is every bit as much a "drop-out" as his younger brothers and sisters.

It is far easier to get a diploma than it is to be an educated person. The two are not necessarily the same. Perhaps too much emphasis is placed on the former and not enough on what this diploma actually means. There are still young people who cannot attend college for one reason or another.

Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, former president of Columbia University, points out that any determined person who wants to gain an education can do so. With or without a diploma, Dr. Butler gives five marks by which you can recognize an Educated Man:

"The first of these is correctness and precision in the use of the mother tongue.

"A second and indispensable trait of the educated man is refined and gentle manners, which are themselves the expression of fixed habits of thought and action.

"A third trait of the educated man is the power and habit of reflection.

"A fifth trait of the educated man is his possession of efficiency and the power to do."

There is not one of these five marks which cannot be developed outside college walls. There is not one of them which any college can guarantee to impart to its students. Education, whether in college or out, requires a great deal of hard study, a great deal of honest thinking, and strong character. The person with the determination and the capacity for these things will become an educated verson, whether or not he has the advantages of college help.

Interesting Opinions . . .

"An open mind is all very well in its way, but it ought not to be so open that there is no keeping anything in or out of it. It should be capable of shutting its doors sometimes, or it may be found a little drafty." —Samuel Butler

Borrowed Nonsense . . .

Twomen were working on the White House lawn in Washington. Each was walking about picking up bits of paper with a pointed stick. As one spied a piece and was about to stab it, a sudden gust of wind came up and blew the paper through an open window into the White House.

Frantically the man rushed inside the building. He returned shortly afterward and said to his companion: "I was too late. He had already signed it."

Otter Tail Power Rate Reduction Begins Sept. 1

Most retail electric customers of Otter Tail Power company will pay less for electricity used September 1 and thereafter under system-wide voluntary electric rate reductions which the company will place into effect on that date.

Benefits of the current Otter Tail rate reductions to its customers in the three states in which it operates will amount to about $338,000 annually. This, coupled with customer savings resulting from other rate reductions since mid-1963, brings the total annual customer savings to about $840,000.

While the largest benefits of this most recent rate reduction will go to combined light and power customers of the company, residential and industrial customers will also share in the savings. Reductions to the latter class of customer is intended to help encourage industrial development in the company's service area.

"It is the policy of the company to share with its customers any savings resulting from increasingly more efficient operations, or from any factors lowering company operating costs. Likewise, the company is dedicated to electric rates which will encourage its customers to make the most of their electric service by designing them in such a way that the average cost per kilowatt-hour will be less the more the customer uses."

To Use New Form On Tree Orders

A new form will be used this year for ordering tree planting stock from state forest nurseries, the Minnesota Conservation department's forestry division announced today. No orders will be accepted on the old forms nor will any orders be accepted prior to September 1.

Prices for tree seedlings will remain the same as last year. Trees are sold in minimum quantities of 500 at a cost of one cent each. If more than one species is desired, no less than 100 trees of each species may be ordered.

Delivery will be made in the spring of 1966. The purchaser pays all shipping costs from the nursery, or he may elect to pick up his trees at the nursery as explained on the order forms.

For the first time, black walnut seedlings will be available from state forest nurseries as well as the usual stratified seed. Those ordering this species should specify whether they wish seedlings or seed.

Other tree species available from nurseries next spring include White, Norway, Ponderosa, Jack and Scotch pine, white, black and Colorado spruce, white cedar, silver maple, green ash and caragena.

Tree order applications will be available from forestry field offices, county agents, ACP offices and at forestry division headquarters in the Centennial Building, St. Paul.

Deductions Under Wool Program To Remain Static

Deductions from wool program incentive payments for the 1965 marketing year to finance the wool and lamb producers' self-help promotion program will continue at the same rates as in the past, according to Marcel Dahl, chairman of the Marshall County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee.

Deduction rates will be one cent per pound from shorn wool payments and 5 cents per hundred pounds of liveweight from unshorn lamb payments. These rates are the same as those made from payments received by producers since the beginning of the program.

The chairman pointed out that the promotion is conducted by the American Sheep Producers Council, Inc., under an agreement with the Secretary of Agriculture providing for advertising, sales promotion and related market development activities on wool and lamb, as authorized under the National Wool Act. The present agreement—covering the years 1962-1965—was approved in a producer referendum held in 1962.

For the 1964 marketing year, deductions from payments for financing the council's activities are estimated at $2.5 million.

State DFL Group Meets Saturday

Minnesota DFL state central committee will hold a special meeting Saturday at the Nicollet hotel in Minneapolis beginning at 10 a.m., according to George Farr, state chairman.

Some of the topics to be discussed will include briefing on the upcoming Friends and Neighbors drive; methods to be used in dealing with ineffective or inactive county officers; fund raising projects; and executive committee recommendations relative to the enlargement of field representative staff.

Yard 'n' Garden

G. GUSTAV HARD ORRIN C. TURNQUIST
UNIVERSITY OF MINNESOTA
AGRICULTURAL EXTENSION SERVICE

Mid-August is one of the better times for starting the new lawn because during this season there is less weed competition and the fall rains often help to get the seed started. The best time to seed a new lawn is between August 15 and September 10.

Thorough soil preparation is especially important before starting a new lawn. Once the seed has been sown or the sod laid, there's very little that can be done to alter the base soil for the lawn.

Here are some suggestions for soil preparation. First, add organic matter to both sandy soils and the heavy clay soils. Good sources of organic matter include barnyard manure, compost or commercial peat. The organic matter should be worked into the upper 6-inch layer of the soil surface.

Add 40 to 50 pounds of complete fertilizer such as the 10-10-10 analysis or 12-12-12 per 1,000 square feet. Most Minnesota soils do not need lime. However, if you don't know whether your soil is acid or alkaline, see your county agent about having a soil test.

Use a good quality grass seed containing a high percentage of permanent grasses. Such grasses as Kentucky bluegrass are recommended for the heavier soils, whereas mixtures with fescue are better for the lighter soils and under shady conditions.

Grass seed is usually sown on a firm seed bed. If the soil is very fluffy or loose from roto-tilling, it should be rolled prior to the seeding. The same would be true if sod were to be laid. When the grass is growing well, by the end of September you can make the first application of complete fertilizer.

Mowing should usually begin when the grass is about three inches tall.

Our LAND

Appearing in newspapers of the Minnesota Editorial Association through the cooperation of the U.S. Soil Conservation Service and the University of Minnesota Institute of Agriculture

"Ranches" that measure about two inches square, being sold in some areas of the nation, may cause some knotty government problems in those localities. And they're the kind of problems that some well-guided land use planning might avoid.

Other examples may be closer to home. James Hawks, planning consultant with Midwest Planning and Research, Inc., illustrates one kind of problem:

"Should a landowner," he asks, "have the right to sell building lots where the only access is over a private, 14-foot-wide, unimproved road with a 15 per cent grade and sharp curves."

"This is in a community where the new owners will expect fire protection from the local volunteer fire department equipped with a new $35,000 fire truck."

Hawks and Tom Anding, Upper Midwest Research and Development council, pointed out in a recent University of Minnesota conference that land use planning is far from being a new idea in the U.S.

Regulations governing use of land goes back even farther than the 19th century action in Germany to control types of dwellings. In 1903, the city of Boston regulated building heights.

The first kind of land use control in the U.S. resulted from the adoption of the basic General Land Office rectangular land survey.

Later, the Homestead Act resulted in the common "quarter-section" custom of land subdivision. Wisconsin in 1923 put into use a county zoning ordinance that paved the way for adoption of land use measures in sparsely settled forested areas.

Hawks, Anding and others at the conference, sponsored by the University Agricultural Extension service, stressed that comprehensive land use planning is a thoughtful and effective way to reduce the possibility of creating rural slums and preserving an attractive Minnesota countryside.

Would you like to be as young as she is? Would you like to wake up tomorrow and find yourself standing in a field of Queen Anne's lace, with the summer breeze blowing and fleecy white clouds sailing overhead?

Would you really like to be as young as she is? If you've been measuring up to life, the answer should be no. Naturally, you can look at her with nostalgia. But think of the lessons she has yet to learn —lessons you learned long ago. Add up your experiences, both good and bad, which wouldn't be yours were you to revert to youth. The total should make you glad that you are exactly the age you are.

If you aren't—something's missing. Somewhere, you've gotten off the track. In this case, you don't need to return to childhood. You need, rather, a new approach to adulthood, a new grasp, a new understanding. Start finding it now . . . in the church of your choice.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Specialist or Jack-of-all-Trades?

More and more, our graduate schools are preparing young men and women for the "Age of Specialization." Scientists who will specialize in a single segment of one part of the complex world of science. Doctors who will concentrate in one particular field of medicine. Lawyers who will devote themselves exclusively to one branch of the law. Accountants who will pursue the special problems of tax legislation.

The jack-of-all-trades can no longer give satisfactory service if he tries to cope with all of the problems in any particular field. Specialization has become almost mandatory as the horizons of knowledge continue to expand.

Savings and loan associations are specialists. They specialize in two fields—savings and home loans.

Today, savings and loan associations provide the facilities for 37,000,000 people to save their money with safety and profit.

Today, savings and loan associations make more home loans than all other financial institutions combined, over 1,000,000 in 1964 alone.

This specialization provides better services for you and the people in your community. If you are planning to open a savings account or want a home loan to fit your individual need, come in and see us. We are specialists.

Local Liquor Store Sales Totaled $519,026 in 1964

Thief River Falls municipal liquor store topped the half million dollar mark in sales for the first time in 1964, becoming one of 15 stores in the state to surpass the $500,000 mark. The total was an increase of about $24,000 from the previous year.

According to the "Municipal Liquor Store" magazine, the Thief of $519,026 as compared with River Falls store had total sales $495,265 in 1964. Cost of sales was $367,066 with gross profit of $151,960 being 29.3 per cent of sales. Operating expense of $75,718 left a net income of $76,242 with a total of $58,000 contributed from this amount to other municipal funds. Thief River Falls population is listed in the report as 7,151.

By comparison, the Crookston store had gross sales of $395,878, cost of sales of $254,237 and a gross profit of $141,641 for 35.8 per cent of sales. Operating expense was $89,563, leaving a net income of $52,078, with $53,374 being contributed to other municipal funds. Crookston's population is listed at 8,546.

Oklee showed one of the largest percentages of gross profit among the state's nearly 400 stores with 43.2 per cent. The store in that community had $67,820 in sales, $38,521 in cost of sales and gross profit of $29,299. Operating expense totaled $15,520, leaving net income of $13,779. A total of $15,500 was turned over to other municipal funds.

Plummer's store had gross sales of $48,419, cost of sales of $30,296 and gross profit of $18,123 or 37.4 per cent of sales. Operating expense was $15,187, leaving a net income of $2,936 and $5,681 was contributed to other municipal funds.

Sales at St. Hilaire totaled $86,283 while cost of sales was $54,608, leaving a gross profit of $31,675 or 36.7 per cent of sales. Operating expense totaled $21,168, leaving a net income of $10,506 and $11,200 was contributed to other municipal funds.

Red Lake Falls municipal store had sales of $114,720 with cost of sales totaling $72,601, leaving a gross profit of $42,119 or 36.7 per cent of sales. Operating expenses totaled $25,509, leaving net income of $16,610, with $18,000 being contributed to other municipal funds.

Richfield, with a reported population of 42,523, topped the state with sales of $2,387,845, cost of sales of $1,793,757 and gross profit of $594,008 or 24.9 per cent of sales. Operating expense totaled $145,983, leaving a net income of $448,105 with $456,327 being contributed to other municipal funds.

For the entire state, the 397 municipal liquor stores sold $53,390,353 worth of merchandise and realized a net income of $7,823,840. A total of $6,830,027 was returned in the form of contributions to other governmental funds to be used for civic improvements, tax reductions and other needed municipal improvements, the magazine reports. Only five of the stores in the state showed a net loss during the year.

Milk Producers To Cancel Contracts

Ed Richter, chairman of the Red River Valley Milk Producers pool, has announced that " . . . dairy farmers with so-called marketing agreements with Land O'Lakes Creameries or their Bridgeman division are sending letters of notification to the association terminating their agreements." Richter said that about 65 per cent of those dairy farmers who are members of the Red River Valley Milk Producers pool have sent terminating letters.

Land O'Lakes marketing agreements have a terminating clause ranging from 90 to 180 days, Richter said.

Hearings will be held tomorrow in Crookston on the validity of the marketing agreements between Land O'Lakes and producers. Three Pennington county milk producers who attempted to divert milk on their farms to other markets were issued a temporary restraining order by Judge Harley Swenson, Ninth District court justice.

Issuedrest raining orders were Darrow Lundeen and Merle Lundeen of rt. 2, Trail, and Olaf and Orlin Stolaas, a partnership, rt. 1, Oklee. As a result, these producers were compelled to comply with the terms of their agreements with Land O'Lakes by continuing to supply the cooperative with their farms' milk production.

Richter said in a news release that, "The grievance against Land O'Lakes stems from a feeling that the association is not complying with articles in the so-called agreement. The dairy farmers feel that the Land O'Lakes fluid milk division has failed to meet their obligations as stated in article or paragraph number two of the agreement."

Richter quotes the paragraph in question as follows: "The Cooperative Association agrees to receive said milk and cream at said bulk Grade A station and sell the same or manufacture the same and sell the products thereof in such manner as it deems most advantageous to the producer and all other producers whoe milk is received by Land O'Lakes Fluid Milk Division."

Other practices which the milk producers pool considers "questionable" are said to be the selling of milk at wholesale at a four cent per quart differential to various retail outlets, whether dispenser or by the bottle at somewhat lesser margin.

Land O'Lakes has refused to sign a contract with the milk producers pool, stating that it is contrary to its articles and by-laws to guarantee a price in advance for commodities which it markets.

Area Students Receive Degrees

University of Minnesota graduated approximately 615 undergraduate and graduate students Friday at the second summer session commencement exercises in Northrop Memorial stadium. Among those who received degrees were Bryant Lynn Ulseth, Thief River Falls, master of arts in music education; Marjory Lou Larson, Roseau, bachelor of science in home economics education; and Ione Joyce Dunner, Holt, bachelor of science in education.

Commencement address, entitled "The Limits of Freedom", was delivered by George F. Budd, currently president of St. Cloud State College, who will become president of Kansas State college, Pittsburgh, Kan., September 1.

Sept. 3 Deadline For Cover Crops

Deadline date to sign up for seeding oats, barley or rye for winter cover is September 3, according to Marcel Dahl, chairman of the Marshall County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee.

Dahl has requested that anyone interested in seeding a winter cover contact the office in Warren and put in their request for it before that date. September 30 has been set as the deadline to request stubble mulching.

HIGHWAY USE TAX DUE AUGUST 31

Owners of trucks, truck-tractors and buses were reminded by George O. Lethert, district director of Internal Revenue, that their annual highway use tax return must be filed and the tax paid on or before August 31.

The tax year covered by this return began on July 1 and ended June 30, 1966. Taxpayers filing before the deadline may elect to pay their tax in four equal installments, the first payment being due with the return, Lethert stated.

Lions Club Told Of Swimming Pool Promotion Plans

Thief River Falls Lions club met for its regular noon meeting Wednesday at the Elks clubrooms. President Phil Kays reminded the group that the annual golf classic between the Lions and Rotary club will be held Monday afternoon at the local country club. The Lions club is this year's host.

President Kays then introduced Dr. Donald Goodrich who spoke to the club on the forth-coming issue of a swimming pool for Thief River Falls. Dr. Goodrich reviewed some past history about the formation of committees and how he became connected with the project.

"Two main reasons stand out for the need of a swimming pool here in Thief River Falls", Dr. Goodrich said. "One of them is the health factor; the second is the safety of swimming in a municipal pool."

He went on to say that other communities which do not have swimming pools also have a much higher death from drowning rate than those cities which do provide pools for swimming. The river has produced many cases of skin disorders and other infectious diseases and it is an unhealthy place to swim, Dr. Goodrich said.

Dr. Goodrich mentioned a project being conducted by the local Junior Chamber of Commerce to raise funds to promote the swimming pool issue in the forth-coming election to be held this November. Rick Contos explained the details to the club. A model of the proposed pool which the committee believes is adequate was presented to the club for inspection.

He concluded his talk by holding a brief question and answer period.

Area Youths at FU Camp Held in Rocky Mountains

Fifty-five Minnesota Farmers Union youths attended a 10-day National Farmers Union Allstates camp as an award for completion of at least four years of the F. U. senior youth study and project work, with Mrs. Lura Reimnitz, Minnesota Farmers Union education director, in charge of the group.

11 states and Canada were represented at the Allstates Camp in 1965. Seventeen counties in Minnesota were represented. Five from the northwest area included Harley Lind, Newfolden; Georgia Anderson and Marilyn Morken, Grygla; Beryl Peterson, Baudette; and Carole Olsonoski, Lancaster.

In addition to the time spent at the Rocky Mountain camp, an additional five days was spent sight seeing in the Rocky Mountains and in the Black Hills, with a tour of the South Dakota state capitol and the Oaho dam and a visit to the Bad Lands as additional tour privileges.

Grygla School Classes To Start Tuesday, Aug. 31

Registration for the 1965-1966 term at the Grygla grade school will be held from 9 to 10:30 a.m. August 30. Classes will begin at 9 a.m., August 31, and the school lunch program will be in operation.

Returning faculty members are Mrs. Harriet Nelsen, Mrs. Helen Knutson, Mrs. Clara Boyum, Mrs. Janet Linn, Mrs. Luella Solberg, Mrs. Olga Engevik, Mrs. Doris Simmons, Mrs. Jelle and Kenneth Rusten. New to the faculty is David Stromlund, who will teach seventh grade and coach basketball.

Returning as secretary is Miss Carol Tiegland. Cooks are Mrs. Adeline Strom and Mrs. Mabel McLean, and Orville Askelund will return as custodian, according to Kenneth Rusten, Principal.

TRF Bank Debits Rise 7 Per Cent To $9,947,000

Bank debits in Thief River Falls during July were up seven per cent from the same month a year ago, according to statistics released by the Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis. The city's bank debits volume during July of this year was $9,947,000. In the same month of 1964 the total figure was $9,309,000. During the first seven months of 1965 bank debits amounted to $62,683,000, an increase of six per cent from the same period in 1964.

For Minnesota the July volume of bank debits for reporting cities increased 12 per cent from July of last year. Debits for the first seven months of 1965 increased nine per cent from the same period in 1964.

The volume of bank debits reported by the total sample of Ninth Federal Reserve district cities for July increased 10 per cent from a year ago. The cumulative total for the first seven months of 1965 indicated an eight per cent increase from the comparable 1964 period.

Bank debits are mostly checks against depositors' accounts and goods, services, debts, etc. They also include transfers of funds which of themselves have no business significance. Bank debits mainly include all debits against checking accounts of individuals, partnerships and corporations, and states and political subdivisions. They do not include debits to the accounts of other banks, the United States government and savings accounts.

J. Arthur Johnson Jr., received his masters degree in Mathematics at the University of South Dakota at Vermillion on Friday, August 13. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Arthur Johnson Sr., of this city attended the graduation excercises. He is engaged as an instructor in Mathematics at the Senior high school at Fergus Falls.

30 Rams Consigned to Purebred Sale Here

Thirteen breeders have consigned 30 rams of four popular breeds to the 17th annual Northwestern Minnesota Purebred Ram Show and Sale to be held in Thief River Falls Monday, September 13, according to Peter Probasco, sale manager. Hampshires, Shropshires, Suffolks and Columbias have been consigned to the sale.

"This is, no doubt, one of the more select groups of rams consigned to the show and sale," Probasco said. Object of the sale is to increase interest in sheep production in this area and to improve the quality of flocks through introduction of top grade rams. Free catalogs may be received by interested persons by writing Box 708, Thief River Falls.

Consignors to the show include the following: Hampshires—Lawrence Sinner, Moorhead; Gordon Clow, Lancaster; Emory Cameron, Hallock; Melvin Sele & Sons, Lake Bronson; Edgar and Orlen Olson, Fosston; and Sam Bigger, Crookston; Shropshires — Kermit Maldment and Ray Aandal and Sons, Goodridge; Suffolks — Sandra and Michael Brattlien, Clearbrook; Harden Stock Farm, Hawley; Oliver Lien, Oklee; and Paul Billberg & Sons, Wannaska; Columbias—Melvin Sele and Sons, Lake Bronson; Alvin Fjeld, Goodridge; Paul Billberg and Sons, Wannaska; and Gordon Clow, Lancaster.

"Sheep are among the most profitable classes of livestock in this area," Probasco said, "and good rams are the basis for profitable lamb production. A ram from this sale would be a real asset to making a flock still more profitable.

"Northwestern Minnesota vocational - agriculture farm management records bear out the fact that sheep are a very profitable enterprise when properly managed and with a good breeding program," Probasco said.

"Sheep men in the area that were in the top 20 per cent in profit per ewe averaged a gross return per ewe of $36.28 in 1962, $29.01 in 1963, and $33.27 in 1964. Their return above feed cost per ewe averaged $25.07 in 1962, $18.27 in 1963 and $22.67 in 1964. In comparison to other livestock, these same sheep men showed a return per $100 feed fed of $352 in 1962, $270 in 1963 and $313 in 1964. In view of lamb prices this year, profits in 1965 should be higher."

The profit picture for sheep looks good for a good number of years to come. In this regard Carl Spong of the Central Livestock association states:

"Sheep numbers in the United States are at the lowest level in 98 years. Wool is the only agricultural product in short supply and has to be imported in large amounts each year for domestic use here in the United States. Congress has passed a law to pay incentive payments on wool to try and encourage the raising of more sheep in this country. This is one farm program that doesn't cost the U. S. tax payer one cent, as the incentive payments are made from the duty collected on wool shipped into this country."

"With these incentive wool payments and low sheep numbers, the sheep industry never looked so good. Lamb and wool prices should be real good for several years at least, as it takes seven to eight years to increase sheep numbers. It is a proven fact that farmers can make more money on sheep, if they use good breeding stock and good management, than on any other class of livestock.

"Now is the time to increase and improve farm flocks, by buying a good bred ram as your number one step toward improving your wool and lamb crop."

RAZED Thursday afternoon by Harry Dahl's construction crew was the nurses' home located north of the Thief River Clinic, which has been unoccupied for some time. The structure was built soon after World War I by W. A. Bishop, a local carpenter, on a site that used to be occupied by a feed store. The four-apartment building was sold to Northwestern hospital for use as nurses' quarters a number of years ago but eventually deteriorated and was abandoned. Knocking the building down required some skillful maneuvering on the part of the crane operator, since the rubble had to fall to the north to avoid endangering the clinic. Before the scoop shovel took over, the first section of roof was pulled off with cables and wooden cross-beams.

Tonight and Wednesday . . .

Jaycees Will Sponsor Free Rabies Clinic

A new and unique service to residents of Thief River Falls and the surrounding area will be performed on two evenings this week by the Thief River Falls Jaycees. With public health and safety in mind, and with the cooperation of the city police department, the local Mrs. Jaycees and veterinarian F. W. Hazard, the Jaycees have scheduled a free rabies vaccination clinic tonight (Monday) and Wednesday evening.

The clinic will be held from 6:30 to 9 p. m. each night in the Red Owl parking lot, which proprietor Otto Stenberg has made available to the Jaycees for the two evenings. Dr. Hazard has agreed to donate his time free of charge to administer the vaccinations to dogs and cats which are brought to the clinic area. Jim Wills is in charge of the project for the Jaycees.

Persons whose pets are vaccinated will have the opportunity to purchase licenses immediately afterward, although licensing at the clinic is voluntary. Police department personnel will be present to license the animals.

Pet owners will not be charged for the vaccination service. The cost of the phenolized vaccine and the hypodermic needles and syringes will be sustained by the Jaycees, and manpower is entirely on a volunteer basis.

Wills emphasized that the vaccination clinic is open to both rural and city residents who would like to have their dogs and cats vaccinated against rabies. He also noted that city ordinance required that dogs must be leashed, and those brought to the clinic should be under control of a collar and leash.

While it is of advantage to owners for all pets to have the rabies shots, it is of particular importance for farm dogs and to those who use their dogs for hunting or run them in the country, Wills said. The danger of these animals coming in contact with rabid animals such as skunks or foxes is much greater than that of those dogs generally confined to the house or yard.

Jaycees assisting with the clinic will be Robert Ekeren, Gordon Anderson and Robert Ohlhauser on Monday, and Bennie Bjerken, Dell Christianson and Marvin Lundin on Wednesday. Mrs. Jaycees assisting will be Mrs. Glenn Peterson, Mrs. James Fisher and Mrs. Silas Glere on Monday, and Mrs. Donald Goodrich, Mrs. Marshall Simons and Mrs. Charles Follett on Wednesday.

160 Girl Scouts End Camp Session

The Brownies set up their campsites, put up small tents, gathered firewood, and learned how a fire is set up. Fire safety was stressed and the purpose of the fire pail made known. One-pot meals and stick cookery was the extent of their cooking. New songs, new games, nature study, spattering leaves, drawing familiar scenes, grass dolls, trail and signs, name trinkets from wood comprised their art work.

The Juniors cooked their noon meals each day using one-pot meals, foil cookery, stick cooking, buddy burners, reflector ovens, and some even went into the Scout House to cook pizza and learn how to use the wood range. The Juniors completed their week of cooking by having a progressive dinner. Appetizers were eaten at Twin Poplars, the main dish was fixed by the Black Feet and Kritz-and-Company units, and the dessert was eaten at the Munsters campsite.

The Juniors learned about the Roundup from Sherry Adamson and learned new songs, the use of the compass, nature trails, and worked on various badges while at camp.

Thursday night many friends and relatives inspected the camp sites well guided by small campers.

Friday the camp was put in order, tents folded away, properties checked in and everything left clean and orderly for future troop camping. The camp closed with the presentation of a Scouts Own ceremony with an international theme. The highlight of the program came when Susan Lee presented her guest Napapon Sailasuta from Bangkok, Thiland who will be the exchange student during the coming year. "Pum" has participated in Girl Scouting in her own country.

Mrs. Johnson's helpers included Mrs. D Robinson and Mrs. E. Holmstrom, calling committee; Mrs. Clarence Knudsen, Mrs. Howard Langlie and Mrs. R. G. Anderson; nurses; Mrs. Cora Anderson, properties; Mrs. James Cuppett, music; Mrs. H. Achenback, nature study; Mrs. Floyd Canfield, [illegible], and Mrs. Gunder Legvold, shopper.

Unit leaders and assistant leaders were Mrs. Florian Kritz, Jeannette Noper, Mrs. Donald D. Vivian Jacobson Weds Rolland Smith At Frazee

Miss Vivian Jacobson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Erling Jacobson of Frazee became the bride of Rolland Smith, son of Mrs. Lillian Smith of Thief River Falls, on Saturday, July 10, at 2:30 p.m. at Bethlehem Lutheran church, Frazee. The Rev. E. H. Martens performed the double-ring ceremony and Mrs. Manford Dokken, accompanied by Judy Johnson, sang "The Song Of Ruth" and "The Lord's Prayer". Blue and white delphiniums formed the background for the ceremony while white bows marked the pews.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of white chantilly lace fashioned with a fitted bodice, a scalloped neckline, long Mary Stuart sleeves and a regal skirt. Seed pearls and sequins enhanced the front of the bodice. Her fingertip veil of silk illusion was held in place by a crown of crystal and pearls and she carried a cascade bouquet of red roses.

Miss Lois Jacobson, attended her sister as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Marlys Willets of Fargo, N.D., and Vaugh Fassit of East Grand Forks. They wore identical street-length gowns of white satin with matching short veiled headpieces and carried three red roses. Their pearl necklaces and lace gloves were gifts of the bride.

Attending the groom as best man was his brother, Wayne Smith. Groomsmen were Ronald Hanson of Moorhead and Robert Binko of Minneapolis. Ushers were Paul Anderson and Don Oldenberg, both of Moorhead and Dennis Jacobson, brother of the bride.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Jacobson wore an aqua-blue sheath dress. The mother of the groom was attired in a pink sheath dress. Both mothers wore white accessories and corsages of pink and white gardenias. Attending the wedding as honor guest was the grandmother of the bride, Mrs. Paul Jacobson. She wore a light blue sheath dress with white accessories and a corsage of white gardenias.

Approximately 250 guests attended the reception in the church parlors following the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Gordeon Sanders served as host and hostess, Kathy Paulubicki registered the guests and Frances Niess served the punch. The wedding cake, baked and decorated by the mother of the bride, was cut and served by Mrs. George Hansen of Fargo, N.D., aunt of the groom, and Mrs. Ross Gabriel of Moorhead. Mrs. Ray Jacobson, aunt of the bride and Mrs. Marvin Lundin, Thief River Falls, poured. Dixie Paesler, Rachael Halverson, Connie Hanson and Dennis Jacobson arranged the gifts and the waitresses were Pam Cook, Susan Sharp, Rosemary Henn and Janet Sanders.

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding were from Oregon and Illinois; Jamestown and Fargo, N.D.; St. Paul, Thief River Falls, Moorhead, Morris and Detroit Lakes.

Following the rehearsal on Friday evening, July 9, the mother of the groom entertained at a dinner at the Erie Jr. club.

For the wedding trip, the bride chose a pink two-piece dress. Mr. and Mrs. Smith are now at home at 701 20th Street South, Fargo, N.D. The bride will teach at Meville, N.D., and the groom is a chef at the Slater Food Service at Moorhead State College.

Eagles Aux. Gives Linen Shower For A Local Member

President Teen Berg was in charge of the officers meeting and the regular order of business at the regular meeting of the Eagles auxiliary Monday, August 2. During her absence, meetings were conducted by Muriel Steinhauer, president pro tem. Members had been contacted previously and had decided that this was to be a social evening with a local member, Ann Tonder, the guest of honor at a linen shower. Mrs. Tonder lost most of her linens in a recent fire. Darlene Davidson was in charge of making the arrangements for the shower and Ruth Onkka and Shirley Ehrenstrom were in charge of the special entertainment.

A year's dues was won by Darlene Davidson and prizes were won by Loretta Helle and Ella Larson. Hostesses serving lunch were Doris Seefeldt, Agnes Quinlog and Stella Carlson.

At the Monday meeting of the Eagles Auxiliary with President Teen Berg in charge, Gladys Odegaard reported on the week that Dolly Odegaard and Debbie Larson had spent at the Minnesota ARC camp at Annandale.

Prizes were won by Ann Irvin and Olga Ryan. Shirley Ehrenstrom and Ruth Onka were in charge of entertainment and the hostesses were Darlene Davidson and Helen Dahl.

Due to the closing of the clubs on Labor Day, the next meeting of the auxiliary will be held Tuesday, September 7, with balloting on new members to be included in the meeting.

Murray Dicken Observes Fifth Birthday Aug. 7

Murray Dicken, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dicken Jr., observed his fifth birthday Saturday afternoon, August 7, with a birthday party at his home. The attire for the young guests attending was swimming suits as the pool and slides had been set up in the back yard. Stephen Zachar, uncle of Murray, assisted Mrs. Dicken in supervising the youngsters. The birthday lunch was served outdoors by the pool.

Guests attending were Cindy and Randy Joppru, Jackie and Danny Gross, Mike and Jeff Olson, Terry Beleli, Wade Hoppe and his brother, Mitch Dicken.

Emily Hagen Exchanges Vows With L. Dunston

At a wedding ceremony, the first to be held in Dauphinne Chapel at Pacific Union College, Angwin Calif., Miss Emily Jean Hagen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hagen of Gatzke and Loren Dunston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Dunston of Wilamina, Ore., recently exchanged their marriage vows.

Candelabra and large bouquets of white gladioli, stocks and yellow mums formed the setting for the ceremony performed by Elder Clyde Sage of Camino, Calif. Organist was David Worth and the soloists were Elder Erwin Sorenson and Sharon Daugarthy.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, Rodney Peterson, wore a gown fashioned of lace and organza styled with a lace bodice, long tapering sleeves [illegible] a scalloped neckline and a full organza skirt enhanced with lace appliques. Adding back interest was a large bow at the waistline. The shoulder-length veil of tulle fell from a crown of pearls and she carried a white orchid surrounded by yellow roses and white mums.

Elizabeth Hagen attended her sister as maid of honor while her sister, Laurel, and a friend, Linda Furbo, were bridesmaids. They wore moss-green floor-length gowns and carried yellow bouquets of roses and mums.

The groom chose his brother, Lowell Dunston of Berring Springs, Mich., as best man. Groomsmen were Jerry Sage and Delmer Davis while the ushers were Gene Bresee and Robert Leech.

Mrs. Rodney Peterson, an aunt of the bride, represented the mother of the bride at the wedding. She wore a chartreuse green floral-patterned dress, with beige accessories and the mother of the groom was attired in a champagne beige suit with green hat and matching accessories. Both wore corsages of white orchids.

The bride is a graduate of the Maplewood Academy at Hutchinson and the Pacific Union College in California where the groom is a student.

Sabo-Messersmith Vows Repeated At Phoenix

Miss Jahlee Lorraine Sabo of Glendale, Ariz., and formerly of Newfolden and Jack Messersmith of Phoenix, Ariz., exchanged marriage vows in a candlelight ceremony Saturday, July 24, at 8 p.m. in the Bethel Lutheran church at Phoenix. The Rev. L. O. Talo performed the double ring ceremony before an altar graced with carnations and lilies and banked on either side by baskets of palms.

The parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Harold Sabo of Newfolden and Mr. and Mrs. Jack D. Messersmith of Phoenix, Ariz.

The bride, escorted to the altar by Adrian Ware of Glendale, Ariz., was attired in a silk organza gown fashioned with a sculptured bodice, sabrina neckline and traditional long sleeves. The bell shaped skirt billowed back to a full length chapel train with re-embroidered Alencon lace and crystals enhancing the bodice and chapel train. A tiara of crystal and pearls held the butterfly veil of illusion net and she carried a cascade of yellow roses on a white Bible.

Mrs. Barry Master of Tucson, Ariz., sister of the groom, attended the bride as matron of honor. She wore a floor-length gown of blue satin styled with a lace empire bodice and a bell designed skirt. Pearl drops trimmed the bodice and formed the tiara that secured the bule net headpiece. She carried a bouquet of white carnations tipped with blue.

Bridesmaids were Diane Fisher of Phoenix, Ariz., and Mona Tunheim, also of Phoenix and formerly of Newfolden. They wore floor-length gowns of pink crepe with bell skirts and empire bodices of basket weave crepe. Their headpieces were of pink net and they carried white carnations tipped with pink. They all wore long white gloves, gifts of the bride.

The groom chose Jerry Sabo of Detroit Lakes, brother of the bride, as his best man. Groomsmen were Barry Master of Tucson, Ariz., brother-in-law of the groom and Floyd Myers, of Phoenix, Ariz.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at Romley's restaurant for approximately 50 guests. Centering the serving table was a three-tiered wedding cake decorated with white roses, tipped in blue, and topped with a miniature bride and groom.

Out-of-town guests attending were from Avondale, Scottsdale, Glendale and Tucson, Ariz., and Detroit Lakes, Minn.

The bride is a 1964 graduate of Newfolden community high school and is presently employed at Ameco, Inc., in Phoenix, Ariz. The groom, a graduate of Bruster high school in Tampa, Fla., attended Durham college in Phoenix, Ariz., and is employed with the Union Oil company of California in Phoenix.

After a short trip to northern Arizona, the couple will be at home at 5726 N. Black Canyon Highway, Apartment 10, Phoenix, Ariz. For traveling, the bride wore a lace trimmed beige dress, with white accessories.

Diane Allison Becomes Bride Of Dean Shafer

Miss Diane Allison of Jamestown, N.D., and formerly of this city, and Dean Edward Shafer of Greenbush exchanged marriage vows Saturday, August 7, in St. Bernard's Catholic church, Thief River Falls. Parents of the couple are Mrs. Flora Allison of St. Paul and formerly of this city, Frank Allison of Odessa, Texas and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Shaefer of Greenbush.

The Rev. Keough Patnode officiated at the double ring ceremony. Music provided by church organista nd girls' choir included "O Lord, I am not Worthy". "Ava Maria" was sung as the couple presented a bouquet of gladioli at the altar of Mary. White gladioli and giant pink dahlias in floor baskets graced the chancel.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Leopold Foldesi of Greenbush, the bride was attired in a sleeveless slipper satin gown fashioned with a fitted bodice with a square front neckline dipping to a modified V at the back. The controlled bell shaped skirt flowed into a chapel train from two full back pleats on either side of a center panel of lace. Complementing the gown was a fitted lace jacket, in brief bolero style, fashioned with a square neckline edged with wide lace, and long tapered sleeves, edged with satin. Three ribbon bows enhanced the back closure of the jacket. Cascading from a crown of pearls was a three-tiered veil of nylon tulle. The gown and veil were designed and fashioned by the bride. The bride's jewels, a gift from the groom, were a strand of matched cultured pearls with matching errings, and she carried an arm bouquet of pink roses and ferns.

The bride chose the sister of the groom, Miss Cheryl Shafer of Greenbush as her maid of honor. A college roommate, Miss Connie Helmer of St. Hilaire was bridesmaid. They wore street-length gowns of pink satin, styled like the gown worn by the bride and designed by her. To complete her attire, the maid of honor wore a white lace jacket with back closing and trim to match the gown. Both wore pink veiled, circular headpieces, covered with matching satin and featuring a rose at the back. Their jewel set pendants were gifts from the bride and they carried bouquets of white roses.

A niece of the groom, Monica Shafer of Crookston, served as flower girl and was attired in a pink satin dress with a lace trimmed pillbox hat and carried a white basket with pink roses. Vernon Shafer, Crookston, nephew of the groom, was ring bearer and carried the rings on a laced-edged, heart shaped, satin pillow.

Allen Shafer of Crookston attended his brother as best man. Groomsman was Terry Wittenbaugh of Wadena, Iowa. The brother of the bride, A-3c Bill Allison, who was to have been an attendant was not able to be present. He is with the Air Force in Biloxi, Miss. Ushers were David Schires, a cousin of the groom, and Leo Walsh, both of Greenbush. The men of the wedding party wore white dinner jackets, black trousers and bow ties. The groom's boutonniere, a pink rose, matched the roses in his bride's bouquet. The attendants wore pink carnation boutonnieres. The ushers and the father of the groom wore dark business suits with pink carnation boutonnieres.

The mother of the bride wore a fitted three-piece suit styled with chanel jacket, and a wide brimmed blue hat and white accessories with acents in matching shades of blue. Mrs. Shafer wore a pink sheath dress with embroidered trim, a pink hat and accessories of white. Their identical corsages were of pink roses and white carnations.

The mother of the bride and the parents of the groom were hosts to 135 guests at a reception which followed the ceremony. Serving as dining room host and hostess were the uncle and the aunt of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Schires of Greenbush. The bride's colors of pink and white were carried out in the decorations.

The three-tiered wedding cake, which graced the bridal table, was trimmed with a cascade of pink roses in spiral fashion and topped by a styrofoam Christogram. The cake was cut and served by Mrs. Florence Zins of Minneapolis, an aunt of the bride Mrs. William Schumacher of Plummer, godmother of the bride, and Mrs. Leopold Foldesi, Greenbush, aunt of the bride, poured. Miss Alana Foldesi, Greenbush, cousin of the groom, served the punch, assisted by Mrs. Robert Protz of this city. The guests were registered by Carolyn Foldesi, Greenbush, cousin of the couple, and Miss Donna Benke, Stephen, college friend of the bride. Leopold Foldesi and Rodney Paulson, both of Greenbush, served the ice cream. Waitresses were Susan and Madonna Schumacher of Plummer, Dianna Erickson, Brodulac, N.D., Gail Helmer, St. Hilaire and Nancy Hoscheid of Greenbush. They wore white nylon and lace aprons, gifts from the bride. Opening and displaying the gifts were Sharon Foldesi, Greenbush, cousin of the couple, Valerie Torstveit, St. Hilaire, and Teri Conway of Argyle. Assisting in the kitchen were Susan and Carolyn Schumacher, Madonna Schumacher and Mrs. William Schumacher of Plummer.

Guests here for the wedding were from Wadena, Iowa, Bordulac and Jamestown, N.D., St. Paul, Minneapolis, Forest Lake, Argyle, Crookston, Red Lake Falls and St. Hilaire.

The bride is a 1962 graduate of Lincoln high school and received her R.N. degree August 1 from the Sister of St. Joseph school of Nursing, Grand Forks, N.D. Mr. Shafer, a graduate of the Greenbush high school, served four years with the US Navy in the Pacific.

For travel, the bride chose a navy and white A-line ensemble with white accessories. After a week's honeymoon at a lake resort in northern Minnesota, Mr. and Mrs. Shafer are at home in rural Greenbush where the groom operates a farm with his father. The bride will be on the nursing staff at the Greenbush hospital.

DEBRIS from the county repair shop located across First street from the post office parking lot was hauled away by men of the Harry Dahl Construction company Thursday morning, right after the building was torn down. This was one of two old buildings razed Thursday, the other being the nurses' home located east of the repair shop on the same block. Both buildings were approximately of World War I vintage and were considered to have outlived their usefulness.

Maccasin Garden Club Members Had Active Month

The past month was one of much activity for members of the Moccasin Garden club. The regular July meeting of the club was held at the Sidney Wilson home with Mrs. Wilson as hostess and Mrs. Vivian McCrum as program chairman. The evening was spent making flower arrangements. The club was requested to make two arrangements to be exhibited at the garden booth at the Pennington county fair. It was decided to exhibit plaques made by the members during the winter months. Mrs. Alvin Burstad was selected to demonstrate the preservation to cut flowers at the Women's building during the fair. She was to be assisted by Mrs. Julian C. Lendobeja.

The club held its annual garden club tour on Sunday, August 8, visiting the homes of all the members. Following the tour, a pot-luck barbecue was held at the Walter Lendobeja home.

Members and their families participating were the Sidney Wilsons, Alvin Burstads, Henry Anensons, Adam Lendobejas, Julian C. Lendobejas, Mrs. Mary Koglin and Glen and their houseguests from Crookston, Walter Lendobejas, Norton Nelsons, Mrs. Vivian McCrum and Miss Clara Olson.

Guests attending were Mr. and Mrs. Julian W. Lendobeja and family.

On Monday evening, August 9, members of the Moccasin garden club were guests at the Herman Christopherson home to view the beautiful yard and flowers. A luncheon served by Mrs. Christopherson followed the tour.

The September meeting will be held at the Ed Koglin home with Mrs. Koglin as hostess. Members are reminded to bring an arrangement to be judged.

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

MRS. HENRY WILLIAMS

Has your family been nagging you to make some home-made bread? If so here's just the recipe to try. It was awarded the Grand Champion prize at the 1965 Pennington County fair and second prize at the feed and seed show. Mrs. Williams said that the key to success in making this bread was using the right amount of flour. As ingredients vary, after adding the first five cups of flour you will have to judge the right amount yourself.

OATMEAL BREAD

1 package yeast
2 cups hot liquid
2 tablespoons molasses (light)
2 tablespoons brown sugar
1 tablespoon salt
2 tablespoons shortening
2 cups quick cooking oatmeal
5 cups flour (or more)

Dissolve yeast in the ¼ cup water and set aside. In a large bowl, mix hot liquid (2 cups hot water plus two-third cup instant instant dry milk or 2 cups scalded milk.), molasses, sugar, salt, shortening and oatmeal. Cool to luke-warm; add the yeast which has been dissolved in luke-warm water, then add half of the flour and mix until smooth. Add the remainder of the flour gradually, turn out on a floured board and knead until smooth. Place in a greased bowl and let raise until double in size; knead down; let raise again until almost double in size; divide in half and form into loaves; cover and let raise. Bake at 375 degrees for 40 minutes or until brown. Grease with butter when removed from oven.

Sewing, flour gardening, music, singing, vegetable gardening, playing a musical instrument... These are just some of the activities that keep Mrs. Henry Williams busy. She belongs to the ladies aid, is advisor of the Luther League and is education secretary of the Silver Creek Lutheran church, rural Thief River Falls, the family's church.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Williams own an 880 acre farm 7½ miles northeast of Thief River Falls. Although this year they are grain farming, they have raised turkeys in the past. Mr. Williams is a member of the Consumer Coop Ass'n board and is a past member of the church board.

The Williams have two married daughters: Mrs. Bernard (Lucille) Myers, the eldest, has six children, Harold, Charlotte, Charlene, Jerald, Eldon and Daryl. The Myers live in rural Thief River Falls, raise turkeys in winter and do grain farming in the summertime. They also have some beef cattle. Mrs. Percy (Doris) Hagen has four children, Greg, Joel, Keith and Paul. They live in rural Viking and have a large turkey farm.

Milk Producers To End Market Pacts With LO'L

The cooperative says it returns to its member producers the entire amount of its sales, less transportation and marketing costs. Members of the producers pool are seeking a price of $5.30 per hundredweight for Grade "A", class one milk.

Soren Knutson Rites Pending

Mr. Soren Knutson longtime resident of the city, passed away Monday morning, August 23, at Fergus Falls at the age of 84. Funeral arrangements are pending at the Green Funeral home, with a complete obituary to be published in Wednesday's paper.

Paul Olstad, 58, Once of Grygla, Dies in Bemidji

Paul M. Olstad, 58, a long-time Beltrami county official and civic leader and a former resident of the Grygla area, died Friday afternoon, August 13, at his home at Bemidji, following a prolonged illness.

Masonic memorial services for Paul M. Olstad were conducted Monday, August 16, at the Olson Funeral home. Church services were held at the First Lutheran church with the Rev. Raymond Williams officiating.

Paul Olstad was born Nov. 19, 1906 near Grygla and grew up in that community, graduating from Lincoln high school, Thief River Falls, with honors. He attended teacher training at Bemidji State college and taught school in the Grygla area from 1926-35. He began work for Beltrami county, in the auditor's office in 1935-36 and in 1936-37 was supervisor of Old Age Assistance.

Mr. Olstad was appointed Beltrami county's first land commissioner in 1937 and served in that post until his election as treasurer in 1947. He continued as treasurer until resigning recently because of illness. Long interested in public education, he spearheaded the drive which led to overwhelming approval of a vocational-technical school for Bemidji.

He was also an active member of the Masonic order and served as past grand master of Masons in Minnesota in 1964-65.

Rites Today At Plummer For Mrs. Bertina Mickelson

Mrs. Bertina (Michael) Mickelson, 70, a resident of Duluth and a former long-time resident of Garvis township, Red Lake county, died Thursday at St. Mary's hospital at Duluth.

Funeral services for Mrs. Bertina Mickelson will be held today, (Monday) at 2 p.m. in the Immanuel Lutheran church at Plummer. The Rev. Robert Amundson will officiate and interment will be in the Emardville cemetery. Sinding's Funeral chapel is in charge of arrangements.

Mrs. Mickelson, the former Bertina Sedig, was born March 12, 1895 in Beltrami county to John Sedig and Gunhild Vidden Sedig. In 1925 she came with her parents to Garvis township, Red Lake county and lived there until 1955 when she moved to Duluth where she had since made her home.

She was married to Michael Mickelson at Warren. She was a member of the Immanuel Lutheran church at Plummer and its Ladies Aid.

Survivors include three daughters, Mildred Mickelson, Duluth; Margaret Mickelson, Moorhead, and Mrs. Ray Freerksen, Kasson; two sons, Lawrence of Duluth and LaVern of Superior, Wis.; three brothers, Carl Sedig, Fargo, N.D.; Herman Sedig, Burbank Calif.; and Melvin Sedig of St. Cloud; two sisters, Mrs. Gina Holberg of Hamel and Mrs. Mary Sund of Thief River Falls and nine grandchildren.

She was preceded in death by her husband in 1947, two brothers and two sisters.

Ralph Luxenburg Services Held At Red Lake Falls

Ralph Luxenburg, 57, a life-long resident of Lake Pleasant township, Red Lake county, died Wednesday afternoon at his farm home near Red Lake Falls. Mr. Luxenburg had been in failing health for some time.

Funeral services for Ralph Luxenburg were held Saturday at 10 a.m. from the First Presbyterian church, Red Lake Falls with the Rev. Donald Reynen officiating. Interment was made in the Evergreen cemetery south of Red Lake Falls. Petterson Funeral home, Red Lake Falls, was in charge of arrangements.

Ralph Luxenburg was born April 16, 1908 in Lake Pleasant township, Red Lake County, the son of the late Sam Luxenburg and Caroline Demann Luxenburg. He married Hazel Peterson of Red Lake Falls in 1941.

Survivors include his wife; two both students at Bemidji state college; three sons, Robert of Minneapolis, Dean and Greg, both at home; two sisters, Mrs. Herman (Elsie) Boxted and Mrs. Margaret Cyr, both of Minneapolis and three brothers, Alex of Portland, Ore., Arthur of LaCrosse, Wis., and Robert with the Merchant Marine.

He was preceded in death by an infant daughter and seven brothers and sisters.

Services Held Here Saturday For C. Poppenhagen

Funeral services for Curtis Poppenhagen, 24, of St. Louis Park who drowned here Tuesday evening in the river below the dam, were held Saturday at 2 p.m. in the Evangelical Free Church, Thief River Falls. The Rev. Wesley Johnson officiated and Sinding's Funeral chapel was in charge of arrangements.

Curtis Poppenhagen, the son of A. Leonard and Esther Jorgenson Poppenhagen, of 6114 Excelsior Blvd., St. Louis Park, was born Oct. 23, 1940 at Newfolden. As a child he moved in 1944 with his parents to Fergus Falls where he received his elementary and high school education and had since made his home.

Survivors include his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Leonard Poppenhagen; three sisters, Mrs. Gordon (Angeline) Vikesland, Aberdeen, S. D.; Mrs. Herbert (Lorna) Borreson, Minneapolis and Mrs. William (Ruth) Noel of Phoenix, Ariz.; two brothers, Leland of Minneapolis and Leonard Jr., with the US Navy aboard the USS Winston; his paternal grandmother, Mrs. Olivia Poppenhagen of Thief River Falls and a number of nieces and nephews.

He was preceded in death by his paternal grandfather and his maternal grandparents.

Times Defends Trap Title; Sandy Wilson Wins Tourney

Sandy Wilson repeated as champion of the Thief River Falls city championship tournament Thursday night and the Times squad successfully defended its 1964 title by capturing the league championship again this year. Wilson won the Class "A" event Thursday by breaking 49 out of 50 while the Times defeated Union State bank 122 to 119 to nail down the number one team position.

Bob Mattson's 48 and Stan Wilson's 47 were good for second and third places in the Class "A" division. Clarence Mattson posted a 24-22 to win Class "B" with a total of 46. Mervin Skadsen was second in that class with a 44.

Another young shooter, John Feragen, won Class "D" by posting a 37, one bird higher than Rick Contos and two above Arnold Narverud and Fred Sorensen. Yvonne Hedlund won the women's division with 41 while Joanie Wilson was second with 38.

Although league shooting is now officially completed for the year, the traps will be open this Thursday night for those shooters who would like to practice or take part in novelty events. Non-club members who would like to do some shooting before the fall hunting season opens are especially invited to make use of the club facilities. The traps will be open at 6 p.m.

In gaining its second successive championship, the Times was paced by Clarence Mattson's 24-1 and Leif Erickson's 22-4. Other scorer were Bob Mattson, 24-0; Marv Lundin, 20-4; and Jim Wills, 23-1.

John Moum with 23-3 and Arnold Narverud with 19-8 led the Union State bank team in its unsuccessful assault on the league-leading Times. Other scorers were Roy Landmann, 21-2; Walt Fischer, 23-1; and Fred Sorensen, 17-5.

Argyle State Bank, shooting a fine 123 total, knocked the Wilson Bros. team out of contention for the title 123 to 118. Posting 25's for the winners were Reuben Carlson, 25-0; Don Omdahl, 20-5; and Ike Hoglin, 21-5. Ted LaCoursiere had a 16-8 and Don Kamrowski a 22-2 to complete the scoring.

Wilson Bros. was paced by Stan Wilson's 25 straight. Other scorers were Si Schantzen, 24-0; Wally Vagle, 17-7; Roy Peterson, 22-1; and Al Tonder, 21-1. Wilson Bros. had led the league from the first night until three weeks ago. The team, which tied Union State bank at a perfect 125 earlier in the season, lost to Torgerson Oil company and Union State Bank before Thursday night's loss to Argyle State Bank. The only two losses for the Times were to the second place Wilson Bros. team.

Torgerson Oil company defeated Coast-to-Coast 120 to 115 in Thursday night's league final. Twelve-year-old Steve Johnson's 25 straight paced the Torgerson Oil team while John Feragen posted a 20-8 for another 25. Other scorers were Sandy Wilson, 24-0; Pat Fischer, 24-0; and Mark Mattson, 20-2.

Roy Jorgenson's 23-4 and Rick Contos' 20-8 led the Coast-to-Coast team while Lowell Johnson had 16-8, Erling Torgerson scored 22-0 and Howard Hagen shot 19-0.

The Pharmacy defeated Mostue's Floral 120 to 111 getting 25's from Stub Pahlen's 22-3 and Bob Ekeren's 18-8. Other scoreers were Russ Embury, 23-1; Tony Dorn, 23-0; and Red Thyren, 20-3.

Myrt Wilson's 23-4, Yvonne Hedlund's 22-7 and Joanie Wilson's 20-10 led the Mostue's Floral team. Other scorers were Inez Mostue, 6-10; and Pat Ball, 10-10.

Widows May Get Social Security Benefit at 60

An estimated 200 widows in this area of men insured under social security may now receive monthly payments at age 60 instead of 62, reports Clifford Kittelson, district manager for the Social Security administration.

If a widow elects to take her benefit at age 60, the amount is reduced by 13 and one-third per cent. At 61, the reduction is 6 and two-thirds per cent. Once the widow takes a reduced benefit, it stays reduced even after age 62.

Any widow between 60 and 62 wanting the earlies reduced benefit may apply at her social security office now, said Kittelson. She should be prepared to turn in evidence both of her marriage and her age as part of the application.

Richard Dietz Completes Army Adjutant Course

Pvt. Richard C. Dietz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Dietz of Thief River Falls, completed a pay specialist course at the Army Adjutant General School, Ft. Benjamin Harrison, Ind., August 17. During the course Dietz received instruction in the preparation of army pay records.

Dietz entered the Army last January and completed basic training at Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo. The 19-year-old soldier was graduated from Lincoln high school in 1964.

Jehovah Witness Delegates Attend District Assembly

Local delegates to the "Word of Turth" district assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses returned home with words of high praise for the four-day gathering, according to R. H. Wetenkamp, local presiding minister. Metropolitan stadium in Minneapolis, home of the Twins Baseball team, was transformed into a giant convention hall for the August 12-15 event.

Jehovah's Witnesses were present from 30 states, Canada, Central and South America and Lebanon. Attendance climbed to 20,893 on the final day.

According to Wetenkamp, the convention was one in a series of 16 midsummer regional conventions held by Jehovah's Witnesses throughout the United States this summer. Purpose of the gathering, he said, was to hear layman-language Bible discussions and demonstrations on advanced Bible subjects so all in attendance could increase their ministerial effectiveness.

On the second day of the assembly, a total of 268 persons were baptized at Lake Nokomis main beach in Minneapolis. President of the Watchtower society, Nathan H. Knorr, delivered the main public address on Sunday, August 15.

"Local Witnesses will now apply the counsel and instruction received at the Minneapolis convention to their preaching and teaching work in this area," Wetenkamp stated. Jehovah's Witnesses meet five times a week at their Kingdom hall located at 704 North State avenue, Thief River Falls.

Among those attending the convention were Mr. and Mrs. Roy Nelson, Ray Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. Allan Longerbone, Mr. and Mrs. David Wetenkamp, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Mogen and Larry, Francis Moen, Cathy Rupprecht, Clarence Sanderson, Mrs. Dolly Myers and daughter, Mrs. Florence Novak, Mike Gillespie, Mrs. Bill Goerke, Mr. and Mrs. Abner Johnson, Jackie, Ward and Darryl Jena.

BY BILL DAHLQUIST

Do we talk too much? Milton Mayer thinks most of us do. He says, and I quote,

"I talk too much and so does everybody I have ever met who knows how. Yap, yap, yap, yammer, yammer, yammer. Meetings, conferences, committees, lectures; street corners, parlors, bedrooms and baths; playgrounds, poolrooms, love nests and funerals.

"As soon as I let the fellow next to me get in a word he bores me. I have never been anywhere yet where everybody wasn't trying to talk at once, and I have never heard or said anything that did me or anyone else any durable good."

Mayer's conclusion may be classified as exaggeration for emphasis, but with that qualification I believe he has a good point. I agree that most of us talk too much, but maybe that's better than not talking enough.

"Today's problems are how to get your children into the college of your choice; to keep them single until they are gratuaed; and to find the money to support them and the grandchildren until they have absorbed the facts of life."

So says William Feather.

Congressional committees are taking favorable action on another proposed boost in the minimum wage to $1.75 an hour. It probably will be adopted without an argument. A few stupid people believe that across-the-board wage increases increase our buying power and somehow make all of us a little richer. But it doesn't work out that way.

Some individuals benefit from these across-the-board increases but in general the added costs are passed along to the ultimate consumer, and to the extent that the costs are passed along to the ultimate consumer, and to the extent that the cost of production is increased the less competitive we become in world markets. As we become less competitive there will be less production and more unemployment. The natural laws of supply and demand are more effective regulators in this field than are the politically minded members of Congress who now are in an unhealthy majority.

William Beecher, writing in the Wall Street Journal, expresses the opinion that Vietnam mobilization will far exceed the disclousures and predictions of President Lyndon Johnson. According to Beecher the administrations plans have been outlined in private sessions of committees of a subservient Congress and he predicts that we will have the largest military mobilization since the Korean War.

And so it appears that we now are up to our ears in war again, which is not a new experience for those of us who now are much too old to serve in the military forces. This time not only our children but our grandchildren will have to answer the call to arms in a war that we cannot win by military power.

Our main weakness in this war, aside from the lack of real issues, is the fact that in this war we have no allies. We Americans are showing our friends that we alone can straighten out the messed-up affairs of this unorganized society of which we presumably are a part.

President Johnson's "youth opportunity campaign" got off to a bad start when it was revealed that a Texas Deomocratic congressman revealed that he has recommended his son for a Post Office job under the summer hiring program. The Congressman's administrative assistant, explained the appointment in a simple statement to the effect that the Congressman had thought this was a straight patronage program. Judging from the press reports that seems to have been the conclusion of many Democratic congressmen throughout the nation.

As reported by Nick Kotz, Minneapolis Tribune staff correspondent, that was the reaction of most Democratic congressmen. He stated:

"The Post Office Department refuses to disclose names of youths hired or of any of its 600,000 employes.

"The department bases its refusal on a department regulation that information about postal employes is not public information.

"The name of Gonzalez was obtained from other sources.

"The Post Office Department contends that jobs were not assigned on a quota basis to congressmen. Yet congressmen in Iowa, Minnesota, Rhode Island, Texas, South Dakota, North Dakota, New Mexico and other states have said they were told how many youths to recommend."

All of which strengthens the conclusion that our Washington government is corrupt. The Johnson administration is as corrupt as any administration our government has ever had and the fact that it is supported by a partisan Supreme Court further weakens the overall government structure. Our only hope is a return to the basic fundamentals of a government of the people, for the people and by the people.

We have drifted far afield from the original concepts of freedom for which our forefathers struggled.

A taxpayer is a person who does not have to pass a civil service examination to work for the government.

—Kiwanis Magazine

Canadian wheat growers are happy. One good reason is the prospect for a bumper crop and another is the announcement by the Canadian Wheat Board of a sale of 239 million bushels of wheat and flour to Russia for approximately $500 million. It is reported that Russia is faced with another disastrous crop failure.

Here in our country a bumper wheat crop is also predicted but our surpluses probably will be given away to the foreigners for free. Our Department of Agriculture doesn't seem to be interested in sales, and it would be nice if we could get back some of that Russian gold, even if we don't like the Russians.

The cost of living is sharply spiraling according to a report by the Christian Science Monitor, and this is bringing on new demands by labor for pay increases. It is a vicious circle that can lead only to ultimate disaster. Discussing the problem the Monitor states:

"Labor has been showing a keener concern over money lately. Negotiated wage hikes have soared to the highest levels in five years—8.3 cents an hour on the average. And union demands will probably go up even more now.

"The government's last cost-of-living index—in June—stood at an all-time high. And the jump in prices from May to June was the steepest in years.

"If the index this month goes up—or simply holds steady—more than a million automobile and other workers will get automatic cost-of-living hikes of 2 cents an hour. And bargaining demands across negotiating tables in other industries will drift upward accordingly."

Commercial fishing along the Atlantic coast is retarded by a lack of trained fishermen. The situation is explained in a report from one of the training schools which states that while between 450 and 500 students could have been given the course, only one-fourth of this number enrolled and 87 out of the 125 who did enroll turned out to be inshore fishermen and only 25 actually classified as deepsea fishermen.

I was not aware that the knack for catching fish was acquired in schools and that is interesting. Along this line the Norwegians are conducting schools in India to teach the natives of that country how to fish. The fish are said to be abundant and there is a critical shortage of food in India. It all seems rather strange but our best wishes for good results in this Norwegian venture into Indian waters.

A race war broke out in Los Angeles recently and 28 deaths were reported during the first four days. The National Guard was called out to support the police force of 100 men. The area that was subjected to daylight looting, violence and fire covered 200 square blocks of the south central part of the city and was the nation's worst Negro riot in two decades.

This probably is just a fair sample of what is yet to come. The nation's politicians, along with a sob-sister press, are responsible for such explosions. They have encouraged Negroes to believe that their problems can be solved merely by passing a law. Our Hubert Humphrey, now Vice President, is one of the leaders who have encouraged the impossible in racial reform.

The Los Angeles riots will set back the Negro cause many years and this set-back can be attributed to the agitation of white leaders who presumably believe that reforms that must and will come gradually over a period of centuries can be accomplished in a matter of weeks.

NWSA Holsteins Listed in Test

Dairy cows from registered Holstein herds in this area have been listed in an official production testing report from Holstein-Friesian Association of America. Their performance records include solids-not-fat (SNF) information.

Under the Holstein association's testing plan, the solids-not-fat portion of milk is being determined and credited to the lactation records of individual cows. SNF are those nutrients such as protein, lactose and minerals found below the creamline of milk.

Total nutrient testing was started in 1962 by the Holstein association to provide breeders with another selection tool for improving the over-all performance of cattle in their herds. It is also a useful measure of milk's food value for dairy products and homemakers.

Animals tested in this area and their actual production levels are: Ume Elm Ridge Hannah Alice 53-92169, a two-year-old registered Holstein, has credits of 16,970 lbs. milk, 618 lbs. butterfat and 1,374 lbs. solids-not-fat in 305 days; Ume Golden Query Agnes 5493318, a two-year-old, had 14,580 lbs. milk, 610 lbs. butterfat and 1,267 lbs. solids-not-fat in 321 days. Both are owned by University of Minnesota, Crookston.

Production sampling and testing procedures were supervised by the University of Minnesota in cooperation with official Holstein breed improvement programs.

"Many clever men like you have trusted to civilization. Many clever Babylonians, clever Egyptians, many clever men at the end of Rome. Can you tell me, in a world that is flagrant with the failures of civilization, what there is particularly immortal about yours?" —G. K. Chesterton

Cagey Customers

When a Special White House Assistant for Consumer Affairs was appointed some 18 months ago, numbers of interested people feared—or hoped as the case might be—that this would be followed by an "antibusiness" campaign, in which the consumer would be depicted as a helpless innocent, wide open to the ravages of heartless, money-hungry producers, retailers and others concerned with the consumer trades.

That, happily, has not happened. The head of the new agency, Mrs. Esther Peterson, has found a great deal that is good in the way the American consumer is served. She has stressed the need for more aggressive efforts to eliminate true consumer frauds—a goal with which every legitimate businessman is in complete sympathy. And, as one authority puts it, the new program she is directing "...recognizes that too many people have been assuming too much with respect to the kinds of protection the consumer needs. Consumer education—to teach the consumer how to look out for herself—is getting more attention, and business organizations will have a chance to play their part."

If new legislation in the consumer's interest proves to be really needed, it will come into being. But the big point is that a goodmany people who claim to speak for the consumer have vastly exaggerated that need. It is a simple matter to take some isolated incident of chicanery and blow it up until it appears to be a general practice. It is equally easy to make consumers as a whole seem ignorant and ill-prepared to make their dollars do proper duty—when, as every producer and retailer knows, the great bulk of them are exceedingly canny buyers who can't be stung twice.

Raising the Rent

It has been said, with some degree of truth, that raising the rent is easy for the landlord and difficult for the tenant. With the administration's proposed rent supplement program, the government would tax home owners to raise the money to help pay the rent for those who do not own their own property. We dislike using the word "stupid" but it is the only one which accurately describes this plan. Other words, such as "asinine", "idiotic", "ridiculous", "FOOLISH", "irrational", "silly" and "unwise", come close.

Housing administrator Robert Weaver calls the program "experimental". A program running for 40 years and costing $8,000,000 (thats eight billion dollars) would be quite an experiment. The bill fixes no income limitation for eligibility; it is left entirely to the discretion of the housing administrator.

The rent subsidy proposal would permit a family with an income of $250 a month ($3,000 a year) to live in a $100 a month apartment and pay only $62.50 a month (one-fourth of income) with the taxpayers providing the difference of $37.50 a month. A family in New York City with earnings of $8,900 would qualify under the program, as would families with incomes of $6,900 annually in Philadelphia or $8,300 in Milwaukee.

Weaver calls the program 'the American way of doing things." Does it seem like the American way for a homeowner struggling with low income and substantial payments in Thief River Falls to contribute through his taxes to a renter in New York City who wants to live beyond his means? Even Democratic mayors and governors, as well as public housing advocates, have called the plan "socially obnoxious".

That such a plan would even be considered seems preposterous. To own one's home no matter how modest, is the goal of the typical American family. Aho rent supplement proposal kills that incentive. Who would want to own a home if he would have to pay heavy taxes to help a renter in a distant state? The administration is proposing that the government subsidize frivolous living.

Rep. John Wydler of New York sums up the situation quite nicely when he says, "The latest subsidy proposed by this administration is to pay rent for people. The program will not help the poor and it will not help the homeowner. It will cost $8 billion and it will help some speculators. It is a way to allow you to pay some of your neighbor's rent. Isn't that what we used to call socialism?"

Tingle of Excitement

Residents of northwestern Minnesota can scarcely hold back at least a tingle of excitement about the junior college which will open its doors in Thief River Falls in September. It hails a new era of educational opportunity for this oft-forgotten corner of the state.

We note that frequently visitors to our area from the Twin Cities metropolitan area comment on the distance between the two points. "It sure is a long way up here," they say. We have a reply for that comment: "Just about the same as it is from here down there." For some reason or another, people in Minneapolis-St. Paul believe it is easier for us to come to them than for them to come to us.

This is the problem which has plagued higher education here over the years. The necessity for students to leave home and pay living expenses while attending colleges has made the cost prohibitive in many cases and the situation inconvenient at best. With the new junior college here, the cost of two years of college can be greatly reduced for residents of the area. We need not feel so much like God's forgotten people.

While we are on the subject of the junior college, we would be negligent if we did not welcome Dean Charles White to our community. We know that he will have many knotty problems in charting his own course with an entirely new college, but are sure that his knowledge and experience will provide us with a school of which the area can be proud.

The long-sought goal of a college in this area will become a reality next month, and the more optimistic of us believe it will herald a new era of growth and pride. That tingle of excitement can be justified.

American History (R.S.V.)

The following was written recently by Orlin Folwick of Minnesota News Features, part of what he titled, "Highlights from U. S. History (In the Words of the Prophets)". After summarizing Columbus' landing and the American Revolution, he wrote:

Said the Americans, None of this royalty jazz for us. We will write a Constitution to protect us from such tyrants and guide us in our deeds, each unto the other. And we shall choose one of us to be President, and we shall have a council called Congress which shall forever hearken unto us, the people, alone.

And we shall have states and Governors and Legislatures, that the people's rights, liberty and freedom from tyranny and high taxes shall prevail forever.

Chose they George, son of Washington, as the first President, and others chose they as Congressmen and Senators to hearken only unto them. And George said unto Congress and it unto him, Yea, let us not levy heavy taxes nor meddle in the people's affairs, that they be self reliant, thrifty and prosperous. And it was so many years, and the Lord looked down upon them and blessed them...

Behold, and came now Lyndon, son of Johnson, to be President.

Spake he unto Congress, which by now hearkened not unto the people, but only unto him, Let us build the Great Society in our own image that we shall get the people's votes and preserve our dynast forever.

Said he further, The people know not what is good for them, nor the Governors nor the Legislatures, but we do. Hearken ye not to their babblings, but do ye as I say, d'ye all hear? And they heard.

And said Lyndon, We shall be thrifty, and I personally shall turn out the lights in the White House, that we waste no shekels.

And said he, We shall have a war on poverty, yea though I say unto you we are more prosverous now than ever before. We shall take from them that hath and give unto them that hath not, yea, that all Americans shall be rich, though they sweat not their brows.

And said Lyndon, Let there be no right-to-work laws, that the people who want jobs can go unto the union bosses who supported me in the election that they can wax powerful throughout the land. And we shall have Medicare, Civil Rights and we shall pretty up the country that there be no billboards or auto graveyards along the roads. Spake he of peace even as he warred. Yea, many were the deeds and words of Lyndon, and they cost the Americans many shekels.

Again, as had their forefathers before them, they grumbled at the taxes. And to keep them quiet cast he them some excise tax cuts even as he raised the debt limit to 329 billion shekels. And many sang the praises of Lyndon, and he was pleased, because it meant votes and preservation of the dynasty, even unto the Prophet Hubert, son of Humphrey, yea, though Bobby, son of Kennedy and brother of Jack, looked not with favor upon Hubert.

Yea, as they hearkened unto Lyndon, the Americans were confused and divided. They knew not whether they prospered or hungered and whether they were at peace or at war and they wondered what was to become of them.

And the Lord looked down upon the Americans and wondered what...had happend to them.

Interesting Opinions . . .

"For every beatnik who tears up his draft card, pickets for peace at any price, or expresses refusal to fight to defend our country, there are young Americans fighting and dying in Vietnam, going to school and obtaining a useful education and preparing themselves for responsible citizenship. I refuse to judge this generation by a tiny minority of noisy militants."

—Rep. Richard Roudebush (Ind.)

"The small state exists so that there may be a spot on earth where the largest possible proportion of the inhabitants are citizens in the fullest sense of the word."

Borrowed Nonsense . . .

The famous Navy chaplain, Father Joe O'Callahan, who won the Medal of Honor, was once on duty at the Naval Air Station in Pensacola, Fla. After one of his services, he was approached by a sailor who asked, "Chaplain, is that the straight stuff about Christ walking on water?"

"Yes, it is," responded Father Joe.

"Well, you said if you had enough faith you could do it, too?" persisted the sailor.

"That's right," assorted the chaplain.

"I'll tell you son," answered the priest. "I'm only afraid that some darned fool like you might try to follow me."

DETERGENTS AS HEALTH HAZARDS
Q. Why are detergents more harmful than soap in water pollution?
A. Because most synthetic detergents, unlike soaps, are relatively resistant to the action of bacteria and are therefore difficult to remove from water. Soaps can be removed relatively completely in waste water-treatment plants and are readily broken down (degraded) biologically by bacterial action in streams and soils. On the other hand, only about 50 per cent of detergents are removed by the usual water-treatment process and they persist for long periods in streams because they are resistant to break-down by bacterial action. Foaming is another objectionable feature of water polluted by detergents. In some areas enough detergent carries over into the household water supply to cause tap water to foam. The detergent industry has announced its intention to manufacture detergents devoid of these objectionable features in the future.
"HOW TO LIVE TO BE 100"
Q. A friend of mine recommended the book, "How To Live To Be 100" by Dr. Clement Martin. Would you recommend this book?
A. It is not our function to recommend books or drugs. We would speculate, however, that most of those who read Dr. Martin's book and follow the directions to the letter will not live to be 100.

COUNTY BOARD PROCEEDINGS

August 3, 1965

Pursuant to adjournment the County Commissioners met in the Commissioners' Room in the Court House at 10:00 a.m., August 3, 1965.

Members present: Hanson, Olson, Anderson, Lindberg and Tasa. All present.

Engineer Seidel filed preliminary plans for County Ditch No. 77. Commissioner Olson introduced the following resolution and moved its adoption:

WHEREAS, Silas Hanson and others did on the 4th day of May, 1965, file in the office of the County Auditor of said County, their petition praying that a public ditch be established and constructed along the route described in said petition, and

WHEREAS, Joseph Seidel was on the 12th day of July, 1965, appointed as Engineer in said proceedings and ordered to make a preliminary survey of said proposed ditch as required by Law and to make and file his report thereon, and

WHEREAS, said Engineer did file his report of such preliminary survey on the 2nd day of August, 1965, in the office of the County Auditor of said County as provided by Law.

NOW THEREFORE, it is ordered that a hearing on said petition and the Engineer's report of his preliminary survey be held before the County Board in the Court House in the City of Thief River Falls in said County, on the 19th day of August, 1965, at 8:00 o'clock p.m., D.S.T., and you are hereby notified to apear at said hearing and state your views for or against the establishment and construction of said proposed ditch.

The foregoing resolution was duly seconded by Commissioner Hanson and declared carried.

Moved by Olson seconded by Anderson that the Road Committee and the Bridges and culvert Committee inspect roads and bridges and culverts at 8:00 a.m., August 30, 1965. Carried.

Application to the State of Minnesota for a permit to serve 'set-ups' as provided by MSA 340.14 was presented by Clifford M. Olson, proprietor of Kiles Cafe for approval. Moved by Olson second by Tasa that permit be allowed with a fee of $100.00 per annum on the basis of a private operator operating on a yearly basis. Motion carried, and Chairman to affix his signature as required for State approval.

The minutes of meetings of June 8, July 9 and 12 were read and approved as read.

Moved by Olson seconded by Hanson that pursuant to Statutory limitations the Board of Equalization meeting set for August 17 be rescheduled to be held August 16, 1965 at 3:00 p.m.. Motion Carried.

A supplemental list of 40 voters of the County was drawn for Petit Jury Duty in District Court and lists certified to the Clerk of Court.

Commissioner Hanson introduced the following resolution and moved its adoption:

WHEREAS, Common School Districts 1550, 1558 and 1559 were on July 12, 1965 attached to other operating school districts pursuant to Chapter 547, Laws of 1963, and

WHEREAS, said Common School Districts were divided between two or more operating districts.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, That the assets and liabilities of said districts be set off to the indicated operating districts in the following amounts, to-wit:

Common School District No. 1550 be divided—14.25 per cent to Independent District No. 564, 85.75 per cent to Independent District No. 627.

Common School District No. 1558 be divided—14.41 per cent to Independent District No. 627, 85.59 per cent to Independent District No. 561.

Common School District No. 1559 be divided—12.68 per cent to Independent District No. 561, 87.32 per cent to Independent District No. 627.

The foregoing resolution was duly second by Commissioner Olson and declared carried.

Petition of Roy T. Shetler to set off Lot 2, Section 20, T153, R43 (Rocksbury Twp.) from Independent School District No. 562 to Independent School District No. 564 was received and hearing ordered to be held at 1:30 p.m. Sept. 9, 1965 in the Commissioners meeting room, and Auditor ordered to provide proper notices as provided by law, upon motion by Tasa seconded by Anderson and declared carried.

Moved by Hanson seconded by Olson that the Chairman and Auditor be authorized and instructed to enter into agreement with Marshall County pursuant to Chapter 406, Laws of 1965 for the operation of the Oakland Park Home. Motion carried.

Moved by Olson seconded by Tasa that the Chairman and Auditor be authorized and instructed to enter into agreement with St. Louis County for housing prisoners at the St. Louis County Work Farm with said agreement to terminate at March 31, 1966. Motion carried.

Pursuant to annual request for assistance from the Carnegie Public Library, it was moved by Tasa seconded by Olson that the sum of $3,000.00 be appropriated to the Carnegie Public Library for current operations and the sum of $1,000.00 be appropriated to be set aside by the Library to be used in their building program. Motion carried.

Application for abatement and reduction of valuation of residence was approved for Otto Johnson in St. Hilaire Village reduction being $300.00 true and full value.

Pursuant to a factual report of the operation of the Sunnyrest Sanatorium by Herman A. Klos and M. A. Lindberg the two Pennington County representatives on the Sanatorium Commission, Commissioner Olson introduced the following resolution and moved its adoption:

WHEREAS, The Pennington County representatives on the Sunny rest sanitorium Commission have advised the Pennington County Board as follows:

1. That the present population of of the Sanatorium is eight patients as compated to the potential of fifty-nine.

2. That Superintendent L. H. Flancher has resigned to retire after many years of faithful service.

3. That the Red River Valley Medical Society has recommended that the facility be closed.

4. It is the understanding of the Commission members that service for the care of Tubercular patients may be made available through other sources in local communities.

5. That preventative services are available through other sources, notably the Minnesota T. B. & Health Service.

6. The cost of operation appears to be excessive for the utilization of the facility.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, That the participating Counties of Polk, Norman, Red Lake, Roseau, Marshall and Pennington take such steps as are necessary to dissolve the Sunnyrest Sanatorium at the earliest possible date, and

FURTHER, In the event certain of the Counties wish to continue the operation of Sunnyrest Sanatorium as a Tubercular Sanatorium, the County of Pennington be released and allowed to withdraw at the earliest practicable date and under no circumstances shall that date be no later than July 1, 1966.

The foregoing resolution was duly second by Commissioner Anderson and declared carried.

St. John Church Observes 70th Anniversary Sunday

Members and friends of St. John Lutheran church in Thief River Falls observed the 70th anniversary of the congregation Sunday with anniversary services, a noon dinner and afternoon program. Morning service attendance was 275 people with about 175 attending the noon dinner.

"How Big Is Your Church?" was the sermon topic selected by Rev. Paul Biegner, pastor of the congregation. Special music was provided by the Sunday school choir and a reception and welcoming of new members was held for Mr. and Mrs. Robert Eckstein and family, Mrs. Stanley Malvig, Mrs. Verona Morrison and children, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Olson, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Stroberg and Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Wilson.

Congratulatory letters were read from Rev. Emil H. Kreidt, Sun City, Calif., pastor from 1920 to 1925; Rev. V. E. Schroeder, Bismarck, N. D., pastor from 1926 to 1953; Rev. A. C. Seitz, president of the Minnesota North district and pastor from 1956 to 1963; and Rev. Robert Biegner, Mt. Vernon, N. Y., father of the present pastor of St. John church.

Special guests during the afternoon program were Rev. and Mrs. Fred J. Seitz. Rev. Seitz was pastor of St. John church from 1907 to 1919 and his wife was a native of Thief River Falls. Charter members recognized were Mrs. George (Linda Robbecke) Booren, Mrs. Christ (Laura Brown) Anton and Mrs. Gust (Ida Randorf) Wilken.

Music during the afternoon was provided by "The Country Cousins", Mitch Kezar and Diane and Terry Timm; boys' quartet composed of Marc Pream, Mark Steen, Dave Gustafson and Dave Gunderson; and Roxanne and Cindy Langlie. On display during the anniversary observance were models of the three church buildings which have served the congregation in its 70-year history. They were made by Walter Monroe of Thief River Falls.

Members of the anniversary program committee were Mrs. Elmer Andersen, Mrs. Don Pream, Tom Fuller and Fred Koop.

St. John congregation was organized in 1895 after services had been held as early as 1888 by Rev. G. Drews of Wylie and later by Rev. A. Kuring of Wylie. Rev. V. Kern was the first resident pastor, arriving in 1896, and was followed in 1900 by Rev. B. L. Luttman.

A combination church - parsonage was built in 1902, but later burned when Rev. and Mrs. Fred Seitz were newly-wed occupants. A new church was built in 1910. Rev. P. E. Ross served as resident pastor from 1905 to 1907 when Rev.

Peace Corps Test Offered Sept. 11

Peace Corps placement test will be offered to residents of this area Saturday, September 11, at 9 a.m. in the Thief River Falls post office. The test measures general aptitude and ability to learn a language. It is used as a tool in the matching of volunteers and jobs.

A Peace Corps application must be filled out and brought to the exam unless previously submitted. Applicants should plan on about one and a half hours at the testing center, unless they wish to take the Spanish or French language achievement test, which requires an additional hour.

NFO Meeting at Winger Hall To Include County

Membership instructional meetings have been set up for National Farmers Organization members in each five-county area throught out the entire NFO organized territory. Purpose of these meetings is to bring NFO members up to date on the progress of the organization's bargaining efforts.

Daniel Johnson, Pennington county NFO president, said that NFO members from Pennington county will be attending the NFO area meeting which is being held at the village hall in Winger on Friday at 8 p.m.

"NFO meat marketing arrangements, whereby NFO members can sell together, have been a major factor in the price rise of hogs and cattle because the volume sales made by NFO members have brought new and keen competition to livestock buying," Johnson said.

Membership instructional meetings will include a discussion on their potential and the next steps to be taken by NFO. A new NFO grain program will be announced and discussed. Plans to use the dairy bargaining power developed by NFO to raise the price of milk at the farm level will also be disclosed.

A top NFO national official will be present to conduct the meeting. A thorough question and answer period will be held..

'65 Session Laws Again Available

Another shipment of Minnesota Session Laws—a compilation of the laws enacted by the 1965 Minnesota Legislature—has now been received at the Times. These session laws are free to the public and may be picked up at the Times office. When this shipment is depleted, no further order will be placed. All persons interested are advised to secure their copies at their earliest convenience.

Dairy Producer Hearing Changed To Pennington Co.

Change of venue to Pennington county district court was granted at Polk county district court in Crookston Tuesday for four dairy farmers seeking to divert their milk production from Land O'Lakes Creameries, Inc., to other markets. The hearing originally scheduled for Tuesday in Crookston will be held in Thief River Falls at a later date.

Attorneys for Darrow Lundeen and Merle Lundeen of rural Trail and Olaf and Orlin Stolaas, a partnership of rural Oklee, requested the change of venue Tuesday. Judge Harley G. Swenson of Crookston granted the request. Grounds for the venue change request were that the actual residences of the defendants were in Pennington county.

The hearing which was to have been held Tuesday was in regard to the validity of marketing agreements between the producers mentioned and Land O'Lakes Creameries, Inc. Restraining orders were issued by district court in Crookston to prevent the producers from diverting milk to other markets until the validity of their agreements with Land O'Lakes had been determined.

As provided for in papers which had been served on the producers, the hearing Tuesday was held before Judge Swenson in his chambers at Crookston. Attorneys Leonard Erickson and Paul Grinnell of Crookston and Paul Benson of Grand Forks represented the producers with, attorneys Harold Jordan and John McGirl representing Land O'Lakes. Approximately 250 interested persons jammed corridors near the court chambers while attorneys met with the judge.

Acording to information received by the Times, attorneys for the producers claimed that the restraining order was ineffectual because of failure to serve a copy of an affidavit on the producers. Judge Swenson held, however, that the necessary papers required had been filed and served to give the court the power to issue the restraining order, and that the order was in effect up to that time.

After the change of venue was granted, attorneys for the producers contended that the venue change had the effect of terminating the restraining order. Judge Swenson ruled that the order remains in effect until further order of the court, and that any further order would have to be handed down by the district court of Pennington county.

Attorneys for both the producers and Land O'Lakes agreed that arrangements be made for resuming the matter in district court in Pennington county.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Thompson and sons of Minneapolis spent a few days last week with their respective parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Thompson and Mr. and Mrs. William Palmquist.

Crop and Garden Show for County Set on Thursday

Pennington 4-H'ers will compete Thursday for five state fair trips in crop and garden projects, states County Agent Paul Stelmaschuk. Garden and crop exhibits will be registered from 1 to 3 p. m. at the extension office. Judging of exhibits will take place from 3 to 4 p. m. at which time the exhibits may be taken home.

All 4-H'ers enrolled in crop and garden projects are uged to enter exhibits but only those with blue ribbon records can go to the state fair.

Three members in the garden project and two in crops will be chosen to send their exhibits to the state fair. The exhibits shown Thursday will be taken to the state fair on Friday. Winning 4-H'ers will leave by bus Sunday, 8:30 a. m., from the courthouse. They will take part in an educational program at the state fair, Monday, August 30.

Forty 4-H members from Pennington and Roseau counties will be boarding the bus Sunday to take part in various activities at the state fair.

Members must exhibit at least six different kinds of vegetables, with proper numbers of each kind, and all varieties labeled. Those exhibiting crops must show four quarts of cleaned grain with the variety named.

Home Economics Teachers Meet

Home economics teachers from area comprising the Northern Division of the Minnesota Education association are meeting today in Thief River Falls at Franklin junior high school. More than 50 teachers are in attendance at the session which will end at 4:30 p.m.

Guest speakers are Dr. Fern Horn, curriculum specialist at the University of Minnesota, who will speak on "Using the Problem Solving Approach to the Teaching of Foods on the Meal Basis"; Roy L. Anderson, program director, Lakeland Mental Health center at Fergus Falls; and Miss Rachel Anhorn, assistant state supervisor of home economics education.

Several discussion sessions will be held with group leaders from this area including Mrs. Joan Norquist, Oklee; Mrs. Evelyn Altendorf, Warren; Mrs. Jean Hanson, Red Lake Falls; and Mrs. Marjorie Espe, Middle River. Mrs. Norquist is chairman of the district meeting this year, and expressed appreciation to local school officials for cooperation in holding the sessions in Thief River Falls.

Purposes of the meeting, Mrs. Norquist said, are to become better acquainted with teachers in the district, look at teaching practices in relation to the new curriculum materials in foods, nutrition and family relationship areas, provide stimulation for effective teaching and further and understanding of the teacher's role in state curriculum projects.

Mrs. Altendorf of Warren was elevated to the chairmanship for 1966 with Theresa Rowan of Sebeka as alternate. Another alternate is to be selected from candidates including Mrs. Jan Breiland, Thief River Falls; Mrs. Marjorie Espe, Middle River; and Carol Enzmann, Gonvick.

Council Has Short Session Tuesday Night

Contract Let for Extension of Sewer, Water on N. Duluth

At an unusually brief adjourned meeting Tuesday night, the Thief River Falls city council awarded a contract for water and sewer extension on Duluth av. N. between 13th and 14th streets to the Harry Dahl construction company, which submitted the low bid amounting to $4,294.58.

The council opened a number of bids for extension of the airport vocational school shop building Tuesday afternoon. These were tabled for further consideration.

A proposal from Roy Jensen to rent 19 acres of city-owned farm land in the dump ground area at $2 per acre was accepted. A resolution to restrict truck traffic on LaBree avenue from First street to the ambulance entrance to Northwestern hospital was discussed and tabled.

During discussion of the 1965 elections, it was announced that the filing dates will be September 21 to October 5. In regard to the swimming pool election, the city fathers decided to request that the swimming pool comittee make its brochure available for study by next Tuesday night's meeting.

Seven building permits with a total cost of $122,100 were approved. They included Wallace L. Vagle, 317 East 11th st., dwelling addition, $2,000; Ranum Construction company and St. Bernard's church, Catholic church building, $109,000; Shetler's Hatchery, 712 Davis av. CLINIC conducted Monday evening for vaccination of dogs and cats for rabies by the Thief River Falls Jaycees was considered successful, with 92 animals vaccinated. Only 18 of the pet owners purchased licenses at the licensing table a short distance from the vaccinating area, which was manned by Police Sgt. Donovan Liden. The clinic was set up in the Red Owl parking lot, made available to the Jaycees by proprietor Otto Stenberg. Dr. F. W. Hazard administered the vaccine and Jim Wills was the Jaycee in charge of the project. Jaycees who assisted were Gordon Anderson, Robert Ohlhauser and Robert Ekeren. Mrs. Jaycees present were Mrs. Charles Follet, Mrs. Glenn Peterson, Mrs. James Fisher and Mrs. Si Giere. The clinic will be held at the same place on Wednesday from 6:30 to 9 p.m. for those unable to partake of the service on Monday. Wednesday is also the legal deadline for purchase of 1965 dog licenses. There is no charge for the rabies shots since Dr. Hazard is contributing his time and the Jaycees are providing the vaccine, syringes and needles.

PURSUED by a horde of young boys, the greased pig released from a truck onto the Grygla baseball diamond Saturday afternoon ran at top speed for a short distance. Before it had traveled long or far, it was caught by 12-year-old David Magnuson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lyndon Magnuson of Grygla. The greased pig race was a main attraction of the Fall Festival held Saturday in Grygla.

Smith-Torkelson Wedding Solemnized at Zion Church

Wahna Jean Torkelson and Darryl Glenn Smith, both of Thief River Falls, were united in marriage at Zion Lutheran church of this city on July 3 at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Leland Steen, pastor of the church, in the presence of 175 guests. Lighted candelabra and baskets of ferns graced the chancel, with mums and gardenias on the altar. Pews along the aisle were marked by candles, ferns and ribbon.

Before the ceremony, Duane Rafteseth, a friend of the groom, sang "O Perfect Love", and as the couple knelt at the altar he sang "The Wedding Blessing". Mrs. Arthur Hamilton, organist, played "Trumpet Voluntary" by Purcell as the processional and "Now Thank We All Our God" as the recessional.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of white satin with silk organza overlay, designed and made by her sister, Mrs. James Johnson. An applique of pearls edged the Empire waistline and also the border of the chapel train. Sequins and seed pearls adorned the wide headband with a silken net veil falling to shoulder length. The bride also wore a gold neckline cross, the gift of the groom, and carried an arm bouquet of a dozen long stemmed Tangerine roses. The traditional "something old, something new" was observed in her attire.

Mrs. James Johnson of rural Thief River Falls, was matron of honor, and Mrs. Ted Guerard of South Milwaukee, Wis., Ivette and Pamela Torkelson of Thief River Falls, were bridesmaids. All are sisters of the bride and were identical floor-length gowns designed and made by Mrs. Johnson. The Empire gowns, of turquoise taffeta with nylon organza muting the color, were fashioned with scoop necklines and fitted, wrist length sleeves, with a drapery of chiffon from waist to hem. They were worn with white shoes and headpieces of turquoise net over a crown of seed pearls and rhinestones. The attendants all carried bouquets of 3 long stemmed Tangerine roses with matching ribbons, and wore seed pearl necklaces, gifts of the bride.

Gary Smith of Grafton, N. D., served as his brother's best man. Arvid Wedul of St. Paul, Vern Solheim of this city, and David Hanson of Minneapolis, all friends of the groom, were his attendants. Ushers were Fred Dablow of Sioux City, Ia., also a friend of the groom, and the bride's brother, Marlon Torkelson of Milwaukee, Wis. The men in the bridal party wore afternoon tuxedos of solid black and the ushers wore business suits. The groom wore a Tangerine rose boutonniere, and the attendants, ushers, and fathers of the bridal couple wore white carnations.

The mother of the bride wore a 2 piece knit suit in pink, with white hat and gloves and a corsage of roses and gardenias. The mother of the groom wore an A line dress of baby blue lace with matching hat and white shoes and gloves. She also wore a corsage of roses and gardenias.

One hundred fifty guests were entertained at a reception for the bride and groom given by the parents of the bride in the church parlors with Mrs. Bert Vigen as hostess. The three-tiered ribbon cake with special decorations of Tangerine roses was baked by Mrs. Gil Sannes. Three nieces of the bride passed miniature pieces of groom's cake, wrapped in net and ribbon, from baskets designed and decorated in turquoise and white by the bride. The girls were Vicki and Kayla Guerard of South Milwaukee, and Jodie Torkelson of this city. Mrs. Chester Bagdons of Wadena, aunt of the groom, and Mrs. Fred Storberg of Bemidji, aunt of the bride, served the wedding cake. Serving punch were nieces of the bride, Brenda Torkelson and Vicki Guerard of South Milwaukee. They wore white gardenia corsages.

Mrs. Gary Smith of Grafton, sister-in-law of the groom, and Mrs. Wallace Torkelson, sister-in-law of the bride, poured. Another sister-in-law of the bride, Mrs. Marlon Torkelson of South Milwaukee registered guests. Mrs. Culver Klech of Moorhead, and Miss Corine Bjorge of this city served the bridal table which was arranged in a U shape to seat 16 guests. Arranging gifts were Miss Valarie Torstveit and Mrs. Theodore Haugen, cousins of the bride, and Mrs. Walter Wiskow, friend of the bride, all of Thief River Falls.

Out of town guests were from Sioux City, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Billings, Milwaukee, Chinook, Grafton, Langdon, Wadena and St. Hilaire.

The bride's travel costume for the wedding trip to Duluth and the North Shore was a two-piece baby blue whipped cream suit with which she wore black accessories and a corsage of miniature Tangerine roses and mums.

The groom, son of the Charles Smiths, is a graduate of Lincoln high school and has spent two years in Colombia, South America, with the Peace Corps. He has studied at Moorhead state college, Mexico City college in Mexico City, and Arizona state college in Phoenix. He is employed with his father at Charlie's Tire Service here.

The bride also is a graduate of Lincoln high school and is employed at Benson Optical company. They will be at home at 241 Kneale Avenue North in this city.

Arvid Torens of Spruce Valley Note Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Arvid Toren were honored August 8 when relatives and friends gathered on the occasion of their forty-fifth wedding anniversary near Middle River. Approximately 125 guests attended.

Emelia and David Toren, bestman and bridesmaid at the 1920 wedding, were present. All members of the original wedding party wore corsages and boutonnieres made by Mrs. Harman Christofferson of Thief River Falls, and pinned by Gladys Lundquist, daughter of the honored couple.

Miss Linda Toren registered the guests for the reception that followed. Punch was served by Misses Janie and Carol Wetterlund and Joan Lundquist. The buffet lunch, served by members of the family, featured a wedding cake which had been baked and decorated by Mrs. Milton Lundquist. Mrs. Wm. Johnson, a niece of Mrs. Toren from Minneapolis and Mrs. Rodney Wetterlund cut and served the cake. Mrs. Wm. Thompson and Mrs. Alfred Swanson poured. Mrs. Rudolph Smith was the hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. Toren were married Aug. 7, 1920, at Warren. They have lived in Spruce Valley township all the years of their wedded life. There they operate a 200-acre dairy farm selling Grade A milk. Their son Joe, who makes his home with them, is a partner in the farming operations.

Winger-Falk Marriage Solemnized in Kansas

The marriage of Anna Marie Falk, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. August W. Falk of Herrington, Kansas, to S P-5 Charles W. Winger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Everett L. Winger of Strathcona, was solemnized July 20 at Our Redeemer Lutheran church in Herrington. The double ring ceremony was read by the Rev. Delmer Brack at 7 p.m. Candelabra trimmed with lemon leaves and white ribbon decorated the church.

Mrs. Calvin Kandt served as organist. Mrs. Larry Riffel, and Mrs. Frank Meyer sang "O Perfect Love" and "Oh, Blest the House Whate'er Befall". While the candles were being lighted Mrs. Meyer played a flute solo, "Jesus Joy of Man's Desiring".

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a street length gown of Chantilly lace styled with fitted bodice, long tapered sleeves and Sabrina neckline trimmed with iridescent sequins. Sequins also highlighted the ruffles cascading down the back of the bouffant skirt. A forward crown of illusion petals embroidered with iridescents held her bouffant veil of silk illusion. She carried a bouquet of feathered white carnations and ivy centered with a white orchid, and wore a single strand of pearls, a gift of the groom.

Miss Sharon Albright of Wichita, cousin of the bride, was bridesmaid. She wore a street length dress of purple satin with matching headpiece of flowers and veiling. Her crescent bouquet of white carnations was accented with satin leaves in a heliotrope shade.

P. F. C. Charles Turner of Fort Riley attended the groom as best man and Dennis Albright, cousin of the bride, and H. G. Stiver of Council Grove lighted the tapers and served as ushers. The mother of the bride wore a street length green dress with beige accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

A reception was held at the church following the ceremony. The brides table was covered with a lace cloth over lavender and centered with the wedding cake. Mrs. Harvey Albright cut and served the cake and Mrs. Leorn School poured the punch. Miss Shirley Falk, sister of the bride, presided at the guest book.

The bride attended Herrington high school. The groom attended high school in Middle River and is now serving with the U. S. Navy at Fort Riley. He will leave soon on an overseas assignment, during which time his bride will live with her parents.

Out of town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Albrecht of Ramona, Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Albright and Mrs. Don Orthman and Loretta of Wichita, and Mrs. Richard Herbel of Lincolnville.

Following the ceremony, dinner was served for the immediate family at the home of the brides' parents. A reception at the Midway Y.M.C.A. in St. Paul was held in the afternoon.

After a trip around Lake Superior, the couple is at home near Red Lake Falls where Mr. Erickson is farming. Mrs. Erickson is a 1965 graduate of the University of Minnesota and has accepted a teaching position with the Mentor public school system.

Mr. and Mrs. Tron Fonnest and Larry returned Sunday from Phoenix, Ariz. where they had visited for two weeks at the James Wegge home.

Foresters Honor Mrs. Louise Dorn, Member 50 Years

Members of the Women's Catholic order of Foresters met on Tuesday, August 17, at 8 p.m. in the clubroom of St. Bernard's church. This was a special meeting marking the golden anniversary of Mrs. Louise Dorn as a member. She now holds the position as financial secretary whi she held almost 40 years ago

The program opened with words of welcome and appreciation from chief ranger Christine Giefer and Mrs. Fred Protz, who presented her with a corsage of golden flowers. The group sang the Forester song accompanied on the piano by Erin Carlson. Then Miss Giefer reminisced, going over highlights of past records written by Mrs. Dorn when she was recording secretary. This was followed by a vocal solo by Margo Reopelle, accompanied by Erin Carlson. Mrs. Leo Pahlen read a letter of congratulation from Mrs. Ole Engelstad. Miss Geifer presented the honored member with a 50-year pin, and her godchild, Karen Pahlen, presented her with a gift. A few words from another old friend, Mrs. Martin Strom, followed by picture taking, completed the program.

Honor Trail Woman On 100th Birthday

A large number of friends and neighbors gathered Sunday at the Sand Valley church at Trail to extend congratulations and best wishes to Mrs. Johanna Handy on her 100th birthday.

Most of the afternoon was spent socially reminiscing of days gone by. A short program was presented at 2 o'clock with Linda Handy serving as master of ceremonies. Pastor Earl Martell led in devotions. Poems were read by Lorena Hovelsrud, Diane Nyland, and Mary Melbo. Musical numbers were provided by Mrs. Handy's great granddaughter, Teri Grover, and nephews Adrian and Howard Johnson and A. A. Dahl. Linda Handy gave a congratulatory talk and a brief outline of the honored guest's life.

A three-tiered birthday cake was baked and decorated by Mrs. Albert Aaknes. On top of the cakes was a white arch bearing the age 100 years and a little old lady in a chair, representing the honored guest.

Mrs. Handy was born in a small village near Oslo, Norway on Nov. 18, 1865. In 1872 she came with her parents to the United States, first making their home in Douglas county near Alexandria. On November 9, 1888, she was united in marriage with Nels Handy. They came in 1896 to what is now the town of Trail.

Mrs. Handy had twelve children of whom six are still living. They are Johnnie of Trail, Art of Collins, Montana, Elmer of Detroit, Minnie (Mrs. A. A. Dahl) of Minneapolis, Josephine (Mrs. Andrew Carlson) of Duluth, and Alice (Mrs. Milton Thompson) of Clearbrook. Mrs. Handy has 74 living descendants including the six children, 20 grandchildren, 38 great grandchildren and 10 great, great, grandchildren.

BPW Club Conducts Patio Picnic Aug. 17

Business and Professional Women's club conducted a patio picnic at the home of Mrs. Walter Morehouse on Tuesday evening, August 17. After the pot luck supper the group moved indoors for a silent auction of white elephant objects which had been brought by the members.

The women slipped sealed and signed bids under the objects of their choice and Mrs. Morehouse awarded them to the highest bidders. The money realized from the the sale is for the scholarship fund from which, in the past two years, the club has awarded two $50 scholarships to worthy and deserving girls who attend the vocational school here.

The next meeting of the club will be on September 21, the third Tuesday of the month.

Friends Have Shower For Mrs. Duane Olson

Mrs. Duane Olson was the honored guest at a pink and blue shower held August 14 at the Leland Nelson home. A social afternoon was spent and games were played. The honored guest then opened her many gifts. Hostesses were Mrs. Lloyd Olson and Mrs. Leland Nelson.

Those attending were Memes. Frank Armstrong, Dake Ayers, Lloyd VeVea, Leo Langevin, Wm. Puppe, Marvin Moen, LaVerne Filpula, Herbert Swenson, Vernon Anderson, Gordon Olson, Paul Furuseth, Miss Amanda Larson and Gloria Olson. Sending gifts but unable to attend were Mmes. Russel Lane, Burton Lane, Nada Lane, Marvin Johnson, and Ed Timm.

Mr. and Mrs. Anton Johnson and Al Johnson returned Monday morning after spending a few days with relatives in Minneapolis and Coon Rapids.

Leo Horiens Note 45th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Horien will observe their 45th wedding anniversary on Sunday, August 29, at Nazareth Lutheran church of Holt. Hours are from 2 to 5 p.m., with a program at 2 p.m. No cards have been sent and friends and relatives are invited to come and observe the day with them.

MODELS of the three churches which have served St. John Lutheran congregation in its 70-year history were on display during the anniversary service of the congregation Sunday in Thief River Falls. Shown with the models are Rev. Fred J. Seltz, pastor of the congregation from 1907 to 1909, and Rev. Paul R. Blegner, current pastor who has served since 1963. The models were made by Walter Monroe of Thief River Falls—those on the right and left made several years ago and the one in the center completed this summer.

St. John Church 70th Anniversary Held on Sunday

Rev. Emil H. Kreidt became pastor in 1920 and was succeeded by Rev. V. E. Schroeder in 1926; the latter served 27 years until 1953. Church council members at the time of the 40th anniversary in 1935 were Emil Krause, Fred Koop, Hans Anton, Otto Geske, Carl Belswenger Sr., Gust Wilken and August Krause.

Rev. W. Clausen served the church from 1951 to 1956, during which time a new church building was planned, and Rev. Alfred C. Seltz assumed the pastorate in 1956. Groundbreaking for the new church was held April 7, 1957, and the church was dedicated on June 15, 1958. Rev. Seltz resigned in 1963 when elected full-time president of the new Minnesota North district and was succeeded by Rev. Paul Blegner, present pastor.

Hearings Set on Soo Petition To Remove Trains

be waived by the examiner at the hearing for good cause."

An earlier request for discontinuance of Soo Line trains 9 and 10 was made by the company to the Minnesota Railroad and Warehouse commission, and hearings were held in Thief River Falls, Glenwood and St. Paul. The commission ruled, on the basis of testimony presented at the hearing, that the railroad must continue to operate the trains between St. Paul and Noyes. At that time the Soo Line was carrying mail on these trains, receiving revenue from mail and providing a valuable service along the line.

It is expected that the postal department's removal of mail from the trains in favor of highway carrier will be a new and highly-discussed element in the hearings. Other testimony as to passenger and freight service of the trains and railroad operational costs is expected to be virtually the same as that presented during Railroad and Warehouse commission hearings.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Larson of Balaton, Mr. and Mrs. Lewie Larson of Marshall and Mr. and Mrs. Emil Larson of Plummer visited at the Anton Johnson on Monday afternoon.

SCHOOL on a wagon was one of the unusual sights seen by watchers of the Grygla fall festival parade Saturday afternoon. Children of the Grygla school rode on the float, which was made complete with desks, blackboard and a few symbols of old-time rural education such as a dunce cap and an apple for the teacher.

Campanula Club Plans Club Tour

The Campanula garden club met at the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Christopherson August 10 at 2 o'clock. There were fourteen members present and the following guests: Mrs. Clara Heleren of Thief River Falls, Miss Esther Sorum of Torrance, Calif., Mrs. Arvid Toren of Middle River, Mrs. Bill Johnson of Minneapolis, and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Swanson of McGregor, Minn. For roll call members told of flowers brought for making arrangements.

Due to the absence of president and vice president, Miss Genevn Overum conducted a short business session. A tour was planned for August 24 to visit the Moccasin garden club members. Announcement was made of the 13th district flower show to be held at Roseau, August 19, and the horticultural day at the Northwest school and Experiment Station at Crookston, Sept. 4 for a meeting and tour of flower plots. As many as could go were urged to attend.

Following the lunch served by Mrs. Christopherson and Miss Overum, flower arrangements were made out on the lawn.

LEADING the parade which highlighted the Grygla fall festival held Saturday was the color guard of the Grygla VFW post, followed by the Goodridge high school band. The only other marching unit to participate was the Bridgeman Half-Pints drum and bugle corps of Thief River Falls. A fair-sized crowd gathered at the edge of the street to watch the procession, and weather conditions were ideal for outdoor activity.

Belated Party Honors Ericksons On Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Erickson of Warren were honored with a surprise party in belated observance of their 25th wedding anniversary, Sunday, at their farm near Goodridge. They were given a corsage and boutonniere made by Mrs. Elvon Hamilton. The actual date was last year. Hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. Arne Nelson, Mrs. Melvin Wilkens of Grygla and Mrs. Elvon Hamilton. Mrs. Donald Hanson of East Grand Forks and Miss Geraldine Roppe of Newfolden were in charge of the guest book. Erickson is Marshall county sheriff.

Elvon Hamilton was master of ceremonies for the program which began with community singing led by Mrs. Lynn Hanson and Russell Culkins. Mrs. Glen Miest of St. James gave a humorous reading she had composed. A letter from Mr. and Mrs. Hermon Sollie of Bellingham, Wash. was read by Mrs. Sheldon Peterson of Grygla. Miss Ardella Nelson of Grygla read letters of greetings from Mr. and Mrs. Victor Sund of Glendale, Calif. and Mrs. Hannah Sund of Van Nuys, Calif. Mrs. Lynn Hanson gave a monologue called "Sleeptime". The program was concluded by everyone's singing "The More We Get Together" and led by Russell Culkins.

Melvin Wilkens and Arne Nelson of Grygla presented the couple with a folding picnic table and a centerpiece done in orange and brown along with a purse of money, gifts from friends and relatives who attended the occasion. Those sending gifts but not able to attend were Mrs. Hannah Sund of Van Nuys, Calif., Mr. and Mrs. Victor Sund of Glendale, Calif., Mr. and Mrs. Milan Sorenson, Warren, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Sollie, Bellingham, Wash., Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Larson, St. Paul, and Beverly Olstad of Warren.

Following the presentation of gifts a pot luck lunch was served to approximately 150 guests. The serving table was centered with a bouquet of gladioli.

Out of town friends and relatives who joined the Goodridge guests for the occasion were the Erickson children, Bruce, Carolyn, Rodney of Warren and Leon of San Francisco, Calif. who was home on leave; Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Wilkens, and Dale, Sofus Bjertnes, Elmer Hylland, Omund Olson, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Carlson and family, Mr. and Mrs. N. E. R. Groom, 75, Former Plummer Farmer, Buried

Funeral services for E. R. Groom, 75, resident of the Plummer community from 1920 to 1951, were held August 17 at Norwalk, Calif., and August 19 at the Sundberg Funeral parlor in Madrid, Ia. He died August 15 at a hospital in Norwalk after a two-week illness.

Ernest Raymond Groom was born in Sac county, Iowa, to Albert and Marilla Groom on Feb. 6, 1889. He lived in Storm Lake, Ia., and Sheboygan, Wis., and in early manhood homesteaded a claim at Lemon, S.D. On Oct. 8, 1913, he married Maybelle Fern Ringgenberg at Fairmont and they farmed near Monterey until moving to Plummer in 1920.

After retiring from farming, Mr. Groom moved to the Long Beach area of California, spending several summers working as a carpenter in Newton, Ia.

Survivors include two sons, Raymond of Kellogg, Ia., and Laurel of Newton, Ia.; two daughters, Mrs. John L. Gambler Jr., Harrisburg, Pa., and Miss Shirley Groom, Newton, Ia.; his wife, Ruth; a sister, Mrs. Homer Payette of Seal Beach, Calif.; nine grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

He was preceded in death by a son, Vernon; his wife, Maybelle; four sisters, Cora, Mrs. Joseph (Laura) Brodeusky, Mrs. Otto (Olive) Schreeder and Mrs. Joseph (Minerva) Crowley and a brother Charles Groom.

Rites Friday For Soren Knutson at Redeemer Church

Soren Knutson, a longtime resident of Thief River Falls and Pennington county, died on Sunday evening, August 22, at a Fergus Falls hospital at the age of 84 years.

Funeral services for Soren Knutson will be held on Friday, August 27, at Redeemer Lutheran church in Thief River Falls. Rev. Dennis Rodin will officiate and interment will be in Greenwood cemetery. The body will lie in state at the Green funeral home from Wednesday evening until noon on Friday and at the church for one hour prior to the time of services.

Soren Knutson was born on Dec. 8, 1880 in Norway where he was baptized and confirmed, received his education and grew to manhood.

He came to America in 1902 and settled in Wisconsin, coming in 1903 to Pennington county where he settled in Numedahl township and began farming.

On June 28, 1911, he was united in marriage with Marie Larson in Thief River Falls. They continued to farm until 1945 when they moved to Thief River Falls where they have since made their home.

Mr. Knutson is survived by his wife, Marie, and two sons, Winton and Leo, both of Thief River Falls, and a daughter (Alice) Mrs. Raymond Amir of Pittsburg, Calif. Two grandchildren, several nieces among them, Mrs. Art Olson of Thief River Falls—a number of nephews and cousins also survive. He was preceded in death by one son and one granddaughter.

Rain on Tuesday Ends Dry Spell

The dry spell which has prevailed throughout August thus far was broken yesterday when the first measurable rain to fall during the month, .08 inch, was recorded at the airport. After a period of clear, cool weather brought by a Canadian high - pressure area, the high moved eastward and was replaced by a low, bringing cloudy weather and light showers. Temperatures have remained pleasantly cool.

Variable cloudiness is forecast today with showers and thunderstorms over 40 per cent of the area. Little temperature change is predicted. Outlook for the next couple of days is for variable cloudiness with a chance of showers. Winds will be light and variable. Highs today will range from 68 to 76; lows tonight from 48 to 53.

Temperature and precipitation readings recorded during the past week by North Central Airlines personnel at the airport are as follows: 70, 45 and a trace on Wednesday; 73 and 47 on Thursday; 76 and 47 on Friday; 73 and 42 on Saturday; 78 and 45 on Sunday; 85 and 50 on Monday; 81, 57 and .08 inch on Tuesday; and a low this morning of 59.

Local Men Lead Scout Expedition At Scout Ranch

C. M. Knutson and N. Quentin Jones of Thief River Falls led 21 Scouts on a 12-day expedition over rugged mountain trails at Philmont Scout Ranch. The 137,000 acre national camping area of the Boy Scouts of America near Cimarron, N. M.

Knutson, who is locomotive and car foreman with the Soo Line Railroad, and Jones a physical education teacher in the Thief River Falls schools, supervised the group representing the Lake Agassiz council.

The 214 square mile ranch is located on the slopes of the Sangre de Cristo range of the Rockies where 18,000 Explorers and older Boy Scouts are enrolled this summer for the high adventure treks.

The group participated in activities such as mountain climbing, hiking, cave exploring, horseback riding, gold panning, trail camping and conservation projects during their expedition.

At three sunset campfires, program directors related tales filled with the history of the early American pioneers and of such explorers as Kit Carson, Lucien Maxwell and other heroes who forged trails in the Santa Fe country.

After three days with a staff ranger, the expeditions continued over the trails, hiking and camping under the guidance of Knutson and Jones. The Scouts returned to camp headquarters on Tuesday at which time they participated in the awards campfire.

Red Lake Indian Fair Opens at Red Lake Friday

Coronation of a new Red Lake Indian princess on Sunday afternoon will be one of the highlights of the annual Red Lake Indian fair to be held Friday, Saturday and Sunday at the pow-wow grounds at Redlake. Reigning princess is Donna Morrison.

A five-mile run from Redby to the pow-wow grounds at Redlake will be another featured event Sunday. The run will start about 2:30 p. m. with runners to complete the event at the finish line at Redlake prior to the princess contest. Speaker Sunday afternoon will be Leonard Dickinson of Bemidji, member of the Minnesota legislature.

Entry day for the fair will be Friday with judging to take place on Saturday. Exhibits will be open for public viewing on Saturday and Sunday. Speaker on Saturday will be Rep. L. J. Lee of Bagley.

Indian games and contests will be held during the fair and a large pow-wow will also be staged. The recreation area at Sandy Beach will be open on Sunday, the last day for the 1965 season, according to Dan Needham, treasurer of the Red Lake tribal council.

Admission to the fair will be one dollar per car, Needham said.

Public Notices

In Loving Memory

In Loving Memory of our dearly beloved son and brother Ivan, who was taken from our family circle August 27, 1964.

A ray of sunshine has gone from our home and a place is vacant today, and our son that we loved so well, seems so very far away. But we're trying to live just day by day trusting the Father for light. Knowing that some day he'll be with us again in the home in the city of light.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Bundy, Marion Klusu, Lois Anderson. 1t68p

Card of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere thanks to all or relatives and friends for their cards, letters and visits while we were hospitalized. Also the staff of Northwestern hospital in Thief River Falls and Dr. Wendt for their excellent care. Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Hemly. 1t68c

Do you have a cat? Then use KLEEN KITTY, America's First and Finest "cat's potty box" absorbent. To those who feed the wild birds, insist on POV Brand, made by Thief River folks—available at Piggly Wiggly, Red Owl and other local stores. 10tfc

Carlson Honored . . .

Softball Banquet Staged on Monday

Robert Carlson, honored at the annual banquet of the Thief River Falls Softball association for 20 years of service to the cause of softball in this city, was reelected president of the association for the coming year at an election held during the evening. Frank Harger was elected vice president and Larry Skallett was reelected secretary-treasurer.

Carlson was presented with a trophy bearing an engraved plaque and a large softball figurine made by Lowell Collins, local sports enthusiast. The award sparked enthusiastic applause from the approximately 150 persons attending the banquet in the VFW club rooms.

Rev. James Ditzler of St. Bernard's Catholic church opened the banquet program with the invocation. Carlson, serving as master of ceremonies for the evening, introduced Mayor Orin Green who extended an official welcome to those attending the event. Roy Barzen, president of the local park board, briefly reviewed the park and recreation situation which began with a $600 annual budget to hire one man part-time for city park work.

Mayor Green presented trophies to the VFW team, manager Pat Poole and post commander Farrell Harris, for winning the league championship; Bea's Food Market, manager Wayne Bjerken and sponsor Bea Zachar, for winning the city championship; and members of the TRF Sports women's league champions.

Carlson presented the batting championship trophy to Jerry Erickson for leading the league with a .393 average and James Foley, park and recreation director for the city, assisted with the women's league trophy presentation.

Carlson summarized softball activity in the city over the past 20 years, mentioning some of the outstanding players of past years including Gordon Ballingrud, Roy Lee and Wally Tunberg. He also discussed the gains and declines of softball interest here and the changes made in playing fields and conditions. He expressed his thanks to the 1965 board of directors which included James Foley, Wally Grovum, Ernie Bjerken and John Drury in addition to Skallett and Harger who were elected officers for 1966.

Thief Lake Area Closed to Early Season Teal Hunt

Thief Lake Wildlife Management area west of County Road 50 will be closed to hunting during the special three-day teal season September 11, 12 and 13, according to Jay Haroldson, manager of the area.

The three-day season opens at noon Saturday, September 11, and closes at sunset Monday, September 13. Blue-wing, green-wing and cinnamon teal only may be taken during the experimental early season with bag limits of four daily and eight in possession. Hunters must possess a Minnesota small game hunting license, federal duck stamp and special teal permit secured through the state conservation department.

Myers and Olson Win Horseshoe Tourney Sunday

Considerable interest was shown in the horseshoe tournament held Sunday at Centennial park in Thief River Falls under the sponsorship of the local park and recreation association. Twenty-four players, comprising 12 teams for double competition, competed in the tournament.

Games were played to 25 points with a match consisting of winning two out of three games. Single elimination was followed with match losers being eliminated from further competition.

Bernard Myers and Alvin Olson swept to victory in the tournament without losing a game and defeating Robert Flynn and Roy Lee in the championship match.

In the opening round, Lewis Helfner and Marvin Lundin defeated Arnold Wiskow and Kermit Finstad 2-0; Olson and Myers defeated Duane Larson and Art Brown 2-0; Lloyd Nelson and Phil Torgerson defeated Ed DeLap and Herbert Hartje 2-1; Leonard Brekke and Don Foss defeated Ben Bendickson and Les Vigness 2-0; Flynn and Lee defeated Arnold Gunderson and Carl Finstad 2-0; and Oscar Bakke and Oble Omlid defeated John Drury and Pete Sullivan 2-1.

Quarter finals saw Myers and Olson defeat Helfner and Lundin 2-0; Nelson and Torgerson defeat Brekke and Foss 2-0; and Flynn and Lee defeat Bakke and Omlid 2-1. Myers and Olson defeated Nelson and Torgerson 2-0 while Flynn and Lee drew a bye in the semi-finals.

Champions will receive trophies. A league is being planned for next year and a meeting will be held in May to form the league, according to James Foley, director of parks and recreation for the city.

TROPHIES were presented to members of the White Sox Pee Wee baseball team Thursday afternoon at Centennial park. The White Sox won the championship game over the Athletics by a score of 4 to 3, with Mike Hamilton credited with the win and Randy Carlson with the loss. Robert Carlson, city council member and umpire in chief of the championship game, is pictured standing at left. Kneeling in front are Scott Reed (left) and Mike Onkka. In the second row are Kjell Melvie, Joel Folger, Bruce Brown, Tom Goddard and Brian Peterson. Back row: Don Hunt, Tom Gall, Rory Harger, Mike Hamilton and Dan Harris. At far right is Mike Aune, coach of the team.

CONSERVATION News & Notes

Area Game Manager
Division of Game & Fish—Minn. Conservation Dep't.

Funds for the purchase of our Wildlife Management Areas have come primarily from four sources. When the program started back in 1951, the regular game and fish license revenues along with the money appropriated from the Pittman-Robertson act were all that was available.

The P-R funds are appropriated to the states from the excise tax on sporting arms and ammunition by the federal government for wildlife work. The appropriation is based on the area of the state and the number of hunting license sold. Under this act, which passed in 1957, only certain specified types of projects can be undertaken such as research, acquisition and development. The status are reimbursed for 75 per cent of the costs of approved projects. This has been one of the most important pieces of federal legislation involving wildlife ever passed and much good has been done as a result of it.

In 1957 our state legislators recognized the need for an accelerated wildlife habitat acquisition program and added one dollar to the small game hunting license; this money was was earmarked for the wetlands acquisition program.

A further boost was given to this program as well as other natural resource programs in the state with the passage of the Natural Resource Act in 1961 by our state legislature. This Law added one cent a pack to cigarettes, and the money is earmarked for natural resource work. The wildlife habitat acquisition program has been aided by money from this source in recent years.

A small amount ($20,000) has been received as gifts for work on this program from individuals, sportsmen's clubs and other interested organizations since the start of the program. Dispite this, a lack of sufficient funds has hampered the program and much more valuable wildlife habitat could have been acquired if money had been available.

When a project proposal for acquiring land has been approved by the Conservation department and negotiations with the land owner have been completed, there is one more step that the area game manager must take before the option can be submitted to the department attorneys. This is securing approval of the purchase from the county board of commissioners. After this is secured the options are then mailed to St. Paul for processing.

HUNTING SEASONS

Now that the hunting seasons have been announced people are asking various questions concerning dates, bag limits, etc. With most upland game bird populations low, we can expect only fair hunting at best on pheasants and grouse in most parts of the state.

People often logically ask why seasons are set when populations are low. The reason, of course, is that hunting has not been found to be a factor in determing succeeding years' populations in upland game birds. This has been amply demonstrated in a number of states and different species.

One of the better examples here in Minnesota is the Cloquet state forest which was closed to grouse hunting for about 30 years. The grouse population in this refuge was found to fluctuate the same as in nearby areas that were open to hunting. When the refuge was finally opened to hunting a few years ago, hunters had about the same success as on the outside. Examples of this sort can be cited for many areas for most upland game birds. Thus there is no reason to deny hunters the opportunity to engage in their favorite sport because the game population is low.

It should be pointed out however that the same thing is not true with waterfowl. In fact, in many instances, we have the probably still are (despite low limits) overhunting many of our ducks, and unless this and the destruction of habitat is not soon stopped our waterfowl hunting will be a thing of the past.

In setting hunting seasons, one of the tools used in the wildlife census. Most of these census methods give an index to the population rather than an actual count of the population. They are carried on at different times and in different ways for the many species with which we work. It is often another time-consuming but important and interesting part of a game manager's work. Perhaps in a future article we can discuss some of the methods used in trying to larn more about wildlife populations.

FISHING in the Red Lake River has apparently not reached its usual mid-summer slack period. This northern pike weighing 14 pounds was caught at Squaw Point Saturday afternoon by Mike Hilyar of South St. Paul. He hooked and landed the lunker with a double spoon lure and a six-pound-test monofilament line. He was accompanied by Jim Bimler of St. Paul.

CITY CHAMPS by virtue of winning the league play-offs were members of the Bea's Food Market team, last year's league champions in the Thief River Falls softball league. Receiving the trophy from Mayor Orin Green are Mrs. Bea Zachar and Wayne Bjerken, sponsor and manager of the team respectively. Donated by the Times, the trophy was presented at the annual softball banquet Monday evening.

Program Director Named at Mental Health Center

Board of directors of the Northwestern Mental Health center has announced that Robert I. Williams has just moved to Crookston from Virginia. Hired first as a consultant to help the board reorganize into a comprehensive community center, Dr. Williams was then persuaded to become program director of the new approach to mental health.

New emphasis of the center will be for the staff to visit other people and agencies in this eight-county area who are also working to improve the mental health of our people. Already, in trips to each of the counties, plans are set for regular work meetings with sheriffs, public health nurses, police, county attorneys, clergy and with some special groups.

Dr. Williams has worked for the last three years with the above groups in St. Louis county. Effort of the staff will be to work with and assist local resource people in handling the mental health aspect of their work. The staff will also try to be available for help in emergencies.

Doctor Williams' previous experience was in drug addiction hospitals, child guidance clinics, veterans hospitals, out-patient clinics, an army prison and most recently in the internationally known community consulting center at Virginia. He has been in the field of psychology and sociology since 1948.

For the last eleven years, Dr. Williams has been a psychotherapist and has trained other in group therapy as will as individual psychotherapy.

98 Arrested for Fishing Without License in July

Ninety-eight persons were arrested by state game wardens for fishing without a license during the month of July, the Minnesota Conservation department reported today. Thirty-seven of the violators were non-residents. Ten other non-residents were discovered using falsely obtained resident licenses.

Game wardens also arrested 65 persons for fishing with more than one line and 11 for having over-the-limit catches.

There were three cases involving violations of the big game laws prosecuted during the month. Two persons were apprehended for violating waterfowl regulations including one arrest for molesting waterfowl with a motorboat.

Wardens arrested four persons for transporting loaded or uncased firearms in a motor vehicle and two others for littering public waters. Of the 231 arrests made by game wardens during the month, 207 were for fishing violations.

Racing Season Ends; Holzknecht Horses Fare Well

Manitoba's thoroughbred racing season finished its most successful year last week and established several records in doing so. There was a new all time high mutuel handle of $8,410,026; a new daily double pool of $41,413; a new single day record of $353,415 and an all time record of $440,180 in purse distribution to the horsemen, according to Bruce Borcham, director of public relations.

An interesting feature of the season was the running of the horses owned by Mr. and Mrs. Al Holzknecht of Thief River Falls, Borcham said. This stable finished in fourth place with the fine record of $11,810 in purse money. The colors of the Holzknecht stable were in the winner's circle nine times, finished second nine times, third four times and fourth on eight occasions.

Top winner was Tagdonnel with four wins. This was one of the good claims of the meeting as the horse was claimed from the Gateway Stable of Winnipeg. He also had two wins and a third. Final Jest had two wins, three seconds, one third and three fourths. Little Heel had two wins, a second, third and two fourths. Line Star Baby had a win and a second. Little Tea Aera had two seconds, a third and three fourths. Final Jest was the top money-winning horse in the stable with $4,445.

Thief River Falls race fans were given a special day at Assiniboia Downs on July 10 which was the first time the city had been officially represented. Feature race of the day was named in honor of Thief River Falls and Mayor Orin Green presented the winner with a cooler blanket bearing the name of the city. Thief River Falls day will be repeated during the 1966 race season. Management of the Downs was most appreciative of the support given by Thief River Falls citizens and looks forward to their special day next year, Borcham concluded.

Water Information To Be Secured by State

Another step toward the collection of essential information on the water resources of the state has been made possible by passage of an act by the 1965 Legislature, the Minnesota Conservation department reported today. Under the provisions of Laws 1965, Chapter 797 which became effective when signed by Governor Rolvaag on May 28, all persons or agencies appropriating or using water in the state are required to report to the Commissioner of Conservation the location of the appropriation and other information essential to a complete inventory and thorough understanding of the State's water resources.

It requires that the water appropriator measure and keep records of the quantity of water used and report this annually to the commissioner. Appropriations for domestic use serving less than 25 persons are exempt from the requirements of the Act.

The records obtained will be especially useful where ground water is concerned, according to Sidney Frellsen, director of the department's division of waters.

"The location and dept of wells and the depth of water surface in wells will aid hydrologists in mapping the location, extent and quantity of this invisible but highly important natural resource," he said.

The records will also furnish more complete information than is now available on the amount of water presently being used for various purposes.

"Adequate planning for the future requires not only a thorough knowledge of the water resources available, but also reliable estimates of the amount of water which will be needed to support a growing population," Frellsen said. Estimates of future needs necessarily are based on present use, he said.

The act further requires that any increase in pumping capacity or other major modification of an installation for appropriating water may be made only after obtaining a permit from the commissioner of conservation. Permits for appropriating water have been required by law since July 1, 1937, and for appropriating water within the corporate limits of municipalities only since July 1, 1959. Wells six inches or more in diameter may not be abandoned without first securing a permit from the commissioner of conservation and following his recommendations as to the manner in which the work shall be done.

The commissioner has also been given authority to inspect existing air conditioning installations and obtain necessary information from the owner or operator of such systems who must file a questionnaire relating to these installations.

No major change in systems may be made or the capacity be increased without notifying the commissioner (through the division of waters) prior to making such modification.

Minnesota Tops Midwest in Sale Of Savings Bonds

Minnesota moved into first place in quota sales of savings bonds in the eight-state region with July sales of $6,105,530. Minnesota led the nation in quota sales most of last year. Earlier this year, snow, floods and storms had been a primary cause of lower sales. However, the state is back on top in the Midwest. The seven-month sales now total $41,929,539 or 59.1 per cent of quota. Nationally total holdings of Savings Bonds reached a new all-time high of 49,890 million dollars.

Pennington county chairman J. M. Roche reports that E and H savings bonds sales in July amounted to $12,633 for total sales to date of $75,862 or 49.5 per cent of the county's goal for 1965 of $153,000.

Processing Will Take Pressure off Potato Market

Returning from a meeting of the National Potato council in Chicago, Martin Kasperson, executive secretary of the Red River Valley Potato Growers association, reports that those in attendance voiced the opinion that the 1965 report could be misleading. Representatives from all of the major potato producing areas were in attendance at the meeting and agreed that many factors need to be given consideration when evaluating the 1965 crop.

Representatives from the Idaho area pointed out that the large increase in acreage in that state would go almost entirely into processing so would not be in direct competition with table stock. Climatic conditions, too, will be a big factor in determining the total production from the area as an early or normal frost would reduce total production substantially.

From the spring and summer producing areas came the report that they are completely sold out and will be shipping in potatoes from the late summer and fall producing areas. This is in contrast to a normal year when local supplies carry them until the last of the year or the first of the next year.

A representative of a large processor reported that if the present rate of processing is maintained, the supply level of processed potatoes on September 1 could be down to about 65 million pounds, compared to 113 million last year and substantially below monthly consumption requirements. This situation indicates a continuing good demand from processors.

All of these factors are important considerations for Red River Valley producers, says Kasperson. Each factor is important and needs to be given careful consideration. Most of the persons in attendance at the Chicago meeting agreed that "panic" or "pressure" selling does more to force the market downward than any other factor. Producers should avoid this type of selling and with good marketing practices, 1965 can be a year of reasonable profit for the potato producer, Kasperson said.

The Lid Is On Tight

Considered to be hiding more truth than the Bobby Baker investigation, the Otto F. Otepka case is now being hotly debated in Washington political circles. Otepka, who had been in government service for 20 years, was dismissed as security evaluator of the State Department, headed by Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

The Bobby Baker case never was brought to a final climax, thanks to the evasive tactics of the administration and ranking Democrats, and to the so-called witnesses who refused to testify at hearings. There is no question that the administration is adept at creating diversion and confusion and at minimizing situations if not telling outright lies about them. It seems to be a trademark of the great society.

Members of the senate internal security subcommittee have been trying to find out for months why the department fired its top security evaluator. Three employees of the department, two of them high officials, gave untruthful testimony when questioned under oath in the Otepka case. They changed their testimony when they were caught lying, but in at least one case, even the revision was reported to be not truthful.

Rep. William E. Minshall, Ohio, recently stated, "The record in this case reeks with evasion and outright falsehood. This one is as brazenly contemptuous of the people's right to know as was the Bobby Baker cover-up, and it is very much more serious because it goes to the heart of the nation's security.

"We still must ask why Otepka was fired. Was it because he told the truth to the Senate investigators and thereby embarrassed his superiors? Was it because he objected to free and easy security clearance for critical department employees, such as the 150 waivers by Secretary Rusk of preliminary investigation? Was it because Otepka insisted that security clearance be withheld?

"The American people have a right to the answers to those questions, and Secretary Rusk has a duty to provide them.

"Last Fall all State Department security field records were ordered burned. These were unduplicated records used for leads and contacts by field investigators. Then, more than thirty seasoned investigators were reassigned to other cities so that even their knowledge of the files was rendered useless. This, coming on top of the Otepka case, makes one wonder if the State Department really is concerned about security risks on its payroll. The key to the answer lies in an honest open hearing for Otto Otepka."

More on Rent Payments

Sen. Norris Cotton of New Hampshire recently described the administration's proposed rent supplement program as follows:

"It would provide more 'suitable' quarters for a mysterious group of people referred to as the 'disadvantaged' by paying part of their rent. The 'disadvantaged' in some areas would be earning as high as $11,000 a year.

"This plan will push more Americans into 'units' and discourage home ownership. Home ownership is the heart of America. Home ownership can do more in a minute to keep communism from our shores than the FBI, the CIA, and the Un-American Activities Committee can do in a hundred years."

Senator Cotton is right in his description. The proposal is not only discriminatory, unfair and economically preposterous, it is a direct attempt to further undermine the stability of the American home. The worth of the home is described in the following verse by Thomas G. Andrews and quoted by Senator Cotton:

"So long as there are homes to which men turn at close of day,
So long as there are homes where women are, where children play,
If faith and love and loyalty are found beneath those sills,

Leaning with Labor

"It is my view that it would be unwise to place this question entirely outside the authority of the federal courts by a constitutional amendment." This is a statement made by Sen. Eugene McCarthy in a television interview on reapportionment and quoted from his monthly "Memorandum" sheet.

"The Minnesota state consitituion provides that representation in both houses of the Minnesota state legislature be apportioned equally in proportion to population, and this provision would not be changed by enactment of an amendment to the federal Constitution," he stated.

"The arguments used by those who support this proposal are arguments which may have had some validity 50 years ago.

"Today, we have a homogenous America and the importance of cultural and geographic differences, to the extent they existed in the past, has been greatly reduced. The size of legislative districts has come to have less meaning. With modern communications, there is hardly a community today that can be described as isolated."

The senator makes it apparent that he places more faith in the judgment of the political appointees that sit on the supreme court bench than he does on the collective judgment of the U. S. Senate and House of Representatives. He would not like to see the reapportionment question placed outside of the authority of the federal courts. There are a lot of people who would.

Sen. McCarthy also pointed out a failing in our governmental system. He said that Minnesota's provision in its state constitution would not be changed by enactment of an amendment to the federal constitution. In other words, even unanimous decision by federal Congress could not change our manner of conducting state government, but a bare majority concurring in a supreme court decision can effect the changes.

Importance of geographic differences, to the extent they existed in the past, has been reduced, the senator has correctly stated. However, these differences still do exist to a great extent, and they will continue to exist as long as the true American way of life is permitted to exist. By this we mean as long as those of us who love the rural areas will be permitted to live here and those who choose the metropolitan jungle are made to solve the problems of their own creation.

We are not isolated, in the real sense of the word, those of us in the rural areas of the state. Strip us of the not-more-than equal revresentation we now have in the legislature, however, and we will be abandoned. Our pleas will fall on deaf ears under the marble dome in St. Paul. Those who would aid in bringing this situation upon us are no friends of rural America and its priceless heritage.

Senator McCarthy is leaning with organized labor on this question. Concentrating voting strength in the metropolitan areas, eliminating right-to-work laws and forcing the people to become dependent upon the government are tools to build a totalitarian state. Our day is reckoning is coming.

A Disenchanted Island

In this nation of ours which is said to be the land of the free there lies an island of people which is restricted by the federal government from conducting its own affairs. We refer to the federal city of Washington in the District of Columbia, a city which clearly shows the folly of federal operation of a municipality anxious to take care of its own needs and problems.

The city's affairs are administered by a board of three commissioners, appointed by the president, and they operate in a very limited area. All major decisions are made by the District of Columbia committees of the House and Senate. Action that in other cities would require only a simple ordinance must be considered and passed by the D.C. committees, by the full House and Senate and signed by the President. Such a question as local snow removal requires the same 28 legislative steps required by vital national legislation.

To say this is ridiculous and unfair is an understatement. A movement currently underway to give the capitol city home rule is certainly justified and has our sympathy and support. We see no good reason why Congress should spend an estimated $2 million and 5,000 man-hours conducting the affairs of Washington which could be handled much more efficiently and democratically by a city council.

We don't envy these home rule advocates the task of running the city's affairs, but we admire their desire to do so. More than half of the city's property is not available for tax purposes—foreign embassies, government buildings of the district and federal holdings (43 per cent in itself)—but the remainder of Washington's citizens are willing to pay the costs of having the opportunity of conducting their own affairs. We hope our Minnesota senators and representatives will vote for giving them the chance.

When the federal government makes a mess of conducting local affairs in the shadow of the capitol where the needs and problems are apparent, it is difficult to understand how Americans can have faith in the federal government's ability to interfere in local government elsewhere in the nation.

Borrowed Nonsense . . .

One season recently a first-place major league team went into a slump. The manager, suspecting his players of drinking, called them together.

"I want to show you clowns something," he said. He brought out two glasses. After filling one with water he placed a worm in it. The worm swam around. He then brought out a glass of gin and put the worm in that. The worm wiggled, then died. Looking at a player he suspected most, he asked him, "What does that prove to you?"

"That if you drink you won't get worms," the player replied.

IRS Answers Queries For Area Taxpayers

These questions and answers on federal tax matters are provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue service and published as a public service to taxpayers.

Q—My home was broken into recently and some jewelry stolen. What records do I need to establish a theft loss deduction on my 1965 return?

A—To claim a theft loss deduction you must be able to establish the following: (1) when the theft was discovered; (2) that the property was actually stolen and not lost or mislaid; (3) that you were the owner of the property; (4) the cost or other basis of the property; (5) the depreciation allowed or allowable if any; (6) the amount of insurance or other compensation received as a result of the theft.

Only the unreimbursed amount of each theft in excess of $100 is deductible. If both you and your wife suffered losses from the same theft and are filing a joint return, then just one $100 floor is applied to your combined losses.

Q—When my return was audited, the agent disallowed some expenses I am sure I can deduct. What should I do?

A—When you receive the notice of the proposed adjustment to your tax liability, request a district conference. This will enable you to present your side of the story to the conference. Procedure for requesting this conference are described on the adjustment notice you will receive.

Q—I am thinking about putting a punch board in my bar. However, someone told me that if I did I would be liable for a 10 per cent wagering tax. Is that right?

A—When punch boards or similar devices are used to stimulate trade, the businessmen operating them will generally be liable for the 10 per cent tax on the gross amount of wagers. In addition, the $50 federal occupational (stamp) tax on wagering must also be paid.

Q—How much can I put aside a year for retirement as a self-employed individual? I own a pastry shop.

A—You may contribute up to $2,500 a year or 10 per cent of your earned income from the pastry shop, whichever is lower to a retirement plan. You may deduct up to $1,250 for any taxable year. If you set up a plan, you must include each of your employees who has completed three or more years of consecutive service.

In addition, there are other rules which must be observed. Form 2950SE, "Self-Employed Retirement Deduction," should be completed and filed with your tax return.

The Internal Revenue service recently issued a publication on retirement plans which explains these rules. It is available at no charge from your local Internal Revenue office. Ask for Document No. 5592, "Retirement Plans for self-Employed Individuals."

Q—I sold some of our household furniture before we moved and took a loss on some of it. Can we deduct this when we file next year?

A—No. Losses on the sale of personal property are not deductible. Before you file next year's return be sure to look into the deductions and exclusions you might be entitled to as a result of your change of residence, however.

Q—I was fined $25 for a traffic violation in a speed trap while driving home from our vacation. Will the fine be deductible?

A—No.

Q—My company wants me to take a course this summer. My boss says they will pay half the tuition cost if I pass it. Will the half I pay be deductible as an educational expense?

A—IF YOUR EMPLOYER RE

A—If your employer requires you to take the course or if it is necessary to maintain or improve the skills needed for your present job, then generally the expenses you pay will be deductible. You will be able to deduct amounts spent for tuition, books, supplies, laboratory fees and similar items. If there are travel expenses including meals and lodging, these may be deductible, too.

Q—Is a monthly statement from a druggist sufficient to substantiate claims for medicine and drug expenses?

A—Yes. It is if the statement identifies what the items are. Some items purchased in a drug store such as cosmetics or shaving supplies could be included in the statement but are not deductible.

Q—I got behind in my tax payments on my 1963 income tax return when I went on vacation. After I went in to talk about settling this debt the revenue officer attached my salary. Do you have the right to do that?

A—Yes, the law permits such actions as levies and liens when it is necessary to protect the revenue. However, these actions are taken only when the taxpayer refuses to cooperate with the Internal Revenue service to satisfy the tax liability.

FLYING pickaxes, sledgehammers and mallets have signalled the start of the restoration and reconstruction of historic old Ft. Snelling. Focus of the initial phase of the $1,848,800 project is the round tower, the only building of the original complex open and known to the public. Under the direction of the Minnesota Historical society, a crew of youths employed by the Minnesota Department of Conservation . . . as part of the federal job opportunity program . . . has stripped the interior of the round tower of the plaster, electrical and heating conduits and other features of the 20th century. Within months architects, historians and archaeologists from the society will transform the round tower into the first restored structure at the fort, era 1825. Added, too, will be a portion of the fort wall to provide visual evidence that old Ft. Snelling will indeed again rise high on the bluff at the Minnesota and Mississippi.

Three times more smokers suffer from heart disease than do nonsmokers, says the Minnesota Heart Association in the new free pamphlet, HEART FACTS IN THE CIGARETTE CASE.

Barns Will Bulge For State Fair Livestock Show

Livestock barns will be bulging at the seams with a record number of entries for the Minnesota state fair's open-class livestock show Saturday through Wednesday, September 1, and the four-day junior livestock show which closes Labor Day.

Two new breeds of sheep will be introduced at this year's fair, pushing the number of entries to 1,110 sheep compared to 730 entries last year. Of the new breeds, 96 Dorsets and 87 Cheviots (Shevyuts) have been entered. Maximum space for 700 entries in the sheep barn will necessitate returning 410 of the latest entries received. Sheep showmen will compete for $13,788 in premiums offered plus ribbon honors. The offering is $1,208 more than last year.

Cattle entries of 1,625 animals exceed slightly the 1,616 entries recorded in 1964. A new class, the French-bred Charolais (Shur-a-lay), will include 29 animals. Cattle showmen from seven states will compete for a record $38,427 in premiums, up $2,015 from the 1964 offering.

Open-class swine showmen will exhibit 1,909 pigs which is 136 more than recorded in 1964. They will be competing for $21,971 in premiums which is comparable to the offering in 1964.

Exhibitors of English-style and Western-style performance and shown to halter horses will compete for a record $43,000 in premiums. English-style entries reached a record 655 horses with the Western-style entries numbering 1,645 horses.

A grand total of 6,938 open-class livestock entries 796 more than the total received a year ago will be competing for a record $117,186 in premiums, up $1,248 over last year's offering of $112,938.

Future Farmers of America and 4-H club junior livestock showmen will exhibit a total of 3,455 animals during the last four days of the fair. This number is off slightly from the record 3,590 animals exhibited in 1964.

AT THE CHURCHES

Evangelical Free Church
246 Kendall Ave. North
Wesley Johnson, Pastor

"A friendly church with a faithful message".

Often in this notice, we speak of a "friendly welcome", but the "Faithful message" is the important reason for the church. We preach not pet doctrines, but the "Bible as it is for men as they are".

You are invited to the following activities:

Wednesday, August 25: 8:00 p.m. Family Night, midweek Bible study and prayer for all the family.

Thursday, August 26: 8:00 p. m. "Sunday School Improvement Days" committee will meet at the home of Roger Nygaard.

Planning A Trip?

THE CHURCH FOR ALL
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Then you will visit a travel agency, study maps, read travel books, and talk with those who have already made the journey.

And what about that far more important (and uncertain) journey . . . the journey of life?

The Church interprets for you the greatest of all travel books, the Bible.

The Church gives you the companionship of the all-wise Guide, who made this journey without a mistake, the Lord Jesus Christ.

Agency, map, travel book and Guide for life's journey. Come to Church and find them all.

How's Your Health?

(Prepared in the public interest by the Minnesota Medical Ass'n)

Although most children can do their best in school and at home when they are in good health, there is sometimes a tendency for parents to become lax about protective and preventive health measures.

Today the occasional outbreak of diphtheria, smallpox or other common communicable diseases of childhood is considered a community disgrace because it reflects an oversight or neglect on the part of parents.

The pre - school examination, which often seems like a waste of time and an endless delay for patients in the waiting room, frequently reveals other handicaps or health problems. If the medical examination, screening tests or observations do reveal health problems, this obviously should not be the final step. In most cases childhood health problems can be remedied when they are discovered and treated in time.

When defects or handicaps cannot be corrected, the child's living practices and school program may have to be modified accordingly. Generally the child with a disability is quite pliable and he adapts rather easily to necessary adjustments. The importance of placing the care of the school child in the hands of a physician who knows the child and understands the school cannot be over-emphasized.

In most instances the medical care of the child begins, these days with the prenatal care of the mother and is followed, after the birth of the child, through the various stages of childhood. The pre-school examination is the first big examination following early childhood.

It is important to remember however, that the physician is not the only person involved in the promotion of child health. At best he will only see the child at the time of scheduled examinations. Childhood health problems can develop overnight. Parents and teachers should have a constant awareness of this fact so when unusual symptoms appear the doctor can be informed without delay.

During the grade and high school career of the child there should be a minimum of four examinations a tintervals of four examintions a t intervals of approximately three years, that is providing nothing happens between times to require a doctor's care, concludes the association.

Tetanus bacteria are germs that can be harmful and deadly effect on an individual's nervous system, warns the Minnesota State Medical association. The germ lives all around us...in the ground, in streams or ponds and even on clothing. Any open wound, no matter how minor or insignificant, can become a breeding place for this germ.

Tetanus has been known to develop from wounds caused by the burns or scratches, a scraped knee or elbow, scratches resulting from a rose thorn, a romp with the family pet as well as from the deeper, more penetrating cut wounds caused by metal of some sort or stepping on a rusty nail.

A minorwo undthat is neglected or that is impossible to thoroughly cleanse can be dangerous for an individual who is not properly immunized against tetanus. The germ begins its work after the wound begins to heal or from a scab. The bacteria produces a chemical substance called toxin that spreads through the blood stream or on the nerves until it reaches the brain where it produces muscle contractions. Usually these contractions affect the jaw muscles first, which is why the disease is sometimes known as lockjaw.

If antitoxins within the body are not developed rapidly enough or in sufficient quantity, the contractions spread to all areas of the body and eventually the result is fatal. Among unimmunized adults who contract tetanus, the mortality rate is rising, and it is estimated that less than 40 per cent of our adult population has been immunized against this dread disease.

While tetanus is not common in Minnesota, there have been a number of deaths recorded. However, because of the effectiveness of the tetanus toxoid, all of these cases could have been avoided. Therefore, it is particularly important that the adult population make the effort to obtain immunization.

Among Minnesota residents in recent years, 68 per cent of tetanus cases occurred in adults 20 years and older. The association urges adults attending the 1965 Minnesota State fair to visit the state physicians' booth in the education building on the state fair grounds. Family doctors, members of the Minnesota Academy of General Practice, will be on hand from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. daily to administer the injections to adult state fair goers. The injection will be recorded on an emergency medical identification card which can be carried in a billfold at all times.

QUESTIONS Answered for VETERANS

Q—What is the final deadline for World War II veterans desiring a GI home loan?

A—Eligibility is ending each day to a formula which adds 10 years to the date of a veteran's discharge from active wartime service and then adds an additional year for each 90 days of such service. Final deadline date is July 25, 1967, for World War II veterans.

Q—Have any educational provisions been passed for so-called "Cold War" veterans?

A—Several such bills have been under consideration in Congress but as yet none have been passed.

Q—If a veteran who holds $10,000 worth of "J" insurance purchased June 1, 1965, either volunteers or is called back to active duty for an indefinite period, is the insurance contract cancelled?

Q—I dropped my GI insurance right after getting out of service in 1945. Why can't I obtain insurance under the new law without having to prove that I either have a service-connected disability or am not able to obtain commercial insurance because of disabilities not due to service?

A—The present reopening of National Service Life Insurance is limited. The legislation enacted by Congress specifically limited the purchase of new insurance to those two categories.

Q—I have heard of a number of states which authorized a state bonus for veterans. Why hasn't the Veterans Administration in Wisconsin authorized such a payment?

A—The payment of a state bonus is authorized by the individual states, and not by the Veterans Administration. It is up to each state to determine whether they will authorize a state bonus for their veterans.

Q—I am a World War I veteran and am receiving pension and aid and attendance benefits under the old law in the monthly amount of $135.45. Would I be entitled therefore to medicine and drugs at VA expense?

A—No. You would be entitled to medicine and drugs at VA expense only if you were receiving aid and attendance benefits under the new pension law. You, of course, have the right to elect under the new law.

St. Bernard's Builds New Administration Building

Excavation for a new administration building for St. Bernard's Catholic church in Thief River Falls is scheduled to begin today, according to Stanley Ranum of Ranum Construction company, general contractor. The building will be erected on church property south of the present church and school. The large, framed house which previously served as a parish house has been moved from the property.

A building permit for $109,000 was recently granted to the St. Bernard's parish by the Thief River Falls city council for construction of the building. It will be connected to the church and school by a 10 x 16 enclosed corridor.

Connected to the church by the corridor will be a one-story section of the new building, 40 x 78 feet in size, which will include offices, a library and three-car garage. On the south side of this will be a two-story building, 34 x 70, which will include quarters for the parish priests and separate quarters for a housekeeper. This building will have a kitchen, dining room, living room, guest rooms, studies and attendant facilities. The full basement will include two instruction rooms, meeting room, storage room and boiler room.

The building addition will be entirely of masonry construction with brick exterior to match the present church. May 1 is the scheduled date for completion of the project. Lee Plumbing and Heating company has the mechanical contract for the building with O & P Electric having the electrical contract.

Rev. Keough Patnode is pastor of the parish with Rev. James Ditzler as assistant pastor.

GUEST SPEAKER at the fall conference of home economics teachers from the Northern District of the Minnesota Education association held in Thief River Falls Wednesday was Dr. Fern Horn (left), Minneapolis, curriculum specialist for the state of Minnesota. She spoke on "Using the Problem Solving Approach to the Teaching of Food on the Meal Basis." At right is Joan Norquist, Oklee, chairman of the fall conference. Several other speakers addressed the group, and a number of discussion sessions dealing with a variety of topics were held.

Local Practical Nursing Class Graduates Friday

Sixteenth class of the practical nursing department of the Thief River Falls Area Vocational-Technical school graduated Friday evening in the Lincoln high school auditorium.

Rev. John Riveness of Karlstad gave the invocation and benediction, and the address was given by Dr. Leo Herber of Thief River Falls.

The graduates were presented to Rufus Olson, president of the board of education, by Mrs. Betty Roadfeldt, coordinator of the practical nursing program. Mrs. Jerald Wigness, clinical instructor, awarded the school pins and Mrs. Robert Farmes, former coordinator of the practical nursing program, lit the graduates' candles. Musical selections were presented by Miss Lois Collver of Thief River Falls and a group of the graduating students.

Warren Lewis of Trail arrived Wednesday evening, to spend a couple of days at the home of his son Daryl.

Gladiolus Show Today, Tomorrow In Grand Forks

Red River Valley Gladiolus society will hold its 10th annual program and gladiolus show Monday and Tuesday at the Grand Forks county courthouse memorial club rooms, according to Robert Kloubec of Thief River Falls, secretary of the society.

Anyone growing gladiolas is invited to make entries whether they are professional or hobby experienced or novice. All gladiolus entries, except in the arrangements division, must have been grown by the exhibitor. An exhibitor may make as many entries in all classes as desired but not more than one entry of a variety in that class.

Stem length below lowest floret sheath in all single and three spike classes should not exceed 20 inches. Spikes from which the terminal bud or buds have been removed will be disqualified. Removal of two lower florets will not disqualify, but will carry consequent judging penalty, except in the arrangements division.

Containers for single spike and three-spike classes will be furnished by the show committee. Containers for all others must be furnished by the exhibitor.

40 et 8 Voiture Plans Promenade

Thief River Falls 40 et 8 Voiture will hold a promenade Tuesday for members and wives at the new Pennington County Sportsmen's club grounds located north of the city on the old golf course road. A steak fry supper will begin at 6:30 p.m. and the event is free to members and wives.

Gatzke School To Open Sept. 7

Gatzke elementary school will begin classes Tuesday, September 8, at 8:45 a.m. Dismissal will be at 10:30 a.m. the first day and buses will be operating. The faculty is the same as last year, school officials report.

Governor Rolvaag Proclaims "Lights On for Safety"

Governor Karl F. Rolvaag has proclaimed "Lights on for Safety" for the Labor Day weekend.

"Wherever you drive, whether on a city street, a county road or a state highway, please turn on your lights for safety during daylight hours to remind yourself and the other driver to make a determined effort to drive safely," Governor Rolvaag said.

The Labor Day weekend has proved to be the most dangerous weekend of the year for travel in Minnesota, with more deaths occurring over the past five years during this period than any other holiday weekend. Last year, 11 were killed and 679 were injured in Minnesota traffic.

"The Labor Day weekend is the last long weekend of summer and motorists throughout the state will be crowding the highways to take advantage of it. Safety on the roads is going to require sharing the road," he said. "You can protect yourself by showing courtesy and being alert to what the other driver is doing. Traffic signs and laws cannot protect you from the violations of others. Only you can do that."

Moonlite Madness Promotion Set For September 15

Preliminary plans are being made by Thief River Falls retail merchants for the annual Moonlight Madness promotion to be held September 15, according to Jon Larson, chairman of the event for the retail committee of the local Chamber of Commerce. Other committee members are Sid Lieberman and Morris Goddard.

Local retail stores with the exception of grocery stores will close at 4 p.m. to prepare for the three-hour sale which will run from 7 to 10 p.m. Grocery stores will close at 5 p.m. and service stations and drug stores will remain open through the evening.

All clerks and store owners are being urged by the committee to dress in night attire including pajamas, night shirts, night caps and bedroom slippers. Special advertising for the event will be carried in the Times and Shopper with deadline for Shopper advertising being September 9.

Langen Requests ICC Study for Boxcar Shortage

Congressman Odin Langen has asked the Interstate Commerce commission to look into the latest boxcar shortage in the Midwest. "Our efforts in the past have provided a measure of relief, but every year at harvest time the problem seems to reappear," he said.

"A year and a half ago the ICC adopted my suggestion to reduce the free time during which a boxcar may sit at a port," Langen said, "and it did help in moving more boxcars from eastern ports to the Midwest. But as I said at that time, the ICC order solved only half of the problem. The ICC should now study the effects of storage charges imposed after the free time expires and explore the possibility of raising these rates to encourage the prompt movement of boxcars."

Rep. Langen in his letter to the ICC, stressed the importance of tackling this problem well in advance of the harvest season. "You can't effectively move box cars after the grain is already dumped on the ground," he observed. "Since this seems to be a continuing problem, with its peak every harvest season, we must concern ourselves with continuing solutions. Since these boxcar shortages have occurred for a number of years, it is obvious that we must start planning for the next harvest season as soon as the preceding one ends."

Skaar Named to Highway Group

Rep. Andrew Skaar of rural Thief River Falls has been reappointed to the highway interim commission of the Minnesota legislature by Rep. Lloyd Duxbury, speaker of the house. An organizational meeting of the commission will be held Thursday in St. Paul. Rep. Skaar served on the interim commission during his previous term in office.

Rainfall Delays Crop Harvesting Throughout Area

Unseasonably cool, fall-like weather brought by an air mass originating north of the Arctic circle has prevailed in northern Minnesota during the past week. Near-freezing temperatures were felt in the area Saturday morning, when the Thief River Falls weather station at the airport recorded a low of 33. Readings of 32 were recorded at Roseau and Bemidji on the same morning.

Rain showers during the recent cool period have brought the August precipitation total to 1.21 inches, all of it occuring after August 23. Yesterday's steady rain dropped .58 inch at the airport.

Weather conditions had been favorable to agriculture lately, according to the Soo Line crop report released August 25. Northern Minnesota, the report states, is completing a barley harvest that averaged 40 bushels to the acre. Wheat swathing is well along and yields of nearly 40 bushels per acre are common. Quality of all grains has been good. Oats yielded an average of over 50 bushels per acre; rye yielded about 27 bushels per acre. The area will produce one of the biggest crops on record, surpassing that of 1962.

Variable cloudiness through tomorrow, with continued cool but locally warming temperatures, is forecast. Highs today will range from 55 to 65; lows tonight from 42 to 54.

North Central Airlines personnel at the airport recorded the following temperature and rainfall figures during the past several days: 72, 50 and .04 inch on Wednesday; 76, 49 and .33 inch on Thursday; 63, 43 and .11 inch on Friday; 62 and 33 on Saturday; 61, 45 and .58 inch on Sunday; and a low this morning of 52 with .07 inch of rain recorded since 6 p.m. last night.

Luxury Cafe Sold To Ray Knutsons

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Knutson of Thief River Falls have purchased the Luxury cafe business from Mrs. Myrtle Marks and leased the building located on Third street. The cafe re-opened this morning under the new name of the R & S Cafe.

Knutson told the Times that the cafe will be open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. daily Monday through Saturday and will serve meals, lunches and home-made pastries. Mrs. Knutson (Sibyl) has worked in restaurants for about 10 years.

History Society To Meet Tuesday

Pennington County Historical society will hold a business meeting at the court house meeting room in Thief River Falls on Tuesday at 8 p.m. The society's officers are especially urged to attend and the meeting is open to all interested persons.

President Joel Rosengren has a number of items of interest and business to be acted on, and the public is cordially invited. Lunch will be served following the meeting, according to Millard A. Nelson, secretary.

Alfalfa Pellet Plant Given $150,000 Loan

Establishment of an alfalfa pelletizing plant for Thief River Falls was assured late last week when approval of a $150,000 loan to the Northwest Pellet association was granted by the Farmers Home administration. Announcement of the approval was made by Albert Mattson, county FHA supervisor.

According to Mattson, the loan was authorized under the Economic Opportunity Program recently enacted by Congress. The act authorizes the contruction of facilities to process agricultural products in low income farm areas. Repayment will be over a 20-year period.

Mattson further pointed out that start of construction of the plant can be expected this fall, depending on completion of final details. It is anticipated that the plant would be in production for the 1966 crop year.

Art Stenberg, chairman of the board of directors for the cooperative which will establish the plant, told the Times on Friday that a meeting of the board will be held Tuesday to further discuss the project. More details will be available following the meeting.

When in operation the plant will purchase alfalfa hay from farmers in the area and process it into pellet form for livestock feed. This will provide a ready market for alfalfa which can be readily and profitably grown in this area. It will also provide a source of supply for livestock producers who would like to use pellets in their feeding operations.

Both common and preferred stock in the association are being sold at the present time, Stenberg said. Persons interested in purchasing stock in the venture may contact him.

Progressive farmers in the community have always been receptive to crops which would be profitably raised in this area and fit into their farming programs. Since alfalfa is used in crop rotation on most farms, a sale outlet for the crop could provide additional revenue from a part of generally accepted tillage practices.

Further information on the plant plans and its projected value to farmers of the area will be published in the Times following the Tuesday meeting.

LEAVING the cosmetology department of the area vocational-technical school in Thief River Falls on September 1 will be Miss Louise Anderson, right, head of the department since it started in September of 1957. Joining the cosmetology staff will be Mrs. Dolores Bakke of Newfolden, pictured in the above photo. Becoming head of the department will be Mrs. Agnes Szepanski who has been an instructor here for the past year. A social gathering in honor of Miss Anderson was held last week in the Rex cafe with staff members from the vocation school attending. Miss Anderson has announced no definite future plans.

For Workshop Session . . .

District Bankers Will Meet in City

Noted speakers from several parts of the nation will be present when the Ninth District Minnesota Bankers association meets for a workshop session in Thief River Falls on Wednesday, September 8, according to G. A. Bello Jr., president of Northern State bank and arrangements chairman for the workshop. Approximately 200 bankers from northwestern Minnesota are expected to attend.

In attendance will be Don Gregerson, First National Bank of Anoka, president of the Minnesota Bankers association; Robert Hubbell, Eastern Heights State Bank of St. Paul, vice president, of MBA; John Chisholm, Minnesota commissioner of bank; Roger West, supervising examiner of the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation;

Also Douglas Bushman, regional comptroller of currency; Hugh Galuska, president of the Ninth District Federal Reserve bank; Willis W. Alexander Jr., president of the Trenton Trust company of Trenton, N. J.; and Dr. Charles Irvin, Daytona Beach, Fla. Dr. Irvin will be the banquet speaker for the meeting.

Workshop sessions will begin at 4 p.m. at the American Legion clubrooms with a social hour and dinner to be held at 6 p.m. Sessions will continue following the banquet with adjournment scheduled for 9 p.m.

St. Bernard's To Open Classes in City September 7

Registration and classes at St. Bernard's school will begin Tuesday, September 7 at 8:15 a.m. with regular classes to be held, according to Sister Caroline, principal at the school.

Two new teachers have joined the faculty this year — Sister Avila, who taught last year in Bemidji, and Sister Placid, music instructor who was previously at Detroit Lakes. Returning faculty members include Mrs. Ward Votava, Mrs. Velo Chepulis, Sister Michaela and Sister Gerald.

Times Sets Date For Open House

Open house to acquaint the public with the new office and shop will be held by the Thief River Falls on Saturday, September 4, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., at the former Gustafson building at the corner of Main avenue and Fourth street. Free cookies and coffee will be served.

Because of the Labor Day holiday on Monday, September 6, the Monday edition of the Times will be printed on Saturday. This will afford visitors to the open house an opportunity to watch the newspaper press in operation. Most other machines in the shop will also be operating during the day and Times personnel will conduct tours for visitors.

Joins Staff of State University

Paul W. Brown, former vocational agriculture instructor at Thief River Falls, has accepted a position as audiovisual specialist at the University of Minnesota, according to word received by the Times late last week.

While at the university, Brown will continue work on his doctor's degree in the field of education. Mrs. Brown will teach home economics at Murray high school at St. Anthony Park in St. Paul. The Browns have purchased a new home in the Mounds View school district.

TRF Men on Crew Of Train Struck By Truck Thurs.

A truck carrying 2,000 gallons of oil collided with a Soo Line freight engine at the crossing south of Warren on Thursday, August 19. No one was injured and no oil was spilled, but the cab of the truck was demolished.

Two Thief River Falls men were in charge of the train; Kenneth Halldin was engineer and Earl Anderson was conductor. Ed Jordheim of Kindred, N. D., driver of the truck, reported that the brakes of the truck failed as he was stopping at the crossing and the vehicle rolled into the engine's cow-catcher.

Warren police investigated the mishap and Jordheim was cited for failure to yield the right-of-way.

Vandalism, Auto Accident Noted

Two vandalisms and an auto accident were reported today by the Thief River Falls police department. Sometime Wednesday night, two tires were punctured—one on a car and one on a pick-up at the Harry Ness residence at 116 Crocker av. N. Police are investigating the incident.

On Sunday at 12:30 a.m. two boys were arrested at the Soo Line depot. They had damaged the sink and plumbing in the restroom and also damaged some freight express in the depot. One of the boys was released; the other will be brought into municipal court today on charges of damaging property and being drunk.

At 11:03 a.m. Saturday a car driven by Lawrence Ulrich of St. Hilaire was turning south into the alley behind the post office and collided with a vehicle driven by Curtis Lemky, city, who was backing out of the alley. Damage was estimated at $40 to the Ulrich car and $10 to the Lemky vehicle.

Police Capt. Alan Noreen reported that an unusual amount of shoplifting has occurred during the past couple of weeks. Suspected incidents have been reported, and several arrests of juvenile shoplifters have been made. Noreen asked that anyone knowing of such incidents report them to the police department.

Ass'n. of Counties Will Meet Here Wed.

Regional association of the Association of Minnesota Counties will hold a business meeting Wednesday at the American Legion club rooms in Thief River Falls, according to Donald L. Olson, director of the state association. Sessions will be held from 9 .am. to 3 p.m. with Ralph Keyes, executive secretary of the state association, conducting the meeting.

Richard Shager Marries Neala Johnson, Great Falls

Neala Kay Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul A. Johnson of Great Falls, Mont., and Richard Shager, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Shager of Gatzke, were united in marriage at an evening service in First English Lutheran church of Great Falls, August 15. Dr. Elmer M. Johnson officiated.

Mrs. John Koehler was at the organ and Mrs. Marvin Lindseth was vocal soloist.

Bridal attendants were Patricia Johnson, maid of honor, and Kathy Baker, Ann Gustafson, Marcia Lindseth, and the groom's twin sister, Rebecca Gessner, bridesmaids, Kay Stefanoff was flower girl.

The groom's attendants, all from Minnesota, were Oren Quist, St. Paul, best man, and Stan Ruud, Richfield, Paul Wolff, Hutchinson, Bruce Miller, Burnsville, and Allen Gessner, St. Paul. Neil Erickson was ring bearer.

The bride's attendants wore dresses of two shades of aqua organza over taffeta with redingote overskirts and empire waistlines accented by velvet ribbon and gold braid. Their pillbox headdresses of matching velvet had veils of organza. Ivory spider mums and gold fern made up their colonial bouquets.

Guests attending included the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Nolde of Kirkland, Wash., and Mr. E. A. Johnson of Lewiston, Mont., also Mr. and Mrs. K. D. Lynk of Kirkland, Mr. and Mrs. James Fischer of Paris, France, Mrs. Allen Gessner and Mrs. Oren Quist of St. Paul, Annie Gustafson, Cedar Rapids, Ia., Bob Huse, Minneapolis, and Mr. and Mrs. Lindseth, St. Paul.

The wedding reception was at Hotel Rainbow with Mrs. Janetski as hostess. Assisting were Mrs. Lynk, Mrs. Kenneth Landsverk, Jane Hamilton, Mrs. Quist, Terry McDonald, Janet Blekken, Carol Linn, Mrs. H. A. Jorgenson and Mrs. Dave Scotson.

Showers in the bride's honor were given by Miss Gustafson, Mrs. Gessner and Mrs. Wyman J. Roberts, The rehearsal dinner was at the home of the bride's parents.

After a wedding trip to Glacier Park, Mr. and Mrs. Shager will be at home in St. Paul where they have teaching positions. Both are graduates of Gustavus Adolphus college, St. Peter.

Gloria Ann Olsen Betrothal Announced

The engagement of Gloria Ann Olsen, daughter of Mrs. Allen Olsen and the late Mr. Olsen of Thief River Falls, to Larry R. Haug of Fisher is announced by her mother. No definite date for the wedding has been set.

First Birthday Noted By Dion Drangstveit

Dion Drangstveit, son of Mr. and Mrs. Orvin Drangstveit of Portland, Ore., observed his first birthday on August 8. In his honor, a party was held at the Hazel Dell nursing home in Vancouver, Wash., where his great grandmother, Mrs. Magda Blackstad is a patient. A cake decorated in the shape of a clown was the main feature of the late afternoon luncheon.

Those present to wish Dion a happy birthday were his grandmother, Mrs. Blackstad, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Carlon, all of Vancouver, Wash., and Mr. and Mrs. Orvin Drangstveit, Melody and Tami Jo of Portland, Ore.

Sending greetings were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Larson, Coon Rapids; Mr. and Mrs. Merlin Drangstveit and Mrs. Caroline Drangstveit, all of Goodridge.

TRF Women Excel At Bridge, Golf

Thief River Falls women golfers brought home honors from the Warren Invitational, August 17. Lu Ekeren tied for first in the first flight and saw her daughter Connie rank as medalist with a 42 and also tie for the championship. Ella Anderson won the second flight.

Red Lake Falls held an Invitational on August 24. In bridge play, Nina Winkum was high in the second flight. Ruth Olson was runner up in the same flight and Claire Johnson was runner up in the third.

There were no hostesses for the golf luncheon last Tuesday, but bridge was played with Dorothy Holzknecht taking high and Ellen Peterson, second.

For the last meeting of the year, Tuesday, August 31, there will be a bridge tourney starting at 11 a. m. Golf will also be played.

Louise Anderson Is Guest of BPW Board

The executive board of Business and Professional Women's club held a special meeting on Wednesday evening to pick a replacement for Miss Louise Anderson on the board. Real intent of the meeting was revealed when hostess Anne Zinter brought out a decorated cake and presented Miss Anderson with a gift from the group as a parting token of thanks and farewell.

After several years as head of the cosmetology department in the vocational school, she has resigned and will leave soon to make her home in Bemidji. Other members of the board present were Mrs. Gloria Bugge, Alice Nelson and Dorothy Morehouse.

WCTU Gives Program For Oakland Park

On Wednesday afternoon, the WCTU served a lunch of tea rings and coffee cakes for all residents and helpers at Oakland Park nursing home. Mrs. Earle Ripley was in charge of the program which opened with audience singing led by Mrs. Turkel Ose, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Laura Ekeberg. Devotions led by Miss Anna Koglin were based on Psalm 19. Following this were a number of readings. Miss Elsie Koglin read "God"; Mrs. Ripley read, "I Dreamed Many Dreams", and Mrs. Sig Grothe read, "God's Everlasting Arms".

Mrs. Knute Gjesfjeld gave two numbers in song: "Pause at His Feet for a Moment of Prayer" and "My Heavenly Father Watches Over Me". A duet, "Day by Day", was sung by Mrs. Iver Nelson and Mrs. Bernard Johnson. The lower auditorium was filled to capacity for the program.

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

MRS. GORDON BALLINGRUD

Chain letters have invaded the kitchen with promises of dozens of new and exotic recipes if you will only cross off the top name on the list and write yours at the end. . .But the tried and true method is—ask the one who makes it. The recipe for this light-textured mocha bars was originally given to today's featured homemaker by Mrs. Roy Engh, formerly a local resident. The bars are not hard to make but they definitely have a party look with their sweet, crunchy coating.

OVERNIGHT MOCHA BARS

2 cups cake flour
2 cups white sugar
1 cup boiling water
2 teaspoons baking powder
6 egg whites
½ teaspoon cream of tartar

Sift the flour and sugar together four times. Add the boiling water and stir well. Let this stand overnight or several hours. At the end of this period add the baking powder and beat well. Beat the egg whites until foamy. Add the cream of tartar and beat until stiff. Blend the egg whites gently into the other mixture and pour into an ungreased jelly roll pan. Bake for 30 or 40 minutes in a 350 degree oven. Prop the pan upside down and cool as with an agel food cake. When cool, cut into bars the size you like, frost with a powdered sugar frosting and roll in ground peanuts.

It could be said that Doris Ballingrud came to town on dancing feet. It was while she was attending the University of North Dakota that she began coming to Thief River Falls once a week to give dancing lessons, more as a lark than anything else. Not surprisingly she met a well-favored young man who sidetracked her budding career into more fruitful channels as wife and mother.

At the beginning of W. W. II., the Ballingruds lived briefly in Corvallis, Ore., until Gordon went overseas. Doris returned to her parents' home in Grand Forks for the duration. The war over, they came back to this city and Ballingrud resumed his work in the grocery business. He is now co-owner of Piggly Wiggly supermarket. Here they have lived, worked and taken part in community activities. They are long-time members of Trinity Lutheran church and its organizations and continue to serve there in many capacities.

There are five Ballingrud children. Jane works and attends the University of Minnesota, David is a student at Concordia college, Becky, Roberta and Johathan are in school here. Some of the children play musical instruments and in the field of music appreciation the whole family finds enjoyment.

Mrs. Ballingrud's interests are as varied and far-ranging as those of her varied family. Her children are her work and her play, she says, but she claims only amateur standing in this area and her related interests, the church and the home. The pursuit of her purely personal hobbies—home decoration and creative writing—is of necessity spasmodic, but there are times when the Muse cannot be denied and she will sit down to pen some verses for the children or special family occasions and let the kettles boil over.

Dairy Products Institute Set at St. Paul Campus

A number of new dairy product possibilities will be featured at the dairy products institute and sanitarians conference scheduled for September 14-16 at the University of Minnesota's St. Paul campus.

New product ideas to be discussed include such items as spray-dried fruits and vegetables, low-fat spreads and other butter programs and low-fat cheese and sterile products.

The two-day institute will begin at 9 a.m. September 14 with registration in the dairy industries building. Sessions will be held there and in Haecker hall. The program is made up of some of the leaders in the field of dairy products and dairy products research from industry, government and area universities.

Some of the topics to be discussed include the dairy industry in a changing environment, problems in dry milk manufacture, factors affecting the flavor of low-fat and skim milk products, an ice cream and ice milk clinic and certain laboratory problems.

General sessions the opening day will be followed on Wednesday by sectional programs dealing with such topics as dry milk, market milk, ice cream and laboratory considerations.

The sanitarians conference, set for Thursday, will begin at 8 a.m. with registration in Peters hall. A special program for dairy fieldmen and one on food and environmental sanitation will be followed by a 2 p.m. general session.

Topics for discussion include an interpretation of the Minnesota milkhouse law and regulations, liquid manure disposal systems, community opinions and environmental health planning and the future role of the sanitarian.

The institute is being sponsored by the Department of Dairy Industries, which will co-sponsor the sanitarians conference with the school of public health.

The Library Corner

by Virginia Gjernes

Once upon a time, some 50 years ago, a man by the name of Andrew Carnegie thought people should have more libraries. So...he made it possible for such to become... possible! Today your Carnegie Public Library still stands, still houses the world's treasures and still serves its original purpose. True, a new building will soon be constructed because the old structure is no longer large enough to serve the public adequately. The Junior College is being established, consequently not only grade, junior and senior high school and parochial school students will be using the building for reference work and enjoyment, but college students, too, will be pouring into the old building already bulging at the bricks! But, until the new building is ready for occupancy, the old one will continue to house the staff and the volumes borrowers want.

Speaking of "once upon a time", have you purchased your copy of the "History of St. Hilaire" by Mrs. Arvid Dahlstrom? If not, pick one up, for the small sum of $1.00, next time you are in your library.

Borrowers should remember, too, the "1985 Central Area Plan" based upon the overall Community Discussion Plan for the city, is available for perusal. The preparation of the report was aided financially through a federal grant from the Urban Renewal Administration of the Housing and Home Finance Agency. James W. Parkins is chairman of the Planning Commission for our city. The brochure also contains the background of our city and the region. Those who have not yet taken advantage of the opportunity to study the future plans should try to do so soon.

New on the shelves, just waiting to be taken home and read, are: "Ben-Hur" Wallace by Irving McKee. This is a complete biography of Lew Wallace, soldier, politician, diplomate, romanticist, and writer. Allen Churchill's "The Roosevelts—American Aristocrats is a lively narrative of the family from 1640's to the 1960's. Whether friend or foe, readers will thoroughly enjoy this history.

Politically speaking, again, are two others. "My Appointed Round" is by J. Edward Day, Prudential Insurance Company vice-president turned postmaster General. He describes his 929 days in office. Victor Lasky, author of "J.F.K.: "The Man and the Myth" now has "The Ugly Russian" to his credit. This hard-hitting, concise and highly informative work has much to say about Russia's lack of success throughout the world. The author visited 20 countries and talked with numerous individuals before putting his findings in book form. This is an excellent volume for the thinking American of today.

If you haven't read "A Candid Biography", the story of our Vice-President by Winthrop Griffith, you should do so soon. It is timely, significant and historically valuable.

Just for fun read "How to be a Jewish Mother" by Dan Greenburg. As the first footnote states" ...you don't have to be either Jewish or a mother to be a Jewish mother. An Irish waitress or an Italian barber could also be a Jewish mother." There is humor mixed with a great deal of truth... in this tiny little literary gem. Read it and see!

Then, too, "Fred Allen's Letters" edited by Joe McCarthy is another of those "for fun" books. So, whatever you decide is your best reading material bet...be sure and pick it up at your library. If the book you want is out, just ask the librarian to put your name on the "calling list" and you'll be notified when the book is in and ready for you to pick up, take home and enjoy.

ASCS Plans in "Project Simpler" Are Announced

"Project Simpler," a nation-wide intensified effort to make operations of federal farm programs simpler, reduce costs and improve service to farmers is getting under way in Minnesota.

Plans were outlined recently by Ben Wichterman, formerly of Plummer and now chairman of the Minnesota Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee. District meetings of county ASC committeemen and employees will launch the project throughout the state. Every employee and committeeman will systematically restudy every operation in his job to eliminate the unnecessary and to find simpler, better and more economical ways of doing the work. Special incentive awards will recognize practical suggestions.

"Through the project we will further simplify and improve program provisions, instructions, procedures, forms, communications and work methods," said Wichterman. "In counties we are using 22 per cent less manpower than

County Showmen Prepare for Fair

Fourteen Pennington county livestock and poultry exhibitors are receiving last-minute grooming tips in preparation for the Minnesota state fair, August 28-September 6, according to Paul Stelmaschuk, Pennington county agricultural agent.

State fair exhibitors are: Mark Bruggeman, City View, dairy; Bruce Nelson and Gary Skibicki, Mavie, dairy; Jerry Muzzy, and Brian Bouman, Steiner, dairy; Alan Koop, Happy Acres, dairy; Laura Lea Yonke, St. Hilaire, dairy; Ross Hanson, Silverton, beef; Don Knutson, Smiley, sheep; Tim Duke, Silverton, sheep; Vickie Wiseth, Good Hope, swine; Kim Brandt, City View, poultry; Larry Panek, Mavie, poultry; and Cynthia Grundhaus, Happy Acres, rabbits. They are among the 1,300 4-H club members throughout the state who received top honors at county achievement days or county fairs.

All state fair livestock and poultry exhibits will be in place and open to the public by Friday, Sept. 3, at 2 p.m. The stalls will be ready for the arriving exhibits at 7 a.m. that morning.

Beef and dairy cattle judging will take place Saturday, September 4, at 8 a.m. in the Hippodrome. Sheep, poultry and rabbits will be judged in the sheep and poultry barns at the same time that morning. In the afternoon swine will be judged in the sheep barn. Each 4-H member is required to show his own exhibit.

Showmanship contests, except for dairy, will follow judging of the particular classes. The dairy showmanship contest will be held 3:15 p.m., Saturday September 4, with Mark Bruggeman of the City View club representing Pennington county in this contest.

The championship herdsmanship trophy for total county exhibits will be awarded at an assembly in the sheep barn at 11:30 a.m. on Labor Day. Livestock demonstrations will be given on Labor Day beginning at 8 a.m. in the livestock and sheep barns. All exhibits will be released on Labor Day at 6 p.m.

The Pennington county general livestock judging team will compete on Thursday, September 2. The team is composed of Alan Newton, Smiley; Kermit Solem and Peter Solem, Steiner; and Bobby Parnow, Star.

Proper Processing Most Important In Home Canning

If you're having canning problems, perhaps the methods you're using or the length of time you process the food may be at fault. Good canning procedures are essential to success.

When you're not sure of proper canning techniques, be sure to get the information you need before you start canning rather than afterward, advise extension nutritionists at the University of Minnesota.

They emphasize that if canned food is to keep it must be given a heat treatment called processing. Low-acid foods such as vegetables and meat should always be processed in a pressure canner to destroy heat-resistant bacteria. No matter how long meat or vegetables are processed in a boiling water bath, they may not keep. That's because certain types of bacteria are destroyed only by the higher temperatures of a pressure canner.

The hot water bath method of canning, on the other hand, is recommended for fruits, fruit juices and tomatoes, since the latter is an acid vegetable. In hot water bath canning, as in pressure canning, however, it is important to follow an accurate timetable for processing, the university nutritionists point out.

Reliable timetables for canning both fruits and vegetables—and other essential information on techniques—are given in Extension Folder 100, "Home Canning Fruits and Vegetables." This university publication is available from county extension offices or from the Bulletin Room, Institute of Agriculture, University of Minnesota, St. Paul, Minn. 55101.

Open-kettle canning is definitely not recommended, the university nutritionists say. In open-kettle canning the food is cooked in an ordinary kettle, then packed into hot jars and sealed without processing. When the food is transferred from kettle to jar, bacteria may enter and cause food to spoil.

MAVIE . . .

Mavie 4-H State Fair trip winners this year are Judy Oski and Paulette Phillipp with demonstrations, Bruce Nelson and Gary Skibicki in dairy, Larry Panek with geese, Gail Steinhauer in garden and Darryl Weigel, boys state.

Dr. and Mrs. Glen Meek and children Diane, Robert, David, Brent, Julie and Brice arrived Aug. 26 Thursday evening to visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thad Szymanski. Mrs. Meek is a sister of Mrs. Szymanski. They flew by private plane from Woodland Hills, California landing at the Thief River Falls airport. They will leave Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Oski received a telephone call from their daughter, Shirley, Mrs. Eddie Mukhar of ElPaso, Texas Thursday announcing the arrival of a 8 lb. baby boy, Keith Andrew. Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Mukhar now have 2 girls and 2 boys. Mrs. Mukhar sends greetings to her friends and relatives in Minnesota.

George Johnson of Bremerton, Washington, Mrs. Dagna Schuster, Mrs. Gladys Hamre, and Jerry Hamre of Thief River Falls were Tuesday evening visitors of Jens Johnson at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Aandal.

Local Men Attend Lutheran Men's Meeting in Ohio

Richard Hamilton and Neil G. Hendrickson, both of Thief River Falls, attended the second triennial convention of the American Lutheran Church Brotherhood which opened August 19 on the campus of Capital University in Columbus, Ohio and closed August 22. More than 500 men attended the convention under the theme, "Come to the Feast of the Lord."

Featuring the opening session was the presentation of the rarely issued "Lamb Award" to Dr. Fredrik A. Scholtz of Minneapolis in recognition of "distinguished service to boyhood." Only three other Americans have received the reward, the other recipients being the Lutheran kings of Norway, Sweden and Denmark. Dr. Scholtz prached the keynot esermon at a Holy Communon service which opened the convention.

A proposed constitutional amendment changing the name of the organization to "The American Lutheran Church Men," which had been defeated at the 1962 convention in Tacoma, Wash., passed at the Columbus convention by slightly over a two-thirds majority vote.

Otis T. Grande of Tacoma, Wash., was elected president of the Brotherhood, succeeding Dale Bruning of Bruning, Neb. Dr. Clarence Hagen of LeMars, Ia., was chosen vice president; Dr. Hubert L. Menn Jr., of Austin, Tex., secretary; and Leslie Seaman of Detroit, Mich., treasurer.

The banquet audience heard bongo and calypso drums, a sermon in folk song and a medley of familiar humns punctuated by a spoken narration. Banquet speaker was Dr. Elton Trueblood, noted lecturer and author, of Earlham college in Richmond, Ind. Trueblood, himself not a Lutheran, challenged the men to effect a big revolution in the church to make it more powerful.

2-Car Mishap at Warren Injures Local Residents

A two-car accident which happened August 18 near Warren resulted in extensive damage to the vehicles and injuries to two women. The mishap occurred when a car driven by Constance Ekeren, 22, of Thief River Falls was traveling east on Highway 1 and collided with a vehicle driven by Mrs. Axel Carlson of rural Warren at a highway crossing four miles east of Warren.

Mrs. Carlson failed to notice approaching traffic when she headed out of her farmyard. Her vehicle proceeded onto the highway in front of the Ekeren car. Following the impact, the Carlson car rolled 120 feet in a southeasterly direction across the ditch and into a field while the Ekeren car remained on the highway facing south.

Mrs. Carlson was alone in her car while passengers in the Ekeren car were Mrs. Lucille Ekeren, 55, Ella Anderson, 52, and Selma Rasmussen, 56, all of Thief River Falls. Mrs. Ekeren, who was riding in the front seat, received lacerations and a dislocated shoulder when her head struck the windshield. Mrs. Carlson received internal injuries and crushed ribs. Both drivers and passengers were taken by ambulance to the Warren hospital. Miss Ekeren, Mrs. Anderson and Mrs. Rasmussen were treated for minor injuries and released.

Damage to the front end and left side of the Ekeren car totaled $300. The Carlson car was considered a total loss. The highway patrol is investigating the mishap and citations are pending.

Rites To Be Held At Grygla For Andrew F. Cuno

Funeral services for Andrew Cuno will be held Wednesday at 2:00 p.m. in the Grace Lutheran church, Grygla. The Rev. Andrew A. Kubik will officiate and interment will be in St. Olof's cemetery. The body will lie in state at the Green Funeral home from Tuesday noon until 10:00 a.m. Wednesday and at the church for one hour prior to the time of services.

A complete obituary will be given in the Times on Wednesday.

Mrs. Anna Rustad, Former Resident, Dies August 23

Mrs. Anna Rustad, mother of Mrs. Otto Dale of Fergus Falls, passed away on Monday, August 23, in that city. She lived in Thief River Falls during the time Rev. Otto Dale was pastor of Trinity Lutheran church where she was an active member. While here she lived at Oakland Park rest home.

Services for Mrs. Rustad were conducted at 11 a.m. on Thursday, August 26, in Bethlehem Lutheran church of Fergus Falls, and on Thursday afternoon at Kindred, N. D. where interment took place.

Margaret Myrum Funeral Tuesday

Margaret Myrum, a lifelong resident of Pennington county, passed away on Friday, August 27th, at Northwestern hospital at the age of 25 years.

Funeral services for Miss Myrum will be held on Tuesday afternoon, August 31, at 2 p.m. at Ebenezer Lutheran church. Rev. Robert Amundson will officiate and interment will be in the church cemetery.

The body will lie in state at Green funeral home from Sunday evening until 10:00 a.m. on Tuesday and at the church for one hour prior to the time of the services. A complete obituary will follow.

Green funeral home is in charge of arrangements.

COUNTY BOARD PROCEEDINGS

August 30, 1965

OFFICIAL PROCEEDINGS
PENNINGTON COUNTY, MINNESOTA
August 12, 1965

The Board of County Commissioners met in Special Session in the Office of the County Auditor at 9:00 p.m., August 12, 1965.

All members of the County Board waived the 10 day Statutory notice required for a Special meeting.

WHEREAS, the North Star Natural Gas Company, a corporation organized and existing under and by virtue of the laws of the State of Minnesota and duly licensed to do business in the State of Minnesota has filed petitions with this Board of County Commissioners and has thereby requested a perpetual and non-exclusive easement and right to lay, construct, locate, maintain and operate pipe lines under, along and over public roads, highways, road ditches and drainage ditches located along a line beginning approximately at the southwest corner of Section 30, Township 154 North, Range 43 West of the fifth Principal Meridian; thence generally in an easterly direction through Sections 30, 29, 28, 27, 26, 25 and Section 30 of Township 154 North, Range 44 West in the County of Pennington and under the control and jurisdiction of this Board of County Commissioners and,

WHEREAS, it appears that the grant of such proposed easement and right is in all ways proper and that the same will be of benefit to Pennington County,

NOW, THEREFORE, in order to permit, facilitate and encourage the construction, maintenance and operation of such proposed pipe line,

IT IS HEREBY RESOLVED:

That North Star Natural Gas Company, a corporation organized under the laws of the State of Minnesota and licensed to do business in the State of Minnesota be and it is hereby granted a perpetual and non-exclusive right and easement to construct, maintain and operate one or more pipe lines for the transportation of oil, gas, petroleum products or other liquids, gases or substances capable of being transported through pipe lines, along, through, under and across duly established public roads and highways, road ditches, County ditches, Judicial ditches or other public ditches on lands located along a line beginning approximately at the southwest corner of Section 30, Township 154 North, Range 43 West of the fifth Principal Meridian; thence generally in an easterly direction through Sections 30, 29, 28, 27, 26, 25 and Section 30 of Township 154 North, Range 44 West in the County of Pennington and under the control and jurisdiction of this Board of County Commissioners and,

II

That such right and easement shall include the authority to construct, maintain, and operate one or more pipe lines, together with all lateral lines, appliances, tie-owners and other appurtenances necessary or useful thereto, adjacent to or connected with the pipe line systems of the said North Star Natural Gas Company, its successors or assigns and shall be perpetual, non-exclusive and assignable.

III

That in the exercise of the authority hereby granted, the pipe line systems shall be constructed and maintained in the manner following:

(a) That all pipe lines constructed under the surface of such roads and highways shall be buried not less than three (3) feet under such surface.

(b) That all pipe lines constructed under the surface of ditches shall be buried not less than three (3) feet beneath the level of such ditches, and that all such levels and the limits of all ditch rights of ways shall be as they appear in the original records as such ditches were established or subsequently heretofore improved.

(c) The pipe line systems shall be constructed and maintained so as not to unreasonably interfere with, endanger or impair the use of the said highways, ditches, lands, drains or culverts in connection therewith for public travel or for drainage.

(d) That as the pipe line system is constructed or maintained on, along, under or across such lands, roads, highways, or ditches, the surfaces thereof shall, at the expense of the company, its successors or assigns, and within a reasonable time, be restored to substantially the condition of such surfaces immediately prior to the disturbance thereof by reason of such construction or maintenance.

(e) That whenever in the construction or maintenance of the pipe line system, it becomes necessary or expedient to cross a bituminous or hard surfaced road or highway, such pipe line shall be placed under the surface of such roadway by a boring or other process, wherever feasible, so as not to require the removal and replacement of the surface of such roadway. Before any such hard surface be disturbed for purposes of installing or maintaining the pipe line system, the approval of this Board of County Commissioners or of the County Highway Engineer of Pennington County shall be obtained.

(f) In the event the construction of new highways or ditches require any alteration of changes in the location of the pipeline system and if such new construction is made within the limits of the right of way of existing highways or ditches as such right of way limits exist at the time the pipe line system is installed, then such changes in location of the pipe line shall be made by the North Star Natural Gas Company, its successors or assigns without cost to Pennington County. In such case, such changes shall be made within a reasonable time after written notice of the requirement thereof is given to the said company. All such work shall be done under the supervision of and in accordance with plans furnished by the Board of County Commissioners or its authorized representatives.

(g) That prior to the construction of any pipe line, the details and location of the proposed work shall be reviewed with and approved by the County Highway Engineer and County Drainage Engineer of the County of Pennington. Disapproval by either of the Engineers shall constitute authority to deny the proposed work or any portion thereof.

IV

That this resolution and the right and easement hereby granted shall be in full force and effect from and after this 19th day of August, 1965, and shall constitute and be in all ways perpetual, irrevocable and forever binding upon the County of Pennington, its successors, assigns, agents or officers.

The foregoing resolution was duly seconded by Commissioner Anderson and declared carried.

Moved by Olson seconded by Hanson that the meeting adjourn. Motion carried.

Merle A. Lindberg, Chairman
Pennington County Board

OFFICIAL PROCEEDINGS
PENNINGTON COUNTY, MINNESOTA
August 19, 1965

Pursuant to Notice of Hearing, the Board of County Commissioners met in the Courthouse at 8:00 p.m., August 19, 1965, to consider Petition for County Ditch No. 77 and Engineer's Preliminary Report.

Forty-two interested persons were present and registered.

Chairman Lindberg called meeting to order. Engineer Seidel presented his preliminary report after review of Bond, Petition and proof of mailing of notices.

Objectors and proponents of the ditch were heard. Engineer indicated that his estimate of $37,977.50 did not include farm crossings. Such crossings would be determined later.

Commissioner Hanson introduced the following resolution and order and moved its adoption:

IN THE MATTER OF THE PETITION OF SILAS HANSON AND OTHERS FOR THE ESTABLISHMENT AND CONSTRUCTION OF COUNTY DITCH NO. 77 OF PENNINGTON COUNTY, MINNESOTA.

The above entitled matter came on to be heard by and before the Board of County Commissioners of Pennington County, State of Minnesota, at a special meeting duly called for the purpose of hearing and considering said petition and the Engineer's report of his preliminary survey on said proposed ditch on the 19th day of August, 1965, at 8:00 o'clock p.m., D.S.T. of said day;

And appearing by proper evidence that due notice had been given of the pendency of said petition and the filing of the report of said preliminary survey, in the office of the County Auditor of said County, the Board did, at the time above specified, proceed to hear said petition and consider said report of the Engineer made thereon; and said Board having duly considered said petition and report and heard all parties interested in the construction of said proposed ditch as provided by law, finds as follows, to-wit:

First: That the petition as originally filed is sufficient.

Second: That the Engineer has completed his preliminary survey and made his report thereon according to law.

Third: That the following changes or modifications of the proposed ditch, as outlined in petition which are recommended by the Engineer, are approved, to-wit: Serious consideration be given to re-alignment of the outlet to provide for construction of the outlet on the Section line between Sections eight (8) and nine (9), Smiley Township rather than providing for the outlet to meander through the natural water-course to the southeast. Such construction would eliminate the need for a crossing in the farmland in Section nine (9) and also would likely provide for better control of the discharge into the Red Lake River.

Fourth: That the construction of said proposed ditch is necessary, feasible and will be a public benefit and promote the public health and that it has an outlet of sufficient capacity.

NOW, THEREFORE, IT IS ORDERED, That the Engineer proceed to make a detailed survey and furnish all necessary plans and specifications for the proposed ditch and report the same to the Pennington County Board with all reasonable dispatch, as provided by law.

The foregoing resolution was duly seconded by Commissioner Tasa and declared carried.

Meeting adjourned upon motion by Anderson seconded by Olson and declared carried.

Merle A. Lindberg, Chairman
Pennington County Board.

Attest: C. W. Rodekuhr, County Auditor & ex-officio, Clerk of the Board.

Stordahl Defeats Perkins for City Golf Chanpionship

Young Bobby Stordahl battled the elements and Larry Perkins on Sunday afternoon in the finals of the city golf tournament, and by a 2-up and one to play score defeated Perkins to succeed to the title held by Keith Spindler last season. In the championship flight consolation finals, John Moum held off the challenge of Rick Thompson to score a 2-up win.

Stordahl, shooting a one-under par 35, gained a 1-up lead in the first round. Perkins tallied an even-par 36.

The second round was played during a drizzle, and the greens became heavy. Perkins, who was a finalist last season, lost the first two holes on the second round, shooting a six and a five. Perkins' par five was good enough for a win on the 4th hole, but Stordahl made the match dormie by scoring a birdie three on the 15th hole.

Perkins kept the match alive by winning the 16th hole with a birdie three, but when the 17th hole was halved in fours, the match was over and Stordahl had recorded a well-earned win.

Enroute to his championship, Stordahl defeated Rick Thompson in a first-round match, and then defeated Jon Larson, 2-1, in a semi-finals encounter.

Perkins defeated Greg Larson in a first-round match in championship flight play, and then scored a 1-up win over Ron Kvikstad in a semi-finals match that required an extra hole. Kvikstad rallied from a 3-down deficit to even his match with Perkins, only to lose on the extra hole when Perkins' second shot stopped five feet from the pin and he rolled in the putt for a birdie. Kvikstad's second shot was about 2-feet away, and his birdie putt just rimmed the cup.

Par	444	354	435	— 36
Bob Stordahl	444	345	335	— 35
Larry Perkins	455	244	435	— 36
John Moum	451	344	555	— 39

John Moum	644	554	545	— 42
Rick Thompson	445	463	646	— 42

The flight winners, runners-up, and consolation winners:

Championship flight: Bob Stordahl, Larry Perkins and John Moum.

Seventh flight: Phil Beving, Darrel Linthacum and Dick Peterson

Men's Golf League Completes Second Round Wednesday

Froseth's Market utilized a low net team score of 130 Wednesday night to move into second place in the Thief River Falls men's golf league at the end of the second half of league play. Froseth's finished only one stroke behind the first place Penfold team while Larson Music company fell to Third place.

Final play-off teams as a result of first and second half play are Tunberg Motors, Larson Music company, Hamm's Beer, Penfold, and Froseth's market. Handicaps will be readjusted for the play-offs.

Frank Womack turned in the low net score for the week with a 29 and tied Ron Kvikstad with a 34 for low gross honors. Froseth's Market team included Erling Olson, gross 39 and net 32; Al Adams, gross 42 and net 34; Jon Larson, gross 36 and net 35; and Frank Womack, gross 34 and net 29.

Final standings for the second half of play included the following:

Grouse Council Meets in Warroad September 14-16

Robert Farmes, Thief River Falls area game manager for the conservation department, will be among a group of upland game research personnel who will meet in Warroad September 14, 15 and 16 for a three-day Prairie Grouse Technical Council conference. Technicians from 15 states and the U. S. Fish and Wildlife service are expected to attend.

Reports and deliberations will cover the grouse field with special emphasis on how to best preserve the vanishing pinnated grouse (prairie chicken.)

Among guest speakers will be Dr. F. N. Hammerstrom Jr., and his wife of Plainfield, Wis., who are national authorities on upland game. Merrill Hammond of the Lower Souris National Wildlife refuge near Upham, N.D., will speak on his 30 years of research work on upland game and waterfowl, and Les Dundas, Minneapolis, U. S. Fish and Wildlife service staff specialist, will relate grouse programs for that bureau. Also scheduled to speak is J. W. Galbreath, East St. Louis, Ill., president of the Prairie Chicken foundation of Illinois.

Boy Scout Camp Attendance Rises To 808 in 1965

A record 35 per cent increase in attendance at Camp Wabaunaquat for the camping season just completed was announced last week at the monthly meeting of the Lake Agassiz Boy Scout council executive board, which was attended by Florian Kritz and David R. Anderson of Thief River Falls.

A total of 808 Scouts from throughout the 15-county area served by the council attended camp for one week as compared with 600 a year ago. In addition, 21 Scouts and Explorers participated in a 12-day hiking and camping expedition at the Philmont Scout Ranch in New Mexico, and an additional 20 boys took part in a 10-day wilderness canoe trip in the Minnesota-Ontario boundary canoe area.

Touch Football League Planned

Managers wishing to enter a team in the men's touch football league are asked to attend a meeting to be held Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the Thief River Falls city auditorium basement, according to James Foley, director of parks and recreation for the city. Last year's league was a successful venture, Foley said, and it is expected that a similar league can be organized this year.

Dick Williams Has Hole-in-One

Thief River Falls golfer, Dick Williams drove a hole-in-one recently to place him in the running for a trip to Scotland for two and $1,000 in a national contest. Williams registered his ace at the Thief River golf course to enter the annual golf competition.

Roseau School Opens Tuesday

Roseau school system will open for the 1965-66 academic year Tuesday at 8:40 a.m. with a full complement of teachers, administrative and service personnel. Prospected enrollment for the high school is 550 to 600 and for the grade school approximately 450, school officials reported.

Registration was held last week and the first faculty meeting was held today. The term opens tomorrow with classes to be closed for the Labor Day weekend and resumed September 7 at 8:40 a.m. School lunch program will begin September 2 with meals costing 20 cents each.

Teal Season Will Give Information On People, Too

Short September season on teal adopted by most states in the Mississippi and Central flyways is an experiment in species management, according to the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife. State and federal wildlife specialists hope to learn more about people as well as ducks from this experimental season.

Blue-winged teal are among the most abundant of North American ducks. In recent years, their breeding population has averaged about four million. Since the blue-wings migrate earlier than most ducks, hunters do not have an opportunity to harvest many of them.

But blue-winged teal are also known to suffer a relatively high rate of natural mortality. One answer being sought is whether these teal can sustain additional hunting harvest without detrimental effects to their population levels. Additional hunting harvest may only substitute for part of the natural mortality.

A second goal, directly involving the hunter himself, is to determine whether hunters can accurately identify and shoot teal without ill effects to other duck species.

A number of different hunter surveys will be used by the bureau to evaluate the experimental season. These include hundreds of observations of hunters in the field by state and federal law enforcement officers and biologists, examination of thousands of duck wings submitted by cooperative hunters, and a mail questionnaire directed to holders of the special teal hunting permits.

Additional facts will be obtained by recoveries of leg bands from thousands of waterfowl banded in recent years in the United States, Canada and Mexico, plus annual breeding ground population surveys which measure the effect of the season on population levels.

Combined information from these sources will determine whether similar teal seasons will be permitted in future years.

No "mistake" ducks will be allowed, the bureau has warned. Teal season hunters are cautioned, "Give waterfowl a fair deal — shoot only the teal."

Highway Patrol To Labor During Holiday Weekend

Every available highway patrol officer will be on duty during the Labor Day weekend, with hours extended on an emergency overtime schedule, John R. Jamieson, commissioner of highways, announced today.

"This stepped-up enforcement should serve as a road-block in our efforts to halt the rising tide of fatal accidents," he said, "by increasing our continuing efforts against dangerous, unsafe driving practices which lead to accidents."

He pointed out that in almost every accident some violation of safe driving rules is a big factor. "If we can put a stop to those violations," he said, "our accidents and their resulting tragedies will also stop."

He noted that this weekend has always been one of heavy traffic volumes, as it is the traditional 'last-time' vacation period, plus the opening of many schools. With the Minnesota State Fair and many local celebrations, plus the tremendous attendance at the Twins baseball games, we have potentially the largest movement of vehicles in the state.

"This weekend also has provided the highest death tolls of any holiday weekend with 53 persons losing their lives over the past five years," he said.

"At no time can a driver afford to violate any of the traffic rules which have been adopted for his safety, and particularly at times of heavy traffic. It will be the duty of the highway patrol to remove those dangerous drivers from the roadways in order that the careful motorists may travel safely.

"In addition, the officers will be available for the traffic services in cases of emergencies, breakdowns or accidents."

One-Lane Driver On Freeways Is Traffic Hazard

Beware of the "one-lane driver" on freeways, the head of the Minnesota State Automobile association (AAA) warned today.

"The freeway driver who chooses a lane and then refuses to to change lanes regardless of circumstances is a threat to other drivers and himself," said Dr. William G. Sauer, president of the Minnesota AAA.

"This kind of motorist usually feels he is the best driver on the highway for he is likely to point out proudly that he stays in 'his own lane,'" Dr. Sauer added. "It is this laying claim to a lane that causes much of the trouble on modern freeways. It would be better for drivers to maintain a flexibility and a willingness to change lanes anytime such a change might improve the flow of traffic."

1. Drivers in the far right lane should, whenever possible, change to a left lane if this would permit a vehicle coming down an entrance ramp to enter the freeway without having to stop.

2. Even if traveling at the posted speed limit, a driver in the far left lane should move over when he spots an overtaking car in his rear view mirror. The driver may be taking his wife to the hospital to have a baby or be on some other emergency mission. Whatever the reason, it's best to move over to the right lane on a freeway if someone behind wishes to pass.

Social Security Health Insurance Benefits Aired

Many in this area 65 and older not getting monthly social security benefits may apply for health insurance benefits under social security now, reports Clifford Kittelson, district manager.

This includes those who have never had social security numbers or who didn't have enough quarters to qualify for monthly benefits.

It also includes anyone who hasn't applied for montly payments because he is still working and earning too much. Anyone applying should bring with him proof of his age, such as a birth, baptismal or confirmation certificate.

Two groups should not come in now: 1. Anyone getting monthly social security checks is already insured for the hospital benefits. Before the end of December, he will get a letter explaining the voluntary medical insurance plan. If he wants this, he should complete the application form also included in this letter and return it to the address from which it came. 2. The other group that need not come in now includes anyone 65 and older getting payments from the county welfare board. They will get information later about when to apply.

Benefits under the new health insurance program will first be payable July 1, 1966.

Marine Corps Has 2-Year Program, Recruiter Says

United States Marine Corps is now offering a two-year enlistment on a limited basis in an effort to build up the strength of the corps. This gives a choice of a two, three or four year enlistment plus a delay in departure for recruit training of up to 20 days.

The delay period offers the following advantages: it counts toward the first pay increase which is automatic at the end of 20 days; it counts toward the first promotion; and is deducted from the enlistee's military obligation. In addition, the enlistee is draft exempt upon enlistment in the 20 day delay program.

Further information concerning these and other Marine Corps programs is available from the Marine Corps Recruiting Office, Greyhound Bus Depot, Fifth street and NP avenue, Fargo, N. D., phone 237-5771, Ext. 5251.

Langen Suggests Use of Turkey in School Lunches

"I urge that every consideration be given to the purchase of turkeys for the school lunch program to help stabilize the market for this commodity," said Congressman Odin Langen last week in a letter to the Department of Agriculture.

"Turkey raisers are alarmed at the declining prices at this moment when the annual turkey harvest is underway," Langen said, "and prompt action by the department in purchasing this meat would serve both the purpose of maintaining prices as well as provide tasty item for school lunches."

Langen noted that turkey prices in northwestern Minnesota are less than they were a year ago. "Thus, turkey would be an excellent buy for the department to include on the school lunch menus. I urge the department to announce such purchases at the earliest possible moment."

Grandstand Show At State Fair Offers Variety

Minnesota state fair's "North Star Spectacular" night grandstand show will feature every style of popular contemporary music when it opens Saturday for 10 performances ending Labor Day, September 6.

First five nights, jazz clarinetist Pete Fountain and singer Mary Wells will be the headliners. Jazz—Fountain-style—ranges from Dixieland to blues to swing to modern.

Last five nights ending Labor Day will feature composer-guitarist-balladeer Roger Miller and the Ray Charles Singers.

Universal appeal of Miller's music is evidenced by the way in which "King of the Road," "Engine, Engine No. 9," 'Dang Me" and other tunes of his own composition have been received on rock, country-western and popular music radio stations.

The Ray Charles Singers, who have been providing music for Perry Como's TV show for the past 10 years, will blend their voices in presenting all-time favorites and contemporary tunes.

Former Miss Minnesota, Sharon Carnes of St. Paul, who recently signed a recording contract, will perform during all 10 of the 7:30 p.m. shows.

A new Princess Kay of the Milky Way will be crowned to begin the opening show Saturday. Programs for the remaining nine nights through Labor Day begin with Joie Chitwood's auto thrill show at 7:30 p.m.

Comedian Don Rice, who made a big hit in his first state fair appearance last year, will return. Roger Ray and emcee Pet Pedersen also will offer comic relief during the two-hour show.

State fair night grandstand show will also include balancing acts, high wire thrillers, dancers and the spectacular fireworks finale.

Stone and Larson Teach Negroes in Alabama Program

Sixty-five students and recent graduates of St. Olaf college, Northfield, and 530 students from Tuskegee institute, Alabama, are conducting an experimental summer program of upgrading the education of culturally disadvantaged Negroes in a 10-county Alabama area.

Two Thief River Falls residents are tutors in the program. They are Catherine Stone and Charles Larson. Both graduated from St. Olaf last May. Catherine teaches French in a school in Phenix City. Charles teaches adult classes in history and geography in Wacoochee high school, a rural school near Opelika.

Meeting in schools, churches, homes and outdoors in hastily-erected tent shelters, the summer education program has enrolled 5,700 students from elementary to adult levels. Financed by the federal government, the program operates through 50 teaching centers and seven mobile units.

The program is defined by its organizers as an educational program rather than a conventional form of civil rights activity. "We're a second front in the civil rights movement," said SEP coordinator, Dr. P. B. Phillips, dean of students at Tuskegee. "We're purely an educational program. Our tutors are forbidden to demonstrate, but our program can be considered part of the civil rights program because it is concerned with human rights—the right to learn."

DFL Fund Drive Set Sept. 13-18

Annual DFL Friends and Neighbors drive—the most important fund raising event of the year for the DFL party—will be conducted September 13 to 18, according to George Farr, state DFL chairman.

A goal of $100,000 has been set for this year's drive in which hundreds of volunteers will be calling on some 140,000 DFL households in the state representing more than 250,000 DFL voters.

"The FAN drive was a triple purpose," Farr said. "It brings the fund raising effort down to the grass roots level where every person who believes in the principles and platform of the DFL can contribute whatever amount he can afford to support the DFL candidates in next year's campaign.

"It is designed to test the effectiveness of the DFL party organization as preparations are made for the upcoming campaign.

It will serve to sound out opinion on DFL programs and elected officials," Farr said.

"Responsibility for the success of the FAN Drive," Farr said, "rests with the DFL county chairmen for it is they who must organize the drive and provide direction and guidance to the workers in the precincts and townships."

RL Teacher at Science Institute

Roger W. Abelson, science instructor of the Red Lake Falls public high school, was one of 61 high school science instructors who completed the summer institute for high school teachers of science on Saturday, August 14. It was the ninth consecutive summer institute to be conducted at the University.

The intensive eight-week program is designed to increase the subject matter competence of high school science teachers, to strengthen their capacity for motivating able students to consider careers in science, to bring the teachers into personal contact with prominent scientists who participate in the institute and to create among teachers of science and mathematics greater mutual understanding and appreciation of the teaching problems they face.

Participants were selected from applications from persons of all parts of the nation. Their expenses were paid through stipends awarded as part of a grant from the National Science foundation.

Heavy Labor Day Traffic Feared By Highway Dep't.

Some of the heaviest traffic of the year is expected during the Labor Day weekend and the Minnesota highway department will be doing all it can to keep traffic moving and make the roads safer for holiday travel, Minnesota Highway Commissioner John R. Jamieson said today.

"Highway maintenance crews are out trying to finish all the repairs they can prior to the holiday and also will make certain that detours and barricades are safe and easily recognizable," he said. "The highway patrol will have all available men on the roads during the weekend in an attempt to cut down accidents and to assist motorists in trouble whenever they can."

"But unless driver are more cautious, more alert and more courteous than usual," Jamieson said, "this Labor Day weekend toll could surpass the slaughter of the recent 4th of July weekend, when 16 persons were killed in Minnesota traffic."

This last long weekend of summer generally is the most dangerous of the year for travel. Over the years it has claimed more lives and brought more injuries in traffic than any other holiday weekend. Last year, 11 persons were killed and 679 injured. The year before, 17 were killed and 499 injured.

"The driver is going to have to slow down and admit to himself that he could get killed or seriously injured in traffic," he said. "This is where safety begins — recognizing the danger. The driver is just going to have to worry more about his safety while driving."

"It's the driver who expects trouble who is most likely to stay out of it," he said.

800 Attend FU Summer Camps

Six hundred children and some two hundred women and visitors attended the 10 weeks of summer camps for rural people, sponsored by the Minnesota Farmers Union during June, July and August, with Lura Reimnitz, state education director, as co-ordinator and director.

Sibley State Park Group camp was the site for three statewide senior youth camps (high school age) and two junior youth camps of over 100 each, with a weekend reunion of all past FU Allstaters and Torchbearers, and another weekend reunion of the bus caravan group that attended the national inaugural in March.

In addition to the Sibley State Park camps, which closed July 3, two weeks were spent with a group of 55 at the national allstates camp in the Rocky Mountains southwest of Denver. They had earned the trip by completion of at least four years of the senior FU youth work.

A statewide camp for the ladies and two junior youth camps were held at Polk County Farmers Union park, closing in mid-August.

Young adults who assisted Mrs. Reimnitz during the camp season were all college students or teachers. All are well versed in FU and in their training to work with children.

Among those working at camp full and part time in 1965 were Anita Swanson, Goodridge; Harley Lind, Newfolden; and Mrs. Amy Lind, Newfolden.

First European Settlement Noted On New US Stamp

A new five-cent stamp commemorating the 400th anniversary of first permanent European settlement in the New World will be first placed on sale at St. Augustine, Fla., on Saturday. A stamp identical in design, except for the necessary differences in the caption and denomination, will be released simultaneously by Spain.

Brook Temple's design shows a Spanish explorer with the Royal banner of Spain of the period in the background. The castles in the banner are yellow against a red background. The rampant lions are red on white. Background of the stamp is red, the ships and explorer black and the lettering and numerals white. The stamp measures .84 by 1.44 inches, arranged vertically. It will be issued in panes of 50 with an initial printing of 114,000,000.

Collectors desiring first day cancellations may send addressed envelopes, together with remittance to cover the cost of stamps to be affixed, to the Postmaster, St. Augustine, Fla. 32084. A close-fitting enclosure of postal card thickness should be placed in each envelope and the flap either turned in or sealed. The envelope to the postmaster should be endorsed "First Day Covers 5c Florida stamp." Requests must be postmarked not later than August 28, 1965.

The stamp will be available in uncanceled form at the local post office Monday.

Minimum Wage of $1.25 Per Hour In Effect Sept. 3

A minimum wage of $1.25 an hour under the Fair Labor Standards act will go into effect September 3 for those employees of large retail and service enterprises who were made subject to the act by the 1961 amendments.

This reminder was issued today by Earl F. Halverson, regional director of the U.S. labor department's wage and hour and public contracts divisions, the agency which administers this federal law.

He also said that these workers would be entitled to one and one-half times their regular rate of pay after 40 hours a week, beginning September 3. Their maximum workweek for overtime purposes has been 42 hours since last September.

"These changes make all 29.5 million workers covered by the act subject to the same standards," Halverson added.

The Fair Labor Standards act applies to employees engaged in interstate commerce or in the production of goods for interstate commerce and to employees of certain large enterprises so engaged. In addition to the minimum wage and overtime pay provisions, the act also contains standards for the employment of children and requires equal pay for equal work for both men and women.

Welfare Dep't. To Have Display At State Fair

Foster care will be stressed in a new display now being completed by the Department of Public Welfare for the state fair which opens Saturday, Ronald D. Mooers, director, Pennington county welfare department, announced this week.

The Foster Care display will be housed in a curved-front space just inside the south door of the state exhibits building, at the northernmost Snelling avenue entrance. Latest information for the public on both boarding and permanent homes for foster children will be provided from this booth.

Also manned by state welfare department personnel will be a space on adoptions, in which will be included topical information on the battered child law.

Next to this exhibit will be an area devoted to the mentally retarded and epileptic, where free phenylketonuria (PKU) testing will be made available to parents of infant children. PKU, due to an inherited deficiency of an enzyme essential for normal protein metabolism *if undiagnosed and un*treated can lead to severe mental retardation. Materials will be available at the welfare booth for parents of young children to take urine samples of their infants and mail them in for analysis. If the test detects PKU, a special diet can be given the infant to prevent brain damage and resulting retardation.

Still another exhibit, director Mooers explained, will include services for day care and will display the portable setup which has been traveling the county circuit during recent months. Free balloons, as last year, will be given to children stopping here.

"He who has more learning than good deeds is like a tree with many branches but weak roots; the first great storm will throw it to the ground. He whose good works are greater than his knowledge is like a tree with fewer branches but with strong and spreading roots, a tree which all the winds of heaven cannot uproot." —Talmud

The American Way

The following editorial appeared recently in the San Diego, Calif., "Union".

THE "THIRD WORLD" seems to be the favorite phrase to describe the neutral nations which lie, often uneasily, between the Western world and the Communist world.

How these nations go, in the long struggle ahead may determine the future of all of us.

Are we as a nation making the best possible effort in seeing that they turn around freedom and democracy? Billions of dollars have been spent on foreign aid but what have we gained?

In a speech recently in New York, before the annual meeting of the Associated Press, George Romney, governor of Michigan, said that "when I was a young man hardly anyone doubted but that it was just a question of time until the American principles of freedom were adopted everywhere—until the dynamic forces unleashed by the American revolution spread everywhere around the world."

But, he said, today America is beset with doubt and confusion on every side and "we are beginning to wonder whether there really is anything distinct about America, whether we have any special claim to a unique position in the world."

Too few of us, he believes, fully understand the economic principles in our system and too readily substitute government responsibility for individual responsibility.

We are still telling the world our system is "capitalistic," when it is in truth, he says, one of free enterprise and thus play into the hands of our enemie's who contend that as capitalism buried feudalism, communism must bury capitalism.

To him, the American people fail to realize the extent to which we and a few Europeans are living on an island of prosperity surrounded by a world of impoverishment.

"Are we going to see the impoverished peoples of the earth join with our enemies to try and take what we have because they don't understand how we got it in the first place?"

This drives like an arrow to the weakness of our aid and information programs. We aren't getting through with the great story of the Free Enterprise system, or the American way. We don't sell it or export it. And we must do so.

The idea that economic transformation socialism and collectivism is being adopted will come about as the result of statism, by too many people in the Western world, when according to Romney, the principles developed in America "will do it faster, but we have got to have faith in them, and we have got to move fast."

The Discontented

If the newsletter sent out recently by the Minnesota Federation of Teachers is a true voice of the organization and reflects the attitudes and opinions of the members, we have to plead guilty to being a little disillusioned. We always thought education was something on a little higher plane than political manipulation and sympathy-seeking.

Throughout this newsletter there is no mention of educational improvement, there is no talk of curriculum, there is no comment on classroom instructional methods, there is nothing about teacher qualifications and there is no expression of concern about the students—the boys and girls for whom schools are built and billions are spent and teachers are hired. There is no element of giving of oneself to help others in this publication.

Rather, this newsletter exemplifies the selfish man. It talks of what is to be gained by the teacher himself through membership in a militant organization. It laments that teachers are being virtually exploited by heartless boards of education. It criticizes other education groups which have disagreed with its legislative goals. It seeks larger salaries, greater security, preferential treatment and political power.

While teachers have a right to attempt to improve their personal lot in life, this has been done by other education organizations in the past with the total picture in mind. Welfare of the students has been a primary consideration and the personal satisfaction in doing a good job in teaching others has been counted among the rewards of the profession. Good teachers prefer to have education termed a profession; MFT seemingly would rather make it a common trade.

We would suggest that teachers who are discontented with their salaries, and their inability to bargain collectively for them, seek an avenue of livelihood where they feel their efforts will be more appreciated and remunerative. We doubt that they would be too successful.

Teachers often leave the confines of education to go into private business and some have been successful in their ventures. Many others find that the world outside the classroom walls isn't all sunshine and flowers and return to the textbook and blackboard a little wiser for their experience.

We are sure that not all teachers who are MFT members share wholeheartedly in the views presented by their organization. By their membership, however, they have identified themselves with it and at least shown sympathy for its cause. They are among the discontented, and discontentment breeds revolution. Any revolutions Minnesota needs in education are needed in teaching our children, not in coddling our teachers. The MFT is not helping the image of education in the public eye.

If I Were the Devil . . .

The following article was written by Rev. Kenneth W. Sollitt, pastor of the First Baptist church of Midland, Mich.:

If I were the devil and wanted to turn America into a Communist Hell, I think I would do something like this:

"I would cultivate among the people the idea that the individual is nothing, the indiscriminate mass of people everything. I would also seek to convince Americans that God and Christian ethics and an honest desire to make one's way in the world are old-fashioned.

"Then, I'd treat the Constitution as a sort of handbook on the philosophy of government to be referred to only if it served my purpose.

"I would increase the size and scope of government in every way possible, going into every conceivable business in competition with established enterprises, paying the state's business losses out of the treasury. I would try to keep hidden how this could lead at the right time to the nationalization of industry.

"I would thus create a government strong enough to give its citizens everything they want. Thus, I could create a government strong enough to take from them everything they have.

"By a combination of inflation and taxes, I would rob the very people I pretended to help until, if they ever should want to return to freedom, they couldn't—but would be dependent on the state.

"Next, I would gradually raise taxes to 100 per cent of income (we are one-third of the way now)—so that the state could have it all. Then I'd give back to the people enough to keep them alive and little enough to keep them enslaved.

"IN THE MEANTIME, I would take from those who have and give to those who want until I killed the incentive of the presently ambitious man and satisfied the meager needs of the rest. The police state would then be required to make everybody work—and the transformation of America from a Republic to a second-rate Communist nation would be complete.

"Do you see in this similarities to what we have been doing for 30 years?"

Fundamental Right

Politics is one of the principal occupations in a free nation. But a nation will remain free only so long as the voters control the politicians.

The people of the United States have no conception of what fear of government officials means. They have never been herded into oblivion by state police for expressing views in opposition to dictators in power.

As a result, U. S. citizens have never lived in fear of officialism. Under our Constitution, they have enjoyed the right to choose — the greatest civil right.

Therefore, it is well to read the words of one who remembers living in fear—where the individual was the plaything of officialism—where he had no choice.

The following letter "To The Editor" appeared in the Portland, Oregonian recently. It said in part:

"Although my age was only eight when my father was forced to leave Russia because of persecution, my memories are very vivid of the tribulations endured under governmental controls. Because of these unforgettable experiences, the constitutional rights and liberties are treasures worthy of preservation regardless of cost."

When you see a candidate for public office, or an elected official advocating policies that undermine constitutional safeguards, states rights and individual opportunity, turn thumbs down on him while you have a vote and a choice.

Interesting Opinions . . .

"Habitual orderliness of ideas is your sole road to happiness, and to reach it, orderliness in all else, even the most casual things, is needed." —Eugene Delacroix

"There seems to be a direct relationship between the amount of education the individual has had and his ability to accept and adjust to change. In some of the earliest efforts to retrain and relocate workers in the Appalachia area, it was found that even two or three grade levels made a difference in an individual's willingness to be retrained." —Irvamae Applegate

Borrowed Nonsense . . .

GOOD LOGIC—Jud was winding his pocket watch at the gate of his farm house when a traveling salesman drove up and asked, "What time is it, Mister." "We don't give the time to strangers," answered Jud. "We've learned it's bad policy." "How's that" asked the salesman. "Well, if I give you the time," explained Jud, "you'll want to thank me and then I'll want to know your name and you'll want to know mine. Then we'll sit down and have a friendly chat and eventually I'll invite you for supper. You'll meet my daughter who's pretty and cooks up a storm and you'll want to date her, and she'll date you 'cause there ain't many men around here. Then you'll likely propose matrimony. She'll say, 'Go ask Pa's consent, and you'll come to me, and I'll have to turn you down 'cause I don't want my daughter marryin' no salesman that ain't got a watch!"

New Space Tower To Draw Visitors For State Fair

Fairgoers will obtain views never before possible when they board the Minnesota state fair's 330-foot-high space tower for a ride to its top.

The space tower, which graces the newly-landscaped administration park area in the southeast corner of the grounds, will serve as a land-locked beacon for the million-plus visitors expected to come to the fair August 28 through Labor Day.

Spectators will walk up a double ramp to gain entrance to the two-story, doughnut-shaped gondola which will serve as their "space capsule."

There will be attendants on both decks of the gondola. Each level will be outfitted with dual controls and telephone communication equipment to allow attendants to keep in touch with each other and with the operator on the ground.

The white tower is anchored in 500 yards of concrete equivalent to 1,000 tons. Overall weight of the tower is 230 tons. Cylinders at the base weigh 20 tons. Those at the top weigh eight-and-one-half tons. The tower has been designed to withstand winds in excess of 110 miles per hour. Total cost of the project will exceed $350,000.

Adult admission (13 years and older) to the space tower will be $1. Children 12 years and under will ride for 50 cents.

TRF Sailor Has Part in Gemini Recovery Plan

Aviation Electrician's Mate Second Class Ray E. Hubbs, USN, son of Mrs. Cora S. Hubbs of Thief River Falls, is participating in Project Gemini GT-5 (Gemini Titan-5) as a member of Helicopter Anti-Submarine Squadron Five. The squadron is deployed aboard the anti-submarine warfare aircraft carrier USS Lake Champlain, the primary Gemini recovery ship for the eight-day flight of astronauts Gordon Cooper and Charles Conrad.

The squadron stood ready to recover the astronauts if the mission was aborted during the early phases of the flight. During this phase the Lake Champlain occupied a position on the spacecraft's ground track.

Following the liftoff and the critical phase of orbital insertion, Lake Champlain relocated to a primary landing ellipse some 240 miles northeast of San Salvador in position to pluck the astronauts and their Gemini-5 spacecraft from the Atlantic following the plus three million-mile journey.

When not deployed aboard Lake Champlain, the squadron operates out of the Naval Air Station, Quonset Point, R. I. Helicopter Anti-Submarine Squadron Five's primary mission is anti-submarine warfare which is the detection, tracking and destruction of enemy submarines in event of war.

AN APPLE A DAY
Q. Is there any truth in the old adage, "An apple a day keeps the doctor away?"
A. The merits of "an apple a day" have not been subjected to the scientific scrutiny which such an assertion may deserve, but in preventive dentistry, at least, the apple claim has long been taken seriously. One study showed a considerable improvement in gum conditions and a reduction in caries when apple slices were regularly eaten after meals. Such benefits are derived from the mechanical cleansing of the teeth by the apple, and also from the increased flow of saliva which washes away food debris. A good toothbrush should do the same thing, however.
EPILEPSY AND BEHAVIOR
Q. Does epilepsy cause violent behavior? Wasn't this brought out during the recent widely publicised trial in Texas?
A. Five doctors who testified for the state in that trial found no evidence that the accused had epilepsy. The physicians have since publicly stated that epileptic seizures are never the cause of complicated and planned criminal acts or violence. Persons who suffer from epilepsy are no less law-abiding than non-epileptics.
Remember — the diagnosis and treatment of disease is the function of the patient's personal physician.
In terms of health benefits, prescribed medicine is the biggest bargain for the money.

Side Line Observations

BY BILL DAHLQUIST

Junior colleges are no longer an experiment in the approach to higher education. Throughout the country they have proven themselves to be a practical solution to two problems. One of these problems is the steadily increasing enrollment of the established four-year colleges, many of which have become too large to serve the needs for which they were intended to function. The other problem has to do with the financing of higher education—the steadily increasing burden on the taxpayers and the higher costs of higher education that must be passed along to the students themselves and to their parents.

That junior colleges have proven themselves to be effective in meeting these needs is shown by their steadily increasing popularity. Five years ago the President's Commission on National Goals in our educational structure concluded:

"Whatever the table," there should be roughly within commuting distance of every high-school graduate (except in sparsely settled regions) an institution that provides two-year terminal programs, a transfer-to-a-four-year-college program, a vocational and subprofessional program, and an adult education program."

At that time California led the field with 67 two-year colleges and Minnesota was in twelfth place in the nation with 10 junior colleges. gram has enjoyed a slow but Here in Minnesota, as throughout the nation, the junior college prosteady growth. Here in Minnesota the junior colleges are now a part of a state program and most areas of the state will now be within reasonable commuting distance to a school of higher education, reducing the cost substantially to the students and to their parents.

In our corner of the state the junior college is something new, and by many it naturally would be looked upon with some suspicion. There is no justification for such an attitude, however, because the new school here is a part of a state-wide system that has been and is being administered by competent educators. The record of past performance is good and we have every reason to look forward to the future with confidence.

This year has been an exceptionally good year for Thief River Falls and, in terms of diversified building, probably the best building year in the history of the city. We are making good progress.

One of the most important additions to our community is the junior college, and we already are getting a sample of what this new institution may mean in terms of community development. In spite of the fact that many new dwellings have been made available in recent years, we now are confronted with a housing shortage.

With the addition of the junior college, our area will be well-served with educational facilities. The vocational school, now well established, has an excellent record of growth and service. These schools make available to high school graduates the training that is required for those who wish to prepare themselves for trades of various kinds and now, with the junior college, the preparatory work for a more extensive college education will be available at a lower cost.

These two schools, serving a large area in northwestern Minnesota, will provide these educational services to the young people of the area, many of whom will be able to live at home while preparing themselves for specialized employment or more advanced education.

An Associated Press report from Moscow, published in the Winnipeg Tribune, states that the Kremlin has called for a popular front of all Communists against the United States, modeled on the Soviet attempt to lead opponents against Hitler in the 1930s. According to the report, this appeal to unite diverse political factions in many countries behind the Kremlin was combined with another call for healing the Moscow-Peking split.

It isn't pleasant to have to admit that our country is being selected as the whipping boy of the Communist world against free government, but we no doubt have asked for it, especially in recent years. The eagerness with which our government has acted single-handedly to police the world has strengthened the position of the Communist leaders in their claims that we are in fact Hitlers at heart, whose main purpose is to dominate all of mankind.

This challenge would not be quite so serious if we had a few friends who would stand by us if our safety were threatened, but, alas, at this time we are without friends. Under our present leadership in Washington we have asked for it. It is high time that we start conducting an intensive campaign to make a few friends.

It isn't pleasant to have to recognize the fact that our war in Vietnam must already be written off as a national defeat and, to some extent, a national disgrace. Apparently we no longer have a Congress, and our Supreme Court no longer recognizes the fundamental principles of government of the people, by the people and for the people.

It isn't strange that even our former friends throughout the world are wondering if our government now is a one-man operation and, in fact, a dictatorship.

Here's something to think about. The following statement was made by Dr. Charles Mayo, head of the famous Mayo Clinic at Rochester.

"The time has come when we keep people alive who should not be kept alive. Physicians must decide when to stop all efforts and permit the incurable to die in peace People have the right to make this decision, if they are in their correct mind. People have as much right to die as the right to live."

That probably would be one effective way to reduce suffering in what we refer to as the civilized world. Go ahead—you pick up the argument from here on in.

The House of Representatives has approved a bill that would create a Federal boxing commission. The action was taken after a committee had heard some of the greats and near greats of the boxing world and, as the Wall Street Journal comments, "Few tears will be shed except possibly by would-be job holders, if the bill doesn't make any future progress. Says the Journal:

"Like a good many other regulatory proposals, this one stems from the assumption that Federal supervision will succeed where local and state supervision has failed. The truth is that, in the case of boxing, local and state control has rarely been tried. Even where it has, boxing is in a sorry state.

"Thus the question is whether the whole business is worth the effort of setting up and paying the keep of a three-man Federal commission, complete with staff, capable in theory of sniffing out the ethical character of prize fights wherever they may be held. Boxing is, indeed, fast showing signs of being able to dispose of itself; a recent card at New York's Madison Square Garden ended in a riot that almost totally wrecked the place.

"Moreover, were a Federal commission created now to control it, long after the fight game was dead, its members would still be around knocking themselves out trying to justify their existence. There is enough of that sort of shadow-boxing going on now in Washington, thanks just the same."

The Los Angeles explosion has come and gone, but there is little reason to hope that the race riots subsided forever. There will be more of such riots, perhaps not in Los Angeles, but scattered throughout the country from time to time. They cannot be averted by a yielding attitude based on fear. The problem that we face is not one of this generation's making, but one that is inherited.

This is a problem that calls for calm leadership not only among the white people but among the Negros themselves. I like the following conclusions by the Wall Street Journal:

"—If the Negro people as a group are to find significant improvement in the years ahead, they cannot rely entirely or even mainly on the white majority. The white community is trying to help, is going far more than half way to meet the Negro, and yet in the end the Negro must do much more for himself.

"That means in particular, we think, that the civil rights leadership should turn from its spectacular displays and occasional rabble-rousing and devote itself to a far more effective devotion to education in the home and group as well as in the school. We refuse to believe that considerable progress would be unattainable once more Negroes acted on the realization that further advancement requires a determined effort their own part."

Three Pennington Girls To Model In Dress Revue

Three Pennington county girls will model their winning outfits at the state 4-H dress revue August 30 and 31 during the Minnesota State Fair. They are Charlotte Myers, 18, Silverton 4-H club; Mary Szymanski, 14, Mavie; and Debra Halvorson, 15, Steiner. They will be among 250 county dress revue winners at the state fair event.

Three public dress revues will be held August 31—September 2 at 3 p. m. in the auditorium on the second floor of the 4-H building on the state fair grounds.

The dress revue provides an opportunity for the girls to learn through the clothing project, says Mrs. Claudia Woker, assistant state 4-H club leader at the University of Minnesota. They will benefit by evaluating one another's costumes and analyzing their own.

On the first of two busy days the girls will meet with University of Minnesota home economics specialists and 4-H staff members for discussions on poise and grooming, choice of pattern, texture, color, style and fit of the various outfits, as well as accessories and construction. In the afternoon the girls will visit Dayton's for a tea and a tour of the store's fall fashions.

Participants in the dress revue will choose members to the court of honor, to be announced following each of the public revues. The 4-H member in the court of honor with the highest placing record receives a trip sponsored by the Simplicity Pattern company, New York, to the national 4-H club congress.

Forbid Children Under 16 to Work During School

Farmers in Minnesota were reminded today that children under 16 years of age are not permitted to work on farms during school hours, under federal law.

This word came from Earl F. Halverson, regional director of the U. S. Labor department's wage and hour and public contracts divisions. He said the fair labor standards act prohibits minors under 16 from working in agriculture during school hours for the school district where they live while working. This applies to children of migratory workers as well as local children.

"The place for children is in school, not in the fields", Halverson added. "Today's children will grow up in the world which demands more education and better skills. Schooling now will open the door to opportunity in the future."

He pointed out that the 16-year age minimum does not apply to children who work on the home farm for their parents or guardians. He also said the act places no restrictions on farm work by minors 16 years old or over. Compliance with the fair labor standards act does not excuse non-compliance with state or local laws.

State Employment Service Leads Nation for June

Minnesota State Employment service led all states in the over-the-year percentage gain in non-farm job placements in June, as compared to June, 1964.

Information just released by the U. D. Department of Labor showed Minnesota had 11,181 nonagricultural placements in June this year, a 32.3 per cent (1,611) increase over the previous June.

Employment Security Commissioner Robert J. Brown said that a part of the increase was due to special anti-poverty programs. gains in Minnesota business and July are not yet available, Brown said that placement figures for Minnesota last month also show a 13 per cent gain over July 1964.

Of significance in the June figures, said Brown, was the heavy increase in placement activity in manufacturing job placement in Duluth and the Twin Cities metropolitan areas and a fairly general increase in trade placements throughout most of the state.

State VA Manager Provides Tips on Vets Insurance

Here are some tips for Minnesota veterans who are elegible to take advantage of the new GI insurance which went on sale last May. John R. Murphy, manager of the Veterans Administration center, St. Paul, said that many veterans are sending aplications correctly filled out but neglecting to enclose the initial premium payment. Insurance cannot be issued until the payment is received.

Many veterans are selecting one plan of insurance, and then reading the wrong table and sending in a premium scaled to another plan. Murphy said this will require correspondence to set straight.

Some veterans have applied for the new insurance and then directed the premiums be deducted from their future compensation or pension payments. This can be done only after the insurance goes into effect. To get it in effect, the initial payment by the veteran is necessary, the manager said.

One of the important requirements in the reopened insurance program is that the veteran have a service-connected disability, or if a non-service connected disability, one so severe that commercial insurance cannot be purchased at the highest price. Veterans must also have been originally eligible for GI insurance.

Murphy urged those veterans who think they may be eligible to participate in the new insurance program to obtain full information from the contact division at the VA center at Ft. Snelling.

Highway Dep't. To Check Vision At State Fair

Free eye checks for visual acuity will again be offered during the Minnesota state fair by the Minnesota highway department. Trained driver license examiners using latest equipment will provide this service to fair visitors.

The vision check is a simple examination to determine whether or not the person's eyes meet the minimum standards set for driver licensing in Minnesota. The department invites the public to stop at the exhibit in the state exhibits building, north of the dairy building. This examination will not directly affect the individual's drivers license but the examiners hope people will use this opportunity to determine if their eyes need professional attention.

During the past several years examiners have checked the eyes of thousands of persons at the fair. About one out of six of driving age was found to have vision below standard. Examiners recommended that these persons visit their own doctor to see what corrections would be needed.
